A PETITION URGING opening of the deer season on the first Monday of November has reached the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests. The petition also sets forth the opinion that "it is desirable that there be uniformity from year to year in the opening date". The Minister has written me in connection with this petition stating he does not know to whom he should write to acknowledge its receipt, because there was no accompanying letter. In using this column to ackowledge the petition he writes: "I quite agree with their sentiments that there should be uniformity from year to year in the opening date. The various recommendations were presented to the Fish and Game Committee of the House last winter for their decision, which was, that the Monday nearest the 8th of November should be tried out for three years to give a fair test to that date. The matter will go before the Committee again this year to see if they have any further recommendations". This means that although the petition was submitted in a rather unorthodox manner it will still get consideration.

FISH AND GAME COMMITTEE of the Legislature meets Monday and Tuesday to hear recommendations from fish and game organizations in the province. Resolutions concerning fish will be heard on Monday and game items on Tuesday. If either of the local associations intend to present resolutions, it is highly desirable that some member be there to speak to the suggestions, and debate any objections that might come from the floor. The 35 members of the committee usually ask a few questions as each resolution is put, but there is no rule which says another delegate from some other part of the province, cannot oppose any resolution brought forward. If any delegation was going to Toronto, the members could take in the sportsman's show at the same time.

DEER WINTERING WELL. Game Overseer Stanley Windsor, accompanied by deputy game wardens, Frank Barker and Don Blondeau, and also by George Ruttle of the Peterborough Fish and Game visited the Crown Game Preserve on the last two week-ends. They spotted large numbers of deer. In one group there were 17 and in another 11. The animals had taken to the ridges and were not having any trouble moving around or getting feed. Considerable amount of cedar browse and other cuttings were available along the right of way, being opened through for the Hydro line, and the animals were feeding on this. The local men found no traces or proof that deer had been starving or that any had been lost through starvation. The Hydro workmen are burning some of the brush in low places where it would be impossible to reach in the spring or summer, but there is still plenty for the deer. George Ruttle celebrated the trip by breaking through the ice on Jack's creek twice, and Don Blondeau and Frank Barker had narrow escapes from a ducking.

MUSKRAT TRAPPING opens in this area on March 20. That appears to be a bit early but the trappers have a month to make a killing. At present rivers and lake are ice-bound, and the only open water is below the dams. This is the mating season too for the muskrats. People often hear reference made to the "run". This is a term used to describe the period about the time the ice is breaking up, when the male rats start searching for mates, and at that time the trappers get the heaviest catch. Of course, there are always those people who smash open the tops of muskrat houses, and slaughter the rats before the season opens. Dealers are cagey this spring about quoting prices, but the market at the time of writing appears to be firm, so good prices should prevail—at least as good as last spring. The muskrat pelts from this area rate a premium in the market as they go to make the far-famed Hudson seal, which is dyed and clipped Rice lake muskrat fur. The heavy underlay of fur which characterizes the pelts from this section is not found elsewhere.

PLAN CONCERT—Members of Peterborough's Pipe Band organized 18 months ago are planning a concert in the PCVS auditorium on Friday night next. Veterans of Canadian Highland units in the Second World War the band has made several appearances in Peterborough and district and one of its last was to the Odeon theatre when the above picture was taken. Front row (left to right) Robert Robson, Pipe Major Robert Webdale, Pipe Sergeant Harry Keith and William McMahon; back row, Claude Hunter, theatre manager, Wallace Smith, Howard Sutton, Thomas Kay, Jr., Fred Robson, Arthur Parnell and James Davidson.

Veteran Piper of S D and G Highlanders Pipe Major of Peterborough's Pipe Band

By DAVE WHITE

There seems to be no happy medium in a person's attitude toward the bag-pipes. For the skirl of the pipes is either an intoxicant that seems to stir the blood into a martial fervor, or a wailing cacophony, bearing no legitimate relationship to any known form of music.

Those who have never had the opportunity of deciding this matter pro or con will have an opportunity of making up their minds when the Peterborough Pipe Band presents a concert at the Collegiate Auditorium, on the evening of Friday, March 19.

More than just the pipes will be heard. Highland dancing—including the Highland Fling, and the Sword Dance—songs, and recitations will fill out a program planned to delight the heart of any Scot.

Nucleus of the new Peterborough Pipe Band was formed in the Fall of 1946 when veterans of Canadian Highland Regiments decided to form a unit. It consisted of Robert Webdale, Harry Keith, Arthur Parnell, and William McMahon.

But the original four "kilties" have now increased to 11, with prospects of still further enlargement. In the Front Line Pipers are Howard Sutton, Pipe Sergeant Harry Keith, and Pipe Major Robert Webdale. In the Second Row are Pipers Donald Byers, Thomas Kay, Jr., and Fred Robson. In the Drum Section are bass drummer Carl Bowes, and tenor drummer Wallace Smith. The last row consists of drummers Robert Robson, William McMahon, and Drum Major Arthur Parnell.

The formation of this new Peterborough Pipe Band followed a lapse of almost 15 years. And to those in whom the Scottish blood still flows, it will probably prove a welcome renovation.

To help put the band on its feet the Peterborough Canadian Legion gave assistance, as well as four citizens who comprised the committee in charge of uniforms of the old Pipe Band. The four old-timers were Robert Hendry, Jack Smith, William Petrie and James Miller. It was agreed that if the new band gave indications that it was in earnest and likely to succeed, the old committee would grant use of the uniforms.

Like all pioneers they started from scratch. The possessed the pipes but had to borrow the drums from the Armouries. Later the new unit was supplied with drums and given a place to practise by the Legion, and the Armouries' drums were returned.

An executive consisting of four Pipe Band members and two interested citizens was elected Band representatives were Fred Robson, secretary; Harry Keith assistant secretary; Robert Webdale, and Arthur Parnell. The two executive members were Thomas Kay, Sr., president, and William Gracie, vice-president.

At the moment the 11 musicians are made up of six pipers and five drummers. It is hoped that three more pipers and one more drummer will complete the band. This, however, is dependent on the amount of financial assistance forthcoming.

Its first official apparance was March 23, 1947, when a church parade was held by Millbrook Legion. In April the full band turned out for an Oddfellows church parade, held in Peterborough. For three days it was guest band at the Lindsay Exhibition in September.

The most memorable occasion was on Armistice Day, 1947, when it marched as a complete unit in commemoration of fallen comrades.

Many visits have been paid to surrounding localities since it was formed, and innumerable concerts have been given. The first Peterborough concert was in Nicholl's Oval last August. And if sufficient funds are raised it is hope to continue these concerts during the coming summer.

The Pipe Major and one of the original founders of the renovated Peterborough Pipe Band is Robert Webdale, Bethune Street. Of English - Scotch descent, Piper Webdale is a short, stocky man who learned to play the pipes when only a small lad. He was instructed by his grandfather, Robert Lunnan, an Edinburgh piper who had won a trophy from Queen Victoria, defeating his teacher while doing so.

From this musical artist, he began to master the skill of playing the pipes when only eight years old. He made his first public appearance at the age of nine, on the 12th of July, parading in Kirkfield, a small centre northwest of Lindsay in Victoria County.

When his grandfather died, young Webdale did not forget his teachings, but continued to practise diligently.

He joined the army at the beginning of the Second World War and went overseas in 1941 as a piper in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, under Pipe Major Lawrence MacGillvacy.

Together with six other company pipers from Canadian Highland Regiments he was sent in the winter of 1943 to take a one-month course. The location was Edinburgh Castle and the instructor was Pipe Major William Ross, champion piper of Scotland.

He returned to his regiment and found himself recommended by Pipe Major Wishart, Glengarry Highlanders, for the post of Pipe Major when the latter left the unit at Emden, Germany, in 1945. And he returned to this country holding that post.

To the casual onlooker the bagpipes seem to be nothing but a bag of wind and a bundle of sticks. Pipe Major Webdale points out the anatomy of the Scottish pipes with commendable patience, when confronted by a sceptic.

The main difference between the Scottish pipes and the Irish is that the Irish instrument has one tenor and one base drone, while the Scottish pipe has two tenor

Flowers: Emblematic of Many Nations Why Thistle Is Scotland's Emblem

By MRS. W. E. BALL

The proximity of St. Patrick's Day brings immediately to mind the shamrock, Ireland's national flower, known throughout the world, having been celebrated in song and story. Legend has it that the little three-leaved clover was named originally from the Celtic word, "seamrog." How it became the national flower is a familiar story, and recalls St. Patrick's difficulty on one occasion when preaching in Ireland, in making the people understand the mystery of the Trinity. Glancing toward the grass, he saw the very illustration for which he was searching, and plucking the shamrock, he held it up before the listeners pointing out the three leaflets upon the one stalk. The clarity of the illustration convinced many in the congregation, and they were converted to Christianity.

No one needs to be told that the rose is England's beautiful symbol, but it may not be so generally known that its adoption was by Edward 1, in memory of his mother, who was called "the Rose of Provence." Later in history, Henry VII took for his badge the so-called Tudor Rose, a double bloom, showing a white rose within a red. The thistle stands out as Scotland's national emblem, and was so chosen because, long ago, when the Scots and the Danes were at war, the latter made a night attack on the camp of their foes. The surprise it was intended to be was completely frustrated when a bare-footed Danish soldier unexpectedly stepped into a clump of prickly thistles, causing him to cry aloud with pain. This alarmed the Scottish army, put them on the alert, and they drove off the approaching enemy.

Tradition has it that Wales adopted the leek as its national flower, many centuries ago when Cadwallan, the Welsh leader, was about to join in combat with Edwin, King of Northumbria. In order to distinguish his own men in the battle, Cadwallan ordered each to place a leek in his helmet and when victory perched upon the Welsh banners, this plant, closely related to the onion, and strong in taste and ordor, was retained as the national emblem.

There are many differing legends to explain why the Fleur-de-lys, really an iris, is the national flower of France. However, the story usually adhered to is that the early Franks gave the iris a place of honor in their coronation ceremonies, carrying the newly-proclaimed king among the people, holding an iris to represent a sceptre. Going far back in history, we find that the lotus of Egypt is the oldest national flower and has been for thousands of years, its choice and origin being lost in the shadows of antiquity. It is prominent in carvings in the tombs of kings, on temples and monuments many now in ruins, but dating back for many centuries.

When and how Japan chose the chrysanthemum as its national flower is also a secret hidden in the thousands of years which have passed since its adoption and its cultivation, in a variety of forms, has gone on for centuries. The happy fact that mountain climbers find the edelweiss blooming freely amid the snows high up in the Alps, probably led Switzerland to adopt this flower as its national emblem. Its daintiness and beauty commend the choice.

When we journey to "down under," we find that Australia's emblem, the wattle, was chosen in 1911, and the inhabitants have set a special day, September 1, as "Wattle Day," when celebrations occur. On the other hand, New Zealand has chosen the daintily-fronded fern as its national emblem, these plants in varying forms and sizes growing more or less luxuriously throughout this island continent, particularly in the vicinity of the many warm springs.

To name a few others, we find that India has the jasmine; Holland the tulip, though some claim the orange lily is this country's emblem; the United States, the goldenrod; Spain, the pomegranate; Prussia, the linden; Italy, the poppy; Mexico, the cactus; Saxony, the mignonette; while the cornflower is very dear to the Germans. The story goes that during the Napoleonic wars, Queen Louise, of Prussia, had to flee with her children because French armies were threatening Berlin. Hoping to escape the French cavalry, the royal mother hid, with her children, in a corn field. To keep the little ones amused, the queen wove crowns of the cornflowers, growing profusely around where they were hidden. Years afterward, Kaiser Wilhelm 1, the first Emperor of Germany, recalled the incident and chose the cornflower as his country's national emblem.

The deeply-indented maple leaf, beautiful in form and coloring at any season, is Canada's emblem, but neither by reading nor research, has it been ascertained how, why, when, or where it was chosen to become the Dominion's signature, from the realm of nature.

Speaking of the hepatica as "the gem of the woods," John Burroughs, expresses wonder that this, the first flower of May, and wonderfully beautiful as to form, fragrance, coloring, and individuality, lacks a place among our national emblems. "There are many thrills in a flower garden," and more than one writer and lover of flowers has voiced surprise that the marigold, linking the present with mediaeval times, and cultivated from time immemorial in the British Isles and other parts of the world, has apparently no place as the floral emblem of any country. It is one of the very few garden flowers that has remained unchanged through the centuries; and is frequently found in the borders illustrating mediaeval missals. Tradition has it that only to look on these blossoms, "making a sea of golden splendor," would draw "evil humors out of the head, and strengthen eyesight." From a writer in the fourteenth century we have it described as "Ye gold flour, good to see, and good to smelle."

In an old Dutch carol, "Our Master hath a Garden," the virtues are represented by different flowers, the marigold being figured as Obedience. The name is appropriate since the "golds" as they used to be called, in obedience to the sun, "openeth his flower and turneth round all day after the sun, and closeth in his golden beams at night." These glowing blossoms bring hearty vigor, and the glamor of the Middle Ages into your gardens, and perhaps it may be true after all that there is a section in Africa where the marigold grows profusely, and is given a special place and honor in connection with certain rites and seasons.

Legionnaires Rub Out Orillia In Hot Senior "B" Round To Make Ontario Semi-Final

The battling Legionnaires defeated Orillia Narvos 7-4 in Lindsay last night to win their OHA Senior "B" round 11-10 and advance into provincial semi-finals. A sellout crowd of 1,600 saw a redhot tussle with Legion—down two goals from the first game—earning the narrow nod. Penalties hurt Orillia in the third period, as they hurt Legion in Orillia, but the Vitarelli pack were ahead 5-2 to end the second chukker. It was 2-1 in the first and Legion had a 3-1 scoring margin in the second. The third was a tight 2-2 frame. Of the 12 penalties handed out by the two Toronto referees, Orillia was given eight, including two misconducts for arguing with the officials too strenuously. The misconducts allowed replacements on the ice.

They Starred

Stars offensively for Legion were Rochetta, Crowley and Doug Mortimer, the latter filling in capably on right wing for the injured Bob Greenlaw. Defensively, Ned Vitarelli was a standout with Godfrey—nursing a sore knee—and Ross Nicholls also turning in a swell performance. The rest worked hard, too, and the team clicked well in fighting fashion. Payne, Anderson and Varty were the pick of the losers, and the whole squad battled right to the finish.

Legion pressed from the start with Burns and Ernie Nicholls first testing Clarke and then Dootch Vitarelli nearly notching one. Orillia shot the puck down the ice to relieve pressure but Crowley got the first one on neat combination in close with Rochetta and Mortimer. T. Gordon made Nicholls hop and then D. Vitarelli and Parnell combined nicely. Rochetta evened the round score at close range on a passout from Crowley more than halfway through. G. Gordon and Ned Vitarelli were gated for high-sticking each other and Godfrey tore in fast for a try. Play was hot and even then for a space till all returned, and then Orillia got one back when Varty blasted home Anderson's rebound right in there. Ned Vitarelli got it again for interference near the finish.

Tied It Up

Doug Mortimer opened the second stanza by tying the round on a fast rush and passout from Crowley. Orillia pressed but Harley Greenlaw threatened on a breakaway. Payne got that one back with a slap shot at point-blank range on a corner passout from Anderson. Crowley nearly tallied and, with Orillia ganging up hotly, Bob Parnell broke away and finished it off smartly to score. T. Gordon was gated for holding and Ernie Nicholls cashed in on it to bat his own rebound into the twine. It was fast and even at the end with Legion up a goal on the round.

Penalties Hurt

Mortimer opened the third with a goal on a hot angle shot from outside defence after a pass from Rochetta. Orillia roared back and scored in close with T. Gordon counting on assists from MacNeil and French. Dootch Vitarelli came close and then French went over for arguing too hotly with the referee on an offside. He got a misconduct but was replaced on the ice. rBandon followed for tripping but Payne checked a defenceman in close, recovered the puck and tore in to tally and it was all even on the round. Payne went over for butt-ending and Rochetta scored the winning goal on nifty combination in close with Godfrey and Ned Vitarelli. Brandon got back when Ice. Brandon followed for tripping and R. Gordon then got a misconduct—though replaced on the ice—for hot language. One returned and Parnell was waved over for tripping. Then MacNeil got it for charging and Crowley a bit later for charging. They were all back and Orillia pulled their goalie in a last vain attempt to tie it up but the bell beat them.

The teams:

Orillia: Goal, Clarke; defence, Brandon and Whitney; centre, Payne; wings, Anderson and R. Gordon; alternates, MacNeil, T. Gordon, Antonia, Moreland, French and Varty.

Legion: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and N. Vitarelli; centre, E. Nicholls; wings, A. Nicholls and Burns; alternates, Rochetta, Crowley, D. Mortimer, Parnell, D. Vitarelli, H. Greenlaw and Hicks.

Lakefield Boys Out By One In OMHA Finals

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 13—(ENS)—The Lakefield Sea Scouts lost out to Elmira on the round 13-12 in OMHA bantam "C" finals when they could only pull out a 5-4 win in Fergus last night. They had previously lost on home ice by a 9-7 count, so Elmira took the series by a single marker. Following the game, the trophy was presented by an OMHA official, O. M. Weichl, to Coach N. Duke, who passed it over to Captain Klinck of the club.

About 150 Lakefield fans made the trip and they saw a fine, clean contest between the well-matched teams. The game was handled well, too, though the timers went over in the first period and this allowed one extra Elmira tally. The score was 2-2 in the first period and 4-3 for Lakefield going into the third. The Scouts all battled hard every minute with Sloan and Coyle the main scorers. Klinck shone on defence for Elmira while the Davis brothers and Martin were strong on the attack. It was a red hot tussle all the way through.

The teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Wingett; defence, Pue and Pearson; centre, Twist; wings, Sloan and Coyle; alternates, Wasson, Matthews, Spencer, Brown, Wilson, Hunter and Heffernan.

Elmira: Goal, Soeliner; defence, Klinck and Thur; centre, Marshall; wings, Schlitt and D. Davis; alternates, Fulcher, R. Davis, Slemmon, Bauman, Martin, Quehl and Totske.

Curlers are reminded that the Neill Trophy bonspiel gets under way at 7.00 o'clock on Monday night.

The Sturgeon Trophy continues this evening at 7.00 and 9.00 o'clock.

With the playing of the finals in the Waddell Trophy — both events—on Friday afternoon, the ladies have completed the schedule. Just what they intend to do from now until the end of the season, we don't know.

The final games were witnessed by a large crowd and they followed play after play all through the games. The best end of all was the 10th end of the Wood-Green affair. It was real curling. Th result was so close that the umpire was called to measure the shot, Mrs. Woods' rink getting the nod. Congratulations all.

Up in Lindsay yesterday F. Stenson's rink came away with first prize. Other members of the rink were Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. F. Stenson and C. Graham.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Down about eight baskets, local Towne Togs' lasses must show a lot of giddyap in the YW gym at eight tonight against Toronto DuVals. Togs were slow starting in Toronto and fouls hurt their chances in the late stages, otherwise the count would have been much closer in this LOBA intermediate "B" semi-final series. The return here tonight should be a humdinger. DuVals swept through a six-team Toronto playoff serial without losing a game and are fast and classy. But the Togs are no slouches themselves and may pull an upset on the home floor this gloaming. Series winner meets either Stratford or Niagara Falls in provincial finals. Dope on last night's games should be inelsewhere.

Also a men's cage playoff tonight in the Collegiate, commencing at 8.15, following a prelim exhibition between Toronto Eatons juniors and PCVS senior squad. The OABA intermediate "A" semi-final opener sees a powerful St. Catharines crew—which ousted Toronto — playing Outboard Marines, last year's "A" champions of Ontario. No holds barred as these good clubs battle for keeps, return joust next week in St. Kitts with points to count. Coach Al Clark's Marines look better than ever this season and are favored to wade through to another title, but St. Kitts might be the road block. Barry Lowes, noted Varsity star, will referee this important fixture. The prelim tussle goes at seven.

Badminton Tourney

Next week-end, the Central Ontario badminton championships in doubles will be staged in Peterborough. Friday night sees the men's doubles at the Market Hall and the ladies' doubles at the Armouries. The mixed events will be held Saturday afternoon at the market, and the finals in all three are billed for Saturday eve in the Market Hall. Some 20 games each in men's and ladies doubles in the first round and 40 in the mixed, losers of first round competition going into the consolations. Public invited with no admission charged.

Badminton is an interesting game to watch—good one to play, too, we suppose if the wind and limbs are good. Pretty strenuous but graceful and showing a great deal of practice. Entries expected here from Oshawa, Bowmanville, Lindsay, Belleville and the local club. Last year, Bowmanville and Peterborough tied for top honors in the Oshawa tourney. Audrey O'Donoghue and Dorothy Sullivan won the ladies' doubles, while Mr. and Mrs. Stew James of Bowmanville captured mixed honors, and Goose Osborne and Jack Bruff of Bowman Villa edged out Vince O'Donoghue and Bob Baker of Peterborough in men's finals. Some smart bird rsequeteers have been developed in Peterborough—notably Grant Henry—and the local club has several aces ready for this tourney. They're drilling hard and play in Toronto this week-end.

Curtains For Orillia

Legionnaires survived their first OHA senior "B" playdown round, rubbing out Orillia Narvos 11-10, winning last night's tilt 7-4 before 1,600 noisy fans in Lindsay. Some were turned away. A redhot scrap with Legion having an uphill battle—as they were down two goals from the first fray—and earning the duke with a battling display. George McNabb tells us we should call 'em the "fighting 52nd" (it's Branch 52) and we'll agree with the bailiff this time. They were in there punching from the first bell and holding their own at the end. It looks like they'll hit into provincial semi-finals Monday in Lindsay against Toronto Q & L in a two-out-of-three series. Not official yet, but that's what they hope, while the ice lasts.

* * * * * * *

The packed arena saw a dandy duel, as the Narvos were hustling every minute and plenty dangerous. Pulled their goalie at the last and really threatened, but Legion fought back to the final gong. Doug Mortimer filled in for the injured Bob Greenlaw on right wing and was in on three goals. Rochetta and Crowley also starred up front, while Ned Vitarelli proved invaluable on defence. Ross Nicholls continued to play a whale of a game in goal. Those Nicholls chaps from 'Caygeon have helped Legion plenty all season. And Godfrey, despite a bad knee, went good defensively. Whole crew was in there fighting.

* * * * * * *

Some Money Was Lost

Quite a bit of dough changed hands after this tilt, too. A lot of the losers grumbled about the referees, but the arbiters didn't miss much. Orillia were down a goal on the round at the end of the second period, and the penalty parade didn't start till the third. Even then, Orillia only only spent four minutes more in the sin bin as their two misconducts (silly stuff in a money series) didn't cost them a man on the ice. The scrappy Legionnaires—pardon, George, the fighting 52nds—swore they'd stay on the ice, regardless of rough stuff, and they did pretty well. In Orillia, they got the worst of it and two goals were scored when they were a man short (same as happened to Orillia last eve) and they learned a lesson.

PCVS Hoopsters Capture District Honors

PCVS Senior A boys' basketball team won the COSSA district senior title last night in Cobourg by defeating the home team 62-29 on the game and 110-45 on the round. PCVS again will be represented in the COSSA semi-finals in both senior and junior as the Junior A team qualified earlier in the week.

The small Cobourg floor permitted the teams more time in which to shoot, thus piling up the score. PCVS led 18-8 at the quarter and 35-16 at half time. Doug McKee paced the winners to this point with six field goals, good for 12 points. McGuire had four for eight for Cobourg.

Both teams eased off the pace in the second half and were content to break up the 40 points, 27-13 for the Peterborough team.

The Cobourg team sorely missed the playing of the younger of the Jamieson brothers, who is laid up with mumps.

The teams:

Two Hot Frays Are Staged In Lasses Loop

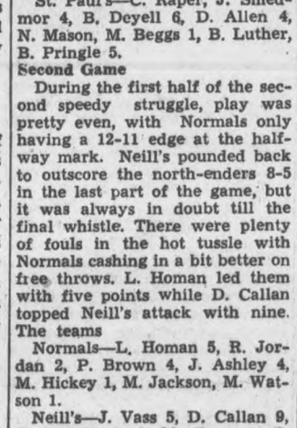
St. Paul's eliminated Kawarthas 20-19 in the Girls' Basketball League last night to go into the junior playoffs. In the other fixture, Neill's edged Normals 19-17 and will now go into the senior finals against Nurses, while Normals drop back into intermediate playoffs. They were two fine frays before a good gallery in the YWCA gym. CGE and Lock Works meet at eight p.m. Monday, winner going into intermediate playoffs.

Kawarthas held an early lead last evening and had an 11-5 margin at the half. St. Paul's kept pecking away to reduce the lead and finally tied the count with two minutes to go. They won the game on scores by Dot Allen and Bev Pringle just at the last. Marion McKee led the losers with 12 points,while the winners' scoring was spread among several. The teams

Kawarthas— M. Sullivan 1, M. McKee 12, E. McIlhagga 3, J. Smth, M. Honour, J. O'Brien 1, D. McFadden, D. McNally 2.

St. Paul's—C. Raper, J. Smedmor 4, B. Deyell 6, D. Allen 4, N. Mason, M. Beggs 1, B. Luther, B. Pringle 5.

Second Game



During the first half of the second speedy struggle, play was pretty even, with Normals only having a 12-11 edge at the halfway mark. Neill's pounded back to outscore the north-enders 8-5 in the last part of the game, but it was always in doubt till the final whistle. There were plenty of fouls in the hot tussle with Normals cashing in a bit better on free throws. L. Homan led them with five points while D. Callan topped Neill's attack with nine. The teams

Normals—L. Homan 5, R. Jordan 2, P. Brown 4, J. Ashley 4, M. Hickey 1, M. Jackson, M. Watson 1.

Neill's—J. Vass 5, D. Callan 9, E. McFadden 2, M. Freeman 3, B. Jaquith, B. Reid, N. Crowder, G. Davies.

Referees —D. Burrows and F. Chapman; timer, S. Ecobichon.

IN TEAM MATCH—Mike Sharpe, pictured above, who will team up with brother Ben against Jack Moore and Wee Willie Davis in next Wednesday's main bout at the Brock Arena. The Sharpe boys are about the fightingest team in wrestling today and should produce a torrid go against Wee Willie and Moore. Two other matches are being lined up and will be announced Monday.

BRUINS WILL FIGHT SUSPENSION—Don Gallinger (LEFT), Boston Bruins' centre and wingman, conferred with club president, Weston Adams, in the latter's downtown office in Boston, Mass., as it was announced that Gallinger had been indefinitely suspended pending further investigation of a charge of having associated with a gambler. A final decision will come later as to his disposition. Billy Taylor, New York Ranger centre, was expelled from further pro hockey play. The Bruins, it is claimed, are organized for an all out battle to clear Gallinger of his "indefinite suspension."

Marmora Captures TVL Title

MARMORA, March 13 (ENS). —The Trent Valley League championship and the Bata Cup went to Marmora on Friday evening as they outplayed Norwood in the fifth game of the series at Madoc and talied nine goals to a solitary one scored by the visiting team. Presentation of the cup was made to Capt. Gus Leonard by Tony Stanjanik of Batawa amid cheers in which the Norwood squad joined.

Practising before the game, Koski, the Marmora goalie, received a bad cut on the forehead which required three stitches to close. Despite this injury, he tnurned in the best game of his career, saving what seemed several certain goals for Norwood. Prior to the game, one minute's silence was observed in memory of Fred Ingram, former Stirling and Campbellford player. The game, watched by one of the best crowds of the season, was clean and well handled. It was gamely fought by both teams and was spectacular in many phases. Marmora now enters the OHA semi-finals and is matched against Bloomfield for opening games.

The teams:

Chinese Player Used By Rangers

NEW YORK, March 13 — (CP). — Two youngsters, one of them the first player of Chinese descent to appear in the National Hockey League, have been called up by New York's Rangers in a move to clinch a berth in the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time since 1942.

Manager Frank Boucher of the Rangers yesterday reached into the Rangers' Amateur Farm Club, New York Rovers, and plucked out Larry (King) Kwong of Vernon, B.C. and Ronnie Rowe of Toronto.

Along with Rowe, Kwong is expected to strengthen the Ranger lineup which has been beset by injuries.

Kwong, five-foot six-inch 150-pounder, came to the Rovers from Trail Smoke Eaters of the Western International League.

North Dummer Wins

WARSAW, March 13.—(ENS). The local Community Hockey League, which drew big crowds during the season and surplied a lot of action for players, has concluded for the year with North Dummer the champions. They captured the trophy put up by Ted Payne in the final against Burns' Bridge. South Dummer and Douro were previously eliminated in the league race.

TRY THIS ONE SOME RAINY AFTERNOON! — Ezequiel Navarra, who happens to be the champion of Buenos Aires, looks on approvingly as his brother, also an outstanding tournament player, performs an impromptu trick shot for the edification of the newspaper cameraman. Brother Juan placed one billiard ball atop the photographer's tripod. He then hit the cue ball in such manner that it glanced from the second ball and "bounced" upward to knock the third ball from atop the tripod. This unusual photo shows the ball in the air as it is about to strike the topmost ball on the tripod. All this occurred during the three-cushion tourney at Chicago, Ill.

Apps To Retire From NHL Kennedy To Captain Leafs

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

This is the week-end that will probably tell the tale in the National Hockey League's scrambling drive to the finish. It's the last but one week-end of the 60-game schedule and the two games tonight and three Sunday night may straighten things out. As they stand now, Detroit has 71 points, Toronto 69, New York 53, and Boston 52. Montreal has 45 and Chicago 44, and both Montreal and Chicago are automatically out of the Stanley Cup playoffs as soon as they lose one more game.

Tonight the Boston Bruins are at Toronto Maple Leafs, while New York Rangers play at Montreal Canadiens. On Sunday with all six teams in action Toronto are at Chicago Black Hawks, Montreal at New York and Boston at Detroit Red Wings.

New York Rangers announced yesterday they're using two amateur recruits in the series against Canadiens. They are Larry Kwong, 24-year-old Chinese-Canadian from Vernon, B.C., and Ronnie Rowe, who have both been playing with New York Rovers of the EUSAHL. That means the Montreal Forum tonight will see the first Chinese player in the National Hockey League, provided Kwong is thrown in by Coach Frank Boucher.

No Surprise

In the league title fight the pace-setting Detroit Wings made no announcements. They're sitting tight. From the Toronto Leafs' headquarters however, came two announcements. First, Sylvanus Apps, veteran centre and team captain, will definitely retire from hockey after the playoffs, and Ted (Teeter) Kennedy will become captain of the Leafs. Second announcement was that Leafs would go back to their St. Catharines pre-season training quarters next week in order to work into top shape for the Stanley Cup grind. The Leafs' boss, Managing Director Conny Smythe, who saw them beaten 3-1 by Canadiens in a dismal effort at Montreal Thursday, said his team is really playing badly.

Announcement of Apps' retirement was no bombshell. The big, fast centreman was going to retire last season. Since then he's been appointed Ontario Commissioner of Athletics, and he says the present season is definitely his last as an active hockey player. Incidentally he's still five away from the coveted 200-goal mark in National Hockey League records, but he has four games left to pick those up.

TO TAKE IT EASY

With first sacker Ray Sanders under doctor's orders to take it easy, Manager Leo Durocher is not taking any chances. Durocher has outfielders Pete Reiser and Dick Whitman working out at first.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Chicago Cubs, casualty list is growing, but still isn't considered serious. The Cubs are training at Los Angeles.

Chicago White Sox catcher Aaron Robinson says pitchers are four distinct types: Some need to be "babied" along with pats on the back before doing their best. The ideal type knows his stuff and isn't upset by anything. The third type must be "ridden," bawled out, called names and kept mad. The lackadaisical type who has to be waked up with sizzling return throws to the mound.

New York Yankees, who have not been scored on in 28 consecutive innings, will send Frank Shea, Tommy Byrne, and Clarence Marshall against Cincinnati Reds to-day at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Torgeson Gives Boston Braves Their Comedy

BRADENTON, Fla., March 13 — (AP). — When Boston Braves opened spring training here, the local newspaper made quite a splash about it, including a big picture of manager Billy Southworth . . . Earl Torgeson, the solemn-looking, bespectacled first baseman took one look then offered Southworth congratulation . . . "kid," he said, to his 55-year-old boss, "you're coming along all right. I think maybe you'll make the grade . . . of course, when you've been in baseball as long as I have, you'll be used to such things, but that's pretty good for a youngster" . . . "how long have you been in baseball, Torgy" inquired a teammate . . . "four years." Torgeson replied.

Coward Coward

The Braves have another fair comedian, pitcher Red Barrett, it as a Boston writer explained: "Red is a good song and dance man; Torgy is natural . . . Barrett worked for a few weeks once as M.C. at a Boston night spot, then received a $500 weekly offer to appear at the old Howard Theatre, Boston's famous burlesque house . . . Red turned it down flat with his explanation: "If I worked there, all next season the fans would be hollering, "take it off, take it off, take it off."

Odds and Ends

When Rudy York, whose neglected cigaret caused a fire last summer, appeared in the Athletic clubhouse, the other A's presented him with a hand fire extinguisher . . . Dick Wakefield has been running around Lakeland with a "for sale" sign on his big, new automobile "after the pay cut I took, I can't afford to keep it," Dick explains.

Varsity Blues Seeking Crown

TORONTO, March 13 — (CP). — University of Toronto Blues, Canadian senior college champions, leave today to meet Dartmouth University Monday for the international Intercollegiate hockey title in Boston, where their coach's life once hung in balance for days in one of the game's most serious accidents.

Coach Irvin (Ace) Bailey takes his powerful Toronto squad to the scene where he suffered a skull-fracture when accidentally tripped by Boston's former defence star Eddie Shore in a National Hockey League game between the Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs in 1933.

Bailey lay unconscious for several days while doctors operated twice before pronouncing him out of danger. That ended his hockey playing days but he returned to take part in the game when he became coach of the Blues seven years ago.

In 1940, his first year as pilot of the Blues, they won the Canadian title and then went on to take for the first time in the school's hisory, the Thompson Cup—emblematic of Canadian-United States college hockey supremacy.

Wellington Defeats Tweed Team By 5-1

PICTON, March 13.— Wellington defeated Tweed here, 5-1, in the first game of a home-and-home exhibition hockey series. Wellington packed too much power and weight for Tweed.

Jodrills 2, Greer, Cunningham and Pettingill scored for Wellington. Moon overted a shutout for Tweed.

Tweed—R. LeSage, Moon, Geraldi, J. LeSage, Leveck, Turpin, Countryman, James LeSage, Feeney, Wright, Fisher, Rodger, Blakely.

Wellintgon—Ingraham, Bulmer, Gould, Marshall, Greer, Gassiro, Cunningham, Jodrille, Pettingill, Hubbard, Thompson.

PRETENDER BIDS GOODBYE TO KING—Don Juan de Bourbon, pretender to the Spanish crown, standing RIGHT, says good-by to Leopold, king of the Belgians, in Cuba. The king, accompanied by Princess Rethy, left Cuba by plane for a trip to Jamaica. Don Juan recently flew to Cuba, with his wife, in order to meet the Belgian monarch.

ASSAULTED BOXER —Pete Babando, 22, Boston Bruins hockey star, pleaded not guilty in a Boston court to two counts of assault and battery on Zygmund Wejciechewski, 38, Dorchester, and his son, Joseph, 11, in the lobby of Boston Garden, Jan. 31. The judge granted a joint request by counsel for both sides for continuance of the case to March 31, to permit Babando to finish out the regular season for the Bruins before going to trial. The hockey player was released in personal recognizance.

City Carpetball

Noted our friend Art Nokes limping down the road t'other day and found, on enquiring, that he had an operation on his leg. We wish him a steady recovery to good health. In the meantime, we think it would be well for the Big Bens to get someone to take his place on the team. No games being reported from their end of the schedule, and they are now three games behind, plus the president's cup semi-finals.

Results this week were much the same, lost one, won one. First came the Old Sweats, who fell before the Fighting Parsons 6.25, 3-21, making it 3 to 1 in favor of the Sons of England over the season, with the decisive score of 60 to 34.

Next King Billie and his Orange Squeezers met the Wardens from Ashburnham, taking the first 14-9, but losing the second 5-17, the total score on the round being 43-41 for His Majesty.

The Posties met the old Sweats and took them for 13-5 after a loss of 6-13, but held their edge on the round 39-36.

The Wanderers meet the Thistles and did their best to better their hold on the second place in the standings, taking the first 13-7, but the Thistles had sufficient sting in them to take the second 9-7, making it a close round 39-35 in favor of the south-end gang.

The Busy Bees fared a little better when they held the Paper Dolls to an eight-all tie in the first and coming out with a 13-8 win in the second, quite a reverse to the first half when they dropped both encounters to the Dolls.

In the doubles, H. Clapham and H. Nokes ousted F. Bell and his partner in two straight, 9-7, 11-1, whilst the Moscrop-Hopgood pair were extended to three games to oust the strong aggregation of Joyes and Cridland, the scores being 9-3, 5-9, 8-4.

The balance of the main schedule is LOL 4 v. Big Bens 10, Wardens 9 v. BESL 6, BESL 4 v. LOL 4, SOE 2 v. Big Bens 10, SOE 1 v. BESL 7, Wanderers 1 v. BESL 8, Big Bens 10 v. BESL 6.

In the president's cup semi-finals we are still waiting action from Wardens 9 v. Big Bens 10.

In the Bill Gracie doubles there seems to be some holdup between D. Metcalfe and G. Whitehead v. E. Mickels and E. Holden, and we would ask the teams concerned to get this played before next Thursday.

Owing to the physical condition of A. Nokes, Mr. F. Bell is asked to pinch-hit with A. Bromley and play H. Clapham and H. Nokes.

The other game ready for play is between A. Sims and J. Wilson v. A. Moscrop and F. Hopgood.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Beau Jack and Johnny Greco, who have tangled twice before, will meet in a 10-rounder at the Montreal Forum April 9, Promoter Raoul Goddbout of Montreal announced yesterday. He said Jack, making his first Canadian appearance, has been given a $17,500 guarantee.

Decision on admitting the Pacific Coast Hockey League to full professional league status was reserved yesterday by the three pro leagues operating in Canada and the United States. The PCHL, comprising 10 teams — eight in the United States and two in British Columbia—made its application "for full recognition" to the National, American and United States Hockey Leagues at a meeting in Pittsburg.

Variations in United States state laws make it difficult to enforce rules barring gamblers from hockey arenas says Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League. However, the NHL executive said in an interview at Pittsburg yesterday that everything will be done to prevent recurrence of the recent gambling scandal which resulted in expulsion of one player and suspension of another.

"I am satisfied that the league's regulations are adequate and absolute in providing for expulsion for proof of gambling by palyers," said Campbell.

Guelph City Council yesterday decided to expend $35,000 for the installation of floodlights at Exhibition Park, home of the senior baseball Guelph Leafs. Installation of the lights will be made in such a way that football, soccer and other events may also be made night attractions.

Rewards for the safe return of Calgary-born jockey Al Snider and two fishing companions, one a Toronto man, missing in the Florida Keys since Friday, reached $15,500 yesterday. Earlier, three friends had offered $5,000 if they were found alive and an additional $500 was offered to anyone locating the 16-foot boat they were using when last seen.

They had to revise the record books of the Industrial Bowling League at Woodstock Thursday night following the record-smashing performance of Jim McKay, sports editor of the Sentinel-Review. McKay put together scores of 386-299-368 for a new local mark of 1,053 for three games.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night that Barbara Ann Scott — figure skating champion and ambassador at large—provided the expression of the people's freedom in Canada.

Guest at Ottawa's Minto Skating Club diner for Barbara Ann, the Prime Minister likened the 19-year-old beauty to Kipling's "Lady of the Snows," and said she represented what was highest and best in the world.

Hamilton Drops 3-0 Game To Dutchmen

By The Canadian Press

Nobody expected Hamilton Tigers and Windsor Spitfires to take the Senior and Junior Ontario Hockey Association championships in straight games, so losses suffered by these favored teams last night weren't really surprising.

Hamilton dropped a 3-0 decision to Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen and now lead the best-of-seven Senior finals 2-1. Barrie Flyers handed Windsor a 6-4 setback to narrow Windsor's lead in the best-of-seven Junior finals to 2-1.

The Hamilton-Kitchener affair was a closely-matched, close-checking tilt with neither team being able to score until the third period, when the Dutchmen hit for three goals to claim their victory. Both goalies, Art Childs of Hamilton and Keitch Woodall of Kitchener, played brilliantly.

Both clubs had plenty of scoring chances in the cleanly-fought match but it wasn't until 14:50 of the third period that Sparky Weiler rapped one past Childs in the Tiger twines. Just one minute later Johnny Bluto added another for the Kitchener crew and then Don Bauer scored their third marker three minutes later.

Barrie led Windsor 2-1 at the end of the first period but Windsor came back in the second to go ahead and lead 4-3. Then in the third Barrie took over again to pot three more goals.

Barrie outplayed Windsor for the most part and only the fine work of Ivan Walmsley in the Spitfire nets kept the score from mounting higher. Barrie goalie, Gil Mayer, looked good at the other end of the ice.

Kitchener Rink Wins Trophy

TORONTO, March 13 — (CP). — A rink skipped by G. L. Hunt of Kitchener, last night won the Harvey Sims Trophy in the main event of the annual Colts bonspiel. His rink scored a 15-4 victory over a Hamilton Thistle rink skipped by Dr. C. T. Mason.

In the consolation event, an Orillia rink with Mac Butcher as skip defeated W. S. Towenson's Toronto Granite Club foursome 11-9 to capture the Albert Dunker Trophy.

At the outset about 150 rinks in eight Ontario districts took part in preliminary maches. They represented clubs from the area between Sarnia and Kingston and north to Parry Sound and Huntsville. Eight district winners came here for yesterday's bonspiel.

Dr. Mason emerged from the semi-finals by defeating the rink skipped by C. Palmer of Guelph 12-11. Hunt downed A. McFie's Kingston foursome 11-8.

In the consolation semi-finals, Butcher beat Jack Nash's London, rink 15-10. Towenson's Toronto Granites rink trounced Rev. J. C. Pereyna's Oshawa quartet 9-4.

Stardom Road Long, Hard Actors Find

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 13 (CP) —If you think that a Hollywood star is created by the touch of a producer's wand, you can take another guess.

With only a few exceptions, the road to stardom is a long and rocky one, with many detours. Let me illustrate with the career of an ambitious 24-year-old named Peter Lawford:

Stage one--the bit player. Having played small roles in British films, Peter came and had a minor part in "Lord Jeff" in 1938. For three years he was out of movies and even served as a parking lot attendant in Palm Beach, Fla.

On The Way

Back in California,, he was ushering at the Westwood village theatre when an agent landed him a bit in "Eagle Squadron" in 1941. He got a contract at M-G-M, where he was handed a few minute roles. Up for the role of Irene Dunne's son in "White Cliffs of Dover" (With a meaty death scene), he studied voluntarily for three weeks with M-G-M coach Lillian Burns. He got the role and that brings us to, Stage two--The featured player. Lawford was tabbed for the bobbysox trade. The studio strated to toss some publicity his way and he began to have himself photographed at nightspots with photogenic starlets.

Small But Important

His roles were small but important, in such films as "Mrs. Parkington" and "Dorian Gray." Finally, the studio decided he was ripe for bigger things and he was handed a lead in "Son of Lassie."

Stage three--Leads in small pictures second leads in biggies. The Lassie picture clicked and Lawford received more attention. He began hitting the spots with bigger names, fan magazines gushed over him and columnists kept track of his dates. He played secondary roles in big films like "Cluny Brown" and "It Happened in Brooklyn" and a lead in something called "My Brother Talks to Horses." His biggest break came with June Allyson in "Good News."

Stage Four

Stardom, Peter hasn't yet made the M-G-M star list, but he'll get there, if al goes well. He is still being fitted into scripts designed for bigger names ("Julia Misbehaves," "Easter Parade"), but he hopes in a few years to have stories tailored for him. He wants to be like Cary Grant, and no wonder--Grant's latest price is around $250,000 a picture.

Citation Heads Eligibles In '48 Derby

LOUISVILLE, Yy., March 13. —(AP).—Calumet Farm's Citation and Bewitch head a list of Kentucky Derby eligibles announced today by Churchill Downs.

The eligible list is one of the smallest in recent years but one of the classiest. Last year, 135 colts, geldings and fillies were nominated.

Most of last year's leading two-year-olds were made eligible for the 74th running of the Derby on Saturday, May 1. The Derby, open to three-year-olds, will be run at a distance of 1¼ miles and carries $100,000 in added money.

Jet Pilot, nominated by Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Maine Chance Farm, won the 1947 running.

Although Citation and Bewitch, the latter a filly, head a sterling field, Calumet Farm nominated four others. They are Coaltown, Beau Dandy, Free America and Whirl Blast.

The latter is a son of Calumet's Whirlaway, who set a record in winning the 1941 classic at Churchill Downs in 2:01.5.

Citation, beaten only once in nine starts as a juvenile, earned $155,680 last year for Warren Wright's Calumet Stable. He lost only to his stablemate, Bewitch. The filly earned $213,675 as a two-year-old.

Roach's Rout Poses Problem

NEW YORK, March 13 — (AP). — Marcel Cerdan's convincing rout of young Lavern Roach puts the New York State Athletic Commission on the hot seat. Now the muddled middleweight situation screams for action.

Rocky Graziano, 160-pound king in many states, is rated undesirable on his home grounds. His licence was revoked for concealing an alleged bribe offer.

With the champion unrecognized, the title has been declared "in abeyance" by chairman Eddie Egan of the Commission. The place is swarming with would-be contenders.

Cerdan, who stopped Roach in 2:31 of the eighth round last night in Madison Square Garden, has a strong case. Unbeaten in five North American starts, the Frenchman has a string of 33 victories.

Then there's Tony Zale who lost his crown to Graziano in Chicago last summer. He's on a comeback and ready for action.

Ray Robinson stepped into the picture last night when his press representative, Pete Vaccare, said that Sugar Ray was willing to give up his welter title to mingle with the 160-pounders under the right circumstances.

Truman Admits Peace Goal Seems Fading

WASHINGTON, March 13 — (AP).—President Truman today pitted the full political power and prestige of the United States against the spread of Communism anywhere. At the same time a five-point administration plan began to emerge: A plan for coming to grip with what State Marshall considers a "great crisis" in the world

Within a few hours, botn the President and his Secretary of State spoke out with extraordinary frankness on the state of affairs resulting from the bitter conflict between Russia and the western powers.

Faith Shaken

For the first time publicly Truman admitted that his faith in the attainment of a real world peace has been somewhat shaken He said so at a White House press conference late yesterday.

Officials expect that crisis to reach a climax first and most directly in the Italian political campaigns leading up to elections there April 18. Here are the points which the President, the Secretary—or both in some cases —stressed:

1. The European recovery program, which now is near final action in the Senate but awaits debate in the House of Representatives, should be carried out promptly.

2. The United States encourages the formation of what Marshall called a political association in western Europe as the first step to restoring stability.

3. The spread of Communist government anywhere in the world, including China, is opposed by the American government. And Truman indicated that the United States will do everything in its power to block Communism.

Rail Raise Parley Adjourns To March 30

MONTREAL, March 13—(CP)—The conciliation board under Justice J. C. A. Cameron inquiring into a demand for a general 35-cents- an hour increase for Canada's 125,000 railwaymen, adjourned today to March 30 after 2½ days of discussions.

It was reported outside the conference chamber that little progress had been made towards a solution of the wage increase questions.

Justice Cameron — a member of the Exchequer Court, Ottawa—said that he would make a statement later.

Morris M. Wright of Ottawa, represented the 18 railway brotherhoods while M. M. Porter, Calgary, acted for the 10 railways concerned. Frank H. Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee for the unions read a brief upholding the workers' demands and was answered by D. I. McNeil, K.C., vice-president of personnel, Canadian Pacific Railway.

Present Letters In Dental Case

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—Letters allegedly written by Toronto dental supply companies to similar companies in the Maritimes and advocating "a display of competition" and a "set-up that will tend to keep out competition," were read today by Peter Wright, assistant crown prosecutor, as the trial of 18 dental supply firms on charges of conspiring to restrain trade entered its third week.

One letter, addressed to Maritime Dental Supply Co. Ltd., Halifax, and said to have been sent by the Dominion Dental Co. of Canada Ltd., referred to a conference of representatives of the two companies and stated:

"The general impression that we gained is that the most amicable co-operation between our companies exists today as it has always existed. The agreement which we reached at this meeting are perfectly in accord with our ideas and we have every confidence that this will mitigate to our mutual advantage."

The letter goes on to suggest that the writer, Dr. Henry A. Thompson of Dominion Dental Co., acquire stock in the Maritime company, "to give the advantage of our connections and provide a security for your organization in case of emergency."

ENJOY CANADIAN WAY OF LIFE—From Esthonia to Kitchener is more than 5,800 miles, but to two young refugees who helped sail their tiny refugee sloop across the Atlantic, it was an adventure of the sea that was to terminate on the Canadian Naional Railways. The perilous voyage took 75 days and climaxed a three-year search for freedom. Today, Michael Kadarik and Mikelis Sicevs are re-establishing themselves in the country of their adoption in a section gang laying 100-pound, 39-foot rail on the Grimsby subdivision, between Jordan and Grimsby. Their first job with the CNR was packing ice at Stratford for use in the air-conditioned and refrigerator cars. Upon completion of that work, they were transferred to rail-laying operations. The young men are two of a group of 23 men and women whose desire to find freedom in another part of the world was so great that they braved the Baltic sea in a rowboat and spent weeks crossing the Atlantic in a frail 45-foot boat.

Scripture—Acts 20:17-38; Ephesians 5:6-21

By Alfred J. Buescher

From Miletus, once a seaport town, to the ancient city of Ephesus, once one of the 12 cities of Ionia, now in ruins, Paul journeyed on his last missionary journey.

Arrived at Ephesus, Paul called the elders of the church to him, and talked to them of his own life, warned them of dangers to come and told them how to live as Christians.

Paul told the elders that he was going to Jerusalem and they probably would never see his face again, then he knelt and prayed with them, they all wept, then went with him to the ship.

Afraid they would never see him again the elders of the church accompanied Paul to the ship that was to start him on his way to Jerusalem.

Palestine Ever Been Torn By Religious Differences

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

ANCIENT PALESTINE, today the scene of riot and worse as Arab and Jew contend for the possession of that Holy Land, was torn with religious differences in the days of the Apostle Paul.

Paul, whose magnificent letters — known as Epistles — to the various congregations he had founded, are a grand contribution to the New Testament, became a prisoner of the Romans as a result of a religious riot in Jerusalem.

Though he felt certain that persecution and imprisonment lay in wait for him at the end of his journey, the great missionary set out from Miletus, historic Mediterranean seaport in Asia Minor, for Jerusalem. This must have been Paul's last missionary journey — there being no evidence of a later one.

En route to Jerusalem Paul stopped over in the city of Ephesus, and it is on the words that the great missionary spoke to his followers there that our lesson for today is based.

At Ephesus Paul summoned the elders of the church to him. They were the duly appointed officers of the Ephesian church, although we do not know who they were nor how appointed. When they had gathered he reminded them of his work among them, telling how he had served "the Lord with all the humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews." The Jews who would not accept his Gospel, accused him of all sorts of what they considered heresies, whereas, Paul says, he was "testifying both to the Jews and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ."

Now, he told these friends, "I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there: Save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me." None of the things that he feared moved him from his purpose; even his life he counted not dear, only that he hoped he might "finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God."

"And now, behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more." Paul was loved and admired. He was a very real "tower of strength" to these early Christians. Imagine, then, how sad they must have felt when they thought of him going into danger, possibly, even very probably, losing his life, and visiting them no more to cheer, advise and help them in their trials and discouragements.

He warned them of differences of opinion that would arise within their ranks to draw disciples away from them, and cautioned them to watch for signs of same.

"And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified. I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel. Yea, ye yourselves know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me."

Then Paul kneeled and prayed with these friends. They all "wept sore," and accompanied him to the ship that would take him once more to Palestine.

We do not know if he ever went to Ephesus again. There is no record of such a return visit. He was a prisoner when he wrote his epistle to the Ephesians, setting forth what the life of a Christian should be, instructing and exhorting them.

"Have no fellowship with the works of darkness, but rather reprove them," he writes. Wake up those who are sinning, so that they may "walk in light," a beautiful phrase for living a righteous life.

"And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit." "Wine and the Holy Spirit both lift a man out of himself," says a commentator. But while wine gives a false sense of joy, and makes a man forget his troubles for a time, it may also make him arrogant, proud, even quarrelsome and murderous. The Holy Spirit gives a true joy, which lasts and never disappoints.

Studying the Lord's Prayer

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus said: When ye pray, say: Our Father.—St. Luke 11:2.

Just a brief glimpse of the teaching of this wonderful Prayer. When you take this prayer upon your lips you will utter a word precious to the Lord. There was so much love in His heart for the Father that the disciples heard it in His voice. After His ascension they taught their converts to use the same Aramaic word Abba, so that they were uttering in His own language the Name of the Father.

The prayer centres in the home: What the father may expert of the son and what the son may expect of the father.

What does the father expect of the son. He expects honor and obedience, which are the two essentials of fatherhood and sonship. Turn to the parable of the Prodigal son. The son went into the far country because he did not wish to honor and obey his father. As a wise father he gave his portion of his inheritance and let him go into the far country. When he had spent his substance he came to himself and said: "How many hired servants of my father have bread enough to spare and I perish with hunger. I will arise and go to my father and will say unto him: I have sinned against heaven and before thee and am no more worthy t be called thy son. Make me as one of thy hired servants." He shews his appreciation of his father.

"Hallowed be Thy Name." Thus the prayer opens naturally. Honor of the father is the uppermost thought in the mind of the Son. The spread of the Father's kingdon is the ideal; for the Father's rule brings peace and happiness to all in the family of God.

"Thy will be done." It is the natural prayer and thought of the Son who has discovered the joy of serving the Father. We must remember that obedience of two forms. Active and passive. "Lo, I come to do Thy will, O my God" is the active side of obedience. To pray at the appointed time; to attend Divine worship regularly.

But here is the harder side—passive obedience. To endure and be patient under suffering and disappointment. Some tragic sorrow enters into your life. This is hard to bear and to say very humbly: "Thy will be done". The Father is developing your character. "The Lord hath opened mine ear and I am not disobedient."

What the son may expect of the Father. Three essentials: Bread, forgiveness and protection.

"Give us this day our daily bread." Food is a necessity, for both body and soul. The Father knows that man cannot live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God." As you look back upon your life your bread and your water has been assured thee, as the promise is. And the luxuries also.

"Forgiveness". Many a son and daughter needs forgiveness before bread. Again the prodigal son. He does not ask for bread to satisfy his hunger. He is hungry. But he cries: "I have sinned against thee." There is a condition attached to the forgiveness. "As I forgive". This is the acid test of all true repentance.

"Protection." "Deliver us from evil." As the years go by the Spirit of God will open you eyes to see the blackness of your sin—that sin that so easily besets you—and the time comes when you turn away from it with horror. You see sin in its true light and you marvel that it ever attracted you.

The living Christ teaches us to offer this prayer in His Name. THE LORD JESUS SAID: WHATSOEVER YE SHALL ASK IN MY NAME I WILL DO THAT THE FATHER MAY BE GLORIFIED IN THE SON.

HOME-GROWN COURTESY, TOO

A recent report of the "courtesy cards" placed on the cars of Lindsay motorists who break minor traffic rules, complete with an oblique suggestion that this city's force do the same, has slightly puzzled the police department. Last year, 3,000 courtesy cards identical to the Lindsay ones, were left for motorists. They are in use now in cases of tourists' cars and where it is possible to identify the car of an out-of-towner.—R.B.

PCVS Students Present Annual Play

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The production of Sir James Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" which was given by the P.C.V.S. Senior Dramatic Club on Thursday and Friday nights was the most enjoyable performance that the high school group has offered to the public in some years. Although the play was well produced it gave no suggestion of being over-produced; there was a quality of spontaneity and enjoyment about it which quickly communicated itself to the audience, and the audience in its turn responded with hearty laughter, rounds of applause when actors left the stage after a well-played scene, and generous curtain calls when the play was done.

This high degree of success was achieved in the teeth of a very difficult play. "What Every Woman Knows" is, in effect, the story of three very simple men who foist an unattractive woman upon a self-righteous cad, as a return for paying for his education; even the charm and genius of Barrie cannot keep this ugly theme from revealing itself nakedly at one or two points in the play. But the freshness and charm of the P.C.V.S. actors reduced the unpleasant quality of the play to a minimum; several professional companies have been less fortunate in this respect.

The principal acting honours must go to Vevey Jameson for a well-sustained and attractive performance as the Comtesse de la Briere, and to Jim Turnbull, who played the by no means easy part of Charles Venables with weight and distinction. These two players have had previous experience on the stage, and showed it. In the very difficult part of Maggie Wylie, Joyce Beggs did some admirable work; she never failed in her scenes of climax, but she was at times uncertain in less important scenes, and it is in these that Maggie is expected to reveal her special charm; the dramatic society has a find in Miss Beggs. Of the Wylie men, Allan Bennett was most successful as David, and he got his laughs skilfully, without strain; Ron Bissett was almost as good as James, though he showed a slight tendency to over-play; however, this is a good fault in a beginner, and can be turned to excellent account by the director. Walter Downes played the ungrateful part of John Shand gamely; this role was written for George du Maurier, and it lays heavy burdens upon an amateur.

Nancy Moffat brought an unusual beauty to the part of Lady Sybil Tenterden, and spoke nicely; the costumes (which were excellent) were particularly becoming to her. George Bedford played the father of all the Wylies, and did some nice quiet work with his two or three good moments. Marilyn Pomeroy and Jim Edwards completed the cast as a maid and a footman, and brought those parts into unexpected prominence by charm and personality, respectively.

Only one word of serious criticism must be said; the makeup, particularly of the older characters, hindered rather than helped their characterizations. The art of applying adequate makeup is by no means impossible to learn, and it can add immeasureably to a good play.

The production was pleasant to look at, and was put on the stage with dispatch. The Choral Club sang very pleasantly in two intervals.

CAS Seeks Foster Homes For Both Boys and Girls

The observance this week of "foster home week" in the district brings into public attention the existing need for homes for children under the care of the Children's Aid Society at Peterborough. The society describes its need as "urgent" and has been making appeals to women's groups throughout the county for assistance in locating suitable homes for the wards.

The work of the Children's Aid Society in providing foster homes deals with the most valuable asset of any home and nation—children. To this organization falls the difficult task of uniting homeless children with homes which will open their hearts, as well as their doors.

Foster homes sought by the Children's Aid fall into four general classifications — adoption, work, free and boarding.

In an adoption case, the placement is made through the usual legal processes after the home has been carefully investigated. There is no shortage of homes desiring children under this type. In Peterborough at present, there are about 20 couples on the waiting list.

In wage placements, with older boys and girls, the child is taken into the home as a servant or, on a farm, as a hand.

Free homes, as the name implies, accept the child without payment. He attends school "just like anybody else." The child usually does chores around the home.

The need is greatest for boarding homes, in which the foster parents are paid for looking after the child. Besides paying for the board, the Society also provides clothing, medical attention for the child.

A wide range of homes are needed. In some cases, because of the nature of the child, it is preferable for it to be a home with other children. In other cases, a childless home is best. Placements are needed in all parts of the city and county.

Requirements are for placing of boys and girls ranging in age from two weeks to 16 years, of all religious denominations.

Application may be made to the Society in person, by phone or by telephone. The applying homes are scrutinized for the protection of both child and prospective foster parents.

The basic requirements of a suitable foster home are two intangibles—love and understanding. The Society insists that the home have enough space for the extra child, with proper sleeping arrangements. It prefers that the household be financially secure and not dependent on the income from the Society.

Child Should "Belong"

Selection of homes is made with the view to see that they will accept the child as a member of the family and treat him as such. They stress that every effort should be made to see that the child is given a sense of "belonging" not only to the family but to the community life at large. All tendencies to differentiate him from the other children with whom he associates is guarded against.

The homes chosen by the Peterborough office of the Children's Aid Society in their placings to date have been "most fortunate," reports Miss R. A. D. Young, superintendent. It has been possible in placements made to date, to find homes in which a parental feeling on one side and a filial

Community Fund Total Reaches $63,482

Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign has now reached the total of $63,482.

Official end of the campaign was on Friday, March 5, with results not complete. At that time subscriptions totalled $61,500.

Chairman Ross L. Dobbin had divided the canvassing into four divisions—Special Names, under Gordon S. Matthews, Industrial under Ian McRae, Retail under W. C. Hughes, and Women's under Mrs. W. E. Fanning. When the dinner-meeting celebrating the successful conclusion of the week-long drive was held, the Retail division had failed to gain its quota. This was partially due to the fact that not all pledge cards had been turned in.

Money has been coming in all week to the George Street headquarters. By this morning with still some pledge cards to come in, the total was $63,482, or $3,482 over the objective.

Objectives and amount actually secured are: Special Names, $18,000 objective, $19,106 secured; Industrial, $25,000 objective, $28,308 secured; Women's Division, $4,000 objective, $4,355 secured; Retail, $13,000 objective, $11,270 secured.

Community Fund officials pointed out that it is mainly in the Retail Division where pledge cards are still lacking; and they say that when these come in the Retail division is expected to reach its objective also.

As a publicity measure there was a Penny Collection in schools and the amount collected totalled $443. This was a drop from $610 received last year.

Fund officials say that contributions will still be gratefully received. Cash donations are not necessary; the pledge may be paid over a period up until next Christmas.

The industrial division reported the following amounts subscribed:

B. F. Ackerman & Son, $135.40; Albion Knitting Co., $61.70; Beaver Lumber Co., $54; Bell Telephone Co. $166; Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., $650; Canada Packers, $795; Canadian Canoe Co., $80.50; Canadian General Electrict Co., $14,0000; Canadian Nashua Paper Co., $342; Canadian Sealright Co., $87; Canadian Raybestos $450; Canadian Ventilating Shade Co., $149; Card & Paper Co., $37; CHEX Radio Station, $69; Colonial Weaving Co., $72; De Laval Co., $802.56; Dominion Woollens Lt., $500; G. Whitaker Plant In Bradford Hit By Fire

Bad luck seems to have stru[ck] the Atlantic to strike at the G. Whitaker and Co. Ltd., wool warehouses in both England and Canada.

In 1940 the parent firm at Bradford was seriously damaged by enemy bombs, and recently it received damage estimated in thousands of pounds due to fire. During the war fire caused damage to the Auburn Mill warehouse and on July 11 the disastrous fire broke out in which three men died and property damage ran over $1,000,000.

A recent issue of the Yorkshire Post tells of the latest misfortune. Fire believed to have started in th Whitaker section of a five-storey block on Crossland St. in Bradford and burned through adjoining warehouses.

By a strange stroke of fate the gap left by bomb damage in the building's structure helped to prevent the whole block from being gutted. Despite many applications for a rebuilding license to repair the bomb-shattered structure, the Board of Trade had continued to refuse. Had the desired repairs been made it is probable that the fire would have been much more serious.

Fire detachments from Bradford, Halifax, Huddersfield and Shipley arrived on the scene to help bring the outbreak under control.

Analyzing the reason for the outbreak, the local fire force commander said: "The fire was probably smouldering among raw wool for several hours, and all the time it was generating inflammable gases and fumes. Then, when ignition point was reached, the whole lot went up in a flash."

Despite these several setbacks the Whitaker firm continues to maintain its position as one of the leading wool merchants in both countries.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Careful Checking Required For Fixing Price of House

It makes little difference to your builder whether you construct a large or small home. His compensation is based on the time and effort a structure requires of him. Small homes take less time and they involve less financial risk. Many builders prefer to build them in large numbers on a modest percentage.

A builder or a contractor is an individual who gathers together for your convenience in one person the functions of as many as 30 different trades and operations. The process of determining the price of a home is one of carefully checking the materials and labor operations in these 30 trades.

There are many qualities and many prices for each operation. Someone has to make the decision as to just which grade material shall be used for a certain place in the house and how the work shall be done . . . it is the answer to this question repeated many times which determines the final cost of your home.

If you can take the time to give your builder exact information as to your requirements and wishes there will be no reason for him to make guesses and decisions which might unnecessarily boost the cost of the house. In lieu of specific information it is natural for the builder to estimate sufficiently high to cover all contingencies.

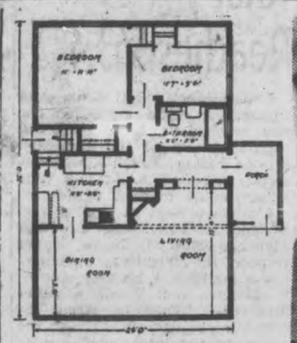
Ask Questions

If you want more house for your dollar, help your builder by outlining to him the full amount of the monthly payment which your budget should stand and the amount you can originally invest. Ask plenty of questions . . . make sure that you understand each other perfectly before you permit him to bid.

Make sure, before a detailed cost estimate and bid is made, that the design you have selected is within the general range you wish. Your builder or lumber dealer can tell you this.

Don't despair of the first estimate on the house you want exceeds your cost limit. Go over the plan and the specifications step by step with the builder. Every house built is a compromise. Remember that slight changes in the requirements which cut the cost of each item five per cent all along the line may make as much as $1,000 difference in the total cost.

Risks Require Protection



Avoid making your builder gamble. If he is sure of his ground and has full knowledge of exactly what is required of him, he will help you get a good house for a fair amount of money. He will not try to profiteer; but if he must take risks, he must protect himself. Remove the risks and cut your costs.

Change your mind before you start the building job . . . not during it. Have all the "pros and cons" talked out before the building materials arrive at the site. Talk is cheap . . . but building material and labor cost money.

Do These Things:

1. Before you spend money for plans get two or three opinions as to the general plice class into which your choice falls.
2. Question every decision as to kind of material or equipment to be sure that some other material will not do the job as well at less cost.
3. Make a general list of everything you want in the house and get your builder's opinion item by item.
4. Avoid generalities. The only accurate cost of a building is based on definite specific items.
5. Be sure you know exactly how much you have to spend before you start negotiations.
6. Don't spend all your fund at first . . . Leave yourself a contingent reserve.

Misunderstandings are one of the miscellaneous reasons for the abandonment of promising home-building jobs.

FLOOR PLAN

FOR NARROW LOT — The exterior of this house is extremely simple, just a rectangle with a low-sweeping gable roof. Clever use of colour and millwork has produced a distinctive house from the simplest basic design, almost completely stripped of non-essentials. Here is an economy house really well handled. But let's proceed inside. Good planning doesn't stop on the outside by any means. In the first place we find the rear of the house is devoted to sleeping quarters, while the front part is the living area. For an economy house the arrangement of living room, dining room and kitchen is exceptionally good. Access from kitchen to front door is provided through the hall. The living room has huge windows, an interesting cornerwise fireplace and built-in bookshelves on each side of the archway into the hall. While we never recommend narrow lots, poor land use and high municipal taxes on frontage lead many of use to accept the inevitable when building in the city. If you must build on a narrow lot, this house is worth studying. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Merchants To Protest MobileCanteenPermit

COBOURG, March 13 (ENS).—Application of a local resident for a license to operate a mobile canteen has stirred up an argument which will be aired at next Monday's session of town council. Council has given the applicant, Gordon Healey, the green light to go ahead and order the chassis for his canteen and has indicated that the necessary by-law will be passed.

However, since the last meeting of council, merchants selling ice cream and tobacco in the business section have prepared a petition, which they will present at Monday's council meeting, protesting against the granting of the license on the ground that it is unfair competition to businesses in fixed locations, paying taxes or rent.

Plan To Revive Old Mines Near Marmora

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — Seven southeast Ontario counties have hopes of new prosperity as a result of a sentence in the Speech from the Throne, read at the opening of the current session of the Ontario Legislature, and promising that geological parties will be sent out "to investigate the potential iron-bearing areas of South-eastern Ontario."

From Haliburton to Leeds County, the presence of iron ore has long been known. Over a century ago, iron mines in the area were producing ore for Canadian — and even for United States — blast furnaces. Operations were abandoned when the ore proved low grade, transportation expensive, or competition from larger mines too great.

To-day new methods of prospecting and improved mining processes may mean these old mines can get back in business, producing iron ore to meet the 3,000,000-ton annual Canadian demand. American demand is 10 to 20 times greater than Canadian needs and United States mining companies have re-opened the old Adirondacks working, across the St. Lawrence from abandoned South-eastern Ontario deposits.

More than 2,000,000 tons of ore are believed to be lying under water at the workings once known as Blairton Iron Mine, 5 miles west of Marmora. From 1820 to 1875, ore was won from open pits to feed Marmora furnaces. Between 1869 and 1873, as much as 100,000 tons was shipped to the United States, and during its history, Blairton probably yielded 300,000 tons.

Other old mines which might be revived in the world-wide search for iron sources to replace war-diminished supplies are the old Belmont Mine, eight miles north-west of Marmora, the Bessemer Mines, 78 miles north of Trenton, Coe Hill, north-east of Marmora, and the Paxton, Victoria and Imperial Mines in Haliburton. Peterborough, Renfrew, Lanark and Leeds, all have deposits which at one time produced ore for Quebec and United States furnaces.

Old Age Pension Boost Is Ruled Out Of Order

TORONTO, March 13—(CP).—A Labor-Progressive Party resolution calling for higher old age pensions at a lower age came in for considerable discussion in the Ontario Legislature yesterday before the Speaker, on request for a ruling, decided it was out of order. The ruling was based on decision that the resolution would obligate the Legislature to expend money. Bills or legislation involving money may be introduced only by the Government and not a private member, in this case J. B. Salsberg (LPP—Toronto St. Andrew).

In the short Friday session, the House also gave first reading to a bill which will provide municipalities with authority to vote grants or gifts to athletes for outstanding achievements.

This amendment, introduced by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar, was inspired by the difficulty encountered by Ottawa last year when it decided to present Barbara Ann Scott with a car in recognition of her skating prowess.

City Council had already decided to give her the car when it found it did not have the authority. Special legislation covering that instance had to be voted by the Provincial government.

As it turned out, Barbara Ann had to return the car after Avery Brundage warned her that acceptance would jeopardize her amateur standing.

The bill, which contains a number of minor amendments to the Municipal Act, also empowers city police to trap pigeons which are making nuisances of themselves.

There was considerable discussion, however, on one bill, to amend the County Courts Act.

The amendment would remove the stipulation that the first day of any county court session in Ontario must begin at 1 p.m. or later. It would be up to the judge to decide whether to start at 9 a.m. or to wait until the afternoon.

Convenient For Judge

J. A. Habel (Lib.-Cochrane North) charged that the bill was for the convenience of judges and did not give any thought to witnesses. He said that in northern constituencies such as his that if the judge were to call a morning session on the first day it would require many witneses to leave their homes Sunday morning in order to reach Cochrane in time.

Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver and CCN Leader W. J. Grummett supported a request that the bill be held over for a few days for further study and examination.

However, Attorney General Blackwell declined, saying that he was certain judges would take into account train schedules before setting court opening time.

The speaker's ruling on Mr. Salsberg pensions resolution followed discussion by Mr. Blackwell and Akrelien Belanger (Lib.—Prescott), both of whom opposed arguments that it should be allowed to stand.

Have Argument

The Speaker's ruling was to the effect that the resolution would require expenditure of money and therefore could not be sponsored by a private member. Under parliamentary rules money measures may be introduced only by the government.

Mr. Salsberg had argued that it was not a bill, only a resolution, thus only a statement of opinion, which would not bind the House to its vote.

The attorney general said passage of the resolution would obligate spending by the government since it would constitute a formal expression of the legislature. He quoted past records dating back to 1876 to show that similar resolutions had been ruled out of order.

SIMPLE DESIGN ADDS BEAUTY TO HOME, MAKES DOLLAR STRETCH

Easy Rules For Kitchen Design

Think of a kitchen where lovely harmonious colour predominates; where gleaming work surfaces beckon culinary adventure; where the sparkling cheer of cabinets, sink and appliances make the room as charming as any living room that you could picture.

That's what kitchen planning can do. And the beauty of it is that even the most modest home can enjoy a kitchen like this . . . so wonderfully convenient that bothersome kitchen chores are practically eliminated.

Rules Are Simple

It's simple and easy to follow the principles of kitchen planning, because these principles have already been worked out by skilled household science experts, and are all ready for you to use. They can be applied to any kitchen regardless of its size, shape or contour, because the order of the various units, or the extent of those units remain the same.

Every kitchen large or small, has three main work centres. Something of this order of centres has always been used but not with full knowledge of their place and relative importance. They are (1) The refrigeration and preparation centre; (2) The sink and work centre; (3) The range and serving centre.

The refrigeration and preparation centre should include the refrigerator, placed close to the outside delivery entrance to the kitchen. Around this unit should be ample cabinet storage space and adequate work surfaces. Upper cabinets should be devoted to staple foods, spices, extracts, canned goods. Base cabinets are for pans, flour, sugar, etc.—all situated at the point of first use.

This centre is planned with the idea of foor preservation and conservation. It is the food warehouse of your home.

The sink and work centre is the axis of your planned kitchen. Here is where you prepare vegetables; where most kitchen operations begin and end. Foods pass in logical order from refrigerator to this section, which acts as a "go-between" from refrigerator to range. A modern sink, dishwasher and mixing machine may be incorporated into this unit. Or you may have the sink alone, should your budget allow only the essentials.

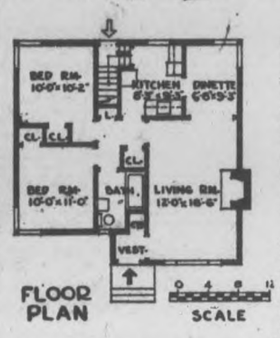
The range and serving centre is next, with the range nearest the dining room. This is your meal's final preparation and serving point, with utensils easily accesible at the time they are required. Cabients and drawers should include a place for everything — and everything in its place.

Applying Units To The Room

Kitchen designers have arrived at the fact that all kitchens may be classified under one of four general designs. Regardless of entrances, windows, opening or peculiar shapes, the kitchen you contemplate for your new home, or the modernized version of your present kitchen, will belong to one of these groups.

These basic arrangements are capable of innumerable applications which may be applied to your kitchen in the most suitable manner. Here are the four:

First: The individual centre kitchen — generally a square type room with several entrances, windows, etc. The basic refrigerator-sink-range line is adhered to in this plan, but with the various units placed to take care of doors, etc., between them.



Second: The "U" type kitchen. This type is feasible where a continuous work surface is available from refrigerator through to range, from the end of one wall, down and across the adjacent side, and up the opposite side to form a "U" with your "incline" kitchen work centres. This compact design is finding wide favor in new homes. There is usually a window provided over the sink, with exit doors localized on the opposite wall.

Third: The "L" type kitchen which involves only two walls, the work surfaces being in continuous "L" shape down one side and across the other. In its ideal form this type starts with the refrigerator at the entrance and finishes with the range near the dining room door.

Fourth: The broken "L" type kitchen which is usually applicable where several door openings permits a basic "L" type layout with a door between any one of the three centres — refrigerator, sink or range. Many home builders favor the "U" and "L" types. They do offer the most efficient and compact features because of their continuous "incline" work centres.

N.H.A. HOME-OF-THE-MONTH

Planned as a one-storey house but easily adaptable to a one and a half storey design, this month's "N.H.A. Home-of-the-Month" selection was built in Regina and is suitable for construction in other parts of Canada. By increasing the roof slope and adding a stair to the second floor where the line closet is shown over the basement stairway, extra bedrooms could be provided.

Comprising two bedrooms, the sleeping area of the house is separated from the living area by a connecting hall, basement stair and the bathroom. This arrangement not only ensures maximum privacy but provides a cushion against sound transmission from the living area to the sleeping quarters. Traffic from the front door to the bedrooms and kitchen is across the long axis of the living room. With ample wall space for furniture, traffic lanes should not seriously disrupt furniture arrangements. The small dinette has an arch which permits extension of the dining table into the living room when required for entertaining. Good storage accommodation includes a closet for each bedroom, a linen closet, coat closet and general purpose closet opening off the hall.

The exterior has been simply designed with large windows to provide adequate light and ventilation. The finish shown is horizontal wood siding on the walls with vertical siding on the front gable end. The design permits the use of any approved exterior finish.

For estimating purposes the floor area may be considered to be 820 square feet.

Veteran Piper

drones and one bass drone. Apparently this increases the volume of the Highland pipes over that of the Irish. (One Paddy commenting on this feature summarily dismissed the advantage by declaring that any Irishman can make twice as much noise with half the wind in any case.)

Pipe Major Webdale may be excused for being a little overenthusiastic concerning his own pet musical instrument. He leaves a pretty wife and young boy (both pipers) and a comfortable home several times a week to practise.

Following in father's footsteps is young Bobby, 7, who attends Central School. Already he has mastered the elementary difficulties of learning to play. With both Pipe Major and Mrs. Webdale urging him on, plus a marked aptitude on his own part, he should turn out to be a champion piper.

"Tune must be memorized as no music is carried," said the Pipe Major. He added that when actively playing he knew some 200 pieces. With more than a little scorn he said some people could not tell one tune from another. Regardless of what the listener thought, he gave the heartening assurance that every one was different.

Given proper financial and moral support this new band hopes to entertain Peterborough people with the traditional music of the Highlands.

The band hopes to make the music of the pipes popular with many of the younger people, so they will carry on the folk music of Scotland—a land that has contributed so much to this young country.

Ease Ban On Gifts

OTTAWA, March 13 — (CP). — Canada's emergency austerity regulations have been eased slightly to permit Canadians to receive gifts valued up to $25 from the United States. The original regulation prohibited the entry of gifts except those valued at $5 or less which are traditionally duty free.

Emergency Codes

EDMONTON, March 13.—(CP). —Emergency ground-air codes printed on non-inflammable cards are to be issued to RCAF fliers for use in crash landings, Northwest Air Command announced yesterday. Pocket-size, the cards contain codes enabling crashed personnel to put out on the ground signals for searching aircraft.

Further Conservation

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — Furtherance of wildlife conservation in field and stream will be the object of the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show which opens its one-week run here today. The biggest exhibition of its kind ever undertaken in Canada, the show is expected to attract sportsmen from all parts of the Dominion.

Causes Excitement

THREE RIVERS, Que., March 13.—(CP).—Women wept today as Fernand Grenier, 25, was carried into the court room by four policemen from his hospital bed, to be committed for trial by Judge Leon Lajoie, for the murder of 15-year-old Rita Lafontaine after a drinking party.

Cheese Group Interested In Requisition

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — The Ontario Cheese Producers' Association here yesterday asked the Federal Government when requisitioning will begin for some 50,000,000 pounds of cheese to be shipped to the United Kingdom.

Such information is necessary, directors said, because of its bearing on domestic markets. If early notice of requisitioning is received, the association will have opportunity to prepare the domestic market before cheese is diverted for export sale.

In another resolution, the association asked that all cheese made in Ontario be sold to consumers on grade. It hopes that provincial legislation to this effect would assure consumers the grade they desire.

President John L. Ballantyne earlier said Canadian cheese producers may soon "sit up and take note" of rising production costs.

"Cheese is being sold at less than cost," he said, and if continued, government subsidies will not be enough.

"Prices must be raised. Compared with last year, production has gone down 40 per cent."

MORE ABOUT—

Canada and top-level executives in the Kremlin, was told by high officials in Ottawa and by men connected with the United States Department of Justice that United Nations headquarters have been used by Soviet emissaries to transmit messages to Red leaders in North America.

There also is a definite link between Canadian Communists and the British Communist Party, whose chief, Harry Pollitt, still hopes to tour the Dominion next month despite word from the Department of Immigration that he will not be admitted to the country.

Moreover, the New York headquarters of the Communist Party of the United States keeps close contact with parties throughout North and South America, and, again according to Martin Ebon's volume, "funds have definitely been transferred from the United States Party to Canadian Communist leaders."

Thus we establish the direct line of communication between Stalin, the Czar of the revolution, and his subservient and obviously servile henchmen in Canada, each of whom has taken the party oath to defend the Soviet Union, "the land of victorious Socialism."

Who are these Canadian subleaders who would deliver their nation to the looters who already have captured vast areas of Europe and Asia and boast openly of their intent to rule the world?

Tim Buck—Figurehead, Orator

Tim Buck, national L.P.P. leader and secretary-general of the Communist Party of Canada before it went underground, theoretically is the top man. Through him the orders of the supreme command in Moscow — orders which invariably reflect Soviet foreign policy — are handed on.

In many cases they are handed on to party executives whose importance is far greater than Buck's, he being as much a figurehead as anything, a maker of speeches and a distracter of attention from the real aims of his party.

Harvey Murphey, born Chernikofsky, member of the Red's central executive committee and regional director of the western district of the pro-Communist International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers is the L.L.P.'s strong man in British Columbia and a person of vast influence in left-wing labor circles.

Joseph B. Salsberg, Toronto MPP, and member of the executive, is even bigger than Murphy — perhaps the biggest of the visible Communist leaders in Canada. His job is directing all Red infiltration into unions and seizure of power which, in times of crisis, could be turned against the country whose interests he pretends to represent at Queen's Park.

A. A. MacLead, also a Toronto MPP—the second of the two Communists Ontario elected to its legislative assembly — is the "commissar" in charge of all political activity in the party. His job is a highly important one, since the political purpose of the Communists is not to gain their ends by parliamentary methods, but to gain information, confuse issues, sabotage adverse legislation and generally employ disruptive tactics to weaken the party.

Smith, Freed, Sims, Morris

On this level are a number of other Communist sub-leaders of varying degrees of importance, of whom some are: Stewart Smith, former member of the Toronto Board of Control; Toronto Aldermen Norman Freed and Charles Sims, and Leslie Morris, editor of the Communist weekly Canadian Tribune .

Communists of this calibre are placed at the head of provincial executive boards throughout the Dominion, corresponding to party "federations" established in other countries.

Through these federations the strategy formulated at the top is passed down to the heads of "sections," or regional organizations, of which there are perhaps 100 in all Canada. At the head of each of these is a regional director of the L.P.P. — a job which may be big or small, depending on the district and the man.

Each "section" is composed of local "cells" of from five to 25 members each — and here we find the rank and file of the Communist organization and, incidentally, the basic foundation upon which the structure of the revolutionary machine rests.

A "cell" is a complete, disciplined action unit, organized in a factory, society or organization, for the exclusive purposes of gaining control of whatever power is within its reach, for enlisting other lively activists in the party, and for swift metamorphosis into an "action committee" in any hour of strife or crisis.

Think of a group of cancer cells, multiplying incessantly, undeterred by the cutting away of any part of their mass, growing until they have corrupted and overcome the entire body in which they propagate, and you will have a pretty good idea of the revolutionary machine Karl Marx dreamed of and Lenin inflicted upon the world.

Johnston, member of the staff of the Institute of Child Study, University of Toronto. Mrs. Johnston is a co-worker of Dr. Blatz and Dr. Bernhardt, at the Research Nursery school connected with the institute and was in Peterborough in October to conduct a five-day intensive study course for community leaders of parent education study groups, and she will meet with them in the afternoon for review purposes. In the evening she will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Home and School Council to which an invitation is extended to all interested in physical and mental development of children. Both meetings will be held in the public library.

St. Paul's Study Canadian Missions

St. Paul's Auxiliary WMS met in the Green Room at the YWCA with the president, Mrs. D. T. Diplock in the chair. Mrs. A. Jack gave the devotional exercises, based on the parable of "The Good Neighbor."

Mrs. E. Howson had charge of the program from the study book. Mrs. H. Ball told of the work among French and Indians where the society supplies literature and a French Protestant paper to the former. It conducts boarding schols at Birtle and Kenora, a day school at Mistawsis and at three government reserves in Manitoba for the Indians.

Mrs. A. A. McIntyre told of the work among Chinese and Italians. There are missions in several large cities for the Chinese and they assist with an Italian church in Montreal and a mission in Hamilton.

Mrs. H. Eastwood described educational work which had a beginning in several school residences, but as public schools became more plentiful there was less need for them. Now there are child centres in Vancouver, Montreal and Toronto, with St. Margaret's school fulfilling a serious need for home life among girls of 11-14 years.

Mrs. J. Marsh related the interesting development of hospital work in the west, where medical care is very difficult to obtain. Now most of this work has been taken over by the municipalities, leaving funds for ither branches of mission work.

Mrs. E. Howson described the deaconess work and showed how important it is in communities where churches are far apart and newcomers to the land very numerous. There is need for extension in every field of WMS endeavor.

The president announced that Mrs. Rae, overseas secretary for India, would be guest speaker for the Thankoffering meeting.

Speaker Tells Stories of Easter

Mrs. M. Dunkley was guest speaker at the meeting of Knox Church A held in the church parlors this week. Speaking on "Easter" she explained that early customs for the festival of resurrection differed in many countries. "It was first held as a weekly festival, thus giving Our Lord's Day," she said. Hot cross buns also were an early symbol to the Goddess of Easter, signified by the cross. Egyptians used eggs as a symbol or origin, and later the golden daffodil and the white lily. In early days it was the custom for persons meeting on Easter Sunday to greet by saying "Christ is Risen."

The speaker also told of the disciple John and his love for Jesus, which was far greater than that of the others. She brought out the story of Jesus asking John to be his mother's son when he was about to be crucified.

Mrs. C. Weldon, president, presided for the meeting. Mrs. J. Allan led the devotional period, her topic being "The beloved disciple." Mrs. H. Trotter read the Easter lesson from the Bible, and Mrs. Langford led in prayer.

A pleasing duet by guests of the afternoon, Mrs. C. Corbett and Mrs. G. Batley was "Resting in the Shelter of His Love."

Allure of Manner Brings Admiration

If you are asked how your friend Betty or Joan says "how do you do" or how Jean acknowledges an introduction, or the way Mary says "thank you" or how someone else says "I'm so happy to have met you," you would, no doubt, be able to tell at once and most definitely. You've noticed—and you approve or you don't approve.

But if you were asked how you say these daily amenities, could you answer—quickly, definitely—and truthfully? Very few see themselves as others do in the hundreds of social contacts that instantly reveal their charm of manner—or the lack of it.

Your way of smiling, your grace and graciousness of consideration of the other person, as you say these words, which have the power of making an impression out of all proportions to their commonplaceness, can make the most of your personality.

Use your mirror as an "information please?" and check on yourself. Walk right up to the longest one in the house, hold out your hand and say, "how do you do?" Don't cheat and don't be self-conscious, but say this greeting just as you naturally say it.

When you see and hear is the way you appear to others, so if it isn't the impression you would like to make, change it. Practice saying words of greeting or acknowledging until you feel it "clicks."

How's your smile as you "make believe" you are greeting a friend? Do you self-consciously force it to your lips—a tight, cool, appraising smile—and not smile at all with your eyes? Are your words brasque or staccato, your expression 'deadpan?' If you were being introduced, do you honestly think the person would like you on first sight? Do you soften the curtness of crisp monosyllables by adding a name, as "Yes, Mrs. Jones" or "No, thank, you Mother?"

If you apply such tests with the right spirit, they can be of inestimable value. You can increase your personality - development, create an aura of charm and bring popularity.

Words are the daily currency between you and the world. Make them pay off.

Time-tested Recipe For Cream Puffs To Drool Over

Cream puffs are just enough on the fancy side to make a woman feel pleased as punch when she makes them successfully. Filled with cream filling or ice cream they are a luscious dessert. Cream puff dough is used to make chocolate eclairs for a delicious treat. Teeny weey cream puffs filled with deviled ham, lobster salad, oyster paste or other cocktail-time tempter are quickly snatched from the tray.

There's nothing so difficult about making them. The trick to cream puffs isto cook the mixture of butter, water and flour to just the right point. Undercooking will result in thin mixture which spreads when dropped and makes flat, unpuffy "puffs." If this happens, place the batter in a saucepan over hot water, stir constantly and cook just long enough to stiffen. Overcooked puff mixture results in under-sized puffs. Avoid cooking beyond the point where the blend leaves the sides of the saucepan and forms a smooth ball.

Cream Puffs

½ cup butter
1 cup boiling water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted flour
4 eggs

Add sifted flour and salt all at once and stir vigorously until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan in a compact mass. Remove from heat. Add eggs one at a time, beating vigorously after each. Continue beating with plenty of elbow grease until the batter is smooth and free of lumps. Batter should be stiff enough to hold shape when dropped from a spoon or pastry tube. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Pop into a hot oven, 450 degrees, and let puffs bake for 15 minutes, during which time they'll do their puffing. Reduce heat to 375 degrees and continue baking 25 minutes longer to dry out puffs. Cool baked cream puffs, make a cut in the side of each and force in filling with pastry tube.

Cream Puff Filling

½ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, flour and salt in the top of a double boiler. Add milk. Cook and stir until thickened and smooth. Add slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook. two or three minutes longer. Cool and add vanilla.

Eclairs

To make eclairs, use the cream puff mixture, shaping rectangles on the baking sheet. Fill with cream filling, when baked, and frost like so: Drop an egg white into a bowl; work into it 1¼ cups sifted confectioner's sugar, beating until smooth. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted. Beat until blended.

Veteran Apsley Merchant Marks His 83rd Birthday

APSLEY, March 13—(ENS)—On Wednesday, Duncan Brown celebrated his 83rd birthday. He was born on Lot 18, Concession 12, of Burleigh Township, March 10, 1865, his father being Alexander Brown and his mother Margaret Garrow. On June 18, 1894, he married Louise Wilson. Those were horse and buggy days for they started early on a June morning and drove with horse and buggy to Peterborough, where they were married by Rev. Mr. Butcher in Charlotte Street parsonage. Witnesses were Mary Staples and Edward Wilson.

They settled on the groom's farm in Burleigh, but in March, 1900, they removed to Hymers, Ontario. They returned to Burleigh in 1903 and he went into the general store business in June 1903. He has carried on this business continuously until two years ago, when his son Stewart was taken into partnership.

On June 18, 1944, the entire family gathered to celebrate the golden anniversary of their marriage. They have three children, Roy Brown of Lakefield, Mrs. W. Church (Ella), Mount Julian, now employed as teacher in the North Apsley School, and Stewart in business with his father. There are two granddaughters and four grandsons.

His father, Alexander Brown, was Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther for two years; Duncan Brown, Reeve for seven years, and Roy Brown for seven years, and Roy Brown was Warden of Peterborough County in 1937.

He has three sisters living, Maggie of Whitby, Mrs. Parker of Port Arthur, and Mrs. McCallum of Sacramento, Cal. Two brothers and one sister died. A Presbyterian by faith, he is an adherent of the United Church, and has always been a faithful atended, health permitting, and always ready with assistance in eevry cause for the betterment of the community. He is hale and hearty and cheerful, enjoying the sunset of his life in his comfortable home amid friends.

When asked to what he attributed his good health, he said: Plain living, lots of hard work, and outdoor life. He worked at lumbering, river driving, and farming. He never smoked or drank, and told to-day that he was never drunk in his life, quite a record for a man who had lived the rough life of the ordinary lumberjack. Associates say he was never heard to use profane language. He recalls that in his young days he often saw wolves crossing the fields on his father's farm.

The main item on the menu for the supper was a three-tiered birthday cake baked and decorated by his 11-year-old granddaughter Elaine, assisted by Mary Jean Wilson.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 14

Sunday's horoscope encourages a day of diversion and relaxation, in which traveling, visits, social and domestic bolstering of ties and obligations, cultivate a condition of cheer and good will. Cultural activities should flourish and career interests could make definite gains by intimate and pleasant relations. Labor, too, in kindred lines could profit by friendly contacts.

Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is, may find a prosperous and pleasant year, in which the personal, social and professional life should thrive Career and possessions attained by personality and other agreeable performances should spell growth gratification, increase of prestige, popularity with good will for creative work cheerfully done, or expert skill. Tangible assets are in sight, with pleasant reactions on the domestic and romantic scene.

A child born os this day should have many talents, skills, graces, charms and happy disposition for a prosperous and pleasant life—one of achievement and good cheer.

For Monday, March 15

Monday's astrological forecast shows that while the mentality and judgment are well attuned to high purpose and the planning of ambitious enterprises, yet such may be nullified by a tumultuous or too eager effort to put over such important objectives. There are signs of success in joint issues, yet any attempt at force, false moves or rash attempt at limitation or postponement has power to defeat and frustrate.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves in a year of complication or frustration. The mind is astute and spurred to fine ideas and plans for success and creative work, especially in connection with others in high places. Yet rash attempts to force issues or to overstep bounds of reason or respond to undercurrents of suspicion, delay or depression, could have dire reaction on promising conditions.

A child born on this day while having fine mind, ideas and ambitious aims in life, might defeat itself by rash, turbulent acts or possibly by suspicions or want of faith in itself and its supporters.

Eligible Husbands Wanted By Women Wanting Riches

PROBABLY MORE MEN marry to get a good home than for any other reason. There comes a time in the life of even the most unromantic of them when they are fed up with bachelorhood. They are tired of living around in hotels and boarding houses and clubs, and ordering their own meals, and listening to men's talk about stocks and bonds and politics and who's who in baseball, and keeping up with their laundry. And they begin dreaming about a rose-embowered bungalow and going home at night to a wife who will meet them with a glad, sweet smile and set them down to a dinner of just the things they like best, and so they get married.

Dorothy Dix

The popular belief is that all husbands have been trapped into the matrimonial fold when they were not looking where they were going but this is not true. Men are at heart domestic animals, and they marry because they want a home and somebody to love them and pet them and stroke their fur the right way.

Not only do men marry of their own accord, but the great majority of them do so with the full intention of being good husbands and making their wives happy, and the strangest vagary in all human relationship is that so many otherwise intelligent men never find out what it takes to make a successful marriage.

More Than Luxuries Required

The average man's idea of being a good husband is to be a good provider. This is, of course, a basic feature of a happy marriage, for not even the most devoted wife can feel very gay if she has to eat scraps and wear hand-me-downs. But, on the other hand, neither can she sing merry roundelays over a husband who presents her with ropes of pearls, but never hands her a pleasant word.

Yet we have the grotesque spectacle of husbands who work themselves to death to lavish luxuries on their wives, but who never show their wives any affection or tenderness and are so grouchy and ill-tempered that they make their home a place of torment instead of one of peace and love.

Many men complain that their wives are disappointments to them; that they are poor managers, extravagant, bad cooks and dull and uninteresting companions. Undeniably this is true, but how few men ever take the trouble to try to turn a poor wife into a good one. When a man marries a young and inexperienced girl, she is clay in his hands to mold to his heart's desire if he has the patience and the wisdom to do it.

But he can't do it by force. He can't do it by finding fault with everything she does. He has to make her feel that she is the most important thing in the world to him and that he can only carry out his plans and ambitions by her help.

And, curiously enough, husbands, even those who really love their wives, are so often utterly indifferent to the happiness of the women whose well-being lies in their hands. They seem to think that if they provide their wives with comfortable homes, plenty to eat and charge accounts at the best stores, they have done their full duty to them and have a right to prune themselves upon being model husbands. They don't feel it is their duty to be interesting companions, or even to talk at home, or to take their wives stepping, or to do anything to entertain and amuse them. Their idea seems to be that being a good husband consists in paying the bills.

Which is why divorce is so common, for being a good husband is a job into which a man has to put all he has of brains and heart and tact if he wants to make a happy home.

Speaker Gives Tips On Public Speaking

A luncheon gathering of some 75 Kiwanians heard Leslie Woodruff, teacher of English on the Normal School staff, give a short address on "How to Introduce and Thank a Guest Speaker," at the YMCA on Thursday.

For the introducer and thanker of the speaker, three things were of great importance he said: Personality, preparation and presentation. He described the role of the introducer as the link between the speaker and the club, and vice versa. The thanker was the man who voiced the collective opinion of the particular group.

Until about 25 years ago he said the remarks of introduction and thanks were regarded as little speeches in themselves.

Length of the introduction depends fundamentally on the importance of the speaker. As a general rule, he said, length varies inversely with the importance of the main speaker.

Introducer must "sell" the speaker to the audience and also the audience to the speaker. He observed that the first part of this dictum is usually observed, but the latter part is often neglected.

Humor in introductions must be used with caution. Both the reaction of the audience, and the contents of the speech are probably unknown. Inappropriate humor might cause offence.

The speaker recommended the personal element in making introductions rather than an objective, factual account of the speaker's career. He said many speaker ask for a particular type of introduction, thus paving the way for their main address.

"Courtesy" is the key word in thinking a speaker, said Mr. Woodruff. This is particularly necessary if the speech was poor.

Reversing the rule for introducing speakers, the length of an expression of thanks should be proportionate to his importance.

If possible a quotation from the speech should be taken and applied to the realm of the particular organization. This, said Mr. Woodruff would make the speaker think he had contributed something useful and thus create goodwill through what amounted to courtesy.

While the thanker should also be wary of humor, he said, he has a freer choice in this matter than the introducer as he should have guaged audience reaction by this time and would also know the contents of the speech.

Mr. Woodruff said one of the worst faults of thankers was in re-hashing what the speaker had said. On the one hand it was redundant and on the other, it might lead to distortion.

Mr. Woodruff was introduced by Richard Raine and thanked by James Craig. Edward Pridham was in the chair.

Seven members from the Lindsay Kiwanis Club were present: Albert Wainman, president, Ford Moynes, William Whyte, George Stephenson, Wesley Mason, and Percy Skitch.

Other guests included Jack Cairns from Toronto, and two members from the Kiwanis-sponsored Key Club: Lorne O'Toole, secretary, and Jerry O'Neill, treasurer.

Can't Reach Terms For Track Payment

OTTAWA, March 13 — (CP) — Port Colborne industries, which include some of the largest plants in Ontario, have been assured of continued service from both railways operating in the area but a dispute over payment for track facilities still remains to be settled.

The dispute yesterday came before the senate committee on transport when it met to consider a bill empowering the C.N.R. to renew a 21-year-old agreement giving the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway the right to use its tracks between Port Colborne and Welland.

Disagreement centres around the rental to be paid by the smaller company and C.N.R. spokesmen gave assurance to the committee that they did not seek to oust the T.H. and B. from the area.

The C.N.R., although agreeing under its former contract to support the bill, argued that this did not preclude them from stating their case for increasing its rental from $42,000 in 1947 to $90,000.

Y's Men Induct 2 New Members

Induction of two new members and entertainment consisting of several Lancashire poems were the two main features of Thursday night's meeting of the Y's Men's Club held in the YMCA. James Sharpe was the chief guest and he recited such pieces as "Battle of Trafalgar," "Albert and the Lion," "Return of Albert" and others.

More than 30 who attended enjoyed the poems of Mr. Sharpe and applauded loudly at his Lancashire county dialect.

Two new members, David Seymour and Harry Powell, were the ones inducted on Thursday night. At the impressive induction ceremony following the main meeting vows were made to "acknowledge the duty that accompanies every right."

Guest of the evening was introduced by Gordon Morrison and thanked by Ken Jackson, who presided. A "Bun" Henry asked for a meeting of the camp committee after the main body had adjourned.

Winners of the draw were James Clark and Clifford Vincent.

An overall report on the result of the Y's Men's Carnival had still to be given.

HELPFUL SNACKS

In addition to three meals a day, extra food, in the form of "snacks" may be needed by young people to keep up with rapid development. Between-meal lunches should be very light however, say health experts.

Boost Salary Of Librarian At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, March 13 (ENS) —The librarian's salary was raised from $300 to $400 per year at the meeting of the Library Board on Thursday.

Librarian, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, gave the report for February which showed a circulation of 517 books, 281 adult and 236 juvenile.

A letter of thanks for books was read from Miss McLaren at the Burleigh School. It was moved by Reeve W. C. Grant and Mrs. C. Hunter that the insurance on the books be renewed with Frank Payne and the premium of $10.50 be paid.

Correspondence was read from the Library Association asking the board to write requesting the removal of tariffs on records from the United States. It was moved by Reeve Grant and seconded by Mrs. Wm. Whetung that this letter be held for further information.

The sum of $25 was voted to Mrs. Whetung, convener of the book committee, for the purchase of books from Miss Giles.

The raise in the librarian's salary was moved by Reeve Grant and Mrs. Whetung. Reeve Grant stated he was not sure that the village council would approve, but he personally felt that the salary was pitifully small for a village the size of Lakefield, as the librarian spends many hours on the books outside of the actual time the libary is open.

The estimates were received as follows: estimated receipts are—government grant, $81.50; municipal grant, $900; value of accommodation including rent, light and heat, $360; fees and fines, $25. Totalling $1,366.50.

Estimated expenditures: books —adult fiction $150, classic $125, juvenile $125; papers and magazines, $58.56; library supplies, $50; petty cash, $20; Ontario library membership, $2.10; stationery and printing, $20; post office box, $3; insurance (3 years) $10.50; delegates expenses to convention, $40; librarian's salary, $400; miscellaneous, $2.34; rent, light, heat, $360.

The estimates were passed by a motion of Mrs. C. Hunter and Mrs. W. Whetung.

Mrs. Reg Doubt was chairman for the session.

Bluey Almost Left Waiting At Church As Bride-to-Be Delayed By Regulations

By LESLIE BRODIE

SYDNEY, Australia, March 13 (CP),—Amana, the grey kangaroo being flown to Toronto for the Byline Ball on April 10, today left her home at Cairns in North Queensland on the first hop of her 11,500 mile journey after many transport difficulties were overcome.

Arriving at Sydney late today on an Australian National Airways plane, she will rest until March 28 when she embarks again with ANA for the Pacific flight to Vancouver. From there she will fly to the Toronto Press Club ball as representative of the International Correspondents' Association in Australia and the Sydney journalists club.

After the ball she will meet Bluey, the grey kangaroo sent as guest of honor to last year's ball by the Sydney journalists club. The couple expect to settle down quietly at the Toronto zoo. Until today it looked as though Amana would be late for both the ball and her wedding. ANA have given her free passage from Sydney to Vancouver but have a strict ban on the carriage of livestock on planes in Australia. They could see no way of breaking it without getting angry protests.

The Queensland government offered her passage on their trains as a guest of the state. But striking railroads and flooded rivers decreed otherwise.

The North Queensland Sunday Australian ran a story of her transport problems under a banner headline: "Will Cairns' Bride Keep Her Wedding Date In Toronto?"

When all hope seemed lost ANA re-entered the scene and a spokesman telephoned the Canadian Press to say: "Ban or no ban, Amana is going to that ball and we are going to carry her all the way—and what is more she travels as a guest of the company."

SOLE SURVIVOR PLANE WRECK—Mrs. Tripolino Meo, a 33-year-old Chicago mother, the only survivor of Delta airliner crash which claimed 12 lives, is attended by an unidentified nurse at Chicago's Holy Cross hospital after being taken from the blazing wreckage. The Miami-bound plane aboard which she and her young son, Albert H. Meo, Jr., nine, were passengers, crashed in flames just as it was taking off from the Chicago Municipal airport. Her son was killed in the crash. Through lips charred by the intense flames of the burning plane, Mrs. Meo screamed hysterically at the hospital: "My baby, my baby! My poor little dear!" She suffered fractures of the skull and both legs and arms and was badly burned.

by Kate Aitken

The nurse with the new-born baby in her arms looked up at the clock. "It's just midnight, doctor" she said.

The doctor smiled, wearily. "We're not through yet. This is no usual . . ."

He was right. Soon after midnight and just in time for the New Year, the young matron gave birth to two more babies—the first triplets the little Red Cross Outpost Hospital had seen.

They created a sensation . . . but a problem also. With six children already at home, the newcomers were more than the parents' small household could absorb. So the Red Cross Hospital stepped in, kept the babies for two and a half months, watched them grow from red-faced, squirming, undersized infants into adorable, healthy babies, then sent them home.

Serving an Isolated Community

That is only one local service this small (nine beds, two cots) efficient hospital renders the community in which it is situated. This is a remote 'out-of-the-world' community. Isolated it needed help.

Thus in 1926 the Red Cross moved in, established the red brick hospital complete with a small surgery and nursery—and has consistently served the neighborhood since then.

Operations are performed in the well-equipped surgery. One private room takes care of seriously ill patients. But hospital space is at such a premium that young mothers are discharged as soon as possible after their babies are born.

However, the cornerstone of a new 20-bed hospital has been laid. Red Cross officials look forward to moving into the new quarters late next summer. The increased space will permit better service to be given to the district. It will also allow more aid to neighboring Red Cross Outposts, 45 and 26 miles distant respectively.

In the meantime the busy life of the hospital goes on. The superintendent and a staff of two nurses and one nurse's aid are on the go from morning till night. Their staff consists of a cook, an orderly and a helper. Living above the hospital, the nurses are on call all the time.

"Night Flights"

So, too, is the orderly. It is nothing unusual for him to be wakened at midnight with an urgent summons: "John, go get the doctor fast!" The small town (900) has no night telephone service, so the orderly acts as doctor's messenger as well. And John says: "All the babies seem to prefer night flights."

This hospital is just another in a chain of Red Cross Outpost Hospitals spaced across the country and giving service to its neighborhood. Going into remote districts where civilian hospitals are unknown, these Red Cross hospitals are of untold value to their localities.

Red Cross Services include: Blood Transfusion, Outpost Hospitals, Aid to Sick and Disabled Veterans, Treatment for Crippled Children, Disaster Relief, Nutrition Services, Home Nursing Courses, Swimming and Water Safety, etc.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SOME LIES READABLE

SOME LIES told during the bidding are easily readable to you, because you hold some particular card or cards which render it impossible for the false statement to be true. That condition bobs up in most definite fashion if you hear your partner make an ace-showing or cue bid in a suit in which you yourself have the ace. When he does that, it is up to you to figure out, if you can, just what he is trying to prevent the opponents from doing and just what he wants them to do.

(Dealer: North. North - South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	6 ♠

When North heard his partner's 4-Hearts, patently an ace-showing bid, and he held the heart A himself, he of course knew South was indulging in a flight of fancy.

"Why is he showing the ace of hearts when not holding it?" North asked himself, answering "To prevent a lead of that suit and steer the opening into something else. It could not be a club lead he wants, in view of my own holding. Therefore he must want a diamond lead. To help cause that, I'm going to bid the club ace myself."

After he did that, West fell for the trap and led the diamond 7, the only suit in which the ace had not been shown. East took it with the ace and returned the suit. Two trump rounds found the spades divided, and the rest was easy, with diamonds furnishing discards of the dummy's losing hearts.

If the late bidding on the deal had been normal, West would have led a heart to knock out the ace. When the diamond A eventually won, the heart K would have set the contract.

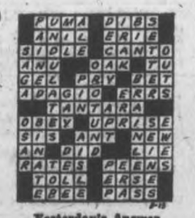
Your Week-End Question



Why is the chance to pick up a trick by a finesse three times as good from leading twice toward an ace-jack-ten as from leading once toward an ace-queen?

Fine Toronto Man $10 For Careless Driving

LINDSAY, March 13 (ENS)—Harold A. Goggin, Toronto, was fined $10 and $10.50 costs in police court Friday when found guilty by Magistrate E. A. Gee of careless driving. The charge resulted from an accident March 6 when a car driven by Goggin and one driven by Miss Mary Anderson, Oakwood, collided on Highway 7 a few miles west of Lindsay.

Goggin said he was driving east and noticed what appeared to be two cars parked directly opposite each other on both sides of the road. There appeared to be room to pass between them, he said, but as he went to do the Anderson car began backing up, at the same time moving toward the centre of the road. It was then he ran into the side of the Anderson car. PC William Milton, who investigated, said no one was injured and neither car was damaged extensively.

Magistrate Gee said Goggin showed carelessness in not driving more slowly while attempting to pass the cars

Say 2 Germans Pushed Around In Prison Camp

HANNOVER, March 13 (Reuters). — Former Sergt. Frederick Thomas testified yesterday that two Germans in Bad Nenndorf Camp were "punched in the kidneys and face" and "pushed around."

He was testifying for the prosecution in the resumed trial of Lieut. Richard Oliver Langham of the British Army, charged with "disgraceful conduct" arising out of alleged ill-treatment of German internees at the camp.

Cross-examined by defence counsel, Thomas denied that the two prisoners, Horst Mahnke and Rudolf Oedsler-Roeder, were burned with cigarettes or beaten so that they suffered head wounds and bled.

The allegations of ill-treatment refer to incidents in April, 1946.

Thomas said that he and former Company Sergt.-Major John Mathers, who testified yesterday, visited the two internees in their cells seven times on April 17, 1946.

On each visit, which lasted about 15 minutes, the Germans were forced to walk around their cells and were punched in the kidneys and face. They were also pushed around forcibly and forced to stand against a wall with arms outstretched.

Seemed Exhausted.

Both Germans gradually showed signs of exhaustion, Thomas said.

Shortly before midnight, Oedsler-Roeder was given paper and pencil to write a confession.

When Mathers returned to the prison, Thomas added that they went back to Mahnke's cell and made him run around and beat him.

When Mahnke lost consciousness they dragged him to a shower and held hom under it until he regained consciousness.

Then they forced him to run up and down the corridor, punching him and throwing a chair in his way as he ran. Whenever he collapsed they dragged him to the shower and revived him.

Then Mahnke was brought back to his cell, was given paper and pencil and ordered to write a confession.

What the Germans were required to confess to was not brought out in evidence.

affection on the other soon develops.

"Our need is not for different kinds of foster homes," she points out. "It is for more homes of the same high calibre."

"We feel sure that there are many more homes of the type which would be in a position to offer their services."

The need of the Society is not only for present wards requiring homes. They must have a full and adequate list of available homes ready to meet any sudden demand on their facilities.

The children, in some cases, come from homes which must be separated because of parental neglect or improper actions and where the parents are not responsive to suggestions for improving the home life. In some cases they are illegitimates—homeless through no fault of their own. They may be orphans or victims of the desertion of either the father or mother.

Funds for the operation of the Children's Aid Society, including this foster home program, are received from municipalities where the wards originate, who pay 90 cents per day towards the upkeep. The Society also receives support from the Red Cross and the Community Chest drives.

During the coming week, the need for more foster homes will be stressed to the public by newspaper, radio and window displays.

It is not only this week in which these homes are needed. Humanity is a creature of fallibility, and in those slips from the paths, hundred of innocent boys and girls suffer. This is a vital means of helping to compensate for that suffering and giving these children a break in life.

"What is a home without a child...
Imagine a child without a home..."

County Farm Notes

—By HARRY THEOBALD

The Stage Is Set For Farmers' Week Here March 17-20, At Peterborough Exhibition Grounds—Farm Radio Forum Series of Broadcasts Nearing End.

Farmers' Week in Peterborough March 17-20, should attract many hundreds of farmers from the ten counties from Frontenac on the east to Ontario county on the west, and including Victoria, Haliburton and Prince Edward.

This agricultural event is a merger of the Quinte District Seed Fair and the convention of the Eastern Ontario Treshermen's Association. It also features a district bacon show.

Grain and grass seeds are given primary place in this joint enterprise, and in the course of the program it is likely that farmers will be reminded of the challenging objective proposed by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, a harvest of 200,000,000 bushels of feed grain this season.

The first two days are preparatory. Seed exhibits are due for placement, and commercial displays will be set up. Judging of seed entries is scheduled for Wednesday, the opening day of the Treshermen's convention.

In moving into the wartime drill hal at Morrow Park, agriculture and its appurtenant products and machines are occupying the entire space. Convention and other meetings, with the showing of selected motion pictures from Wednesday to Saturday, have been assigned to the former shooting gallery on the south side of the drill hall. The arrangements appear to be convenient and attractive.

The bacon show has been allotted space on the north side of the big hall, and the grain exhibits on the south side. Lily Lake women of Smith township will be in charge of a refreshment booth.

Two dinner events deserve special mention. The first is Wed. at 6.30 p.m. at the Canadian Legion, the Threshermen's convention dinner. This has been an annual affair, constituting a highly successful series with the women of Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, catering.

The other is the Quinte District Seed Growers' dinner at George St. United church Friday at 6.30 p.m. Peterborough farmers are advised to obtain their tickets early.

The big hall will be heated, and with early spring co-operation from the weather should be comfortable.

The Junior Farmers' seed judging competition is listed for 10.30 a.m. Friday, and the final event is the auction sale of grain Saturday at 2 p.m. with Gordon Hancock as auctioneer.

Vernon Campbell of Douro is president of the Threshermen, and John Rickard of Newcastle, is head of the Seed Growers. Stewart Bowman of Peterborough, is manager of the fair, with W. W. Dawson of Otonabee, assistant, and Frank C. Paterson is chairman of the exhibits and publicity committee.

DURHAM REMITS $676

Reports of the Children's Fund canvass were incomplete at the meeting of the Durham Federation of Agriculture March 4 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Staples. It was decided that when the appeal is completed, the total amount raised in each district is to be reported to the Federation secretary at Orono to enable him to prepare a statement for the press.

A motion by Forbes Hyland and Edgar Nichols directed that $676.36 be remitted to the provincial Federation as Durham's proportional contribution this year.

The secretary reported that he had not been able to arrange a meeting of the camp committee but would try to have this done before the next meeting. Since that time arrangements have been made and the committee will gather in Mr. Richardson's office, Department of Planning and Development, on Wednesday, March 24 at 10:30 a.m. The following will make up the committee: Weston Bannister, A. Runnells, Walter Reynolds, M. Linton, Mr. Richardson and the secretary.

The president reported that the following had been appointed to make up the camp control committee: Weston Banister, Walter Reynolds, Harvey Malcolm, Dolton Dorrell, Robt. Armstrong, Chas. Armstrong and the secretary.

A suggestion was made that in order to do the work of the Federation more efficiently an effort should be made to start more Forums, organize from a school section basis and hold meetings more frequently in parts of the county not covered at present. The following were given the responsibility of studying the above and reporting back as soon as possible, Walter Reynolds, M. H. Staples, Forbes Hyland, and the secretary.

Mr. E. A. Summer was asked to nominate members of a county hog producers committee and report back to the directors for approval.

As a project it was moved by H. Malcolm and Walter Reynolds that the county federation assume one-third of the cost of supplying seed potatoes for the Junior Farmers Club at Garden Hill.

The meeting expressed regret of the passing of Mrs. Russel White, and the secretary was instructed to convey this message to Russell White.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Hyland on April 1.

HAVE FIVE PROJECTS

Prince Edward Crop Improvement Association has lined up five projects for this season. Hybrid corn is one. It is planned as a means of helping to increase the supply of feed grain. The members also have two weed spraying demonstrations, a pasture project and they are hiring a bulldozer to eradicate barberry and buckthorn in the Wellington district.

Hog producers of Prince Edward are sending five carcasses to the bacon show section of the Quinte Seed Fair at Peterborough next week. Donald Thompson was re-elected president of the association.

POTATO SCAB

From two bags of potatoes bought on the Peterborough market last Saturday, a retired business man estimated that he might get one bag "fit to eat." The rest, culled from the two bags, was so contaminated with potato scab that it looked to him like a complete loss.

"And some of the potatoes I have tried, turn to a dark color in boiling," he said.

Conceivably the vendor either did not recognize the disease, or thought so lightly of it that he did not hesitate to bring a truck load to the local market for sale. The identity of this producer was not known, but he is believed to have come from a distance of more than 20 miles.

If Peterborough district farmers who appreciate the convenience and value of the local market are content collectively to permit that kind of careless selling, they may find eventually scant disposition among city taxpayers to authorize expenditure of public money for a new market site.

Mr. James Dutton in his aldermanic days expended time and effort in trying to stimulate among farmers using the market a resolve to raise and maintain its standards. Conference accomplished nothing, suggesting possibly that farmers generally were not seriously interested in the local market from their side of the counters.

Mention of this authentic instance of last Saturday in which a Peterborough man paid $5.50 for one bag of potatoes, because that is what it amounted to, may be linked with a news item from the Ontario Agricultural College this week reporting new research of the potato scab in the province. Potatao Growers' Association petitioned the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, to organize investigation of control of this disease which is causing increasing loss to the industry.

President W. R. Reek called together members of the College staff with representatives of the University of Western Ontario, Station, and the Dominion Plant Pathology Laboratory, St. Catharines. Sixteen were present. The first duty of the committee is to break down the general problem of potato scab and its control, and to delegate specific problems to the co-operative committee members. This means that all information available is taken before a trained group who have the scientific approach and still appreciate the farmer's problem. At the next meeting of the group representatives of the growers will be invited to discuss the problem.

Meanwhile the quality of Peterborough market has dropped a long way in the estimate of one consumer.

FORUMS ON IMMIGRATION

The winter series of Farm Forum broadcasts is drawing to a close. The subject next Monday night is "Do We Want More Immigration?" and final on March 22 will be a national summary of farm forum opinion on this month's topics. It will be presented by Joseph Galway, secretary of the national forum.

Forum Guide this week points up rural interest in immigration with the question: Do we need more people on farms? "According to Dr. Allan Peebles of the Department of Labor, about 2,000 immigrants a year could be absorbed in farm work. But he reminds us that more than half the labor employed on the farms of Canada at the present time is unpaid family labor.

We know that fewer farmers are required now to produce the food demanded by present markets. The prairie census of 1946 shows a declined of 59,000 in the rural population of the Prairies since 1941. According to W. B. Hurd there are in Canada from 27 to 29 million acres of unused, reasonably accessible land, suitable for agricultural settlement. From 17 to 19 million acres of this is outside Quebec where provincial authorities think the local farm population will take care of the increase. This would allow for possibly 71,000-81,000 settlers on farms.

The best informed opinion seems to be that our "wide open spaces" will not support a great influx of immigrants."

Taking a broader view of this question, the Guide scans it from the national plane. By natural increase our population is expected to advance from the present 12 million to the following figures:

By 1951, to almost 13 million.
By 1961, to almost 14 million.
By 1971, to over 14½ million.

Thirty years hence we will still have fewer than 15 million people in Canada, at this rate. "Even our gloomiest prophets think Canada can absorb a greater population than that."

"How large a population can Canada support? Some experts put the figure as low as 25 million; others up to 250 million. Prof. Griffith Taylor, Department of Geography, University of Toronto, estimates on the basis of our climate and natural resources, that our population could go to 50 million without reducing our standard of living."

These are a few of the Forum Guide's opinions on the question by way of stimulating interest in next Monday's broadcast.

FARMERS' MACHINES

Maple Hill Forum In Algoma contributed the following comment on the recent broadcast subject "What the Machine Has Done For Us?"—"We work hard to make more money to buy more machinery, and so the vicious circle goes round."

A high percentage of Forums said that we can buy a lot of implements co-operatively, but the larger one, such as bull dozers and weed sprayers are out of all reason, and require outside assistance.

Reports from Forum discussion on this subject of mechanization in agriculture indicated that scarcity of farm help has been the chief factor causing farmers to invest in machinery.

"Not only that, but the wages asked by the average farm hand (if you can find one) are out of reach of the average farmer. Added to this the forums say if we want to compete on the world market we have to produce more economically, again contributing to mechanization. With the assistance of the tractor and corresponding implements, the climate nor the time of day doesn't hinder one man accomplishing many times as much work as his neighbors who are using horses.

However all agree the horse still has his place, and too much machinery on too small an acreage is false economy. The reports indicate consider carefully before purchasing a tractor on less than 100 acres.

The Ontario Forum people look with envious eyes to the help received from the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture by the farmers of that province, with reference to their Co-operative Tractor, Under drainage, surface ditching and land breaking policies as well as their apple tree pulling arrangements. They all hope our Ontario Government will take a few tips from the land of the Blue Nose before too long."

JUNIOR GROUP'S PARTY

Visiting junior farmers who are competing in the judging competitions at the Quinte Seed Fair are being invited to a little party at Normal School after the Fair dinner at George St. United Church Friday, March 19. Peterborough juniors have arranged a meeting for that night and are enlarging the affair as a welcome to the other juniors who are here for the seed show.

Don Milburn told the Examiner yesterday that the Juniors are planning to build up the calf club for boys and girls this year. Kiwanis have volunteered their help and are inviting the boys and girls who sign up to a luncheon early in April. Their fathers will also get invitations. At the end of the season, Kiwanis will also provide a tour for the members who persevere to accomplishment day.

Eligible members should be between 12 and 20 years. They undertake to feed and generally care for sales of dairy or beef breeds which they own. Junior Farmers are directing an appeal to farm parents to give this year's calf club their support by encouraging sons and daughters to join.

DRIVING COURSE—If a safe driver and pedestrian course, consisting of psycho-physical tests, for a number of Hamilton high school students, at the F. R. Close Technical School, proves successful, the Ontario Department of Education will adopt such a course for the province's secondary schools. Hamilton Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the tests. Part of the class is shown above. Standing at right is W. R. Towns, motor mechanics instructor.

Try To Stem Costa Rican Revolution

75 PC Power Plants Blown Up In San Jose City

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 15—(AP).—The desperate Costa Rican government tried today to stem a revolution sweeping the country. The opposition has virtually isolated the capital.

Seventy five per cent of San Jose's power plants have been blown up and opposition forces said they were trying to cut the remainder last night. The city's industry is at a virtual standstill. A general sit-down strike has been called for today.

Underground sources say the government has appealed to General Anastasio Samoza, former president and now strongman of Nicaragua, to send help as soon as possible.

Wipes Out Force

Three Nicaraguan planes are here at the Sabana airport with their wing insignia painted out with yellow paint.

Jose Figueres, leader of the revolutionary forces, said over the underground radio he had wiped out half of the mobile unit sent to force him from his hidden mountain stronghold south of Cartago. This unit had been trained by the U.S. army.

President Teodoro Ricardo Michalski declared martial law Saturday. Fighting began March 1 when congress annulled the election of Otilio Ulate Blanco, opposition candidate for president. Ulate and 42 followers are reported to have reached Guatemala.

Jules Dubois, a Latin American correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, has been placed under house arrest at the Gran Hotel by Acting Minister of Public Security Rogelio Granados. Dubois said Granados told him his security was in danger and that all his liberties were suspended.

No Aid For Italy If Communist

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (AP). — The United States state department said today that if Italy goes Communist she will get no further economic aid from the United States.

A statement emphasized that this means the Italian Communist party would be the one to decide whether to shut Italy off from United States aid.

Italy has been receiving help under the emergency foreign aid program and is down for aid under the Marshall Plan.

Take 2nd Liquor Vote

BELLEVILLE, March 15 — (CP). — Residents of the nearby village of Tweed will have another chance to decide if they want beverage rooms as a result of Judge C. Anderson's ruling today that a vote last November is invalid. Court hearing on a application of E. J. Courneya, Tweed hotel owner, for a second vote was upheld by Judge Anderson, who several weeks ago reserved judgment on the matter. Tweed municipal officials will decide when the second vote will be held.

Division Of Europe By Russian Boycott Fearsome Thing Bidault Tells Conference

PARIS, March 15 — (CP). — Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France told the Marshall plan conference today that "Europe has been reduced to the 16 nations here."

He told the delegates opening conferences on the European recovery plan that "the rending apart of Europe" by countries boycotting the Marshall plan had become fearsome.

Bidault, as host, welcomed the delegates in the name of liberty. He said:

"The qualified representatives of 16 countries are proclaiming today by their presence that they solemnly confirm their will to work out their own salvation, while insuring liberty, through their friendly and confident cooperation and by aid of the United States."

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, presiding at the conference, said the British and French delegations would present a resolution "on Germany." Observers took this to indicate a delegation from western Germany would be invited to attend as observers.

Bidault said political difficulties have widened since the 16 Marshall plan countries first met, and economic difficulties have grown. The economic condition of Europe is "precarious and dangerous, both in itself and in the consequences it will bring if it is prolonged."

Arab Committee Agrees To Consult Big Powers On Crisis In Palestine

NEW YORK, March 15 — (AP). — The Arab higher committee for Palestine agreed today to consult with the Big Powers on the Palestine crisis. The decision was announced by Isa Nakhleh, New York representative of the Arab committee, as delegates of the United States, Russia, France and China went into their fifth and final session on Palestine. They met at the Chinese delegation offices in the Empire State Building.

The Arab group has refused to take part in any United Nations discussions on implementation of the UN partition plan. Nahkleh was expected to confine himself to answering a series of questions submitted by the Big Powers last week.

Jewish Agency representatives sat with the Big Powers at their last previous secret meeting on Friday.

No agreement was in sight on a joint program of action as the Big Powers went into session.

Czech Police Continue Purge Of Politicians

PRAGUE, March 15—(AP). — The Communist - controlled Czechoslovak government buckled down today to its double program of new legislation and settling old scores with political opponents.

Special attention centred on the committee which has been asked to strip Vladimir Krajina, Nationalist Socialist leader, and two other deputies of their parliamentary immunities. The most important of the immunities protects them from arrest.

At least 20 persons are under arrest, and others are being sought under charges by the Interior Ministry that they conspired with the National Socialists under the direction of Krajina in a spy plot against the police and nationalized industries.

Plant Explosion Takes 4 Lives

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 15—(AP)—Four workmen were killed and about 20 to 25 others were injured today in an explosion at the big plant of the International Harvester Farm Equipment Company.

Earlier reports said six men were killed, but a check by company officials later this afternoon revised the casualty total.

Cause of the explosion had not been determined hours after the blast demolished a 150 by 75-foot brick and steel building in which engines made in the nearby main plant were tested.

Normally about 56 of the company's 4,000 employees worked in the test building but the explosion took place just as the night shift was leaving and the day shift was arriving so officials were not sure how many men were in the building at the time.

Fire followed the blast but soon was extinguished by firemen. Police and volunteers aided the firemen in rescue work which was hampered by intense heat and the fact that the basement of the building was flooded.

Take Action To Tighten All Security

Say All Secret Work Must Be Entrusted To Loyal Employees

LONDON, March 15.—(CP).—Prime Minister Attlee announced in the House of Commons today that the British government had decided not to employ anyone known to be a member of the Communist party in work "vital to the security of the state."

"The same rule will govern those known to be actively associated with Fascist organizations," Attlee said. A person in any way associated with the Communist party "in such a way as to raise legitimate doubts about his or her reliability" would also come under the order.

'As far as possible alternative employment on the wide range of non-secret government work will be found for those who are deemed to be unsuitable for secret work."

He declared that the various ministers "must take responsibility for their departments in this matter," and added:

"The general principle covers all those in the service of the state where secrecy is involved."

John Platts-Mills, an extreme Left Wing Labor member, interrupted to challenge the government decision, asking:

Have Some Loyalty

"Beginning this purge with Communists, is there any reason why you should not go to Jews and Socialists?"

"Yes," Attlee replied, "every reason, because Jews and Socialists have a loyalty to this country. It is not so with many Communists—and some fellow travellers."

If jobs within the civil service could not be found for persons with specialist qualifications, Attlee continued, "there may be no alternative to refusal of employment or dismissal."

"It is not suggested that in matters affecting the security of the state all those who adhere to the Communist party would allow themselves to forget their primary loyalty to the state."

There were angry roars from members of both sides of the 10-Mile-A-Minute Jet Planes Will Be Used In Conversion Of U.S. Navy Air Service

ABOARD USS BOXER AT SEA, March 15 (AP). — The United States Navy's air arm is in the process of conversion to 10-mile-a-minute jet planes.

This was announced yesterday by the Navy following the trials aboard this 27,000-ton aircraft carrier last week, when for the first time jet fighter planes operated from a carrier flight deck under routine conditions at sea.

The Navy said it expects the use of jets will have been expanded throughout the fleet within a year. Already it has two jet fighter squadrons in commission. One squadron is using the North American Fury designated the FJ-1, the other McDonald FH-1's.

The 10-mile-a-minute FJ-1's thundered on and off the Boxer's flight deck with ease. They were launched successfully both under their own power and by catapult.

But despite the 4,000-pound thrust developed by the FJ-1's straight ram duct engine, it was apparent the slow acceleration of the jet-propelled plane would bar launchings under its own power as routine procedure. And under combat conditions it would not be feasible to keep the entire flight deck clear to launch only one plane at a time.

Czechs Crossing Border Dodge Bullets, Lights To Reach Refugee Camp

By MLADA CZECHOVA

HOF, Germany, March 15—(AP).—I am a Czecho refugee. My husband and I fled to the United States zone of Germany at the risk of our lives rather than live under the new Communist regime. We crossed the border at night. It was an experience we never will forget. We might have been shot by border guards. If we had been captured we would have been subject to prison terms of from five to 20 years. From our home in central Czechoslovakia, far from the border, we journeyed to Prague by train, and then to Asch, near the US zone border, by automobile.

From Asch, we had to take a bus to another place which I think it best not to name. A policeman boarded the bus and wanted to see everybody's identity papers. My husband said he had come on business, and gave the name of a nearby factory. The policeman hesitated a moment. Then apparently convinced, he moved on.

When we alighted from the bus it was dark. We met somebody who was to show us a secret way across the frontier. As we walked stealthily across a field in the dark we saw the rays of a flashlight. We all dropped to the ground until the light disappeared.

A short time later in a wooded area, we heard the clicking noise of somebody loading a gun. Again we dropped to the ground.

Finally our guide told us we were in Germany.

German frontier guards turned us over to some American soldiers, who sent us to Moschendorf refugee camp at Hof.

CNR Locomotive Piston Breaks

BROCKVILLE, March 15 — (CP). — A speeding 70-miles-an-hour locomotive hauling a seven-car pool train from Toronto Saturday night heeled over dangerously during a one-mile brake slide 13 miles west of here, threatening the lives of some 400 passengers.

Its baggage car ablaze, the eastbound train lurched and plunged as air brakes were applied to throttle the speed and passengers said they were flung from one side of the train to the other.

Flying metal from a shattered piston rod, which started the near crash, sheared off the flange of a main drive wheel and pierced a tank of illuminating gas under the baggage car, setting it on fire while a dangling engine rod rammed into railway ties causing the locomotive to lurch and heel over from the track.

Close Shave

Passengers acclaimed the train crew for its coolness and efficiency in averting disaster. Engineer J. Tamlin of Belleville said. It was his closest shave in 30 years of railroading. He said

One-Half U.S. Coal Miners Stage Walkout; Back Lewis Pension Demand

155,000 Soft Coal Men Idle In 8 States As Signal Is Given; No Violence, Workers Quietly Return Home

PITTSBURGH, March 15 — (AP). — Nearly one-half of the United States' 400,000 soft coal miners stopped work today to support the demand of John L. Lewis for miners' pensions. An early tabulation showed more than 155,000 miners were idle in eight states as follows: West Virginia, 60,000; Kentucky, more than 40,000; Pennsylvania, 27,800; Illinois, 13,000; Ohio, 6,500; Alabama, 6,000; Indiana, 2,000; Tennessee, 300.

The United States Steel Corp. reported nine of its 14 western Pennsylvania pits were closed, with 7,000 miners idle. The corporation expected its coal output would drop today to about 20,000 tons, or one third of capacity.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. reported all its Pennsylvania and West Virginia mines were closed, and 4,600 miners idle.

Others Affected

Republic was another steel corporation affected, with three Pennsylvania mines down. The output of steel company-own pits is used in making fuel for steel mills.

Commercial mines, too, whose production is sold on the open markets, began to shut. The giant Pittsburgh Coal Company reported at least nine of its mines closed. Owners of some independent mines expected the movement to spread.

Miners said the walkouts backed up demand of Lewis, President of the U.M.W., for $100 monthly pensions for miners.

Two hundred and ten miners reported this morning to a frick pit at nearby Bridgeville but returned home. The firm's mine at Muse, Pa., a few miles distant, did not open. The Bridgeville pit produces about 1,800 tons daily; the Muse operation about 5,000 tons.

The Bridgeville diggers milled around the mine lamp house but made no attempt to obtain their working lights.

Then as one of the miners "threw away his water" — the traditional signal of a work stoppage in which the miner pours his day's supply of drinking water on the ground — the men walked away toward their homes.

Lewis sent word to union locals Friday that operators had "dishonored" the 1947 wage agreement by not agreeing to pay pensions out of the union's welfare fund. He asked the locals to meet and inform him of their reaction to his stand.

British MP's Puff As Strike Halts Elevators

LONDON, March 15 — (CP).— Portly members of Parliament and elderly peers today puffed up the wide stone stairways of the Houses of Commons and Lords because all but two elevators in both buildings had been rendered idle by a strike of 1,200 engineering attendants in government buildings.

The strike additionally affected elevators, hot water and heating systems in all Whitehall offices. Mild weather, however, dispelled discomfort in the ministries.

The strike was organized by a central committee including members of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, the Transport and General Workers Union and the Enginemen's Firemen's Union. But none of the unions has given official support to the strike so far.

Besides the Peers and the MP's, high-ranking officers of the Admiralty and war office as well as officials of all ministries had not only to trudge up flights of stairs but wash in cold water.

The strikers claimed that heat and hot water were cut off at Buckingham Palace but this was denied by Palace employees who also said the elevators in the Palace could not be affected because they are automatic.

At headquarters of the central strike committee, however, it was stated that 14 stokers had failed to report for duty today at the Palace.

Plan To Bring Spain Into ERA

LONDON, March 15 — (AP). — The foreign office said a move to bring Spain into the Marshall plan will be made in the Paris conference opening today.

Spain was not invited to the conference last summer in which 16 countries began working out a common plan for European recovery with United States aid.

A foreign office spokesman told a press conference that Britain has "been advised" that a proposal to make Spain a Marshall-plan country will be presented in Paris. He specifically identified Portugal as one of the countries sponsoring Spanish membership.

The spokesman would not disclose Britain's position.

Labor Battles Threat of Red Rule or Ruin

Big Unions Face Complete Domination By Reds or Hopeless Ruin

(Editor's Note—This is the fifth in a series of articles revealing fully for the first time, the extent to which Communists have seized strategic power in Canada. The facts on which it is based were gathered by Don Cameron, staff report of the The Windsor Star, in the course of a weeks-long investigation which covered thousands of miles.)

By DON CAMERON

How serious is the Communist threat in the Canadian labor movement?

"Serious enough," said one of the country's top union executives to this reporter a few days ago, "so that after the next national conventions some of our biggest and potentially best unions are likely to be either totally Red or hopelessly ruined."

Mobilizing for Fateful Battles

The forces are mobilizing, said this executive, for what promises to be one of the fateful battles of trade union history. Fully aware of the extent to which the Kremlin's advance guard has captured strategic posts, anti-Communist elements realize the showdown must come now—or never.

On the other side the Communists, flushed with success and impatient for the time when they can swing the entire strength of organized labor behind the conspiracy to smash Canada's democratic institutions and rebuild them nearer the Moscow Politbureau's desire, are determined to consolidate and extent their gains—or wreck the unions that reject them.

Dominion support of the Marshall Plan, by which the United States hopes to bolster resistance to further Communist requests in Europe, marks the line of division—a line sharp as a razor, which has split unions on either side of the international border into militant right and left-wing camps.

Out of the bitter rifts caused by the Reds' clamor against any action that would hinder the spread of the proletarian revolution or the greedy trend of Soviet foreign policy have come dire predictions.

Some May Be Cast Out

Locals will secede from parent unions and reorganize under rebel leadership, some observers believe. At least two or three unions, say others, soon will be expelled from the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

However that may be, the cold, hard fact is that six big unions of the CCL and seven of the TLC, comprising collectively nearly 180,000 of the congresses' total membership of around 800,000 are under the complete domination of Communist factions.

This article will name those unions and their leaders. But first, the most controversial case of the lot needs singling out for special consideration.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers is making headlines for certain sinister activities in the gold fields of Northern Ontario and Northwestern Quebec. That is the union concerned in the "Communist invasion" from the United States of Reid Robinson, international vice-president; Maurice Travis, international secretary-treasurer, and other international staff members and oganizers.

The federal goverment has ordered the Department of Immigration to take steps to rid Canada of alien Communists, including this deep-dyed Red crew, under the laws barring "persons who believe in or advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of Canada or of constituted law and authority."

None has left yet, although at least one has reportedly been invited to leave and has announced he will appeal for an extension. He is Harlow Wildman, named in a letter sent by a United States Communist organizer to the executive secretary of the northwest district of the Communist Party in Seattle, Wash.

Carlin, Robinson, Travis, Wildman

Robert H. Carlin, Sudbury MPP, and officially a CCF man in politics, is Canadian director of the IUMM SW. In the past he has been accused of leading his section of the union along the Communist party line, but that need concern no one at the moment.

Leadership of the union in the gold fields has been taken over entirely by Robinson and his aides from across the border. They are using every trick in the Red manual of tactics to bring about a strike that would shatter the economic stability of the entire northland and bring hardship to a quarter-million people.

Besides Robinson, Travis and Wildman, the international delegation from the States included last week: Henry Horowitz, associate editor of the Union, Chicago IUM MSW publication which consistently follows the party line, and editor of Union News, which began publication last November 15 at Kirkland Lake, Ont.; Rudy W. Hanson, associated with pro-Red union activities in the States; Graham Dolan, international education director, who conducted classes among the miners on the theories of the Marxist class war, and George Knott, an international organizer.

This reporter talked with some of these men last week in Kirkland Lake and Timmins. They neither admitted nor denied that they were Communists.

Robinson Has Many Red Ties

Reid Robinson, however, suggested the other day that the use of the word "Communist" in connection with himself and his aides "verged on the libellous."

Besides the typewriter on which this article is written lies an exhaustive and authoritative report which states that Reid Robinson, native of Butte, Mont., has been a sponsor of the Communist front Civil Rights Congress; a signer of a statement on behalf of Communists Earl Browder and Harry Bridges; a signer of a statement defending the Communist Party on March 18, 1945; and a supporter of a number of Communist fronts of which the following are only a sample: American Council on Soviet Relations, Committee to Defend America by Keeping Out of War, Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee and National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

In 1945, when the IUMMSW was negotiating a new contract for the various plans of the Doehler-Jarvis Corporation, Robinson called on Charles Pack, vice-president of the company, in the latter's Chicago office. He wanted to borrow $5,000.

"My brother is a vice-president of the union," Robinson explained to Pack. "He absconded with $7,000 of union funds. I made up part of the shortage with my own money, but I need $5,000 more to cover it."

Robinson did not get the money. Investigation disclosed he had no brother who was a vice-president of the union. At the next convention of the union Robinson publicly admitted having made "an error in judgment."

A CIO investigating committee appointed by Philip Murray, president, reported after checking on

Two Senators Get Unexpected River Dip

VASSALBORO, Me., March 15 —(AP)—An airplane carrying Republican Presidential aspirant Robert A. Taft and Senator Owen Brewster (Rep.—Me.) plunged today into the Kennebec River but Brewster said neither me, Taft nor the pilot was hurt.

Brewster said John T. Clark, pilot, "did a great job" setting the craft down when it developed engine trouble en route from Augusta to Bangor.

Taft, Brewster and Clark made their way with some difficulty, Brewster said, to the snowy river bank and telephoned to the statehouse where Governor Horace Hildreth dispatched his official automobile to help Taft keep Bangor speaking appointments.

Taxi Driver Shot In Cab

Pembroke Forms Search Parties For Killer

PEMBROKE, March 15.—(CP).—The slaying of James Edwards, popular 35-year-old taxi driver, stirred this Ottawa Valley town today. He was found last night in his taxi on a lonely stretch of road 16 miles away, a bullet wound in his right temple.

Edwards, the father of two young children, was found by a fellow taxi driver, William Perkins, 29, also of Pembroke. His cab stood motionless in the darkness, its headlights glaring

Believing there might be mechanical trouble, Perkins approached the vehicle. He found Edwards in the front seat of the car "in a pool of blood." Perkins telephoned police.

Two provincial police constables who guarded the vehicle pending the arrival of Inspector T. W. Cousins from Perth, would not say whether murder had been committed. They said no weapon had been found.

The news of Edwards' death swept through the town and search parties were being formed early this morning.

Edwards' employer, Len Murphy, said he would give $500 as a reward for the "apprehension of the killer."

Have Doubts of Russ Pact

Finns Want No More International Conflicts

HELSINKI, March 15—(AP)—Finland has informed Russia there are some "doubts" about a military agreement between the two countries. The Finns expressed hope of staying out of international conflicts.

President Juho Paasikivi advised Prime Minister Stalin that Finland expects the Russian-proposed treaty of co-operation to be freely considered in the negotiations which open in Moscow next Monday.

These statements were made in Paasikivi's reply to Stalin's invitation to negotiations. It was published today by the Foreign Office, a day after the Moscow press had printed excerpts from it.

Paasikivi's letter emphasized that conclusion of a Finnish-Russian treaty requires the Finnish parliament's approval.

A government committee met today with a parliamentary committee to inform it of the progress made so far in working out directives to guide Finland's seven-man delegation in Moscow.

European Aid Bill Passes Senate By 69-17; Try To Beat Italy Voting

Hope To Get House Approval By March 28 For 5 Billion Outlay In First Year, To 16 Countries On List

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (AP). — Safely through the Senate, the $5,300,000,000 European aid program today moved toward quick challenges in the House of Representatives. The pressure for speed is on—to bolster Western Europe with billions against Communism and collapse. The House Foreign Affairs Committee is in good shape to put on speed. While the Senate has been arguing and voting, the committee has been digging deeply into the whole foreign aid problem.

Now it is all set for a series of showdown tests. It assembled today for its first official look at the Marshall Plan bill which the Senate passed by a 69-to-17 vote early yesterday morning.

Influential members see a possibility the Foreign Affairs committee may approve a bill by Wednesday and drive to the House passage by Easter, March 28.

The Truman administration wants to start the European program April 1, for the 16 countries which have agreed to help themselves and each other. What the Senate voted was authority to spend $5,300,000,000 the first year. The money has to be supplied later in a separate appropriation bill.

Immediate Action

However, the Senate measure would let the Reconstruction Finance Corporation put up $1,000,000,000 to get the Marshall plan into immediate operation.

The Administration particularly wants to have the program going by the time the Italian election campaign gets well under way. The Communists are determined to make a show of strength in the voting there April 18.

There is general agreement in the House that the foreign aid bill can be passed with time to spare before the deadline in Italy. Yet there are possibilities for delay.

Attempts probably will be made to cut the amount of aid and to set up a different system than the Senate proposes for managing it.

In addition to the European recovery program, the Administration has asked for $275,000,000 in additional military assistance for Greece and Turkey.

Marshall also has asked for $570,000,000 in economic — not military—help for China.

Find Whitby Man Dead In Trailer

OSHAWA, March 15.—Body of Frederick B. Janes, 58, asphyxiated by fumes from a coke stove, was found yesterday in the cabin trailer where he lived alone on Glover Rd. in East Whitby township.

Janes was found by a neighbor, Clark Christie, who was attracted by the dead man's cocker spaniel. The dog, given to Janes by Christie a few months ago, had appeared at Christie's home on Saturday and again yesterday. The man was believed to have died on Friday.

Provincial Constable Ray Jodgson said he believed Janes had stoked the stove and left the bottom draft open, neglecting to open the pipe draft. The radio was still playing and Janes had apparently tried to reach the door before he was overcome.

Janes had been living in the trailer since last July. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Allan MacKay, and two sisters, Mrs. W. Sharp and Mrs. H. Lyons, all of Oshawa.

Industrials Down On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 15.—(CP).—Pressure of Louvicourt and East Sullivan was resumed in early afternoon trading on the Toronto stock exchange today with the former down to a low of 59, off 18 cents, while East Sullivan was down 16 at $1.94, after touching $2.20 in the morning trading. Other mining stocks turned easy while industrials mixed.

The exchange's noon index showed industrials down .09 at 154.15, golds, 56 at 97.56, base metals .28 at 80.79, western oils up .20 at 31.29. Volume for the first three hours was 666,000 shares, about 226,000 less than Friday's similar period.

After opening on firmer trends golds and base metals began to slip once again shortly before noon. Heavier losers were Berens, Buffadison, Central Patricia, Chesterville, Delnite, East Malartic, East Sullivan, God's Lake, Nickel, Kirkland Lake, Lake Shore, Laka Wasa, Louvicourt, Macassa, Macdonald, MacLeod, Malartic, Negus, Noranda, O'Brien, Osisko, Wright-Hargreaves, Upper Canada, Teck-Hughes, Sullivan, Steep Rock, Sherritt and Pamour.

Industrials were undecided on mixed gains and losses within fairly narrow range.

WOULD you willingly place too heavy a burden on your wife's shoulders? Care of the family and management of the home are tasks that are naturally hers as a partner. Yet if she were suddenly left without you, burdens that are heavy when shared by both would be hers alone. How could she face them without an income?

There is a way to make sure that she would not have the added, crushing responsibility of earning money to provide the family with food, clothing and shelter. It is to put as much of your income as you can into Life Insurance and to increase the amount as your circumstances permit.

Life Insurance can be arranged to provide a non-cancellable monthly income that will never be uncertain — that fluctuating values or market upheavals can never reduce. Thus your heaviest burden will not fall on shoulders ill-fitted to carry the load.

May Not Recover 30 Bodies In Plane Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 15 —(AP)—Bodies of 30 persons in the wreckage of an airliner which crashed into the face of a rock cliff and then tumbled 2,500 feet down the steep slopes of Mount Sanford may never be recovered.

Authorities said today rescue parties would be up against great odds in trying to reach the scene on the glacier-spotted 16,208-foot mountain.

The chartered Northwest Airlines plane, which vanished Friday night on a flight from Shanghai to St. Paul was sighted yesterday at the 8,500-foot level on the glacier-laden mountain 190 miles northeast of here.

The plane's next scheduled stop was at Edmonton.

The plane carried a crew of six and 24 seamen flying from Shanghai to New York. They were members of the crew of the tanker Sunset, of the Overseas Tankship Corp.

Jim Gale, civilian expert with the United States Air Force, said: "It isn't impossible to get to the wreckage, but there is little hope of reaching it."

"I'm afraid that if a group went in they might start slides, bringing downs tons of ice on them."

House when during Attlee's statement, William Gallagher, one of the two Communist members in the Commons, began to sing "The Red Flag."

Strain On Loyalty

Attlee said experience in Britain and elsewhere had shown that "membership of, and other forms of continuing association with, the Communist party may involve the acceptance by the individual of a loyalty which in certain circumstances can be inimical to the state."

He emphasized that while it was not suggested that all Communists would forget their loyalty to the state "there is no way of distinguishing such people from those who, if the opportunity offered, would be prepared to endanger the security of the state in the interests of another power."

Attlee said he wanted to emphasize that the government's action was being taken solely on "security grounds."

"The state is not concerned with the political views, as such, of its servants."

Replying to questions, he said he could give no estimate of the number of people likely to be affected by the new order.

Footprints Clue To Missing Trio

MIAMI, Fla., March 15 — (AP). — Three footprints found on a tiny island at the mouth of the Lost Man's River, about 20 miles southeast of Everglades City, today gave renewed hope in the search for Calgary-born jockey Al Snider and two fishing companions missing since March 5.

Sheriff L. J. Thorp said the tracks were discovered on the beach of the island by one of the searching pilots who landed his plane there.

He said bloodhounds are being sought in hope that the tracks may be those of the jockey or his two friends, Donald Fraser, Toronto business man, and C. H. Trotter of Miami.

Thorp said the pilot, who was not identified, reported the footprints were small, and could have been made by Snider.

Meanwhile, more than 40 aircraft and nearly 30 small boats continued to comb a 1,200-square mile areas among the thousands of desolate, mangrove covered islands south of Everglades City.

Meyers will be eligible to apply for a parole after serving one-third of the maximum five-year sentence. This would be 20 months, the equivalent of the minimum sentence.

to reach an agreement at this late hour and it was expected that each of the Big Powers would give the Council its own views of what should be done.

American hopes that a peaceful settlement through Jewish-Arab conciliation might yet be reached were bolstered to some extent by a dispatch from Baghdad, reporting an extraordinary meeting of the Arab Foreign Ministers to-morrow at Beyrouth. The Arab leaders were said to be trying to work out a new plan to replace the partition scheme.

Meanwhile, the Security Council prepared for a bitter fight on Wednesday on the Czechoslovak question.

Maj. J. F. McLennan, of Ottawa, said:

"We were just leaning back in our seats idly watching the scenery as the train neared Brockville, when suddenly the coach gave a lunge and there was a hissing of air brakes. I was thrown to the opposite seat . . . the train continued to slide along the tracks in a series of sickening lurches. It came to a halt and almost immediately trainmen dashed into the coach, smashed emergency cabinets and grabbed at fire extinguishers. They soon had the fire out."

A. R. Wilson, C.N.R. divisional superintendent at Belleville, said he believed a mechanical failure in the engine was partly responsible for the accident and the sudden thaw following prolonged cold probably played its part.

(In Montreal a CNR spokesman said that at no time was the train in danger of leaving the rails and the lives of passengers were not endangered. He said the fire in the baggage car started after the train had stopped when the lantern of a trainman examining the damage ignited escaping gas.)

Should Know More Of Missions, WA Told

BAILIEBORO, March 15 (ENS) —Women's Association of the United Church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. A. Watt. The president, Mrs. H. C. Howson, was chairman. It was decided to have the flags in the church cleaned.

Several items of refurnishing were discussed, and Clara Seens, Mrs. Roy Eagleson, Mrs. W. C. Jewison and Mrs. Chas. Dawson were named purchasing committee.

It was reported one quilt had been quilted and several baskets of fruit and flowers sent to the sick.

The program was missionary and presented by Mrs. Josie Barnard, who spoke of the need to know more of the work of missionaries.

Rev. B. Heywood also spoke on missions. Scripture was read by Mrs. Robert Kelly, followed by prayer by Mrs. Charles Dawson.

Find Baby's Body

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—The body of a 4-day-old girl was found Sunday in a brown paper parcel behind a downtown sign board, police said today. Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said a post mortem examination indicated death was caused by strangulation.

Red Flag Flies Over Queen's Park

Toronto, March 15 (CP)

A RED flag, bearing the hammer and sickle insignia of the Soviet Union, flew over the Ontario Parliament Buildings early today. Apparently hoisted during the night by pranksters who cut the rope to prevent it being lowered, it was discovered by workmen who arrived to hoist the customary Union Jack.

Attempts to shinny up the 135-foot flag pole were unsuccessful.

Safety Tally Broken

WINNIPEG, March 15—(CP).—Winnipeg's run of days free of traffic fatalities ended Saturday when four-year-old Barry Gundrum was killed instantly by a delivery truck in residential Elmwood. The safety tally stopped at 118 days. The mark fell far short of the city's 228 death-free days set in 1938-39, when Winnipeg established a North American record for traffic safety.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 15 — (AP). — Only minor price changes were recorded in grains at the opening on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat started 1¼ cents lower to one cent higher, May $2.40-2.38¾; corn was unchanged to ¾ higher, May $2.18½-¾, and oats were ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, May $1.12⅜-½.

Fiercest Battle In Palestine On Third Day

JERUSALEM, March 15 (AP) —The fiecest battle yet waged in the sands of southern Palestine was reported in its third day today with Jewish and Arab fatalities already 36.

Mired by mud and slowed by driving rains, Jewish forces were said by a Hagana informant to have driven a wedge to the aid of the beleaguered settlement of Gath.

The death toll in the battle so far, a Hagana version quoted by the Palestine Post said, is 28 Arabs and eight Jews.

Hagana sources said forces rushing to lift the Arab siege of Gath had blasted the municipal building, post office and eight stores and houses in the Arab village of El Faluja. This is about 20 miles northeast of Gaza in the Negeb—southern desert.

The Palestine government estimated damage from the El Faluja bombings at $120,000.

Blew Up Bridge

Police said Jews blew up a bridge yesterday on a road linking Haifa, Jenin and Tiberias, stopping traffic among the cities. They placed the blast only a few miles from Kaukji's headquarters, for which he has proclaimed martial law in effect over all northern Palestine.

A correspondent with the Arab volunteer army reported its new military courts began a purge yesterday of Arabs charged with dealing with the Jews. He said 100 Arabs are on a list to be hunted down, tried and, if convicted, hanged.

A Jewish agency spokesman, reporting on Hagana efforts to keep Jewish manpower in Palestine for defence, said Hagana guards watch travel agencies for Jews 17 to 45 trying to book space on airplanes leaving the Holy Land. If they can not persuade the prospective travellers to stay in Palestine, he said, they use "stronger measures."

4 Houses Burn Every 5 Minutes

Did you know that every time the clock ticks off a minute and a quarter, someone's home catches fire? It's true, and figures reveal that the third biggest cause of these residential fires is sparks falling on inflammable roofs.

But roofing which can't burn, can't start a fire. That's why so many wise homeowners are choosing Johns-Manville Durabestos Shingles. For in over 35 years not one of these asbestos-cement shingles has ever burned—not one has ever worn out. They're as permanent as stone, yet distinctively styled with all the charm and grained appearance of fine weathered wood.

Mark St. Church Marks 20th Anniversary

Special services marked the 20th anniversary of Mark Street United Church on Sunday. Rev. Col. S. E. Lambert, padre Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, was guest preacher at the morning service. Rev. Wesley Hunnisett, B.A., Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, spoke at the evening service.

In his sermon on "Faith" Mr. Hunnisett said, "I believe without equivocation that our most important relationship is our relationship with God." He drew on his 30 years of experience ministering to many of the homeless wanderers at the Fred Victor Mission in downtown Toronto to illustrate this belief.

Referring specifically to the Mark Street church he said, "Without belief in God this church wouldn't be here."

"We in church are here because we believe in something," he said, and he cited the first few words of the Apostles' Creed, "I believe in God the Father Almighty . . ." as proof of the Christian's devotion.

"The church is big business but not as big as it should be considering the Saviour's words: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every living creature.' "

"This world is in the rotten state it is tonight because it is not following the teachings of Jesus," he said.

Two possible texts for the sermon he said were the first few words of the Bible, "In the beginning God . . ." and from Revelations, "I am alpha and omega, the beginning and the end, saith the Lord."

Addressing the young people in the congregation in particular he asked them to follow Jesus Christ and his teachings. He assured them this would not be an easy task, but would require all their skill.

He asked why people believe in God. And he said he believed in God primarily because he was brought up in a Christian home. "Ninety per cent of the cases I have touched have had drink mixed up in them somewhere," he said referring again to the Toronto mission.

The other major reason for his believing in God, he maintained, was personal experience.

Results of such a belief should be further beliefs in goodness, worship, and future rewards and punishment. "If I believe in God I'm going to believe in Jesus Christ. And he quoted the scriptural passage, "Ye believe in God believe also in me."

On the subject of the Church, he said too many people attend it "who would make the church a social club." He asserted that badminton clubs were no substitute for religion.

"I believe the church is the greatest institution in the world," he said.

Solos were sung by Mr. William Perry, and Mrs. McLaren with Mrs. O. Searles, A.T.C.M. accompanying at the organ.

Utilities Report Revenue Up

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15.—(ENS).—In two months this year, $990.49 more revenue was received by the Public Utilities Commission, than for the corresponding period last year, P. C. Denyes, manager, reported at a meeting of the board Saturday night.

"It is an indication of growth of the town," said Commissioner Wiggins, "and when the housing project (35 houses) is ready for service there will be another substantial increase in business."

In his report, Mr. Denyes showed the sources of the increases: domestic lights up $462.14; commercial lights up $230.66; water rates up $46.54; miscellaneous (electric) $142.46; miscellaneous (water works) $48.68.

A section of the water main recently laid and covered along Market St. may have to be dug up again. When the trench was dug a raised ledge should have been left beside the trench, where the sewer pipe was to lay. This was not done in this section, but before the water main was laid the ledge was built up with frozen earth. Mr. Denyes said that when the earth thawed the water line would sag and possibly cause trouble. Mayor Donald said it would be better to fix it properly as soon as the earth thawed.

Along this section of Market St. the earth is very springy—almost like quicksand—said Mr. Denyes, and for that reason the ledge left by the construction workers caved into the sewer trench beside it.

A bylaw fixed the salaries of the commissioners at $5 for each regular and special meeting; $100 a year for the chairman, and $5 for the mayor for each meeting he acts as chairman in the absence of the regular chairman, J. O. Benor. On the board by virtue of his office, the mayor receives no remuneration for his services unless he occupies the chair.

Dangerous Driving Charge Dismissed

COBOURG, March 15—(ENS). —Carmen Jones, Oakville, pleaded not guilty to a charge of dangerous driving in police court here, the charge being dismissed after Crown evidence had failed to establish which vehicle had been in the wrong. Jones was the driver of a transport which met in collision with one driven by John Watson of Oshawa on March 4, a few miles west of Cobourg.

Foster Home Week

A column conducted by the Peterborough Children's Aid Society in the interests of "Foster Home Week" which is being observed this week.

What is a home without a child —imagine a child without a home.

Anna was just that — a child without a home. Her parents had failed her—in fact they had failed themselves. When Anna was born they had wanted her and had such fine plans. But somehow outside interests crept in and there was less and less concern for Anna, until, finally, for her own welfare it was necessary for the Children's Aid Society to remove her from her own home. Of course she would go to the Shelter for a while but the Society knows that the birthright of every child is a private home and when the child is deprived of her own home then a foster home must be found. But here appeared an insurmountable barrier. The Smiths had applied to the Society but they had wanted a boy as a playmate for their son. Mrs. Allen wanted a baby to board but where was Anna to go?

At 13 years of age there was little, if any, hope of placing her in an adoption home, for people who adopt children generally want a child under school age. Moreover, Anna was old enough to remember all about her own home and it was not likely she would ever become completely a member of some other home as is required in adoption.

She had to go to school so the Society could not place her in one of their wage homes where she might work and receive wages, so there were only two kinds of foster homes to be considered — a free home where Anna could do light tasks around the home and in return for this the foster parents would provide her with food, clothing etc., or in a boarding home where the Society would pay board and provide clothing and medical care.

But a home suitable for Anna was not available. The Society is constantly meeting this problem that is why it is bringing to your attention this week the year round need for foster homes.

Trained Seal Steals Show From Star Sportsmen

By JACK GRAY

TORONTO, March 15—(CP).—It's best to leave your inferiority complexes at home when you travel to the first Canadian National Sportsmen's Show—the extravaganza of the outdoors which got off to a sparkling start indoors at the Coliseum here Saturday. You'll see a horse that does a dance step and sits down in a chair, a seal that takes a shower, balances various objects, including a life raft, on its nose while swimming, and three zanies in weird bathing suits who demonstrate how not to dive from a high board.

But don't, as this reporter did, let the amazing skill of the experts make you brood over your bobbles of the preceding summer. For instance, watching the diving clowns gave me a pretty fair idea of how I looked when I tried that back flip last summer. I only hope their landings were not as hard.

Then take the exhibition of bait casting, put on in the 60,000-gallon tank fringed with evergreens, they've set up in the Coliseum's show ring.

It's Discouraging

Watching the experts nonchalantly flicking a cigarette out of a man's mouth as he perched on the side of the tank some 40 feet away and afterwards flop the bait in the middle of a floating foot-wide target, made me despondent. I remembered that six-foot patch of open water I overshot on the Otonabee River last August and the climb up the tree it took to retrieve the bait.

Besides the vaudeville acts the show includes exhibits and demonstrations of all types of sports equipment, an Indian village, a huge exhibits of wildlife and an Eskimo family, complete with an igloo.

Sharkey, the trained seal, would steal an act from Barrymore—especially when he joins the crowd's applause of himself by clapping his flippers.

Town Can Do It Cobourg Mayor Says Of Centre

COBOURG, March 15 (ENS).—Raising sufficient funds to erect the recreational centre will be a difficult task but with wholehearted support the project should go through, declared Mayor Joe Smith at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club. Last year money was more plentiful, he said, but this year, with a deluge of requests for money for various projects, it was going to be harder to collect funds.

Service clubs could help by making a grant to the recreational centre, payable Sept. 15. The labor unions had promised to contribute on a pledge system covering 26 weeks. Lodges, the Fish and Game Association and other organizations had indicated that they would donate funds. The canvassers would also be covering the business section. Mayor Smith referred to the growth of the ski club from just an idea to a thriving organization, built on the faith of those who brought the ski club into being.

The recreation centre, when built, will be the property of the town of Cobourg and the people should realize, he said, that they were building something for themselves. The "sour notes" were heard from; those who bemoaned the boost in the tax rate, the sewer extension costs and other municipal costs, but properly handled there was no reason why the community centre should not be a money-making proposition. to put this recreation centre over

"The committee is trying hard and if the whole town pitches in, there is every reason to believe that we will have one," Mayor Smith concluded.

The thanks of the Club were conveyed by Eldon McFadyen.

Charge Boy, 15 Killed A Deer

COBOURG, March 15.—(ENS). —A 15-year-old boy has been charged with shooting deer out of season by game overseer Vic Harris. He was picked up by police investigating the report that a deer had been shot a few miles east of the town. It was also reported that the carcass of a deer was floating in the harbor but police were unable to locate it.

It is thought that the deer which the juvenile shot, was the one which dogs had chased into a swamp east of here. The boy said that he buried the deer in the snow and police found traces of blood but no animal. The same constables, Don Nicol of the provincial police, and H. Pearse of Cobourg police, also picked up a youth with a loaded rifle and he will be charged with hunting without a license.

Blazing Car Threatens Truck And Garage

OSHAWA, March 15 (CP). — Four men using fire extinguishers were credited here with preventing a serious fire after a blazing auto threatened a gasoline fuel truck and a service station. The four men, employees of a King Street service station, battled the flames single-handed when the local Fire Department was delayed from answering the call. A shunting freight train crossing the main street forced the fire trucks to reroute.

The car, owned by Cecil Burton, RR 2, Oshawa, ignited from a short circuit, and threatened the fuel truck which was about to commence unloading gas into the station's tanks. The car was a total loss.

Half Of Red Cross C'ford Mark Reached

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15—(ENS).—About $450, half the quota of the Campbellford and district Red Cross campaign, was raised last week. Carl Maier, chairman of the campaign, said that except for $75, most of the money had been raised in the business section of town.

Ed Johnson, manager of the shoe factory, promised Mr. Maier the company would match the total collected from the 40 employees of the factory.

Canvassing of the four wards, the factories and outlying district was not yet under way, said Mr. Maier, but would be handled during the coming week.

6 Major Montreal Fires Take 5 Lives At Weekend

MONTREAL, March 15—(CP). — Fire and police officials began a probe today of the worst series of fires in Montreal in several years. Within 30 hours, six major glazes took the lives of two firemen and three children, caused damage estimated at more than $800,000 and left a dozen families homeless. All but one of the fires were within Montreal proper. Acting Director Anselme Fillion said that "it was the worst week-end in my 30 years of fire-fighting." The sixth fire occurred in Coteau Rouge, across the St. Lawrence from Montreal.

The fires with estimated loss were:

Victoria Tire Shop, two firemen dead, four injured, $100,000.

Jacques Cartier Normal School, $500,000.

Latreille Garage, a plastic factory and five homes, seven persons injured, $200,000.

A three-storey house on Colonial avenue, $25,000.

Five sheds on east-end Orleans street, $25,000.

Dead were: Fire Lieut. Ernest Cyr and Fireman Alphonse Hamelin, who were caught under a crumbling wall at the tire shop fire; and the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Collard—Huguette, 5, Pierre, 3, and Cyrille, 1—who were trapped in their small frame Coteau Rouge cottage.

About 10 persons, including four firemen, received minor injuries.

The week-end fires brought the death toll to 14 and damages to $2,500,000 in 16 major fires and explosions in the Montreal area since Jan. 1. The injured list for the same period was 43.

School Destroyed

Most spectacular blaze gutted the 50-year-old, four-storey Jacques Cartier school. Police estimated that 40,000 persons watched flames roar through all but one wings. Fifty boarding students escaped. The fire apparently was caused by a short-circuit.

Lieut. Cyr and Fireman Hamelin were among the first group of firemen to reach the Victoria tire shop, on downtown St. James street, Saturday night. They were entering the building when a terrific explosion sent the front wall tumbling into the street.

The two firemen were dug out from under heaps of smoldering debris.

An oil stove explosion set the Rene Collard home ablaze. Mrs. Collard had gone to get milk at the store. The flames raced through the dwelling and trapped the three Collard youngsters whose cries of "Mama! Mama! Come and get me!" could be heard by helpless neighbors above the roar of the flames.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15.—(ENS).—The mill rate was set at 56 for 1948 on bylaw passed Friday night.

The separte levies are: county rate, 8.3; public library, 1.3; high school debenture, 5.4; high school trustee, nil; public school trustee, or separte school trustee, 9.5; relief, hospitalization, sanatoria, 1.3; town rate, 31.1; a total of 57, which is reduced to 56 by the one mill provincial subsidy.

The garbage tender was let to Charles McCoy for $1,800 for a year beginning April 1. Other tenders received were from Percy Cole, Toronto, $3,000; Leslie Petherick, $2,000; John Law, $1,800; Wilbert Reid, $1.900; Charles Ruttan, $1,800; Clarence Daynard $2,500.

Constable C. M. White addressed the council and asked for his immediate release from the police force as he had accepted a position with the HEPC.

His release was granted and to compensate him for two weeks holidays his salary was paid in full for the month of March. A previous ruling had been made in council that Constable White's services would end on April 30.

Fine Programs And Criticism On The C.B.C.

The C.B.C. now provides its listeners with many good and a few first rate programs; it is possible to tune in any evening with some certainty that one of the Canadian networks will be broadcasting a program which is well planned, distinctive and intelligently presented. The Wednesday evening programs are developing a good following, and "Stage 48", while not a national theatre for Canada as its originator once claimed, has done more to develop good radio writing than any other program in Canada. But broadcasting of this sort deserves and needs criticism of comparable standard; unrelenting self-criticism is not enough. There must be objective and detached criticism. The C.B.C. has taken a great stride forward by providing a period on Friday evenings when a critic is permitted to say what he thinks about the better programs which have been presented during the week. On Friday last, on the program "Speaking As A Listener" we heard the kind of criticism which broadcasting needs, and which we have been hoping to hear for years. The C.B.C. deserves credit for making such criticism of itself possible, and we think that this adult behaviour in the field of radio will have excellent results in the arts as they exist in Canada. When the creators in a nation are ready to give and take criticism with the gloves off, the results are invariably good.

* * *

While saying a good word for the C.B.C. we call attention to the fact that on March 24 the entire Passion of Our Lord According To St. Matthew will be broadcast. For more than twenty years this masterwork of J. S. Bach has been performed in Toronto during Holy Week; this year all Canada can share in this artistic experience. During the latter part of the last century annual performances of the Passion were not uncommon in Germany, but we know of no city in the western world except Toronto which carries on this fine tradition. The broadcast on the Wednesday of Holy Week will be the first time that the Passion has been given in its entirety on the radio on this continent. We have commended the Toronto performance of the Passion many times in these columns, and we repeat once again our assertion that, if it were done in the U.S.A. it would be held in much higher esteem than it is in Canada. This year the whole country will have a chance to hear a great performance of a great work, and to know what Canada can do in the realm of musical performance.

William Randolph Hearst Is Still Trying

Back when William Randolph Hearst was actively directing The New York American, he is said to have had a secret ambition to become President of the United States. He took tentative steps in that direction by running for Congress, but he was rejected so decisively by the voters that he apparently decided the role of President-maker was more attractive. If that was indeed his decision, he was to find that the voters rejected his candidates as they did Hearst himself. Past failures, however, did not deter the Lord of San Simeon from making another try last week, when his chain of papers throughout the United States came out with three-column front-page editorials proclaiming "The Man of the Hour", General Douglas MacArthur.

Hearst's entry into the campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination adds to the uncertainty of an already confused situation. His nominee, General MacArthur, had announced a day or two earlier that he could be considered as a candidate, bringing the number of avowed aspirants for the nomination to five. The other four are Senator Taft of Ohio, Governor Dewey of New York, Harold Stassen of Minnesota, and Governor Earl Warren of Pennsylvania. Leading "dark horse" in the campaign, until the entry of General McArthur changed the picture, was Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who may still prove to be his party's most acceptable compromise candidate.

The first Republican primary of the year—New Hampshire's—resulted in a large turn-out and a win for Governor Dewey, who captured four of the state's six delegates, the other two going to Mr. Stassen. This primary, however, was unaffected by the entry of General MacArthur into the campaign; it will be different in two other primaries to be held next month—those in Nebraska and Wisconsin. In these states, groups of MacArthur supporters have boasted they needed only his statement that he would accept the nomination in order to win the primaries for him. But those boasts were made before they knew General MacArthur would be supported by William Randolph Hearst—support which might be likened to that given to Sindbad by the Old Man of the Sea.

Before the Hearst endorsement, General MacArthur was regarded as a candidate who might prove strong enough to win the nomination of the Republican convention. Whether he is strong enough to overcome the handicap which has proved so much for a long string of Hearst nominees in the past remains to be seen.

Newfoundland Votes On Confederation

The British Government has fairly decided that confederation with Canada shall be included as one of the three choices to be placed before the Newfoundland electors in the national referendum to be held soon. The other two choices are retention of the present form of government by commission and a return to responsible self-government.

Whether or not Newfoundland will confederate with Canada is a matter for Newfoundlanders alone to decide. Most Canadians would welcome the inclusion of Newfoundland in the Dominion, but officially or popularly there should be and will be no Canadian campaign to influence the decision of the Newfoundlanders. The advantages to Canada of having Newfoundland as the most eastern Province would be chiefly the easing of trade channels and the facilitating of the defence problems of this country. Newfoundland would benefit economically, diplomatically and would automatically have greater military security along policy lines which she herself could help to formulate. The joint development of the resources of Newfoundland and Labrador would benefit both Newfoundlanders and Canadians. Incidentally, there is little possibility of the "Newfies" losing their identity. They would still be Newfoundlanders to Upper Canadians even as Maritimers maintain their nominal distinction from what they call "people up in Canada".

Fifty Years Of Motor Cars

The Veteran Motor Car Club of America has opened an exhibition in New York to commemorate the fiftieth year of the gasoline age. Although Henry Ford's first car was built in 1896, people did not begin to step on the gas in horseless carriages until two years later and it was not until the beginning of the century that Canadians began to use anything so modern and dangerous.

The motor car was not the product of a single inventor nor even of men within a single century in a single country. The self-propelled vehicle dates back to the middle of the eighteenth century, and names of pioneers include Panhard, Daimler, Benz, and Royce in Europe and Ford, Olds, Maxwell and Franklin in the United States. Until 1912 the automotive industry was concerned mainly with developing a vehicle that would operate. Then the automobile began to roll freely and to change in design from a buggy without a horse to limousines and Ford was mass-producing for the people below the carriage trade.

Gone are the days of adventurous rides at fifteen miles an hour when occupants of the cars wore goggles and dusters and sat proud and high on shiny leather seats, when the car had no battery, the tail light was lit by a match and the headlights grew bright on uphill roads and dim on the coast down. Some Model T's still come out of the woods hereabouts and they are not yet oddities on our streets. To see them must give our elder citizens twinges of nostalgia for the quieter days when the air was unpolluted by gasoline fumes and one could cross the street without the permission of a green light.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The countries of Europe now seeking Marshall Plan aid seem to have the alternative fates of being please states or police states.

"Of Cabbages and Kings"

By PETER ELIOT

FOR three years my wife and I (writes the the late Lord Tweedsmuir—John Buchan—in that beautiful life story Memory-Hold-The-Door) spent most of our leisure in getting acquainted with my possible constituents (he was contesting a Scottish seat). We visited twice every hamlet, farm and cottage in the two shires. That involved lengthy journeys in wintry weather, but it meant also halycon summer days in the long glens of Tweed and Ettrick and Yarrow. It was not canvassing, for I rarely mentioned politics. Since I spoke their own tongue and knew most men by their Christian names, those visits gave me a chance of entering into the pastoral life of the uplands, as Sir Walter Scott entered into it in his quest for ballads. I learned many things that do not come usually within the orbit of a politician. I cannot tell how my friends regarded me in that capacity but I think that they came to consider me as one of themselves with whom they need not stand on ceremony. Once at a lamb fair a shepherd paid me what I believe was a sincere, though left-handed compliment. "We've gotten the richt sort of candidate in you this time," he said. "Your predecessor was an awfu' nice man, but he was far ower much of a gentleman and far ower honest!"

"HECKLING in the Borders is carried, I think, to a higher pitch of art than anywhere else in Britain. It is pursued for the pure love of the game, and I have known a candidate heckled to a standstill by his own supporters. Mr. Lloyd George's Insurance Act had just been introduced, and at a meeting at remote Ettrickhead the speaker was defending it on the ground that it was a practical application of the Sermon on the Mount. A long-legged shepherd rose to question him, and the following dialogue ensued:

"'Ye believe in the Bible, sir?'

"'With all my heart.'

"'And ye consider that this Insurance Act is in keepin' with the Bible?'

"'I do.'

"'Is it true that under the Act there's a maternity benefit, and that a woman gets the benefit whether she's married or no?'

"'That is right.'

"'D'ye approve of that?'

"'With all my heart.'

"'Well, sir, how d'ye explain this? The Bible says the wages of sin is death and the Act says thirty shillin's.'"

"I CAUGHT the disease late. It was in the War, when I was home on leave from Russia (says Hugh Walpole in his short little essay—These diversions—Reading) and attended one of those magnificent Red Cross sales with a friend; the first edition of 'The Monk' by Mr. Matthew Lewis was held up to us, and my friend said: 'Would you like to have that?' and I said 'Yes,' and began to nod to the auctioneer's bid. I nodded as far as my purse would allow me and then with a sigh retired, only to be amazed by hearing my friend say to me a moment later: 'You've got them, they're yours,' and then found that he also for my sake had been nodding, and that we two had been the only bidders in the room."

"I SAW Bishop Gore frequently (recounts Sidney Dark in his entertaining 'Not Such a Bad Life') during the last months of his life, and I had tea with him in his little house in Eaton Terrace a few days before he died. Months earlier I had many chats with him at Liddon House, when Francis Underhill, now Bishop of Bath and Wells, was the Warden. Gore had an odd habit of talking into his beard. His comments on men and things were generally gruff, and he delighted in remarks intended to shock or astonish. 'I have never been able to make up my mind,' he said one evening, 'which I dislike the most, the Church of England or the Church of Rome.' I sat next to him on the platform at the Albert Hall at an Anglo-Catholic meeting called to denounce the continuance of the slums. Gore was the chairman. Margaret Bondfield was the chief speaker, I was one of the 'also rans'. Miss Bondfield, a first rate popular speaker, amid repeated cheering, worked up with great skill to a peroration. 'And inasmuch as ye have done it....' And Gore muttered to me, 'I knew she'd say that!'"

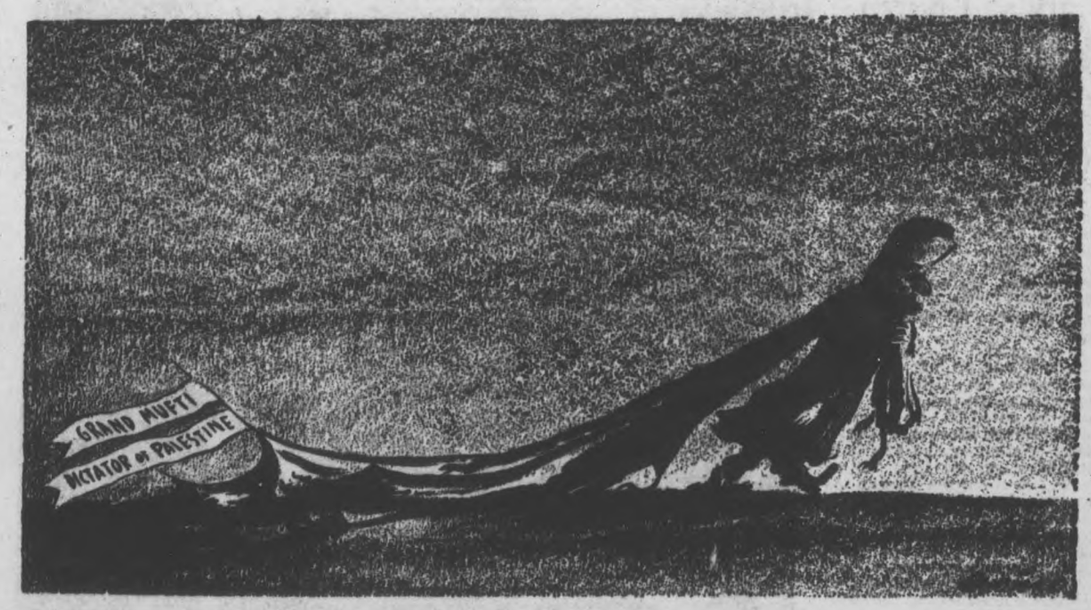
"GREEKS, Latins, Armenians, Copts and Syrians have rights in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre (there used to be a sordid camp of Abyssinian monks on the roof) and in the Basilica of the Nativity at Bethlehem, and in the old days there were always Turkish Moslem policemen inside the churches to prevent unseemly wrangles between the various Christian sects. At Easter there is nearly always trouble between the Greeks and the Italian Franciscans. 'You don't think much of religion if you live in Jerusalem,' a young officer of the English gendarmerie said to me in 1924. I said that seemed a pity, and he explained: 'Look here, Sir,' and he showed me a scar on his right hand—'that's where a Greek priest bit me last Easter.'"



Bluebirds In March

No sign of Spring's return could be more thrilling than a glimpse of the first bluebird. It is not hard, then, to think of these birds as symbols of happiness. Radiant blue and chestnut red, and with a song sweet and low, they are altogether attractive.

They have been seen in March year after year by observers of the Royal Ontario Museum and scores of bird watchers elsewhere. On rural and suburban roadways a careful scrutiny of trees, telephones poles and wires usually brings one or more of them in view.

Not only bluebirds, but horned larks, the vanguard of the robin invasion, song sparrows, purple finches, and other harbingers of Spring are not uncommon thrills encountered in March especially the latter half of the month.—Royal Ontario Museum News.

"...AND AS SILENTLY STEALS AWAY"

Letters To The Editor

WHAT IF BYRON WAS A SCOT?

Sir: I am a Scotsman myself and strong in my devotion to my homeland, but I cannot agree with the sort of Scots patriotism shown by your correspondent Mr. Gilchrist. Byron had Scottish blood, certainly, but to claim him as a Scotsman does not make him a better or worse poet. To claim, as Mr. Gilchrist does, that his Scots blood made Byron what he was is simply the sort of "racial" nonsense the Nazis talked. Byron's Scots blood came through his mother, a foolish woman whom he despised; it was she who subjected him to so much torture in trying to straighten his deformed foot. Because of this I am sure that Mr. Gilchrist would not like it to be thought that the Scots are either stupid or cruel in their treatment of children.

Our age is one of internationalism, and I cannot feel any sympathy for an attempt to snatch an English poet into the Scottish fold. As a Scot, I think our homeland will benefit if the thistle loses some of its prickles and increases the size of its flower. Thanking you,

DOMINIE.

SOCIAL RECREATION

Sir: In rural Canada, in other days, the "Debating Society" used to flourish. And a very useful institution it was, more generally useful, I fancy, than many Y.P. meetings today. Often they had no "religious" setting, were opened and closed without religious exercises and seemed none the worse. They produced strong men and useful citizens.

On the yearly syllabus frequently was the topic "City vs. Country" and the advantages and disadvantages of each were vigorously discussed with the verdict going, as a rule, to the best debaters apart from the merits or demerits, of the subject discussed. The judges gave their decision on the number of points brought out by the debaters.

Recently it has occurred to me that the city might still learn something from the country in the matter of social parties. In the city, young married couples often meet in each other's homes for a social evening. Cocktails are served, cigarettes are passed, cartons of beer are used or kept in reserve for the men. Of course they have a good time in their own way, but this sort of entertainment easily runs to excess, with scandalous scenes in the early morning, such as we have known and witnessed. Young women being carried into cars in a drunken condition to the everlasting disgrace of their sex. I am not suggesting that this happens frequently. That it does happen is a known fact.

Contrast this with the country. In spite of wintry weather and road hazards, young couples have their social evenings together, of the happiest description. Call them bridge parties, or whatever you like. They have a good time without cocktails or cigarettes or beer. They enjoy a good lunch. There are no scandalous scenes at the close. No one suffers from a hangover next day. They have their good time without offending their conscience, or their weaker brother, or risking the peace and safety of their homes. I am far from saying that the country has all the virtues and the city all the vices, but I still think the city might learn something from the country in the matter of social recreation.

Ultimus In Indis

In Kipling's song the Roman centurion shed tears when his cohort was ordered home from Britain. It is improbably that the last British troops who left India and Pakistan last week-end—the Somerset Light Infantry at Bombay, and the Black Watch at Karachi—indulged in such unsoldierly extremes, or came to Major General L. G. Whistler with the Roman's cry, "I cannot leave it all behind. Command me not to go!" It was a moment of history all the same. The British Army has been in India for nearly two centuries, and he would be a churlish fellow who dismissed with a jest the service of generations of soldiers in or with the Indian Army. (To this day the Somersets carry "Jellalabad" on their cap badge; and the Black Watch "Mysore" and "Lucknow" on their colour.) The first phase in the history of the Army of India began with the East India Company's small garrisons in the early seventeenth century which grew in the eighteenth into the forces that fought at Plassey and Gwalior. In 1796 the 13,000 Europeans and 57,000 native troops were reorganized into the armies of the Bengal, Madras, and Bombay Presidencies. On the eve of the Mutiny they totalled 40,000 British and 311,000 native troops. In 1858 the company's European forces were merged with the Crown's, and the special officer training unit at Addiscombe was closed. Now the Crown has handed over control in turn to India and Pakistan, and the transition to the third phase has been completed. "I will go where I am wanted, for I am not wanted here," cried the recruit in Housman's poem. It reflects credit on both British and Indians that Saturday's farewells were cordial. —Manchester Guardian.

UNCONSIDERED TRIFLE

The guide was conducting a visitor round the Killarney district. The visitor had been smoking continually and making jokes at the expense of the guide. The Irishman wished to "get his own back", and he remarked casually: "You are a heavy smoker, sir."

"Yes," replied the other, "I am so fond of smoking that I have made a very curious provision in my will."

"What is the provision?" asked the guide.

"The provision is that when I die a supply of cigarettes be left in my coffin."

"Well," retorted the guide, "you won't have far to go for a light."

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils. (I Tim. 5: 1.)

* * *

But thou, O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness. Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses. (I Tim. 66: 11, 12.)

* * *

But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; and that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works. (II Tim. 3: 14-17.)

* * *

Preserve me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust. (Ps. 16: 1.)

* * *

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake,

A BRITISH OPINION

Saskatoon Club Praised For Drama Work

REGINA, March 15 — (CP). — "The Rope" produced by the Little Theatre Club of Saskatoon, Saturday night won the senior award at the provincial drama festival and its actors will represent Saskatchewan in Dominion festival competition.

Adjudicator Robert Stuart said the production of Eugene O'Neill's one-act drama was "one of the best bits of work that I've seen in my trip across Canada."

He gave Edith Marchant the best actress award for a "dreadfully real and very good" portrayal of the Annie in "The Rope."

Bill Walker of Regina won the best actor award in the three-day festival for his portrayal of Charley the Cockney soldier in the Regina Little Theatre's production of "The Road of Poplars" by Vernon Sylvaine.

The adjudicator named as runner-up in the competition "The Philosopher of Butterbiggins" produced by the St. Andrew's Society of Saskatoon.

The University of Saskatchewan drama directorate's production of "Eros At Breakfast" — written by Robert Davies, editor of The Peterborough Examiner — was criticized for an interpretation that was "quite wrong." Mr. Stuart said the play was built on dry, subtle humor, much of which was lost by the cast "bulldozing" their way through gentle situations.

Service Industry Paying Least

By The Canadian Press

The current weekly supplement to the Canadian satistical review, published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, includes a series of figures on employment and earnings according to industry and location that presents a clear picture of conditions in Canada.

Employees of the transportation industry were shown receiving the highest average weekly pay of $45.14 during January, 1948. With the index figure of 100 as of June 1, 1941, employment in the industry stood at 140.8. The agricultural implements industry was second for earnings at 43.31, while logging employment was highest at 260.1, although earnings at $38.46 were well below the other two.

On the other side of the ledger, industry paying the least was the service industry where the average weekly pay was $24.43, with textiles a close second at $26.84. On both instances the rate of increase in employment was low.

A breakdown by provinces, still using June 1, 1941, as 100 on the index, found Prince Edward Island lowest for average weekly earnings at $29.64 and British Columbia highest at $39.05. British Columbia's rate of increase in employment was highest at 144.3 but, remarkable enough, Prince Edward Island was second at 140.2.

As against a general cost-of-living index of 148.3 the farm population living costs were 155.2. To compensate for this, however, agricultural products stood high up on the wholesale price livestock 202.2, milk and its products 170.1.

Trim Lords To 300?

LONDON, March 15.—(AP).—Political sources reported yesterday a tentative inter-party agreement to rim the House of Lords to 300 members. That would eliminate more than 500 members. Most of those who would be cast out are those dubbed "backwoodsmen" because thew seldom show to debate or vote on new laws.

Slab Crashes Injures 4 Men

HAMILTON, March 15.—(CP).—Four men were injured yesterday when a concrete slab broke free from a crane at the old Burlington St. coke ovens in East Hamilton. The crane operator was credited with saving the lives of 10 other men.

The slab began to slip when its edges crumbled but crane operator Barney Woodley of Brantford successfully guided it away from a group of 10 workers.

Injured were James McIlroy, shoulder and back injuries: Harold Schell, fractured right shoulder; William Buchanan, arm and ankle injuries, all of Hamilton, and Peter Stanyk of Grimsby, fractured right leg and wrists.

When the slab dropped 30 feet from the crane's jaws, the four men riding on it were thrown to the ground.

Fires Kill Six Of Twelve Fatalities Over The Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Fires too six lives in Eastern Canada during the week-end and a taxi driver was found shot to death near Pembroke, a Canadian Press survey showed today. In all, 12 fatalities were reported.

The taxi driver, identified as James Edwards, 35, of Pembroke, was discovered slouched over the wheel of his car on a lonely stretch of road 16 miles east of Pembroke.

Of the other violent deaths, two were in a plane crash in the Maritimes, two in separate automobile accidents, and an Ontario man was asphyxiated.

Five of the fire deaths were in the Montreal area. Three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Collard — Hoguette, 5; Pierre, 3; and Baby Cyrillen—were trapped in their small Coteau Rouge frame home after an oil stove exploded. Two firemen, Lieut. Earnest Cyr and fireman Alphonse Hamelin were caught under a crumbling wall as they fought a two-alarm fire in a downtown tire shop.

Daniel Patrick McCourt, 66, died in his flame-swept frame home on the outskirts of Cornwall. He was sole occupant of the little dwelling.

2 Die in Crash

Two Maine men died in a plane crash near Bath, N.B. Wavel Broad, 26, of Houlton, and George Pendexter, 21, were the occupants of a light aircraft which struck a hillside and burned.

Frederick B. Janes, 48, was asphyxiated by coal gas in a trailer at Oshawa.

Peter McCabe, 62, of Athlone, Ont., was killed when his automobile overturned on an icy road. His son, Jimmy, 12, and eight-year-old Ronald Horne escaped by kicking out the windshield.

Mrs. Charlotte Taylor, 33, was fatally injured when she fell from the cab of a moving truck at Chatham. Police charged her husband, Edward Taylor, with drunken driving.

NEW YORK, March 15—(AP). — Richard Earl Cox and family were "at home" at the plush Hotel Waldorf-Astoria today. The slim, soft-spoken Cox moved his wife and two young children from a $16 a month cold-water flat in Brooklyn to a $12.60 a day room the Park Avenue hotel Saturday and said they would stay until they got an apartment or were put out of the hotel.

Bread Shortage

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (AP).—Moscow today was reported gripped by a bread shortage so severe that Russians are lining up a dozen abreast for scarce supplies. On the black market—what Soviets call the open market—the shortage was reported to have pushed prices to near $6.60 a pound.

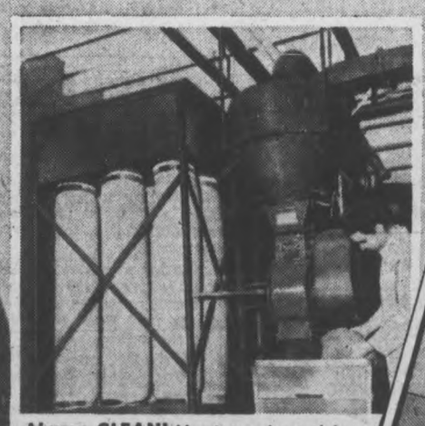
YOU CAN SAVE ELECTRICITY



The tremendous post-war growth of Ontario's industries has resulted in unprecedented demands for hydro-electric power. To keep these industries producing, every one of us must cut down our use of electricity. You can save power by turning off all lights in rooms not in use . . . by switching off electric stoves and other appliances as soon as you are finished with them. Use electrically heated water sparingly . . . do not use electric heaters or grates. Save all the electricity you can . . . in your home, your office, your shop . . . and prove your "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Marines Beat St. Kitts, 58 to 33 In Opener Of Cage Semi-Finals

Outboard Marines, defending OABA intermediate "A" champions, humbled St. Catharines Legion 58-33 Saturday night in the Collegiate before a big crowd of fans. It was the first of their home-and-home provincial semi-final series, the return game being in the small St. Kitts' gym next Friday or Saturday. It was a rugged game here with Referees Barry Lowes and Bob Dyer hustling to keep things under control and handing out 22 fouls to the visitors and 17 to the locals. Close checking slowed play up in the last half as Marines added five points to the 19-point margin they gained in the first.

St. Kitts got away to a good start, penetrating the homesters' zone defence for two bucket shots. Burns' long pass to Edger and foul flips by Nicholls put Marines back in the driving game.

Fight Starts

Beff and Gillespie tangled with fists flying and both were ejected from the game. The Edgar-Stewart - Nicholls combination got clicking and Marines pulled ahead to lead 37-18 at the half. The second was rugged with both sides dishing it out and play suffered. Pickard's long shot and baskets by McKenna were balanced by interceptions by Smith and Al and Joe Stewart. St. Kitts used a zone defence as well as man to man in a try to tie up the locals but without success. Legion found Marines' defence tough after the first five minutes.

For the visitors, McKenna shone with 14 points while Pickard and Marcack were most effective defensively. Ed Nicholls and Joe Stewart led the Marines' attack with 17 points while Bill Edger had seven. Gord Burns was strong on defence and rebound and MacPherson and Kidd went well. The teams:

St. Catharines: Hooking 4, G. Greenlaw, F. Greenlaw, Neff, Pickard 3, Marrack 4, Clinton 3, Storin 5, Cromb Cambray, McKenna 14.

Marines: J. Stewart 17, Menzies 1, Nicholls 17, Gillespie, Burns 1, Smith 2, MacPherson 2, A. Stewart 6, Kidd 4, Wood 1, Edger 7.

Referees, B. Lowes and R. Dyer; scorer, N. Stanger; timer, H. Flambray.

HELPED LOTS—Big Ed Nicholls helped lots with 17 points as Marines' cagers beat St. Kitts 58-33 here Saturday in the first of their OABA intermediate "A" semi-finals. Joe Stewart also got 17 points.

Sharpe Brothers In Team Match

It looks like another one of those nights of riotous ring action on the Brock Arena mat on Wednesday. The team of Jack Moore and Wee Willie Davis will oppose the brother team of Ben and Mike Sharpe. The magnificent Hamilton pair are just about the fightingest combination in team wrestling the tag game has produced. Winners over the famous Dusek team of Emil and Ernie, Iron Mike and Big Ben expect to really clean up the local team situation. However they will need all their fine young strength and speed to overcome the experience and power of Moore and Wee Willie.

Jack Moore

If the results are even close to what happened last week, the fans are sure of a large gob of excitement.

John Katan meets Don McIntyre and Jimmy "Red" Sims takes on Bulldog Drummond to complete the card.

Trojans Victors

The Trojan Pee Wee Red Wings nosed out the Omemee boys' hockey team 5-4 in the Omemee arena Saturday.

The Omemee boys checked well and had some smart passing plays. Most of the Red Wings had not been on skates for the last three weeks due to no covered rink in Peterborough.

Fox scored for Omemee on a neat pass from Growden. In the second, Bloom gave a nice pass to Bud McDougall, who slipped in the rubber. Stephenson got the second one for Omemee from Mitchell. The Red Wings pressed hard and Pagett sank one for the Wings. Omemee got an easy goal when a shot from Collins was deflected into the goal by a Red Wing player's stick.

Omemee started off fast and at five minutes Stephenson again scored Fox getting the assist. Red Wings were two goals down. They shuffled their lines and turned on the heat. Herbison soon scored with McDougall and Pagett in on the goal. Herbison repeated with the aid of McDougall. R. Dunn got the winning goal on a smart solo effort.

Play was clean and fast on good ice. Both goalies were good and refereeing was satisfactory. The teams:

Omemee: Goal, Crawford; defence, Stephenson and Broom; centre, Parker; wings, Fox and Growden; alternates, McKenzie, Brooks, Thornton, Hyland, Mitchell, Gladding, Collins, James (sub goalie).

Red Wings: Goal, Flint; defence, Bloom and Herbison; centre, Lundy; wings, McDougall and Pagett; alternates, E. Dunn, Clarke, Smith, Heffernan, R. Dunn, Brockwell (sub goalie).

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's Lindsay tonight at 8.30 for the next round of the OHA senior "B" playdowns, Toronto Q & L vs. Legionnaires. Two-game series, and almost sure to be provincial semi-finals. Several squads left yet in the peninsula and Western Ontario but they'll be knocking each other off this week, and the Toronto-Peterborough winner should step right into Ontario finals. The Q & L crew—don't know what the initials stand for—are Hank Goldup's gang and they've cleaned up on Toronto and district, and have been idle lately awaiting OHA action. They'll get it tonight in Lindsay, and so will another huge crowd of fans.

* * * * * *

These Q & L Fliers are bound to be good — they're all good in provincial playdowns — and the battling Legionnaires will need all their hustle and fight. But they've got oodles of moxie as proven when the chips were down against the Petes and Orillia. A lot of youth and speed, plus the old spirit and team harmony so necessary, balanced with a few smart, experienced veterans. Bob Greenlaw is a doubtful starter but the rest of the pack should be ready. Return tilt on Thursday, also in Lindsay, if the ice hold out. OHA info is uncertain when it comes to playdowns and often a team gets but a day's notice on the next round. Anyway, Legion, lots of luck tonight.

* * * * * *

Our Lions Lost Out

Our Lions bowed out in OMHA bantam "B" finals Saturday in Preston, losing the game 7-3 and the final round 12-7. They were down a goal from Omemee and found Preston too tough at home. A bus load of fans made the trip and several cars of Lions' members and other supporters. About half an inch of water on the ice but a dandy game with the local lads giving all they had before admitting defeat. Delahaye really starred in the net. "Lack of sufficient practice due to scarcity of ice here," Dick Ouimet summed it up. And so tough luck to Ray Pammett and his classy young team, but they did exceptionally well in reaching Ontario finals.

* * * * * *

At a PMHA meeting yesterday it was decided to finish up this minor series—since no local ice has been available for two weeks—this week in Omemee. Round-robin series winds up Tuesday eve and sudden-death finals Friday. Lions meet Morrow Park in a bantam go at seven p.m. Tuesday and a loss for Morrow Park would put Lions into finals 'gainst Trojans. It's Rotary vs. Northenders in a midget melee at eight; while Kinsmen and Trojans have a juvenile joust at nine. If Trojans lose, they're all tied up with Kinsmen and Southenders and that could ball things up. A Trojan win would put 'em in against Southenders in the final Friday.

Marines Get First

Outboard Marines came through neatly at the Collegiate on Saturday eve in the first game of their points-to-count OABA intermediate "A" semi-finals. They took the St. Kitts Legionnaires 58-33, but may need that 25-point lead this week-end in the return go on the smaller St. Catharines floor. As the Saints proved a rugged squad all the way, drawing 22 of 39 penalties called. Neff and Chum Gillespie tangled early and sat it out for the rest of the tussle. Ed Nicholls and Joe Stewart led the attack for the defending champs and the rest of the team went well, though close checking cut down on some good basketball for the large gallery of fans. Play was much tighter in the second half of the game. PCVS senior and junior "A" Combines defeated Toronto Eatons 46-29 in the prelim.

* * * * * *

And at the YW on Saturday p.m., Toronto DuVals proved too much for the local lasses, beating Towne Togs 46-39 to cop their LOBA intermediate "B" semi-final series 87-63. A much better joust here than in Toronto and Togs made it a battle all the way, with Ruth Hewitt outstanding on the home attack. But that big lead from the first game gave DuVals plenty of bank reserve to draw upon. Thus, the Togs are finished with rpovincial play and girls' cage action returns to the round-robin playoffs. CGE and Lock Co. meet at eight tonight with the winner going into intermediate playoffs and the loser dropping back to junior where they play St. Paul's.

Team Grapple Bout

Another big wrestling team match listed for the Brock Arena this Wednesday night when the Sharpe brothers, Mike and Ben, tangle with that villainous pair of Wee Willie Davis and Jack Moore. Fresh back from a Texas trip, large Mike Sharpe will be a popular figure again on a local mat card, and Ben always has a hefty following. This team bout promises a riot of action among those four huskies. John Katan is matched against Don McIntyre in the semi-final, while the prelim has Jimmy (Red) Sims in against Bulldog Drummond. No doubt of this pro grapple program drawing a big crowd as there's enough color on the card to paint a large barn and have enough left over to double-coat a henhouse.

* * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Hugh Davis is reported to have purchased the trotting gelding, Parsons . . . . Fred Stenson's local rink took top spot in a big mixed rink 'spiel in Lindsay the other day . . . . Local harriers weren't in the money at the large Hamilton week-end track meet . . . . OHA ordered the Toronto-Legion series to be goals-to-count and second game will be in Lindsay on Thursday as Q & L have no ice . . . . Kingston and Danforth drew 3-3 in their second junior "B" playoff . . . . St. Peter's have a midget PMHA melee with Trojans in Omemee at seven p.m. Wednesday, we're told . . . Automotives took Packers 9-3 as Marines and Quakers drew 2-2 in Industrial Loop tilts at Norwood . . . . Bloomfield plays Marmora in OHA intermediate "C" playdowns at Madoc tomorrow (Tuesday) night, first of home and home games . . . . 'Tis said that the Norwood first line and Hamilton will turn out with Marmora . . . . Hank Goldup is playing coach of the Q & L Fliers . . . . S'long now.

PCVS Cagers Take Win Over Eaton's

The exhibition preliminary-game to the Outboard Marine-St. Catharines game Saturday resulted in a victory for the combined Senior "A" and Junior "A" teams of PCVS over Toronto Eaton's Junior Executives, 46-29. The players of the Toronto team represented most of the Toronto and district secondary schools and at least one is now in his first year at U. of T. For the Peterborough teams the game served as an excellent warm-up for their COSSA semi-final games in Toronto Friday of this week. R. McComb, a young Toronto referee, did an excellent job of officiating, handling the game himself on the big PCVS floor. Fourteen points of the PCVS 15-point game margin were acquired in the first quarter when the Toronto boys appeared at a loss working on the big floor and against the PCVS zone defence.

Scored Early

The score at this point was 16-2 on a pair of field goals each by Thompson, McKee and Griffin, besides one to Northcott and foul shots by Richardson and Griffin. However, McVittie found the range for the Junior Executives and counted three times in the second quarter to add to his first quarter score. Lee, Merton and Bell had one each as well to bring the score to 24-14 at the half. McKee, with a field goal and a foul shot, Dave Dibben and Al Lee with one field goal each and Richardson with another foul shot were the second quarter PCVS scorers.

Neil Thompson broke away for three neatly scored third quarter counters to put his team well in front again. Don Griffin had two more and Al Northcott one. Al Lee, Northcott and Grafstein had successful foul shots, building the count to 39-18 as only Hadlow and Kerr scored for Toronto in the third quarter. Combines Whip Copper Cliff; Protest Lodged

By The Canadian Press

There is an unofficial junior hockey champion of Northern Ontario. Unofficial because one of the finalist clubs, Copper Cliff Redmen, has entered a protest to the Northern Ontario Hockey Association executive over their game Saturday with Porcupine Combines which the Combines won 7-2.

The Redmen state they were not notified prior to the start of the game that a straw vote of the NOHA executive cut the best-of-seven final series to a best-of-five affair. Combines took the series 3-2. As far as Copper Cliff is concerned, the series will continue Tuesday at their home ice.

The Combines have issued no definite statement as to whether they will make the trip or wait for the NOHA executive's final decision.

McIntyre Macmen went one up in their best-of-five senior finals by taking a 5-2 decision from Sault Greyhounds as the series got under way at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sunday.

The Porcupine crew whipped into an early lead, were tied 1-2 at the end of the initial frame, and then broke out with a flurry of goals in the second and third periods to take an easy victory.

Scoring was well distributed among the winners wtih Campbell, Montigny, Domenico, Pirie, Kovich, Mineault and McGinn all getting one goal. Rubic and Byers were the two Copper Cliff scorers.

McIntyre led all the way in taking the first tilt of the senior finals. The first period ended at 3-0, the second at 4-1 and then each team added one in the third.

PRESTON, March 14.—Preston Riversides won the bantam hockey championship of Ontario here Saturday. Riversides earned a 7-3 victory over Peterborough Lions to supplement their 5-4 victory of last week and claim the OMHA final round, 12-7.

Neil McDonald, Len Daub and Billy Mosack were other potent factors in Preston's win. The Lions battled strongly until final whistle, but failed to match the Riversides in play-making finesse. Bob Delahey in nets for the visitors won applause. Bill Stewart, Ken Pammett and Claire Ferguson were also outstanding for Peterborough.

Leafs Capture NHL Lead As Apps Outstanding Star

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The teams from Canada were the only ones that scored double victories in the National Hockey League over the week-end, and with only one more week's play left the results were vital. Two victories for the Toronto Maple Leafs put them into the league leadership, two points ahead of Detroit Red Wings in the race for the NHL title. But Detroit has three games left, Toronto only two, before the league play closes March 21.

Two victories for the Montreal Canadiens left them still hanging on to a mathematical chance of getting into the Stanley Cup play-offs. But it's a very, very slim chance, and Canadiens will be eliminated just as soon as New York Rangers gain only one point.

Saturday Toronto beat Boston 5-2 and Montreal beat New York 3-2. Sunday Montreal came back with another victory over Rangers by 6-3, and Toronto blanked Chicago Black Hawks 3-0. Hawks are out of the playoffs. The third game Sunday saw Boston hand Detroit a costly defeat 5-1, on the Red Wings' own ice.

Only eight games are left on the roster. Boston is at New York Tuesday. New York is at Chicago and Detroit is at Boston Wednesday. Then on Saturday Chicago is at Canadiens and Detroit at Toronto, and the final games Sunday have Toronto at Detroit, Canadiens at Boston and Chicago at Rangers.

Apps Star

Sylvanus Apps was the star of the piece as Leafs whipped Bruins at Toronto Saturday. He scored two goals, with Bill Ezinicki, Ted Kennedy and Joe Klukay getting the others. Bruin scorers were Milt Schmidt and Johnny Pierson.

At Chicago Sunday, the fabulous fat man, Walter (Turk) Broda, who had turned in a brilliant game in the Toronto nets the night before, earned his fifth shutout of the season. Ted Kennedy scored in the first period, Harry Watson in the second and Ezinicki in the third. Assists on goals by Watson and Ezinicki were given to Apps, who now has two games left in which to score the three goals he still needs to reach the magic 200-goal mark.

Only One Goal

Detroit Wings, who may be hitting the slump from which Toronto has just recovered, scored the first goal against Boston last night, but it was the only goal they did score. Don Morrison's counter was equalled by Pete Babando before the first period was over. Woody Dumart scored Boston's second rather luckily, when goalie Harry Lumley cleared his shot only to see the puck bounce back in off Gord Howe's leg.

Anyway, Murray Henderson made it 3-1 for Boston and in the last frame Babando scored his second goal and young Ed Sandford added another to put Boston ahead 5-1 at the final bell. There were only five minor penalties throughout as Wings gave the hometown crowd one of the poorest displays of the season.

CANADA TIES WITH SWEDEN

Canada's RCAF Flyers, Olympic hockey champions, battled to a 5-5 tie with a Swedish team in an international exhibition game at Stockholm yesterday.

Barons Break Record For Most Wins

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons, the American Hockey League's hottest team, broke a seven-year professional hockey record for the number of games without a defeat as they came up with a victory and a tie over the week-end.

It brought the Barons' undefeated string to 24 straight, breaking the professional mark set by Boston Bruins at 23 in 1941. On Saturday, they edged Buffalo 2-1 and tied the same team 3-3 Sunday. The three points picked up by the league-leading Barons, clinched first place in the western circuit.

The third-place Pittsburgh Hornets split two week-end contests, dropping New Haven 3-1 after losing 5-1 to Hershey on Saturday. The eastern section leaders, Providence Reds, stopped St. Louis Flyers 3-1 last night after the Flyers had edged Springfield 4-2 the night before. In the only other games played, Indianapolis defeated Washington 9-2 last night after losing 4-1 to Philadelphia on Saturday. The Barons, who haven't been beaten since Jan. 24, had to come from behind a 3-0 deficit to earn a stalemate with Bisons. Len Haldeson, Fred Hunt and Murdo McKay had given Buffalo their early lead but Hy Buller, Bobby Solinger and Bobby Carse came back to score for Barons. Saturday, Roger Gagne and Church Russell banged in one goal each in the first period and the Clevelanders coasted the rest of the way. Joe Bell netted Buffalo's only goal.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Buddy O'Connor heads into the final week still holding a slim one-point lead in the National League scoring race over the fast-closing Elmer Lach of Canadiens. The New York centre ace picked up two assists on the week-end to raise his total to 57 points, while Lach collected one goal and two assists and now has 56 points. Trailing the leaders in third spot are Chicago's top marksmen, Gaye Stewart, Bud Poile, and Doug Bentley, each with 54 points. All three went scoreless as Hawks were blanked in their only contest.

The leaders:

Jolson Favors Larry Park For Second Film

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (AP) —Despite scheduling of Gene Kelly for the role, Al Jolson favors Larry Parks to star in the second edition of the mammy-singer's film biography.

"If we tried someone new," said Jolson, "that would mean I would have to spend months on coaching him. I'm too tired to do that again."

The minstrel man indicated he was weary of the steady work the "Jolson Revival" has brought him.

Hollywood Jottings.

Jack Carson joins Doris Day in "My Dream Is Yours," a new musical. They previously starred in "Romance on the High Seas" and in their own romance which recently hit the rocks....Roy Rogers has kissed and made up with Republic and soon starts his first film under the new deal. It is tentatively named "The Eyes of Texas".....Roy will do nine pictures in two years.

Humphrey and Lauren Bogart say they will join her mother in France at the end of April, and then the trio will tour Europe for two months....Errol Flynn is supposed to be sufficiently recovered from his ear infection to return to "Don Juan" this week....

Sans Economy

Gregory Peck plans a film in Britain this year and many other stars will be following suit now that the 75 per cent tax is broken ....You should have heard the uproar when J. L. Warner announced the news of the tax settlement at a studio luncheon. Wonder if this will put an end to all the economy talk of late....Unlike most March 15ths, this one has many happy returns of the day to Hollywood studios.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan Hockey Association renounced 7-man hockey and two 30-minute halves, 30 years ago today. After seeing Kitchener defeat Winnipeg Ypres, Manitoba champions, in the Allan Cup finals, Western officials were convinced the six-man game, adopted in the East four years previously, was superior.

DEVELOP YOUNGER TALENT

Charles W. Leslie, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, told the association's annual meeting at Montreal Saturday that Canada's court groups must concentrate on development of younger talent. "In my view there is but one course to follow and that is to concentrate on the development of players not yet 18," he said.

Thornhill Man Elected OHA President

NIAGARA FALLS, March 15—(CP).—Percy Bone of Thornhill yesterday was elected president of the Ontario Horticultural Association, succeeding Howard P. Harley of London, of the organization's 42nd annual convention. Agriculture Minister Kennedy was named honorary president.

Mrs. D. W. Boucher of Kingston won the Carter medal for oustanding service in horticulture in 1947. Other awards were: Carter trophy and the Hon. P. M. Dewan trophy in school beautification competition to School Section No. 14, Hamilton, and SS No. 6, Sydenham North; A. J. Jackman trophy for windbreak competition, to Stewart Mackenzie of Kemble.

Other officers elected were:

First vice-president, A. F. Johnson, Stamford Centre; second vice-president, Rev. E. Rigby, of Hamilton; secretary, J. A. Carroll, Toronto; treasurer, M. Occomore, Guelph; official lecturer, John F. Clark, Toronto; auditors, Russell G. Stephens, Guelph, and Arthur C. Shantz, Kitchener. an d Arthur C. Shantz, Kitchener.

O. J. Robb of the Horticultural Experimental Station in Vineland, described the spray 2, 4-D as a very powerful stimulant to plant growth. He said small gardens can use the spray extensively on lawns and gardens. Lawns with no white clover can be given "fairly heavy applications."

The water-holding capacity of garden soil can be improved by the use of humus, teeming with bacterial life, Mrs. D. W. Boucher of Kingston, suggested. She said humus releases valuable mineral for plant growth and makes the soil fresh and sweet.

HAT WOWS 'EM — Still wearing the famous little hat that bowled them over in Ottawa when she arrived there last Tuesday, Barbara Ann Scott, the world's, European and Olympic figure-skating champion, is seen upon her arrival at the Island Airport, Toronto, Saturday morning. More than 50,000 persons jammed the downtown area to give her a lusty welcome to city.

RECEIVES TROPHY—At a dinner Saturday evening in Toronto, Barbara Ann Scott received the Lou E. Marsh Memorial Trophy for the second time. The trophy, established in memory of the late sporting editor of the Toronto Daily Star, is awarded each year to Canada's outstanding athlete.

Review Pratt Appointment Again

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — The Pratt Case will be back in the limelight again soon, with the Joint Senate-Comomns Indian Affairs Committee taking another look at a controversy marked by charges of "political" civil service appointments.

It is learned that an Appeal Board has, for the second time, upheld the appointment of Ford Pratt, Secretary to Resources Minister Glen, as general executive assistant in the Resources Department's Indian Branch.

But official word on what may be ultimate disposal of the case will come from C. H. Bland, the chairman of the Civil Service Commission. He will report Wednesday to the committee.

The initial charge of "politics" in the appointment came in the Commons from Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East). He renewed his demands for the full story when the committee held its first meeting March 2. Discussion of the Pratt appointment was adjourned because the matter still was before an Appeal Board.

Before the adjournment, however, the Deputy Resources Minister, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, took full responsibility for Mr. Pratt's recommendation.

Dr. Keenleyside said the most serious aspect of the case was that confidential information, including a Civil Service document, was made available to a newspaper reporter by someone "in a position to know what was being done or discussed in connection with the appointment."

HITLER IN SPAIN?—Possible light on the mystery of Adolf Hitler is thrown by Friedrich Mackensen, former German air force captain and grandson of Field Marshal Von Mackensen. He asserts that he flew in the formation which brought Hitler from Berlin to Spain, and that his own plane crashed over France in April, 1945, near Marseilles. He was taken prisoner by the French army and lived under the name of Angelotti. He is now paralyzed in both legs.

MORE DEER REPORTED

Walter Tucker saw seven deer — including a 1947 fawn — busily munching away at some hay on a neighbors farm near Apsley on Saturday. They were on a small knoll and seemed particularly appreciative of hay that was sprinkled with rock salt.

SCHOOL-INDUSTRY COURSE

Six senior students of Port Hope High School are now receiving two or three hours per week instruction in the machine shop of a plant there, learning various machine shop practices. The plan, instituted this month, is taken in conjunction with standard school studies. The boys receive usual apprentice pay for the time they work in the plant.

SPRINGTIME IN PORT HOPE

Port Hope police valiantly battled to the death a trapped skunk, caught on South Street of that town. The deadly spray-gun finally fell beneath a hail of lead. The Port Hope Guide, reporting the incident, adds drily: "The residents of the immediate neighborhood died a thousand deaths." Seems pussy must have left a memento.

When the first public school choral group ascended the platform Monday morning to sing "O Can Ye Sew Cushions," in the Rural Unison Chorus entry, it marked the beginning of the second annual Festival of Music. Sponsored by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club, it will run during the week March 15-19 in George Street United Church.

This year's adjudicator is Mr. Alec Redshaw, Grimsby, England who greeted the public school contestants as well as a large-sized audience with a brief welcome. "I am very pleased to be here, and I hope we are going to have a pleasant week."

Edward Pridham, president of the Kiwanis Club, welcomed those present and officially opened the Festival.

"I trust it will be of great educational value to the contestants and a pleasure to the listeners," he said.

He pointed out that it was being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club not as a means of making money but "in the belief that it will add to the cultural development of the community."

Mr. Pridham said all those connected with the Festival felt they had been particularly fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Redshaw as adjudicator.

Sent To Trial On Perjury Count

Carl Milheron, 356 Gordon St. and Vernon Revoy, 287 Park St., were committed for trial at June charges of perjury. The committals were made this morning in Sessions of the peace here on court by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., who heard the preliminary hearing last week.

In regard to the argument of W. J. A. Fair, defence counsel, the magistrate stated that in his opinion whether the perjury alleged was material to the original case was a matter of fact to be decided by the jury, not a matter of law.

The two youths are charged with the offences alleged to have been committed at the trial of Murray Nice in police court here last month. Both have pleaded not guilty.

Bail was set at $1,000 each.

Many Attend Funeral

The funeral of Mrs. George Masters from her late residence, 616 Aylmer St., was largely attended this morning by relatives and friends. Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick. Rev. P. P. Butler was present in the sanctuary, and offered the prayers at the graveside in St. Peter's cemetery.

Mrs. Masters was a daughter of Mr. Michael Lucano and his wife, the late Lucy Sabatino. The pallbearers were Arthur and Donald Masters, Gerard Lucano, Francis Asta, Paul Minicola and Amos Quackenbush.

Among those present from out of the city were: Mr. S. Sabatino, Brantford; Mr. and Mrs. G. Merkley, Port Hope; Mr. D. Sabatino, Bangor, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. P. White, Lakefield; Miss Emma Kennedy, Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sabatino, Lakefield; Mr. Joseph de Laplante, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sarricini, and Mrs. F. Sarricini, of Toronto.

MOVE ON SON

Jack Arnott didn't just look at the brown trout on exhibit at the Torono Sportsmen's Show, he almost glued his nose to the glass tank. The largest brown was 22 inches long, and five others were beauties also. There were five lovely speckled trout in another tank. Jack Hayward, Bud Tully, Campbell Rowatt, Les Mountney, Bud LaPlante and Jack Arnott were gathered around the trout so long, the attendants were eyeing them suspiciously. Not without reason, because there is a strong suspicion, this gang of trout fiends would have like to transport both the browns and speckles to Millbrook stream.—McG.

Durham County Has Seed Fair Within The Show

Durham county will have a seed show of its own as a section of the Quinte Seed Fair at the Peterborough Exhibition grounds this week, Mr. Stewart Bowman, manager of the fair reported this morning. He is with the plant products division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

"We have 40 to 50 entries in the Durham show which is restricted to its own grain growers," Mr. Bowman said. "In the main show I think we may be a few entries less than last year, but they were still coming in this morning. I sent them on to Fair secretary, A. O. Dalrymple of Stirling."

Mr. Dalrymple is agricultural representative in Hastings county.

"Everybody is well pleased with the prospects, and we should have one of the best seed fairs in the Quinte District records."

Some of the Peterborough grain growers who have entries are: Clarence Mann, Harry Jackson of Omemee, W. W. Dawson, Earl Petrie, Gerald Anderson of South Monaghan, Robert Armstrong of Cavan.

Grain Exchange

Local farmers who specialize in top quality grain are not so many as they used to be 25 or more years ago when, it is said, more attention was paid to the growing of grain, wheat, oats, barley, peas, than in these later years of the ascendancy of the dairy cow. Going back further to the Peterborough days of the late Sir Joseph Flavelle, whose grain and feed store was on Simcoe St., now occupied by the Utilities Commission, the market square was a grain exchange on a small scale. Farmers drove in their wagon loads of grain from a wide radius of the countryside, lined them up on the market and sold them to the local buyers Flavelle, Wrighton and various others in the trade.

Dairy farmers now are chiefly concerned with growing enough feed grain and nutritious pasturage, but that does not say they are indifferent to the merits of registered seed.

Overcome By Gas Revived By Firemen

William Horner, 537 Gilchrist St., was overcome by coal gas fumes while eating his meal at his home during the noon hour. He was sitting close to a coal burning cook-stove and got a few whiffs of the gas, then fell off the chair. A call to the fire department brought the emergency squad and the firemen were able to revive him without difficulty.

Mr. Horner has a bronchial condition which contributed to the mishap, and his doctor reports he is recovering rapidly. He is confined to bed at his home.

Limit Fish, Game Licenses Transfer Game Overseers Ontario Government Urged

TORONTO, March 15—(CP).—Recommendations from various Ontario game and fish organizations, chiefly with a view to preserving and increasing fish population, were presented today to the Legislature Committee on Fish and Game, under chairmanship of John A. Pringle (PC—Addington). The gist of many of the resolutions was covered in one from the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters:

"This federation eyes with alarm the future of our wildlife resources and calls upon the Government to adopt without delay every possible safeguard against a threatening calamity."

It asked legislation to keep the annual issuance of non-resident fish and game licenses within reasonable limitations so as to conform with the supply of fish and game.

This, it said, should be ascertained as nearly as possible by a general census.

Areas already depleted should be closed along with areas threatened with depletion.

Presented by H. V. Sutton of Windsor, president of the Federation, the brief also suggested that game overseers be moved periodically to new districts in order that they will not be faced with the embarrassing position of having to prosecute relatives and friends.

Control Aircraft

Uncontrolled use of aircraft for hunting and fishing was deplored. It was suggested that no aircraft be allowed to proceed beyond Moonsonee Factory for the purpose of hunting wild water-fowl.

Other suggestions were for uniformity of angling regulations on both sides of the St. Lawrence in New York State and Ontario, and banning of aiy airplane travel into Ontario provincial parks except on official duty.

The North Bay-Sudbury-Sault Ste. Marie zone of the Federation asked for clarification and strengthening of laws governing pollution with a view to preventing spread of this "injurious practice."

The brief, presented by Ken Clarke of Copper Cliff, president of the zone, suggested that research be extended to include yearly studies in waters within areas in which long-term cyclic pulp-cutting operations are being practiced. This would be to determine this effect of such operations on fish life. Mr Clarke said black bass numbers were dwindling in some areas and the research might determine the relation between cutting and the depletion.

The association also suggested that research be extended to yearly studies on waters around Highway 17 between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie with a view to maintaining higher fish population in these "heavily fished waters."

The Kent County Sportsmen's Association said it views with alarm the "terrific pressure being put upon our fish in the waters of Kent and Essex."

It suggested that the number of non-resident fishing licences be limited.

Suggest Court Appearance

Graydon Gregory, who read the resolutions, said the district was close to one of the largest points of entry from the United States. Lake St Clair constituted a small fishing area in comparison to others in the province and the association wanted to preserve it to some degree for local fishermen.

A resolution asking that all persons charged with game and fisheries violations be required to appear before a magistrate was also presented to the committee by the association.

It was stated that many sportsmen leave $12 to $15 with the local warden which is confiscated for failure to appear in court. Mr.

City Tax Rate Divided Into 3 Sections

Peterborough's municipal tax rate of 41½ mills, recently set by the city council, is designed to raise $1,385,256.20. The levy is slightly in excess of the total expenditures, and is simply a minor effect of striking the rate at the even figure of 41.5 mills.

Kitchener recently adopted a rate of 45 mills, 2½ up from last year, to provide total appropriations of $1,693,196.

The tax rate is divided into three sections, general, special and debt charges.

The general rate covers all the spending directly controlled by the council, board of works, fire and police departments, administration of justice, street lighting, public health, and also public library, suburban area commission, recreation commission and so on.

Total expenditure within the general rates is $590,288.20, equivalent to 17.85 mills on the assessment of $33,110,224. The garbage rate of 1.90 mills will raise $70,000 on the city's total assessment of $36,803,119. These two items make the general rate 19.75 mills.

Special rates apply for schools, hospital and charitable purposes, amounting to $534,623.83. Public school rate is 15.91 mills and Separate school rate 18.09 mills.

Debt charges are levied to meet interest and sinking fund payments on various debentures by which the city borrowed money. The total is $189,678.9. Public school rate is 5.84 mills and Separate school rate 4.66. Total Public school rate 41½ mills, an increase of five mills over last year. And the Separate school rate is 42½ mills.

Can't Sell War Surplus On Market Square

A Toronto firm, dealing in surplus war goods, was denied the use of the Market Square for selling his wares Saturday when his presence was brought to the attention of the city authorities. The firm had sold goods the preceding Saturday.

E. A. Outram, city clerk, pointed out that the action in not permitting the sale was that, under the Market Bylaw, only farm produce and goods produced from he earth can be sold there.

There had been no difficulty, he said, when the situation was explained, and there would be no action taken for the previous Saturday's selling.

TRIAL FLIGHT

Honkers are just as fed up with our long winter as we are. Mrs. H. Bennewith, 425 Chambers St., saw a small advance flight of Canada geese, five or six in number, sailing north up the Otonabee valley this morning around 9.30. There are many long open stretches on the river between Peterborough and Lakefield in case they needed to land, but nothing but ice in the lakes to the north, for a few weeks to come.

Seal Leaps 4 Ft. Into Air At Sportsmen's Show Tank

Thousands of spectators, including more than 200 from Peterborough, roared with laughter at the antics of a trained seal at the Canadian National Sportsman's Show on Saturday. The show being held in the Coliseum of the Exhibition Grounds, Toronto, will run until next Saturday.

Forty foremen from Canada Packers were in one group, and there was a large contingent from the Brinton Carpet Company also at the show.

Two wings of the huge building are jammed with sporting goods exhibits with the display of boats, ranging from racing canoes to expensive open cruisers, and cabin jobs. Other booths show fishing tackle, outdoor clothing, rifles, outboard motors, trailers, sailboats, marine engines, tents and a dozen, other related items.

An Eskimo family from the farthest tip of Alaska, consisting of husband, wife and two children, attract a lot of attention. They also have about 14 parachute dogs; these are dogs trained by the US army to be dropped by parachute in rescue operations. All are huskies with a mixture of Siberian in them.

In an upstairs wing, the Department of Lands and Forests have a live animal display, including deer, elk, porcupine, wolves, raccoons, mallard and wood ducks, fox, both red and black. The primary attraction of this display, however, is not the animals, but tanks of live fish, including large size speckled trout, brown trout, rainbow trout, Kamloops trout and suckers.

The afternoon show starts at 2.15 and the evening performance at 8.15. The show lasts two hours. It includes an expert horseshoe pitcher, high diving, clown diving by three men whose antics made many of the spectators laugh until the tears ran down their cheeks, a knife thrower, who puts a girl on a spinning board, and then hurls 36 knives into the board without hitting the girl. The log birling competition, and canoe tilting by lumberjacks from Nova Scotia and Wisconsin is also a crowd pleaser. Retrieving dogs, that carry live pigeons and chase a wild duck comprise an unusual exhibit. There are two singing cowgirls, and a cowboy, who makes his horse sit in a chair, and go to bed, an archer who picks off balloons, a group of Six Nations Indians in full regalia who do the welcome dance and the war dance to tom-tom accompaniment.

Above all, the seal show is a knockout. The trained seal makes its bed, blows out the candle, then lies down. Then it hops out of bed and has a shower bath, and as the crowd applauds, so does the seal, adding a few pats on his own back. The seal does many things, including talking to the audience like a politician, but the crowning number is when the seal leaps a bar four feet above the water as it swims along. An exhibition of badminton shows top natch playing and then winds up as a comedy effort. All in all the show is a dilly, and should pack them in during the week.

REPORTED SERIOUS

City friends of Mr. J. Gordon Mann of Smith were concerned today about a report from Civic Hospital that his condition was not so favorable as it had recently been.

Boy, 16 Shot Cleaning Rifle

Frank Merrett, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Merrett, 390 Parkhill Road is in Civic Hospital suffering from a gunshot wound in the leg, above the knee.

The boy, a student at Queen Mary School, was cleaning a .22 repeater rifle over the week-end, and unknown to him there was a live cartridge in the magazine. He pumped the gun and found the breech empty. After removing the barrel, in some manner a shell had found its way into the chamber and was discharged as the hammer fell. The slug entered the boy's leg, but the doctor believes it did not sever an artery, strike a nerve, nor injure the bone. More details will be available after X-ray pictures are made today.

The gun had keen kept upstairs under a cupboard, and had not been used since last fall.

Pleads Guilty To Theft Of Garage Shotgun

Norman Lee, Carnarvon, was remanded for sentence until March 22 when he pleaded guilty to theft of a double-barrelled shotgun before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in court today.

Evidence given by Acting Det. John Stevenson stated that the theft had been made from a city service station operated by Ivan Whitmore on Reid St. The accused had taken the gun, which had been recently cleaned and was being stored in the washroom for a while, from the men's washroom of the station.

On information received from several people near the station, who had seen Lee throw the gun into the back of the car, detectives questioned Lee who admitted the theft. To recover the gun, Dets. Stevenson and William Clark travelled more than 90 miles—three miles on foot—to north of Minden, where the gun was discovered in a house where the accused had left it.

The accused told the court that he had been drinking at the time. "When I came to my senses, I was afraid to take the gun back for fear of what would happen."

Bench and Bar Recessed For Drinks

But That Was 40 Years Ago, Stories In Old Papers Reveal

Forty years ago, the news of the world, the country, the province and the city in particular were delivered to the people of Peterborough through two daily newspapers, The Evening Examiner and the Morning Times, which had great fun sniping back and forth at one another in their editorial columns (or their news columsn, as they saw fit).

Copies of both papers published in February and March of 1907 were uncovered recently when the reovating activities in the second floor of the Allan B. Collis Ladies' Wear store at 370 George St.

Both were lusty sheets feeling quite free to express their editorial opinions in the news columns.

The Times, which modestly proclaimed itself to be "the only Morning Daily between Toronto and Ottawa and largely read throughout eastern Ontario."

Peterborough, in 1907, appeared from the advertisements to be a veritable hive of musical culture. Besides the Conservatory of Music and the College of Music, the Feb. 22 issue of The Examiner contains nine music teachers' notices.

Serge suits — for $15 — were available at Cressman's store.

Court news were written in a less rigid manner in those days (perhaps because the libel laws hadn't begun to press too heavily on free-and-easy statements in newspapers). Remarks, apparently added gratuitously by the reporter, were quite informative: "Miss ——— will be remembered as the girly who created the ruckus on George Street last November," one male accused was described as "looking in the stands as if he had been under the influence for several months."

The industrious court reporter also duly recorded the favorite bars of the legal lights of the city, adding that "court rose for 20 minutes while the bench and bar repaired to ——— for refreshments."

The fashion tops of 1907 were noted in a large advertisement in The Examiner, of interest to men and women. The populace in general was informed that "Professor Dorenwend" of the Dorenwend Co., of Toronto, would be on hand at the Oriental Hotel with a zippy array of false head-tops for men and women.

Ladies were promised "a Dorenwend transformation, pompadour, wave curl or switch will substitute nature's defects." They were given another reason for wearing this triumph of modern society: "Even if you have your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style." Handy, what?

Not only did the Dorenwend toupee protect men from the "old look" which baldness gives, but a health note creeps into the proposition: "They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men."

The papers later fail to mention how many Peterborough clients availed themselves of the heavensent opportunities presented by the good professor.

Familiar Names

Advertisements of local stores show many which are still well known today and some which are known to most residents of a mellower age: Robert Fair and Co., H. LeBrun and Co., Alex Gisbon, A. A. Fowler, J. J. McBain, Adam Hall, A. R. Jackson, R. A. Elliott, A. Rountree, W. H. Hill, Peterborough Sandstone Brick, J. J. Shadgett, Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Co., Wilson and Gibson, Lang and Maher, J. J. Turner, Barrett's Second Hand Store, Pete Simons and Co., Calcutt Brewing and Malting Co., Demetrie Bros., W. H. Isaac, R. J. Soden, the Market Drug Store, Howden's Meat Market, Ed Huff, Tailor, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, fuel, Madame Lee, ladies' Tailor.

The columns of both dailies at that time were loaded with advertisements offering stock in the newly developing silver mines of Cobalt, Ont., later the richest silver camp in the world. Some of the companies then forming offered penny stocks. One in question was offered at 16 cents per share on Feb. 26, 1907. It is still going strong in 1948, with a Friquotation of $6.09.

The opening of the Canadian West is also reflected in these yellowing pages. There were apparently several large offices in Peterborough at the time who did little else but sell "homesteads" to those enterprising newcomers to Canada as well as residents here who decided to heed Greely's advice.

Urges Farming Be Developed In N. Ontario

TORONTO, March 15 — (CP). — Northern Ontario and its vast resources held a prominent place in debate in the Ontario Legislature last week.

Progressive Conservative member from Toronto St. Patrick, Kelso Roberts, devoted his entire speech during the Throne Speech debate to the north. W. J. Grummet, C.C.F. House leader who represents the northern Ontario riding of Cochrane, laid a new emphasis on its agricultural possibilities.

"We have vast areas of the very best agricultural land which you can find anywhere," Mr. Grummett said. "Under proper development it will support and sustain a much greater population than we have in Ontario today.

In particular, Mr. Grummett suggested that the province's immigration scheme be integrated with agricultural development. "I know we can secure in Great Britain alone plenty of farmers who would settle the vast areas," he said.

Encourage Immigrants

The minister af agriculture already had under consideration plans for northern Ontario development and "I suggest to him that these immigrants brought in be encouraged to open up our northland by settlement on farm lands."

The C.C.F. leader added "the people of northern Ontario have been asking whether they could secure bulldozers and other machinery for the clearing of land.

"I understand the minister of highways intends to establish machinery pools, and if the minister of agriculture would get together with him, those machinery pools which will be established in the north may be used for development of agriculture to a much greater extent than at the present time."

Mr. Brummett's opinions regarding taxation in mining communities were shared in some respects by Roberts.

"Ninety per cent of all the taxes and revenue collected from gold mines goes to the Dominion authorities and less than 10 per cent is distributed to the provincial authorities and the municipalities," Mr. Roberts said.

No Arbitration For 2 Plants

CHICAGO, March 15 (AP). — Two of three major meat packers yesterday turned down an offer to arbitrate their wage dispute with the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO) who have called a country-wide strike for 12.01 a.m., tomorrow.

The arbitration proposal was sent to Swift & Company, the Cudahy Packing Company and Armour & Company but Swift and Cudahy quickly rejected. They said they were standing pat on their offer of a nine-cent an hour wage increase.

The union, which had originally demanded a 29-cent an hour increase for its 100,000 members, said it would call off the strike if the companies would accept arbitration of the 20-cent difference.

Armour has not replied to the proposal but the union said it would arbitrate with that company if it accepted.

Ralph Helstein, union president, said the offer will be kept open until midnight tonight, one minute before the strike is scheduled to start.

Discontinue Office Of Anti-Communist

TIMMINS, March 15—(CP)—The office of anti-Communist Ralph Carlin as business agent of Local 241 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) was discontinued at a meeting here yesterday.

Carlin, who recently attacked Reid Robinson, United States vice president of the Union, as a Communist and enemy of democracy, had asked non-Communist union members to act at the meeting to oust Robinson, Henry Horowitz and William Kennedy, international leaders.

Instead of Carlin's plans being effected, however, another motion recommending the discontinuance of the business agent's office was backed by Robinson, and passed by the meeting.

Must Act, Not Just Protest To Curb Russia, Byrnes Says

CHARLESTON, S.C., March 14 — (AP). — James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State, said Saturday the United States should promptly revive its wartime draft to back up a new warning that America is against further Russian expansion by force.

Revival of selective service "will contribute greatly to the preservation of peace," he added.

And the United States should act, not just make a new protest, if Russia threatens the independence of Greece, Turkey, Italy or France, Byrnes declared.

Byrnes suggested the next four or five weeks may be critical in United States-Russian relations. He spoke at Corps Day exercises commemorating the 105th anniversary of the opening of the Citadel, South Carolina's military college here.

"While it is wise to think of our military strength four or five years from now as a result of a program for universal military training, I think it more important to think of the situation that may exist four or five weeks from now as a result of our failure to adequately provide for the national defense."

At another point, he "guessed" the Communists cannot win the Italian elections April 18.

"If the Soviet intends to act in Italy as they have in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, we can expect them to move whenever they reach the conclusion that Communists cannot win the election," he continued. "They will not until the elections disclose that the Communists are in the minority."

Must Move First

"If we are going to talk strong, we must be strong," Byrnes said in urging revival of selective service.

A new draft was needed to bring the army up to its authorized strength of 669,000 soon. This first step to restore American military power should be coupled with increased air power.

Byrnes, as Secretary of State, championed a "patient but firm" postwar policy toward Russia. He declared any action to curb Soviet expansion should be "within the spirit and letter of the charter of the United Nations." But he added:

"Knowing the Soviet habit of taking over a government and then announcing there is nothing to discuss, we must let the Soviets know we will act immediately to preserve the status quo until the Security Council has an opportunity to investigate the threatened aggression."

2 Mongolians Think China Province Of US

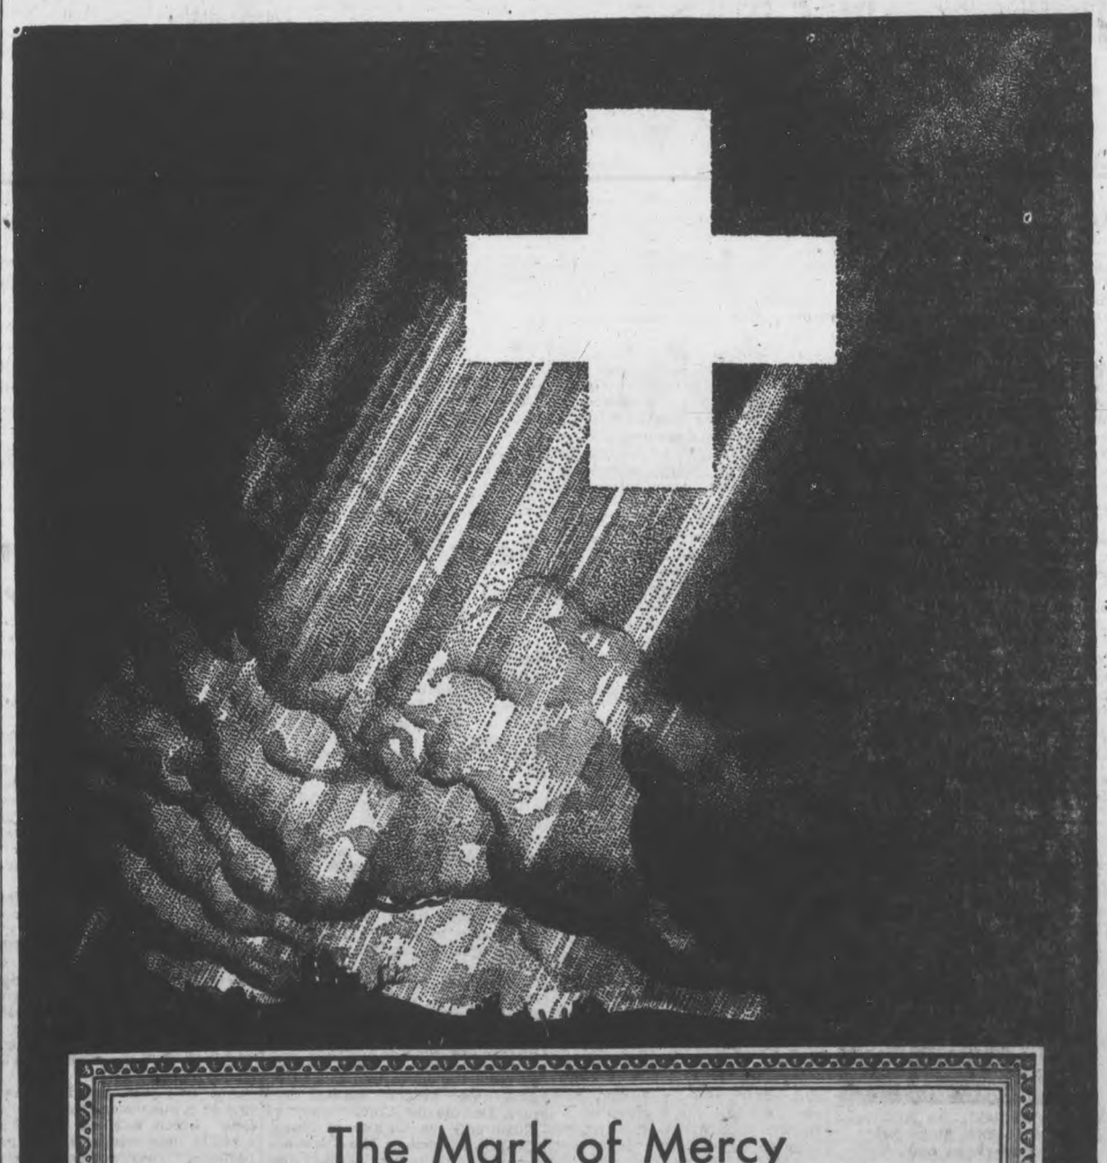
NEW YORK, March 15—(CP)—A New York paper said today in a dispatch from Peiping, China, that two Outer Mongolians who arrived there last week learned to their bewilderment that China is not a province of the United States.

The two men—a Capt. Nawajamsa and a Lieut. Tobodrakchi, believed to be the first of their people to have entered Nationalist China since the end of the war, came her to seek United States aid for their people.

In the Mongolian people's republic, which has been almost completely isolated from the rest of the world for the last 25 years, they had heard that China was virtually American soil.

They charged that their country was dominated by Russians with nearly 25,000 of the 1,000,000 population held as political prisoners. All men between 16 and 40 were being conscripted.

Water Cold, No Heat In Strike At Palace



LONDON, March 15—(Reuters)—There was no hot water, no elevator service and furnaces were unlit today at Buckingham Palace, official residence of the Royal Family, following the strike of assistant engineers employed by the ministry of works.

The men struck yesterday at the palace, both houses of parliament and other government buildings in protest against a treasury refusal to increase their present weekly wage of £4 17s 6d ($19.50) to £5 10s ($22).

The King and Queen were not in residence, but were expected back later today after spending a week-end at Windsor Castle in Berkshire.

Ilsley Attacks Editorial Criticizing Duff Report

OTTAWA, March 15 —(CP)— Justice Minister Ilsley last night issued a statement of protest against a front page editorial published by the Toronto Globe and Mail on March 12 which criticized the 1942 Hong Kong Royal Commission report of Sir Lyman P. Duff, then chief justice of Canada.

Mr. Ilsley's statement said that if newspaper editors "are to use language like this with reference to judicial findings, the effect will be to weaken respect for the administration of law and bring the judiciary into contempt."

The 600-word editorial, prominently displayed on its front page and headed "guilty on all counts," commented on the tabling in the Commons March 10 of evidence taken at the Hong Kong inquiry.

It said the evidence was "directly contrary to the findings of Commissioner Sir Lyman P. Duff," and added: "The case is perfectly clear. The prime minister of Canada, and those of his government who have known the facts, are guilty of sending into a known theatre of possible war a force which was untrained for war and unequipped for active service, no matter how well trained it might have been. The prime minister and his government are also guilty of using emergency powers to hide the truth for nearly six years."

Mr. Ilsley's statement follows:

In an editorial last Friday on the Hong Kong inquiry, the Toronto Globe and Mail, after referring to what it calls the "facts," said: "All these facts were disregarded by the commissioner in his report, and his findings were false on the four points at issue." It is hard to conceive of a more irresponsible and reprehensible statement.

Unfair Judgment

With incredible assurance and conceit the writer of the editorial pits his capacity as a judge against that of the Royal Commissioner, who, as everyone knows, was the Right Honorable Sir Lyman Duff, Chief Justice of Canada. At the time of the inquiry, Sir Lyman had been 38 years on the bench. One can say without fear of contradiction that he was the most distinguished jurist Canada had ever had. He was a member of the judicial committee of the Privy Council. His reputation extended far beyond the limits of Canada and he was held in the highest respect in every country where the rule of law obtains.

To say that the report of such a man is false is irresponsible. Who was likely to weigh the evidence more competently, to draw the sounder conclusions from the evidence, a commissioner of this calibre or the writer of the Globe and Mail editorials? But apart altogether from the weight to be attached to the editor's conclusions, is he entitled to accuse the commissioner of falsity in his findings? If newspaper editors are to use language like this with reference to judicial findings, the effect will be to weaken respect for the administration of law and bring the judiciary into contempt. It is this consideration which prompts me as minister of justice to protest.

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, March 15 — (CP). — A constitutional issue involving the independence of an elected government will be argued out when the labor party's annual conference assembles at Scarborough, Yorkshire, May 17.

Before the 1945 general election, labor delegates from all over the United Kingdom laid down policies at a conference which were followed zealously by the party leaders.

At successive conference since then, some delegates have said in speeches that the government has not continued to follow precisely their directives as expressed in resolutions. Government ministers have replied that they respect the conference decisions but sometimes it is impossible to give them effect quickly, or indeed at all.

The ministers cite foreign policies as an example of their difficulty.

If they are bound to follow certain foreign policies laid down by a conference, which may not have all the information available to government, they will be unable to deal effectively with changing situations.

Issue Plain

Two resolutions for the 1948 conference put the issue plainly before the delegates. The Lewisham East district labor party asks the conference to declare that its "decisions shall be binding on the government and shall be acted upon within the program of the parliamentary labor party."

The Eddisburgy district labor party asks the conference to "view with concern apparent failure of the national executive committee to implement resolutions democratically carried by vote." All policy resolutions approved should be accepted as party policy and acted upon.

THE ELEGANT ENSEMBLE — The ensemble, a costume favored by so many fashion-wise women, is back in all its glory. This year the ensemble is particularly well done, both in coat or cape. This handsome costume is a good choice for smart afternoon wear in town. The gentle dress is of crepe in a print of slate blue, dusty rose and gray. It is topped by a flaring coat of gray woollen, cut wide enough to double as a cape so that it can show off its lining which matches the frock.

Local Council of Women Hold Spring Tea at YWCA

A delightful Spring tea Saturday afternoon in the Green Room at the YWCA was sponsored by affiliated organizations of Local Council of Women. Fine March weather and well over a hundred guests favored the group to make it a success. The conveners were Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. M. Drysdale, Mrs. H. Tremaine, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre and Mrs. G. Harris.

Feature attraction was a display by Peterborough Leathercraft Guild with Mrs. Claire Stuart and Miss Ethel Robson in attendance to give information regarding the handsome work. House slippers in all sizes were original designs, some looking so cosy and warm with shearling lining and pom poms, others very smart in white and colored leathers. One pair in the exhibit had already been washed without damage. Soft glove leather, nearly laced at the edges made handy slip-ons for men or women. Expert tooling, taking many tedious hours to complete, had been done on the book covers, purses and numerous small articles such as key cases, book marks, change purses. Hand made gloves that can be made to your order by simply tracing your hand on a sheet of paper, were neatly hand-sewn. Black suede fashioned a pair in longer length and kid and pigtex were used for every-day styles.

A Pottery Guild exhibit was arranged by Mrs. O. J. Frisken and attended by Mrs. F. Leach. The bowls and vases in a variety of shapes were so smoothly finished and decorated with pretty colored designs, just as you see them in exclusive shops. These, however, were the work of local housewives during spare time.

Honoring the patron saint of Ireland whose day is celebrated nationally on March 17, a pot of shamrock centred the tea table, with bright green ribbon streamers extending from the edges like a may-pole, but held fast to the white linen cloth with shamrock seals. Twin tapers on either side were in matching green.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. Ross Williamson, Mrs. Clarence Lang, Mrs. A. W Nelson and Mrs. H. T. Rehill. Hostesses were Mrs. J. Nichols, Mrs. W. G. Ovens, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. Wm. Graff, Mrs. W Young, Mrs. G. Maniece, Mrs. J. H. Eastwood. Plates were replenished by Mrs. W. F. Connall, and Mrs. T. H. Taylor. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. J. Rutherford and Mrs. J. Henderson.

Guests were registered by Mrs. F. M. Somerville, and Mrs. J. M. Fanning was treasurer, presiding at a shamrock-decked table in the entrance hall. Receiving at the door were Mrs. W. Addyman, Mrs. E. Wand and Mrs. J. Dewart.

Table decorations were by Mrs. M. Holt, Mrs. J. Dougherty and Mrs. J. Garrett of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

European Relief Collection On March 24

A well-attended meeting of Immaculate Conception CWL was held in St. Mary's Hall Thursday last with the president, Mrs. A. O'Grady in the chair. A number of interesting letters were read, including one from the convener of Stella Maris requesting donations for the Catholic Sailors' Club. A collection of magazines and religious articles is to be made among members and brought to next meeting.

A letter from the Diocesan president, Mrs. G. Torpey, was in regard to the appeal for the European children's relief fund Several members were appointed to be in St. Mary's Hall on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, March 24, to receive clothing and canned goods for this purpose.

An invitation was received from St. Peter's Sub-division to attend the St. Patrick's tea being held on Wednesday. Plans were completed for the variety concert sponsored by the League to be held in the hall on Friday, March 19. A travelogue film of Ireland, will also be shown.

A $15.00 donation is to be made to Rev. Chris McCarney, pastor of the new parish of Our Lady of Assumption.

A nominating committee was appoitned with Mrs. J. H. Fraser as convener.

Batch of Muffins Found Ever Welcome to Family

By MARY MOORE

Condemnation by faint praise is my portion when I serve hot muffins or tea biscuits to my family for high tea on Sundays.

"Mum, why don't you make these oftener?"

I am remiss in that department of cookery and it seems a shame because it is such showy food and so popular.

I am writing this piece as much to myself as to you, to remind myself that in the middle of the week a batch of muffins would be ever so welcome to my hungry little crowd.

Golden Corn Cake

Measure and sift together ¾ cup cornmeal, 1 cup flour, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons cream of tartar and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup milk mixed with 1 beaten egg and 2 tablespoons melted shortening or cooking oil. Pour into hot greased pan and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. Delicious with raspberry jam and cottage or white cream cheese.

Date Bread

Pour ¾ cup cold water over ½ cup brown sugar, stir until lumps are dissolved and add ½ cup molasses and ¾ cup milk. Sift together 1 cup bread flour, 11-3 teaspoons salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon soda, and add 2 cups whole wheat flour. Combine mixtures and add ¾ cup stoned and chopped dates. Bake in greased bread pan 1¼ hours at 350 deg. Fahr. Slices best on day after baking.

Fruit Muffins

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-3 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 beaten egg, 2-3 cup milk, 1-3 cup melted shortening or cooking oil, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup washed and dried raisins or currants or cut dates or figs. To the sifted flour add the sugar, salt, baking powder and sift. To the beaten egg add the milk, shortening and vanilla. Make a well in the dry ingredients and pour in the wet all at once; combine them with the fewest possible strokes, then add the fruit. Fill greased muffin tins or fluted paper cups 2-3 full of the batter and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Some fo the fruit may be replaced with nuts. All of the fruit may be replaced with washed and dried fresh fruits such as raspberries, cherries or blueberries. Fresh blueberry muffins are delicious.

Currant Scones

Two cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoo salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg yolk, ⅞ cup milk, ½ cup currants, white of egg and sugar for sprinkling top. Work in the shortening with pastry blender, then add egg yolk an dmilk and currants. Roll out on floured board, and cut into six-inch rounds and score these into quarters. Brush tops with egg white, then sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes. Serve hot with butter.

Orange Tea Biscuits

Two cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespons shortening, ⅞ cup milk, grated rind one orange, orange juice, sugar cubes. Sift flour with baking powder and salt, cut in shortening, add milk and rind. Roll out and cut into small biscuits. Press a cube of sugar which has first been dipped in orange juice, in centre, and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes.

Adults Fail to Realize Children Do Grow Up

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We have three sons for whom my husband and I have sacrificed our lives to give them the education that we did not have. But since the two eldest boys have come home from the war they act like complete strangers and we are simply crushed.

Dorothy Dix

I have made such wonderful plans for them. I had picked out a wife for my eldest son, a girl with a nice family background who would make him a lovely wife, but he resents the fact and won't even go to see her. My husband had arranged to take our second son into his business, but he refused to do it and is going on his own.

What shall I do? I am at my wits' end trying to cope with them.

DISAPPOINTED MOTHER.

ANSWER: After children have grown up and are adult men and women, the parents' motto should be: HANDS OFF. And, unfortunately, this seems to be the one thing that fathers and mothers are incapable of doing. Because they directed every movement and made every decision for Tommy and Susie when they were little tikes, they feel that they have the right to pick out their husbands and wives for them and decide on their careers, and generally play God to them.

This parental obsession that they are incarnate wisdom and are entitled to meddle with their children's lives has caused as much unhappiness as any other one thing in the world. Numerable men and women have been failures because their parents forced them to do the work they had no aptitude for, instead of letting them do the work they would have rejoiced in doing.

Abets Divorces

Millions of unhappy marriages that have ended at last in divorce are the result of parental interference. Papa and Mama wouldn't let Sally marry the boy she loved because they didn't like the color of his eyes or the cut of his clothes.

It is soothing to parental vanity for fathers and mothers to think they always know best about what their children should be and do, but it isn't true. Every child is born with its own particular assortment of characteristics, and parents have no right not to respect them.

DEAR MISS DIX: Ten years ago my husband deserted me and our three children and since then I have never heard from him nor do I know where he is. The two older children are now grown and married and the youngest one is 14 years old. I was left without any money, so I went to work and managed to support and educate my youngsters.

Now I am 41 years old and I have this problem. A man eight years younger than I am has been in love with me for two years and is urging me to marry him. He is a fine chap in every way. Has a beautiful home, which he bought for his mother who has passed away, and he is old for his age as I am young for mine. I have told him he should get someone his age, but he wants someone stable as I am.

I am very fond of this man and I am very sure that I could make him happy, but I am scared of taking chances in marriage as my first one was so unhappy. What do you advise?

L. M.

ANSWER: I do not think that the eight years' difference in your ages is any bar to your marriage being a successful one, especially as the man is one of the domestic, at-home-keeping sort. Your two older children are married and gone and the 14-year-old boy will soon be following in their footsteps. That will leave you very lonely if you have no husband to keep you company.

After all, it is not so much a matter of birthdays as it is of temperament. If you can still thrill over a man's love-making, you are young enough to marry him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife has a pet dog that she adores. Don't you think that instead of her spending all of her time kissing and hugging the mutt, besides lavishing baby talk on it, that she might bestow a little affection on me? I am by no means of a cold nature and I crave at least a little tenderness from my wife, and I am afraid if I do not get it, we will drift entirely apart.

What do you think?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your fear is well-founded, for no man can go on being romantically in love with his wife when she shows more affection for her dog than she does to him. There is an old proverb which says: "Love me, love my dog," but it doesn't include kissing the beast.

Directions

The Baked Hamburg Layers are merely 2 large flat cakes or minced beef with a layer of about 2 large sliced Spanish onions between them, baked at about 350 deg. Fahr for 1 hour, with a little water in pan, and salt and pepper sprinkled over the meat.

The Stuffed Meat Loaf is made by making a meat loaf mixture and putting half of it in greased pan; put about 1½ cups brad stuffing over this, then remainder of meat mix. Bake in slow oven. Make plenty for this is very good sliced cold.

Aspic Jelly

(This is a basic reicpe to use for any savoury jelly mix—it is not sweet.) One tablespoon gelatine, 1 pint stock or boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon mixed spices, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, juice ½ lemon, 1 egg shell. Put gelatine in ½ cup cold water and soak 30 minutes. Dissolve it by standing over hot water. Add stock or boiling water, salt, spices, pepper and lemon juice. Heat slowly, stirring but do not boil. Add eggshell. Strain. When cool, add any prepared vegetables, mould and chill.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I enjoy your column very much and have found many recipes and hints which have been very useful. I was wondering if you could help me with a couple of problems.

In the first place I have some very excellent recipes for cream pies, chocolate pie, rhubarb cream, etc., and often they turn out splendidly. At other times they are a failure for no apparent reason. When they are finished cooking in the double boiler they are very thick and firm and look as if they would cut beautifully. Then I put on the meringue and cook it and when I go to serve the pie I have to spoon it. It is very disappointing. My meringue is delicious. I beat the egg white stiff and add a pinch of cream of tartar, and 3 tablespoons sugar to each white. Then I bake in a 300 deg. oven until done. Sometimes I put it in a cold oven and have the top on medium which does just as well. I realize the fault must lie with the meringue and yet often it is perfect. Why?

Regarding doughnuts—I like a nice sweet coating. Immediately on taking the doughnuts from the hot fat I roll them in a mixture of cinnamon and brown sugar, but very little adheres—at least not enough to suit me. What method could I try. Thanking you,

D. H.

ANSWER: Yours is a very common difficulty but there is a remedy.

Cook your cornstarch filling only 15 minutes, and while it is still boiling hot pour it into the baked pastry shell. Immediately spread prepared meringue over it to the very edge to seal in the filling, and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Only 2 tablespoons sugar are needed for each white in meringue.

The doughnuts should be drained on unglazed paper, and when cold rolled in the sugar mixture. When they are rolled in the sugar when hot the heat of the doughnuts melts the sugar and it will not adhere. The thin film of cold fat on the doughnuts, when cold, picks up the sugar. More icing sugar will adhere than brown sugar because it is finer.

QUESTION: I had a recipe for nut bread that had nuts and raisins in it, but have lost it. Would you be kind enough to print a nut bread recipe. If you have an orange cake that calls for an orange that is put through a food chopper and raisins I would be very grateful, as I have lunches to pack. Thank you Lily D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Nut Bread

(This is an excellent loaf for slicing when one-day old; if you prefer all white flour—which I hope you do not—substitute for the whole wheat flour with ¾ cup white.) One cup unsifted whole wheat flour, 1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup brown sugar, 1½ cups sour milk or buttermilk, 2 tablespoons salad oil, (or melted butter), ¾ cup chopped walnuts. Add unsifted whole wheat flour to the sifted white flour, (which has been sifted with the baking powder, soda and salt.) Add the brown sugar and mix. Add sour milk and salad oil, and stir until smooth. Add walnuts and mix. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 70 minutes.

Quick Orange Fruit Cake

Rind from 1 orange, 1 cup orange juice, 1 cup raisins or dates, ½ cup nuts, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon maple flavouring, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 cup sugar for to. After squeezing enough oranges, (about 2) to get the juice, put rind of one through food chopper with either the raisins or dates. Cream shortening and sugar very well, and add eggs and flavouring. Add chopped fruit and nuts. Sift salt and soda with flour, and add it alternately with the orange juice—using only ¾ cup of it. Bake in greased pan at 350 deg. F. 1 hour. While hot spread with 1 cup sugar mixed with remaining ¼ cup orange juice.

Report Brooks Very Unsettled

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, March 15.—(AP).—The National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers are unsettled and Jackie Robinson isn't complacent.

Those were the two chief bits of information to come from a week-end press conference convened by President Branch Rickey.

"We've the most unsettled team in the National League despite the fact we were good enough to win the pennant last year," he opined. "I would say that any other manager in the league could come closer at this moment to naming his opening day lineup than Leo Durocher.

Rickey laughed at the theory thta Robinson, regular first baseman last season who reported here at a plump 205 pounds, had become complaceant.

"I am not worried about Robinson," Rickey said. "That boy would consider it a personal disgrace if he were an ounce overweight on opening day."

Labor Battles

Robinson and Maurice Travis last May:

"Their ties with the Communist Party are self-evident. Under orders these officers are in fact attacking President Philip Murray and other officers of the CIO who reject Communist infiltration."

Whether or not he is a Communist, photostatic copies now in this reporter's possession of certain letters indicate that Harlow Wildman was, in 1946, under orders of Communist officials.

As for the other members of the international brigade now in the gold fields, there is no way of knowing their party affiliation, other than judging by the company they keep.

The situation in other Canadian unions, while not as spectacular, is nevertheless interesting. Here is the pro-Communist picture in the CCL:

UNITED ELECTRICAL WORKERS, one of the strongest of the Communist-led unions, has as its boss in Canada redheaded and Red-indoctrinated Clarence S. Jackson, who was interned as a dangerous Communist early in the recent war. George Harris, district secretary, has been an official of the Toronto Labor-Progressive (Communist) Party.

INTERNATIONAL WOODWORKERS OF AMERICA, which boasts of nearly 20,000 members, is run by Harold Pritchett, one of the most active Reds in the Canadain west. He is aided by such well-known Communists as Bert Melsness, Al Parkin, Ernest Dalskog and Nigel Morgan, the latter of whom is chief of the British Columbia LPP.

GENERAL SHIPYARD WORKERS' FEDERATION OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, which has around 15,000 members, is headed by Malcolm McLeod, president, and William White, president of the affiliated Marine Workers and Boilermakers Industrial Union, both long-time LPP and Communist Party members.

INTERNATIONAL UNION OF FUR AND LEATHER WORKERS, is headed by Fred Collins, a veteran worker in the old Communist Workers' Unity League. He has been a candidate for public office on the Communist Party and later the LPP ticket.

UNITED MINE WORKERS, has never been tagged definitely as Communistic, but at the last CCL convention voted almost solidly with the Red party-liners. It has no national autonomy, but operates in Canada under three distinct heads. Maritimes District 50 (Chemical) of the union is led by Freeman Jenkins, who calls himself a CCF party man, but has been criticized by other CCF leaders for voting with the Communists.

UNITED OFFICE AND PROFESSIONAL WORKERS was refused affiliation by the CCL on the ground that it was Communist-dominated. Kenneth Woodsworth, its head, denies this, although his local usually votes the party line.

In addition, in several CCL unions in which the Reds have not gained control, they are nevertheless influential enough to sway decisions and have a sometimes decisive voice in dictating policies.

UNITED AUTOMOBILE WORKERS OF AMERICA, which has its largest concentration in Windsor, is the outstanding example. Although there are no known Communists in the high leadership of the Canadian region, the anti-Red forces have been less successful with their housecleaning than their opposite numbers in the States.

In almost every major decision made by the UAW, the fight between the left and right wings is so close that the outcome usually is a toss-up until all the votes are in.

TLC unions whose leaders turn friendly eyes upon Moscow are:

INTERNATIONAL CHEMICAL WORKERS, whose Canadian boss, Willaim Edmiston, denies he is a Communist. One of his chief lieutenants is Reg Wright, a former LPP candidate in Toronto. The union's policy in recent years has always coincided with the Communist party line.

CANADIAN SEAMEN'S UNION headed by President Harry Davis and Jerry McManus, secretary. Both were denounced as Communists by former President Pat Sullivan when he resigned to form his own Canadian Lake Seamen's Union.

UNITED TEXTILE WORKERS is headed by Kent Rowley, who was interned as a Communist during the war. Two of his organizers, Madeleine Parent, former Montreal socialite, and Azelus Beaucage were convicted after a 12-week trial at St. Jerome, Que., of seditious conspiracy and conspiracy to intimidate workers.

LUMBER AND SAWMILL WORKERS, one of Canada's biggest AFL locals with 5,000 members in Northern Ontario, is among the most vigorous of the leftist labor groups. Bruce Magnusson, Ontario LPP official, who runs the local, was interned at the outbreak of the war.

CANADIAN FISHERMEN'S UNION, which was nearly wrecked by a "suicide strike" last spring, is headed by Bert Meade, one-time official of the Nova Scotia LPP.

UNITED FISHERMEN AND ALLIED WORKERS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, claims 15,000 members. William Rigby, who was interned in 1940 and has been an LPP candidate in British Columbia, is its boss. His business agent is Alex Gordon, who has run for office on the LPP ticket, and at the last TLC convention at Hamilton won a seat on the executive with pro-Communist support.

In the TLC, also, are several "borderline' unions who have escaped inclusion in the foregoing list by narrow margins.

It should be emphasized strongly that in none of the unions mentioned is the mass of the membership predominantely Red. In each case a small minority of infiltrating Communists, organized into energetic, disciplined "cells," has contrived to seize control of the machinery of leadership.

Anti-Communists in the labor movement are discovering that they must be no less energetic if they want to save trade unionism for the worker, instead of seeing it forged into a weaping that will help deliver Canada to the tyranny of the Kremlin.

Tomorrow—What is behind the Communist war on Canadian religion, tradition and culture?

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A drastic shuffle in the United States' big-money golf tournaments—now a $600,000-a-year business, was proposed yesterday by George Schneiter, chairman of the Professional Golfers' Association Tournament Bureau. The new set-up would allow more people to "see good golf," lighten the nerve-strain on players like Sam Snead who has intimated he is ready to quit competition and open the door to promising young players who can't stand the expense of battling it out with veterans.

Instead $10,000 tournaments week after week, the pro clan would play in only a few—say 10—events during a season. They would carry a minimum purse of $20,000. Between tournaments, top players would compete in exhibition matches, permitting the public to "see golf at its best" but working no strain on the participants.

Frank Hogan, chairman of the Canadian Boxing Federation, said Saturday he will "look into" claims by Hubert Gagnier, dethroned Canadian featherweight champion, that Gagnier fought "under severe duress" against Fernando Gagnon. Gagnon defeated Gagnier March 1 at Quebec. Hogan said he is particularly interested in Gagnier's statements that there was pressure exercised by "federation authority" in Hogan's absence.

Veteran Gordon Richards, heavily favored to repeat as Britain's champion jockey for the 21st time in 24 years, broke on top again on Saturday as the 1948 flat racing season opened. He rode two opening-day winners.

Using profanity in a free-for-all at Waterloo Arena by Goalie Clive Woolner, of the Bridgeport senior hockey team, an Ontario Rural Hockey Association entry, cost him $5, and costs. Woolner settled out of court. A teammate, George Gastmeier, is scheduled to appear in court at Kitchener on Tuesday on a charge of assaulting a police officer.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP).—New York Yankees are burning up the Grapefruit League while Boston Red Sox, picked by many baseball experts as favorites to win the American league pennant, are stumbling along.

Yesterday at St. Petersburg, Fla., the Yankees met the Red Sox for the first time and took them into camp 5-2, in 10 innings with Joe DiMaggio's three-run homer breaking up the game.

It was the first time that Joe McCarthy, former Yankee boss and new Red Sox mentor, master-minded against his old club.

The Yankees have won seven games without a loss, limiting the opposition to 12 runs while scoring 32.

Notes from other camps:

LOS ANGELES — Vern Olsen, Chicago Cub discard, is expected to start for New York Giants today against his former mates. Olsen has been working out with the Giants along with Thornton Lee, 41-year-old Chicago White Sox lefthander who also is being given a chance for mound berth with the New Yorkers.

LOS ANGELES — Arm and leg miseries have seven members of the Chicago Cub squad on the shelf and Manager Charlie Grimm is becoming alarmed over the injuries.

Out of action are Hank Borowy, Don Johnson, Phil Cavarretta, Peanuts Lowrey, rookie Lloyd Lowe, Bill Nicholson and Clarence Maddern.

ST. PETERSBURG — St. Louis Cardinals can win the National League pennant if Stan Musial and Howie Pollet return to their 1946 form and Enos Slaughter escapes injury, Manager Eddie Dyer predicted today. "That was the big difference between last year's second-place club and my 1946 world champions," Dyer said.

11 Canadians In On Sweeps

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — At least 11 Canadians, holders of Irish Hospital Sweepstakes tickets on horses drawn in the Grand National steeplechase, stand chances of winning one of the 23 grand prices of $100,000 when the race is run in England March 20, a survey showed.

Perhaps the most hopeful are Mary Antoniuk and Orline Bauer, nurses at the Municipal Hospital at Ponoka, Alta. They are joint holders of a ticket on Silver Flame.

Owner of a half interest in a ticket on Revelry is John McFarlane, 17-year-old night-shift spinner at a woollen mill in Carleton Place, Ont. His uncle, Steven, Stanzell of Carleton Place, owns the other half of the ticket.

Mrs. Margaret Dunton of Hamilton holds a ticket on Brighter Sandy, a 20-to-1 shot.

Six British Columbians are known to hold tickets. They are Vancouver salesmen Ivan Gillespie and Harold Shor; union secretary C. P. Latham of New Westminster; Mrs. H. G. Morgan and Mrs. R. Stark, who share a ticket and an unidentified man in Victoria who signed "Mr. X."

Jamaica Runner Sets New Canadian Record

HAMILTON, Ont., March 15.—(CP).—Herb McKenley, lanky runner from Jamaica, established a new Canadian record for 300 yards at the 23rd annual track meet of the 91st Highlanders Saturday night.

McKenley, running in the colors of Shore A.C. of New Jersey, was clocked in 32.2, compared with the only Canadian record of 32.8 seconds.

He also started in the 600 but was taken ill and forced to retire after completing 200 yards.

In his record breaking event the big fellow got his opposition at the outset from Johnny Nelson of New York University and H. Miacco, also of N.Y.U., but after trailing for a short distance he took command and was some 15 yards in front at the finish.

Farm Training Short For Reds

TAMPA, Fla., March 15 (AP). — Cincinnati Reds' big inducement to young ball players is a belief in holding farm operations to a minimum in order to give the athletes a quick chance at the majors. "That's a talking point in signing young players," says assistant-president Gabe Paul. "We may have to send them back to the minors, but they get their shot." . . . Just by way of illustration, Ewell Blackwell pitched in two games for the Reds in his first pro season and had only one year in the minors before he returned to stay; Grady Hatton stepped right out of the army into the Cincinnati lineup.

Progressive Punishment

New York Yankees had a streak of 28 innings of exhibition ball without allowing a run when they faced the Reds Saturday before the game Manager Bucky Harris, with mock solemnity, warned his pitchers: "The first man who allows a run goes to Newark; two runs he goes to Kansas City; three to Norfolk, four to Binghampton and five he's out of baseball." . . . Starter Spec Shea qualified for Binghampton in one inning—and you'll see him in a Yank uniform all season.

Detroit Tigers quit bidding for Curt Simmons, the Phillies rookie pitcher, after offering him a $45,000 bonus . . . the Yanks' Tommy Henrich, is a collector of jazz records besides being a barbershop quartet performer.

How better cast iron gives jobs to Canadians

The ancient Egyptians spoke of iron as the precious metal. It was used for making swords, armor and ornaments. As early as 332 B.C. iron was being cast into various forms.

In modern times, various industries began extensive research on the effects of adding Nickel to cast iron, realizing what vast improvements had been imparted to steel by adding Nickel. In this research, International Nickel took a very active part.

Over a period of years, it was discovered that by adding Nickel sometimes with other alloying elements, cast irons could be produced which were definitely stronger, tougher, and more uniform in texture, more resistant to wear and rust.

The facts uncovered in this research work were carefully collected by International Nickel and broadcast freely to foundries, manufacturers of machinery and other potential users.

Thirty years ago the commercial use of Nickel in cast iron was unknown. Today many thousands of tons of Canadian Nickel are used for this purpose.

The production of this Canadian Nickel means jobs for hundreds of Canadians in the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries. The use of Nickel cast iron has led to great expansion in cast iron foundries, thus giving employment to still more men. Thus does research develop better products and create more employment.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THREE TIMES AS GOOD

COUNTLESS players, slavishly following acquired habits of thought—or lack of thought—try a finesse almost every time they have an ace-queen combination in their own declarer hand or dummy. They almost never think of the greater trick-building value of leading twice toward an ace-jack-ten combination, which is overwhelmingly better. Whereas finessing with an ace-queen is approximately an even-money proposition, the other is approximately a 3 to 1 chance to win.

West easily read his partner as being fairly well loaded in spades, so led the 9 of that suit to avoid leading into South's tenaces in hearts and the minors.

It was easy for South also to do some card-reading on his own assets, counting up eight positive tricks with two in spades, four in clubs and one each in the red suits. Looking for the spot to develop the requisite ninth trick, he saw the chance for a heart finesse and didn't even pay any attention to those "low honors" below the diamond A.

Feeling that his contract depended on the heart finesse, he won the opening lead in the dummy with the spade A and then finessed the heart Q, which lost to the K. West repeated spades with his 3, the K winning. Hoping now for a 3-3 division of the missing six hearts, South led to the A and laid down the 6, which the J won. West also cashed the 7, then led his club 9 because he properly disliked pitching away from his diamond Q.

South got that trick, but had to lead diamonds from his own hand, so was set.

The declarer's best play was to win the spade lead in dummy and finesse the diamond J. When in again he should have finessed the diamond 10. To win his ninth trick that way required any one of three situations to exist—the K with East, the Q with East or both the K and Q there. One set-up only could beat that play—both the K and Q with West, unlikely to the tune of 3 to 1.

Limit Fish

Gregory said it was not the money they wanted but to cut down violations. It was felt this could be done by requiring the sportsman to undergo the inconvenience of appearing in court.

Raise Pickerel Bag

W. P. Shields of Schumacher, president of the Northern Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, presented resolutions including a recommendation that the bag limit on pickerel and pike to be changed to allow eight per day regardless of species.

He said that at present the limit is six and six, resulting in many injured fish being thrown back after fishermen had gained the limit for one species and was attempting to bag the limit for the other.

Another resolution expressed fear that many streams would be completely fished out of speckled trout under present regulations. It suggested reduction from 20 per day or 10 pounds in weight to 15 a day or 10 pounds.

The federation also asked that consideration be given to prohibiting fishing through ice in waters known to contain speckled trout. It noted that owing to the lateness of the spring break up in Northern Ontario, the May 1 opening date finds most lakes covered with ice.

"Many people naturally take advantage of this condition to make large catches through the ice, including small fish which even if put back may be injured and die."

Recommeidations placed before the committee by the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association were read by Kendall Hanson of Nestor Falls, secretary-treasurer, and further explained by E. D. Calvert of Rainy River, president.

They included suggestions that:

Fish hatcheries and rearing ponds for muskies be established near Nestor Falls and in the Dryden area to insure adequate restocking of surrounding lakes.

Local needs for fish fry from the hatchery at Fort Frances be given priority before it is shipped to outside points.

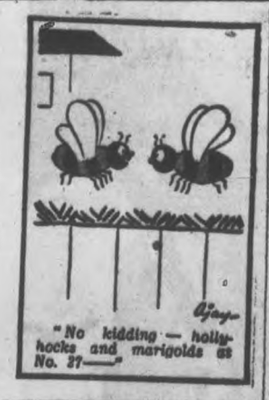
Declares Austria Won't Go Way of Czechoslovakia



VIENNA, March 15.—(Reuters).—Austria will not go the way of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Leopold Figl, Austria's federal chancellor, said in a speech today.

Events in that country had been a solemn warning, but the Communists were a dwarf party in Austria, not represented in the government or on the executive, and during the past week the trade unions had proved that they could keep their heads.

Referring to the Austrian treaty the chancellor said Austrians were frightened by the size of the sacrifices and the proposals by Gen. Cherriere, deputy French commander in chief in Austria, for the Austrian treaty, but the Soviets had cold - bloodedly doubled these proposals.

"We all know we cannot bear this burden out of our own strength, but we can only hope for a bearable agreement," he added.

Austria was still pressing for the treaty because the government was sure it could defend its independence under prevailing conditions.

Club Would Pass On Appointments

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—The Brant County Rod and Gun Club today asked the Ontario Legislature Fish and Game Committee to consider granting permission to the club to pass on any applications for appointment of deputy game wardens in the district. The resolution presented by H. V. Sutton of Windsor, president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, also asked that the taking of northern pike and pickerel by seine netting in Inner Long Point Bay on Lake Erie be prohibited and that these species be designated game fish.

Want Bounty On Wolves Boosted To $50

TORONTO, March 15 (CP). — A suggestion that the wolf bounty be increased to $50 from $25 was placed to-day before the Ontario Legislature Committee on Fish and Game.

The recommendation came from several sources, including the Thunder Bay Fish and Game Association, represented by Keith Dennis of Port Arthur.

It was one of several dealing with game which came before the committee although this day was reserved by habit for fish suggestions.

Other recommendations from the association asked that:

Moose hunting season be closed for two years until the completed report of Randolph Peterson of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology on the situation is released.

The fee for deer hunting be increased to $35 to come into line with other districts.

The opening of the deer hunting season be changed from October 15 to November 1 since the weather conditions were unfavorable before the latter date.

Fees be set for archers at $2 for resident and $10 for non-resident.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, March 16

THERE are excellent aguries for exceptional success and conspicuous achievement, in which there is prospect of promotion, disinction, with tokens of preferment from employers, superiors or others impressed by good work and high ambitions. However, there is hint of a confusion of thought, false moves, or too eager an effort to "make haste while the sun shines," thus complicating and frustrating. Be cautious in all activities, weigh facts carefully, and be attentive to all writings.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have auguries for a progressive, productive and pleasant year in which there may be support from those impressed by ingenuity, skill, and an aggressive determination to attain success. However, this much-desired aid might be complicated or frustrated by over-acting, unwise moves, or flighty acts, signs of irresponsibility in thought and action. Pause before making revision of plans and ideas, watch all writings and refrain from all that could involve or confuse. At this period "haste makes waste" of energy and substance.

A child born on this day while talented, enterprising and ambitious, winning support from high places, could forfeit all by haste, confusion and overacting.

Deny Mrs. St. Cyr Part Indian

TIMMINS, March 15—(CP)—Mrs. Clara Irene St. Cyr, committed to stand trial for murder in the axe slaying of her husband, is not an Indian, her two brothers said in a statement issued here yesterday.

When police arrested the 32-year-old woman who came to this northern gold-mining town in the early '30s, they said she was part Iroquois Indian. Her brothers, however, said she was born Clara Irene Rice, daughter of Israel Rice, American born of English descent, and Mary Ann Stewart, born in Kingston, of Scottish descent.

Jack Dalton, Sr., a proprietor of a bus line, here has donated $1,000 to be placed in a joint account to be administered by the Children's Aid Society for clothing, care and education of the six young children of Mrs. St. Cyr, charged with the murder of her 34-year-old laborer husband, Jerome, in the darkened bedroom of a dingy tarpaper shack last Thursday.

Now in Haileybury jail the sandy-haired woman will face trial at the Spring Assizes in Cochrane.

Broadway Play 'The Hallams' Not Too Popular

BY PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, March 15—(CP)—In "The Hallams," the newest play to arrive on Broadway, Rose Franken has written an engaging drama about a remarkably life-like family dominated by a tyrannical old woman.

Ethel Griffies gives a flawless performance as the matriarch of the Hallams, about whom Miss Franken wrote previously in "Another Language." The previous play ran 344 performances at the Booth Theatre but "The Hallams," also at the Booth, got lukewarm notice from the critics and it appears touch and go whether it will last beyond this week.

Most of the drama in "The Hallams" centres around the illness of Jerry Hallam, who has tuberculosis. He dies in the third act but not before unexpectedly marrying a former sanitarium patient, who tries in vain to nurse him back to health.

All this sounds pretty gloomy. But the play has its bright moments, including some of the acid comments on the family's foibles uttered by Helen Hallam, expertly played by Mildred Wall.

Miss Franken directed "The Hallams" and her husband, William Brown Meloney, produced it.

Future Plans

George Bernard Shaw, already represented here this season by "Men and Superman" and "John Bull's Other Island," will have another play on Broadway next week when his comedy, "You Can Tell,' opens at the Martin Beck Theatre Tuesday. Alfred Fischer will be associated with the theatre guild in the production and the cast will include Leo G. Carroll, Ralph Forbes and Faith Brook, daughter of the English actor, Clive Brook. . . Also expected to open this week is "Joy to the World."

Driver Trapped As Car Upsets

ALLISTON, Ont., March 15 — (CP). — Peter McCabe, 62, of nearby Athlone, was fatally injured Saturday night when trapped under his automobile which skidded on an icy road and overturned. His 12-year-old son, Jimmy, saved himself and a companion, Ronald Horne, eight, by kicking out the heavy windshield.

Jerome Horne, father of Ronald and Harry Feheley, a visitor at the Horne home, summoned by the terrified boys, spent an hour trying to lift the car off McCabe but by the time they freed him he was dead.

McCabe's older brother, Matthew, was killed last September when struck down by a truck just 200 yards from the spot where the car overturned.

KILLED IN PALESTINE — Leib Jaffe (ABOVE), 72-year-old managing director of the Palestine Foundation, was killed in the bombing of a wing of the Jewish agency headquarters, which, reports say, killed or injured from 40 to 100 persons and left portions of the headquarters in flames. Jaffe, well known on this continent, died immediately in the terrific explosion which Palestine government announcement said occurred after a car laden with explosives was driven up to the building and two boxes were put in the hallway by the occupants of the car.

Meat Strike Halves U.S. Supply

140 Major Factories Will Be Affected Ignore Truman Plea

CHICAGO, March 16 —(AP)—Picket lines formed at meat packing plants in the United States today as 100,000 employees were called out on strike despite a last-minute effort by President Truman to settle the wage dispute.

The work stoppage, affecting approximately 140 of the country's major and independent meat plants, is expected to cut the country's meat supply in two.

The strike became effective at 12:01 a.m. local time, and immediately pickets were posted in several of the cities across the country, including Chicago, where 20,000 workers are involved.

All of the major packers and scores of independent companies were affected by the strike, ordered last night by the executive committee of the United Packing House Workers of America (CIO).

150,000 On Job

However, about 150,000 other employees in the meat plants were expected to remain at work. They are members of the independent unions and of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union (AFL) which have settled their wage differences with the packers.

The committee, after receiving Truman's telegram urging work stoppage be delayed while a special board of inquiry investigated the dispute, telegraphed the President:

"A delay of strike action at this time would obviously serve no fruitful purpose in promoting a solution of this wage issue."

Truman had asked the union to continue negotiations until the board reported to him April 1. Under the procedure proposed by the President the strike would have been delayed 80 days.

The strike stemmed from a dispute over the C.I.O. union's demand for a wage increase of 20 cents an hour. The packers offered a pay boost of nine cents an hour, which recently was granted the A.F.L. workers.

May Re-open Long Branch Arms Factory

TORONTO, March 16.—(CP).—A Toronto paper says today that small industries renting space in the government-built Small Arms Ltd. buildings at suburban Long Branch have been informed they may continue to rent space only on a day-to-day basis. The paper says ths supports rumors that the plant is to be re-opened.

Former employees of Small Arms, Ltd. and of Research Enterprises at suburban Leaside, a second government-built munitions plant, have been questioned about their present employment, the newspaper said.

The Small Arms plant was built in 1941 and produced rifles and Sten guns during the war. At one time it employed more than 6,000 persons. Research Enterprises Ltd., made optical and precision instruments.

Two-Gun Religious Maniac Shoots 7 School Students

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP).—A two-gun maniac, imbued with a wild urge to "kill Roman Catholics," fired a fusillade of shots into a crowd of 400 screaming Roman Catholic school students yesterday, killing one boy and wounding six others. "They killed my son, they killed my son," the slayer, identified by police as Serbian-born Marko L. Markovich, 64, cried brokenly after his capture.

The attack, which plunged the busy Columbus circle into an uproar, took place shortly before 3 p.m. outside an armory where Roman Catholic students were rehearsing for tomorrow's St. Patrick's Day parade.

Brandishing two revolvers, the fanatic rushed into the terror-struck crowd and opened fire. Thomas Brady, 16, slumped to the sidewalk, dead, his head pillowed on a textbook, "Christianity and Civilization," he had been carrying.

Three other teen-age students crumpled to the street, critically wounded. A trio of others were nicked by the spray of bullets.

Detectives quoted Markovich as saying that as he approached the armory he asked who the boys were and was told "school boys from a Catholic church."

"At the word Roman Catholic I went mad," Markovich was quoted as saying, "I started firing bullets."

Assistant District Attorney Henry Whitney said the unemployed welder blamed the death of his 13-year-old son on "foul play of Catholics, Italians and politicians." Police said the child died of natural causes four years ago.

Britain Draws Nine Million

LONDON, March 16.— (Reuters).—Britain last week drew the last $9,000,000 which she is entitled to draw this month from her $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan, it was learned today.

As $6,000,000 had been drawn the previous week, last week's withdrawal completed the quota of $15,000,000 for this month and of $45,000,000 for the current quarter.

Quotas for subsequent quarters have not been disclosed.

In January and February the drawings were spread over the month.

About $242,000,000 of the Canadian loan remains, but further withdrawals will require a new agreement between Britain and Canada.

U.N. Council To Decide About Force

5-Power Commission Predicts Chaos Shortly In Holy Land

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP).—The United States, Russia and France agreed in principle today that a threat to peace exists in Palestine.

The big powers did not reach a final agreement on recommendations to the United National Security Council, however, because China had some reservations on the wording of a proposed resolution.

Chinese delegate T. F. Tsiang, this month's president of the council, was authorized to report to the council at Lake Success that no agreement had been completed by the big powers.

He also was asked to tell the council the four big powers wanted more time to try to reach a unanimous agreement.

Representatives of the four powers planned to meet in the offices of secretary-general Trygve Lie at Lake Success immediately after the council meeting.

The measure of agreement reached this forenoon was significant. If the council finds a threat to peace actually exists, the UN then would be in a position to use force to restore order in Palestine.

The United Nations Palestine commission in its second monthly report meanwhile predicted strife, bloodshed and chaos in the Holy Land this spring.

Sounds Warning

The five-power commission charged with carrying out partition of the Holy Land sounded this warning in its second monthly report to the Security Council, released here at Lake Success.

The document was circulated to delegates as the big powers staked their hopes for peace in Palestine on Jewish and Arab acceptance of truce proposals. After 10 days of apparent fruitless consultations, the big powers yesterday appealed to both sides lay down their arms pending new efforts to solve the Holy Land's troubles.

Conditions are steadily deteriorating in Palestine, the commission report said, leaving little hope for an orderly transfer of authority to the UN when Britain gives up her mandate May 15.

The report said the refusal of Britain, as mandatory power, to co-operate in implementing partition prevented co-ordination. It added that present conditions in

Evacuate Children

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP). — As fears that the turbulent Etobicoke Creek would overflow its banks, 70 children were in process of being evacuated this afternoon from the flats area of suburban Long Branch. They will be housed in the six churches of the village. Evacuation was ordered after word was received that the ice on the creek had gone out at Snelgrove, north of Brampton.

Flow Of Coal At Dead Stop; 265,000 Strike

PITTSBURGH, March 16.—(AP).—The flow of coal to this steel capital came to a dead stop today as thousands more bituminous miners joined the "pensions walkout" of the United Mine Workers (Ind.).

More than 265,000 miners—or 65 per cent of the 400,000 soft coal miners in the United States were idle in the two-day-old work stoppage. They seek $100 monthly pensions for veteran miners.

All major steel industry and commercial mines in the Pittsburgh-Uniontown area were shut. The United States Steel Corporation, leading steel producer, was losing its entire Pennsylvania coal nutput of 60,000 tons daily, with 14 mines shut down.

Other steel firms affected included Jones and Laughlin, Republic, Weirton, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

All 23,000 members of the Independent United Mine Workers had quit their jobs in Illinois and large quotas had stopped work in 11 other states.

In Washington, mediation officials hastily explored ways to stop the walkout, but were undecided what to do. The strongest possibility seemed that the government would try to mediate as long as there seemed hope of a solution.,

Even should President Truman seek another injunction against Lewis, there was some question whether the court could find anything to restrain. Lewis' contract, signed by the industry last July 8,. provided only that miners should work as long as they were able and willing."

The Taft-Hartley Act provides machinery for keeping vital industries going in a national emergency but it would take some time to get its provision into action.

Include Western Germany In Marshall Plan, Paris Conference Rules

Occupation Authorities, German Advisors Represent New Member; Portugal Urges Inclusion Of Spain

PARIS, March 16—(AP).—The European recovery conference voted unanimously today to include western Germany in the scope of the Marshall Plan. Portugal proposed that Spain also be included. Action on this suggestion was deferred. The recovery program will be financed by the United States at an estimated first year cost of $5,300,000,000.

The conference of the 16 powers charged its experts to draw up statutes of a permanent organization and articles of a treaty to bind it.

The experts will go on with their work in closed meetings and release their decisions from time to time.

Herve Alphand of the French Foreign Office, read the report recommending the inclusion of Western Germany in the recovery program.

"It being impossible to achieve the economic unity of Germany, it was thus reasonable that the French zone and the Anglo-American bizone be independent members of the committee for European reconstruction," Alphand said.

The three Western zones of Germany will be represented by delegates from the Allied military governments assisted by "competent officials." The reference was understood to mean German officials. Alphand said the question of a vote for the German delegates would not arise.

The conference also adopted without objection a report on progress, to be submitted to the United States.

Blizzard Sweeps Sudbury Area; Wires Damaged

SUDBURY, March 16—(CP)—Telephone and telegraph communications were disrupted here today following a March blizzard that swept the surrounding area with wet, heavy snow.

Highways officials said traffic on district roads is perilous owing to slippery conditions.

Telephone lines to Espanola, Nairn, Little Current, Blind River, Burwash, Chapleau, Levack, Creighton and Falconbridge have been disrupted and repair crews are handicapped by a snowfall of two to four inches in their efforts to clear the lines of short circuit.

Only one telegraph wire was in operation between here and Toronto at noon today. Telegraph service to Sault Ste. Marie was cut off.

Railway and bus lines officials, however, report all scheduled operating although extremely slippery conditions and poor visibility is being experienced.

Butter Jumps Helped Farmers

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP).—Farmers, creameries and wholesalers benefitted from last year's sharp jumps in butter prices, Dairy Commissioner J. F. Singleton told the Commons Price committee today.

Mr. Singleton was questioned on this point by Committee Counsel Fabio Monet as the committee spent its second day in its inquiry into high butter prices.

The commissioner saaid farmers had benefitted both insofar as increased production gave them greater returns and, to a certain extent, in higher prices for butterfat. However, he could not say if prices of butterfat kept pace with those of butter.

Others who cashed in one the rise, he said, were those holding stock of butter. These would be wholesalers and some creameries.

Questioned about the series of price increases in butter between last July and November, Mr. Singleton said the main factor was a developing shortage which spurred buying.

Princess Margaret Ill But Makes Speech

GLASGOW, March 16—(AP).—Princess Margaret, who became ill after an all night trip to Scotland, recovered enough to make a speech today to 30,000 flag-waving Scots.

She looked pale but spoke crisply and confidently as she accepted the freedom of Glasgow on behalf of the Highland Light Infantry, of which she is Colonel.

One battalion of the regiment paraded for her. The other is serving in Palestine. In her broadcast speech, the 17-year-old Princess told the troops in the Holy land that "we are all looking forward to your return home."

Held Up Taxi Driver?

TORONTO, March 16—(CP).—Provincial Police today were seeking an escaped inmate of the Ontario Mental Hospital, Whitby, for questioning in connection with the brutal holdup of an Oshawa taxidriver last Thursday.

Police said a possibility existed that the inmate was responsible for robbing Lloyd Prince, 21, of $6 after striking him on the head. The money was later found scattered on the roadway, torn in little pieces.

Dog Perishes In Goose Pond

The death struggle of a big red setter in the icy waters of the Goose Pond was watched helplessly from the shore by residents of the Elcome Crescent district and would-be rescuers from the city Fire Department. The dog had apparently gone out on the treacherously thawing ice and had crashed through.

For more than 20 minutes, watchers saw the big animal try to get a grip on the sides of the ice again. Several times it raised itself from the water and half-lifted its weight on the ice. As soon as the full weight came, however, the ice edges crumpled and the dog was again struggling.

The fire department arrived shortly before the struggle ended. The body floated in the main stream just before the department's boat arrived to go out on the pond and rescue it.

First alarm was given by Doreen McClure, 14, 691 Elcome Crescent. and Fay Schwartz, 700 Elcome Crescent. On their way to school about one o'clock this afternoon, the two girls heard the dog's bark. Seeing the situation, they returned to Doreen's father, OPP Lloyd McClure, who telephone the fire department.

However, with the cold water and the desperate struggle, it is believed that the dog died of heart failure before any action could be taken.

Australia Needs More People

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — Rt. Hon. F. M. Forde, Australian High Commissioner to Canada, said to-day that Australia, with only 7,500,000 population, realizes she must "populate or perish."

"We are convinced that our country can carry a population of 20,000,000," he said in an address prepared for delivery to the Optimist Club. "In fact, we believe that our population must be increased."

The Australian Government's immigration plan called for 70,000 newcomers a year—at least 50,000 from Great Britain and 20,000 from other countries.

Smash $200,000 Depot Of Greek Guerrillas

SALONIKA, Greece, March 16. —(AP).—Police said today they have smashed a guerrilla underground recruiting station and quartermaster depot worth nearly $200,000.

They said 47 persons were arrested, including eight women. The organization was equipped with busses, trucks, motor-driven caiques (small boats), machine shops, and small shoe factories which operated throughout Northern Greece.

Records disclosed more than 150,000,000 drachmas ($32,000) had been collected recently from Communists. Assets listed included 500 gold sovereigns ($2,300) from the sale of silk smuggled in from Albania.

Why Reds Fight Canadian Institutions

Traditions, Culture and Religion Are All Bases For Attacks

(Editor's Note—The Peterborough Examiner to-day presents the sixth in a series of articles revealing Communists' preparations for a Red revolution in Canada, based on facts gathered by Don Cameron, staff reporter of the Windsor Star, in the course of a long and careful investigation that took him to many parts of the Dominion.)

By DON CAMERON

Why are the Communists so relentless in their attacks on Canada's "bourgeois" traditions, culture and religion?

The unrestrained viciousness of their attacks have a deeper significance than most people realize. Stewart Smith, of the inner circle of the Canadian Red leadership in Toronto—the son of a one-time Methodist minister who was converted to Marxism—had a calculated purpose in mind when he wrote, some time ago, in the Communist Young Worker:

"The paganism of 5,000 years ago lives in the Christian religion of today. It is perpetrated and supported by the master class. Ignorance, superstitional all that goes with these is in the interests of the master class. But when the masses of the workers have shattered their chains of economic slavery, one blow will shatter all the chains of religious superstition."

When Communist Leader Tim Buck and his top-level aides in the national Red hierarchy—such men as Joseph B. Salsberg, Toronto MPP, Leslie Morris, vituperative editor of the Canadian Tribune, and Harvey Murphy, born Chernikofsky—inveigh against expressions of patriotism and national pride, they have good reasons for their stand.

When the Communist Party of Canada passed and published, for its restricted membership, resolutions condemning the YMCA, the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides, it was part of a carefully considered plan.

Why do Communists fear these things?

Here are three stories that reveal part of the answer. They come out of the northern gold fields and the bush, where this reporter spent several days observing Red activities and attempting to gauge their success.

"The Voice of the Bush"

The first story could not want a better title than that worn by a pro-Red radio broadcast that blankets the northland weekly:

"The Voice of the Bush"

A brace of Communist Bruce Magnusson's organizers for the Lumber and Sawmill Workers were doing a missionary job in a bush camp where some 40 Ukrainians, recently brought from displaced persons camps in Europe, were quartered with a dozen veteran loggers. In the tarpaper-sealed recreation hall an impromptu meeting was going well and at least half of the newcomers seemed eager to join the union.

Confident that his audience was with him, one of the spellbinders deviated from the straight union story and began upon a line that would ordinarily have been reserved for a future meeting, when the neophytes would have been subjected to further indoctrination. He began with half-truths about the inequalities and injustices in the capitalistic system.

He spoke of the healthy and happy state of the worker under Communism in Russia and the Ukraine, and when the applause came did not notice that it was confined to some of the veteran bush workers, who had long since been converted to revolutionary doctrine.

Canada's reactionary government must be overthrown by the workers it had oppressed, the speaker cried. Upon the ruins of greedy capitalism the workers must establish a proletarian dictatorship—

Too late he heard the mutterings and saw the angry looks on the faces of the new Canadians. A husky youngster stepped forward, fists clenched. He shouted something about the brand of Communism he had witnessed in Europe, and it hadn't looked good to him. He'd been promised freedom and opportunity in Canada, and so far he hadn't seen any lack of them.

An Old Trick of Agitators

It was one of those crises that could easily develop into a free-for-all fight. Swiftly the organizer who was not speaking resorted to a favorite trick of agitators. Nudging the veteran beside him, he began to bawl a song at the top of his voice, the first song that occurred to him, the Communist "Internationale."

One—two—half a dozen voices joined in. Most of the veteran loggers were singing, or trying to, by the time the first reached the line, "Arise, ye slaves, no more in thrall!" Some sang with a will, and some just because they didn't want to tangle with these young immigrants.

For an instant it appeared they would tangle, anyway. The Ukrainian who had stepped forward turned toward the nearest singer, drawing back his fist. But another young fellow—one who had studied hard in the camp school to learn as much as possible of the language and traditions of this new land—grasped his arm.

"O Canada" Stops Them

The second Ukrainian threw back his head, opened his mouth, and began to sing also.

His accent wasn't good and some of the words escaped him entirely, but the voice was rich and deep and the melody was unmistakable.

It was "O Canada."

A fellow immigrant picked it up, and another. The song grew like a peal of thunder. None knew all the words, but all knew the tune, and out of the hubbub 40 voices almost miraculously brought out a single line in perfect unison:

"Glorious and free . . ."

The "Internationale" didn't have a chance. It faltered, was swallowed up, died altogether. With the slow, powerful rhythm of the anthem beating about them like ocean waves, the union organizers looked at one another and quietly left the hall.

30,000 More Patrol Italy

Plan To Break Any Attempt At Leftist Coup

ROME, March 16 —(AP)—Italy has added 30,000 army men to public security forces and "can break any illegal attempt from the Left" to seize power, Vice-Premier Tandolfo Pacciardi announced today.

In the critical period which will follow the national elections of April 18, the government "will be in an even better position to meet any attempted revolt," said Pacciardi, who is chief of the cabinet's public order committee.

In that period the new government must be formed on the basis of the elections. Pacciardi predicted the Communist-led Popular Front will not get a majority.

He said the coalition which now makes up the government will be continued in the post-election assembly.

Some observers said Communists suffered a severe blow from the United States announcement that Marshall Plan aid will stop if Italy goes Communist in April.

Capture Rebel Stronghold

Two Columns Of Troops Seize Leader's Ranch

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 16 — (AP). — Costa Rican troops have captured the stronghold of rebel leader Jose Figueres, the government said today.

The country is completely calm, a communique added, and the government has everything under control.

The captured rebel stronghold was identified as San Cristobal, 45 miles south of here. The government also said one of Figueres' mountain ranches was taken.

Two columns of troops, one commanded by Col. Diego Lopez Roig, director-general of national police, converged on the ranch via different routes last night.

In addition to 160 prisoners, federal troops took 50,000 rounds of ammunition, six cases of dynamite, 300 hand grenades and a number of rifles. The attack was preceded by bombing, the government said, but it did not elaborate.

Other Countries In World May Be Forced Into Union Against Russia—St. Laurent

Says Peoples Of Free World Must Unite To Prevent Another War; Can Be No Neutrality In Spiritual Conflict

HAMILTON, March 16—(CP).—The possibility of countries other than in Western Europe being forced into a "spiritual, cultural, economic and political union to offset the union of the totalitarian states under the aggressive leadership of Russia," was suggested last night by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent. Speaking of signs of "promising and I hope effective democratic counteraction," Mr. St. Laurent told the Hamilton Junior Chamber of Commerce the Nazis were "stopped only by the united forces of the whole free world.

"May we not hope that these peoples of the free world can unite to prevent another world war as they did unite to win the last one?

Mr. St. Laurent referred to what he called ominous declarations on the international situation by Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain and State Secretary Marshall of the United States and mentioned the recent events in Czechoslovakia.

"We cannot be undisturbed by such declarations and happenings . . . on our side of the line are all those in every country who work and fight to preserve freedom and dignity of the individual against the unbridled impact of totalitarian power and brutal might.

"There can be no neutrality in this conflict which is as spiritual as it is political," said Mr. St. Laurent.

He declared "the policy of Russia seems to be to insist on action entirely and exclusively in her own interests, or, if that is not agreed to, on inaction in the hope that the dislocations of economy of Germany and the drain of the resources of the United Kingdom, the U.S.A. and even France . . . will so weaken them as eventually to force a decision on her own terms."

Blame Demand For Butter Cost

OTTAWA, March 16 — (CP). — The Commons price committee had evidence today that natural supply-and-demand forces accounted for last year's jump in butter prices that caused reimposition of ceilings this winter.

As the committee launched an investigation into butter prices yesterday, Kenneth Taylor, Prices Board chairman, said there was no evidence that hoarding or market-rigging had caused increases totalling about 17 cents a pound between last August and September. He saw no indication of large-scale black marketing.

Mr. Taylor and J. F. Singleton, dairy commissioner, said active bidding by butter buyers, in the face of a declining supply, largely accounted for last summer's leap in prices.

Mr. Taylor declared that the general outlook for butter supplies now was satisfactory. There might be local shortages here and there in the next few weeks, but these would not develop on a large scale before spring production came in.

People Uneasy Over Shooting

PEMBROKE, March 16 (CP)—Townspeople were reported becoming restless today as Ontario Provincial Police still sought the slayer of James Edwards, 26-year-old taxi driver, found dead Sunday in his cab on a lonely road 16 miles east of here. He had been shot through the right temple.

Although police have launched a widespread search and have questioned numerous persons, residents remembered the still unsolved death of another taxi driver in Pembroke.

In January, 1945, 17-year-old Arthur Seelinger was slugged with a 22-inch length of iron pipe southeast of Pembroke and died in hospital without being able to disclose the name of his assailant.

Among those questioned yesterday was an unidentified man who, according to police, owed Edwards $1,000. A resident of the district, he was reported detained by police who declined to say whether any charge had been placed against him.

Ptomaine Poisoning Puts 3 In Hospital

MAYNOOTH, March 16 (ENS)—Ptomaine poisoning is believed responsible for the condition today of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Goodwin and son Karl, who are all under medical care. Mrs. Goodwin, the most seriously ill of the three, is in the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital. Mr. Goodwin and his son are at home.

The illness was discovered Monday at noon hour. The eldest son, Donald Goodwin, returning to his home, found all three ill and unable to assist themselves. He summoned help of Mrs. Jack Hall, a nurse, who gave emergency treatment and called in Dr. Anderson of Bancroft, who had the mother taken to hospital.

Donald Goodwin expressed the belief that the sickness was caused from the family's habit of preferring to keep its morning porridge for two or three days. He thinks it likely that the metal container in which it was kept was responsible for the poisoning.

the Holy Land fully supported the commission's earlier appeal for international armed force.

"Unless security is restored in Palestine, implementation of the (partition) resolution of the general assembly will not be possible," the report said.

". . . when the mandate is terminated Palestine is likely to suffer severely from administrative chaos and widespread strife and bloodshed."

The commission also said it would be unable to meet the April 1 deadline for establishing provisional council of government.

Term Of 15 Years For Armed Robbery

TORONTO, March 16—(CP).—David Nolan of Toronto was sentenced today to 15 years on a charge of armed robbery, arising from the theft of a safe last month from an east-end hotel.

Nolan was captured after three others fled with the safe. Shortly before his arrest he had been freed after serving a 10-year sentence in Kingston Penitentiary.

During the trial, the 32-year-old man testified he had not been armed although he believed one of his accomplices had a gun.

Nolan and his companions held the watchman at gun point and wheeled the safe from the hotel office. It was later recovered on an east suburban road. None of the money was missing.

Maimed Vets Ask Higher Pension Rates

OTTAWA, March 16 —(CP)—Wounded and maimed veterans of both World Wars appealed yesterday to the Commons' Veteran Committee for pension increases to meet high living costs.

Government legislation now under committee study would boost from $75 to $87 a month the rate for a totally disabled, single pensioner. The Canadian Legion asked $90, the National Council of Veterans Associations $100. Both organizations urged proportionate increases for widows, wives and dependents.

The national council's managing director, Col. E. A. Baker of Toronto, said a "sense of bitter injustice" might grow from disabled veterans' dissatisfaction over existing rates.

A special appeal was made by John Counsell of Toronto for paraplegics, persons paralyzed from the hips down. Speaking for the Canadian Paraplegic Association, the wounded Dieppe veteran said "The request for an increase in helplessness allowance is of first importance to the most seriously disabled of war casualties."

Veterans Minister Gregg told the delegations their proposals would receive the cabinet's "best thought."

Include Germany

Europe and the world will be decided by the intensity of your work during the next few months. The war against poverty and want will be won. We must be ready immediately to go into action as soon as the European reconstruction program is decided. We must bring hope and security to the working masses and liberty to all."

Portugal's foreign minister, Jose Caeira da Mata, proposed before the second and final general session of the conference this afternoon that Generalissimo Franco's Spain be included. He praised Spain as having made a great contribution to European culture and mentioned her "considerable agricultural resources."

He approved the invitation to German representatives.

The conferences's second and final meeting opened at 3:15 p.m.

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, the chairman, called first upon Foreign Minister Sean MacBride of Eire.

Must Have New Basis

MacBride told the delegates "It is necessary to reconstruct the European economy on an entirely new basis." This basis was:

1. To organize for increased production.

2. A fairer distribution of raw materials and finished goods.

MacBride said that, for Eire to make her best contribution, "the economic unity of Ireland ought to be recognized."

The admission of Germany was one of four points for organized recovery with which the committee had to deal. The others were a multilateral treaty. A permanent international organization, and a list of recovery needs.

Britain and France proposed the inclusion of Germany, which before the war was the industrial heart of Europe. The western zones of Germany are expected to be represented by the occupation authorities, assisted by German advisors. The Germans would have no votes, but they would take part in deliberations of the conference working committee.

A total news blackout will descend on the conference as soon as the plenary sessions are complete and the conference is taken over by the so-called working party, it was learned in conference circles.

Britain, France Work Out Colonial Plans

LONDON, March 61.—(CP).—Side by side with plans for economic collaboration between western European powers, Britain and France are acting together on colonial developments involving 37,800,000 Africans.

Negotiations on colonial co-operation have been overshadowed by discussions on how Britain, France and the "Benelux" countries can best assist each other in European reconstruction. But they have made substantial progress since Foreign Secretary Bevin said in the Commons Jan. 22:

"The organization of western Europe must be economically supported. That involves the closest possible collaboration with the commonwealth and with overseas territories, not only British but French, Dutch, Belgian and Portuguese."

Make Start

A start has been made in West African colonial territories, involving 16,000,000 natives in French West Africa — Senegal, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Dahomey, French Dusan, Mauritania, Niger, Dakar and Dependencies — and 21,800,000 in British West Africa —Nigeria, Gambia, Gold Coast, Sierra Leone, Togoland and Cameroons.

A preliminary Anglo-French conference in Paris in February agreed that co-ordination of marketing policies would help maintain standards of living of the African population by protecting producers against a future fall in world prices.

The negotiators agreed to continue efforts to facilitate the movement of colonial produce to markets, such as the shipment of British Togoland produce through the port of Lome in French Togo, the extension of rail communications from the movement of French Guinea produce through Sierra Leone, the improvement of facilities on the Benue River, Nigeria, for transport from the Upper Cameroons and better use of the Niger river.

Girl Held Prisoner Found Badly Beaten

CINCINNATI, March 16 (AP).—Barbara Sevedge, 22, is in hospital today recovering from a beating police described as the "most brutal and savage" they had ever encountered.

Harold E. Boehm, 32, faced charges of rape, maiming and sodomy, filed by Mrs. Wanda Sarver, the girl's sister.

Mrs. Sarver said her sister had failed to come home for two weeks and she believed Boehm had held the girl prisoner. She trailed the man to his room and then called police.

Police said the girl was nearly nude and in a semi-conscious condition when found. Her face was battered, her lips swollen and her eyes closed. There were cuts and bruises on her body and burns, apparently from cigarets, on her feet, police said.

The initials B. S. and H. B. were carved into her left ear near the shoulder, apparently with a penknife.

Farm Income Tax Cuts Production Banbury Says

CAMPBELLFORD, March 16 — (ENS). — Ralph C. Banbury, district agricultural representative, guest speaker at a Rotary dinner meeting Monday, said that the only consolation urban people can have for the present high costs of foods is the fact that for 30 years they have paid a low price for the farmers products.

Production on farms is dropping, he said, but the demand for agricultural products is still great, and as long as the present ratio of supply and demand exists, prices will stay high.

A reason for lower production, he said, may be due to the more rigid enforcement of farmers' income tax payments. During the crisis of the war years the government was not too strict in collecting income taxes from farmers but now things have changed and the farmer, instead of paying increased taxes, lets his production drop.

The population of farmers has dropped also, in fact Mr. Banbury said, there is a general lack of interest in farming. It is an occupation which ties people down to a seven-day week routine of long hours. Most farmers, he said, would rather pay $10-15,000 to educate their sons to be doctors or lawyers than spend a similar amount establishing them on a farm.

Mr. Banbury spoke for a while on artificial insemination and termed it one of the greatest steps toward improvement of livestock that has been taken in our generation, especially in this district where there are no "cash crops," the farmer must depend chiefly on cows for his income, and in this way herds can be economicially built up to produce more milk with higher butterfat content.

J. K. Tott, director of physical fitness and recreation for the Department of Education, will speak at next Monday's meeting. Tentative plans for a wading and swimming pool and playground have been drawn up by the club and Mr. Tett is to speak on this theme.

On a motion by Arthur Loucks the club donated $25 to the Red Cross campaign.

Rap Montgomery For Uniforms

LONDON, March 16. —(Reuters).—Field Marshall Viscount Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, was criticized in the House of Commons last night for his informality in dress.

Col. Gomme Duncan, Conservative, urged War Minister Shinwell "to persuade the field marshall to go about dressed as a field marshal and not in dress which is not laid down in any regulations of the regular army."

Shinwell replied that he regarded the field marshal's dress as "most picturesque and attractive."

Duncan retorted that the dress was entirely outside the regulations, and asked:

"Is it right that the private soldier and officer should have to comply with the regulation and not the Chief of the Imperial General Staff."

Shinwell said that he would have to look into the precise regulation, adding: "If the chief of the Imperial General Staff is to be castigated—well, we shall do it in private."

Palace Kitchen Staff Won't Stoke Up Fires

LONDON, March 16—(Reuters)—Buckingham Palace kitchen staff today refused to stoke up fires in the boiler house of the Royal residence, left cold by wage-striking employees, a strike committee official said.

Apart from the Palace and other residences of the Royal Family, the strike of engineers and elevator attendants affected more than 45 buildings from which the business of the country is run, ranging from the House of Commons to law courts and ministries.

The 1,600 men said to be on strike claimed an increase in wages and 4 pound 6d, ($19.50) to 5 pound 10s.

MORE ABOUT—

Why Reds Fight

Four of the indoctrinated loggers followed them. The rest, some with sheepish shame in their eyes, stayed to sing.

There was no fight that night, nor were there any new recruits for Bruce Magnisson's Red - headed union.

But for a solid hour afterward the cold winter stillness of the bush reverberated with the stirring sound of voices raised in songs of freedom, hymns of allegiance to the one undying tradition of men of good will everywhere—a tradition Communists hate and must stifle before they can hope to win the battle for the world.

Jockeyed By Reds

The second story might be called: "Good News Travels Fast, Too".

It has to do with a scoop scored not long ago by the Porcupine Advance, a weekly newspaper published in Timmins, heart of the Porcupine gold-mining district. For weeks the townspeople and dwellers in surrounding territory had read disquieting news and heard disturbing rumors about the activities of Red-tinged labor agitators from the United States, led by Reid Robinson, eastern vice-president of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

Reluctant miners were being jockeyed into a position where the union, dominated by these men from the States, soon would call a strike that would cripple the whole northland, the rumors said. Rank-and-file unionists were helplessly under the control of the alien leaders.

Don Delaplante, editor of the Advance, was barred as a matter of course from a business meeting of Timmins Miners Union, Local 241, IUMMSW, but that did not stop him from getting the news of what took place at the meeting. Through "connections" he learned the full story—and it was one a good many thousand people in the Porcupine were waiting for.

The rank-and-filers and local officials of the union had shown plenty of fight. By a two-thirds vote they had refused to let Reid Robinson address the meeting or have any voice in the local's affairs. The argument had been violent and fisticuffs between non-Red miners and Robinson's coterie had been narrowly averted.

The story got the eight-column streamer line in the Advance, but that did not settle the question of how to get the news to everyone in the district who would be inerested. No newspaper outside a totalitarian state has ever had complete coverage in its territory, and this one had strong daily competition.

Clergyman To Rescue

The editor mentioned his problem to a clergyman who happened to drop in—one who viewed with alarm the Kremlin-encouraged crusade of Communists against all he considered best in the Canadian culture.

"Leave it to me," the clergyman said. "All you have to do is print as many papers as you think will be needed. I'll see that they get around."

That afternoon schoolboys began to congregate in the Advance offices, across the street from union headquarters. Nearly two score of them volunteered to distribute the papers.

That night everybody in the Porcupine district, with the exception of the blind and the illiterate, if any, had a chance to read that headline and the story beneath it — because a man had gone to the trouble to speak to a group of Canadian school children about the importance of people knowing and understanding events that have a bearing upon their welfare.

Communists would put a stop to things like that. They can't afford to have the whole truth made public, ever. Invariably they have suppressed free speech and freedom of the press wherever they have gained power and through incessant propaganda have done their best to suppress freedom of thought and hope.

Seek Priest's Advice

The title of the third story won't be any more original than the others. We'll call it: "Knowledge Is Power."

A group of miners in another community, having listened to long harangues of ultra-radical agitators, could not make up their minds whether to join a local union. They asked their parish priest, whose good sense had helped them often before, what he thought about it.

"Unions can be fine, constructive organizations when their members try to make them so," said the priest. "At their best they are honest brotherhoods of workers, beneficial to their members, to the employers and to the community at large. Do you think you can contribute toward making your union one of the best?"

It turned out that none of them knew much about unions, notwithstanding the speeches they had listened to. So the priest said he'd see that they had a chance to learn.

Every evening for a week, after that, the miners listened carefully to a dissertation by a friend of the priest's, a man educated in economies and experienced in industrial relations. They learned about theories of costs, wages and profits. They came to see that industry should be—but isn't always—an honest partnership between the worker and the employer, based on mutual honesty and respect.

"Now," said the priest, at the end of the week, "by all means join your union and do all you can to make this community a better place for your friends, your families and all who share it with you. And don't forget while you're about it, that you're Christians."

Proves Disturbing

Communists are deeply disturbed by things of this sort. Whether they are attempting to seize control of a union, turn a reputable society into a Communist front organization, or just spread generally the false impression that Reds are honestly trying to improve the workers' lot, they always have trouble with people who have been taught to think for themselves.

There is no flexibility in the Communist creed. There is no room in it for argument or reason, or anything except blind acceptance. Where Communists must temporize to meet changing situations, and adapt their visible words and actions to needs of the moment, their only chance is to lie, distort and create smokescreens of confusion to conceal their one and only aim in life—the overthrow of democacy, and the seizure of wealth and enslavement of populations in the name of a tryanny that would command the respect of the most ruthless autocrats of history.

The patriot, the artist and the priest have set mankind free from tyrants, the ugliness of a materialistic and animal life, and the terror of the unknown.

The world will never be safe for Communism until these three are assassinated or banished to some Siberia from which there can be no return, and replaced by cynical teachers of treachery, spreaders of propaganda and apostles of hatred.

The three stories you have just read show what patriotism, enlightenment and ethical thinking can do to check the proponents of the Moscow-directed world revolution. Unfortunately they are minor bright spots in a large and dark picture.

Red Law In Bush

A Communist-dominated union still lays down the law for most of the workers in the bush. Reid Robinson and his lieutenants still dictate policies for the miners, although it is likely the government will rid the country of them soon through provisions of the Immigration Act designed to safeguard law and order.

The miners in Timmins, Kirkland Lake and neighboring communities still will go on strike against the will of the majority, unless in the next few weeks the balance of power within the union is shifted to more responsible hands.

But perhaps now you have a clearer notion why the Reds fight against the institutions closest to the hearts of loyal Canadians—and how Canada may yet be saved from them.

Simonds Keep Quiet On Subject Of Recall

LONDON, March 16.—(CP). — Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds replied "no comment" today when questioned regarding Ottawa reports that he may be recalled from London to Ottawa if the international situation becomes graver.

Simonds, probably one of Canada's most successful field commanders of the Second World War, now is army instructor at the Imperial Defence College here. The Ottawa reports suggested he would be the likeliest chance as next chief of the Canadian General Staff.

"I've heard nothing about it," Simonds said. "I'll be here for another year as far as I know."

Survey of Eating Places In United Counties Held

COBOURG, March 16 (ENS)—One hundred and thirty-seven of the 198 cases of communicable disease reported for February were mumps it was revealed in the montnly report of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Public health nurses made 111 home visits in connection with communicable disease and medical officers made 24 visits.

At 35 immunization clinics held during February, 345 children were immunized against diphtheria and 231 vaccinated against smallpox. It has been found that parents sometimes do not realize the importance of having reinforcing doses of diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine. It is important, the health report points out, that children should be immunized during infancy and that they should have small reinforcing doses after the original inoculations.

A travelling chest clinic was held on Feb. 16 and 17 at Campbellford under the auspices of the Provincial Division of Tuberculosis. Fifty attended this clinic. In addition, 17 persons were given chest X-rays at Port Hope regular monthly clinic and 16 at the Cobourg clinic. No new cases of tuberculosis were discovered at these clinics.

Inspections were made of 105 premises in the survey which is being carried out under the new regulations for eating establishments and in 41 cases swabs were taken from utensils for bacteriological examination.

Dishes and utensils which have been washed are swabbed with a sterile swab and then this swab is sent to the laboratory where cultures are made. From these cultures a count is made of the number and type of bacteria present as a means of judging the efficiency of the washing and sterilizing of the disease. The standards required are outlined in the new regulations for eating establishments. Visits were made to 10 slaughterhouses. In accordance with the instructions of the Board of Health at its January meeting, the license of a slaughterhouse in Clarke township and the permit of a slaughterhouse in Seymour township were revoked.

At child health conferences held during February in Campbellford, Cobourg, Bowmanville, Wooler, Warkworth and Hastings, the attendance was lower than usual, due to unfavorable weather. At the smaller centres it is expected that people in the communities will eventually consider the conferences their opportunity to consult with the nurse about any health problems, not necessarily only those of small children. Nurses made 30 home visits to expectant mothers, 261 to infants and 97 to pre-school children.

Medical officers, assisted by nurses, gave a complete health examination to 441 school children with 139 parents present during the examination. Nurses gave an inspection to 952 other children. It is planned that each child will have a medical examination at least once in his school life and that he will have an inspection by the nurse every year, at which time she will select those who need a medical examination again. Nurses made home visits to 135 school children. Two staff nurses attended refresher course Feb. 25 to 28 at the University of Toronto.

Lt.-Governor Opens Toronto Festival

TORONTO, March 16.—((CP). —The Central Ontario Region Drama Festival got off to an auspicious start last night in Hart House Theatre, with Lieut.-Governor Ray Lawson opening the event.

Special interest centred on the Playwrights' Studio Group of Toronto which presented a Canadian play, "Without Benefit of Roof," by Winnifred Pilcher. Adjudicator Robert Stuart said the play, dealing with domestic grief and comedy in the housing shortage, had a rather strident monotone but had a presentable performance.

The Newmarket Dramatic Club contributed some good acting in "Heaven on Earth," an English comedy. Toronto's Koenig Players presentation was "The Ring of General Marcias."

Two Million Jobs

On January 1st of this year there were 2,085,336 persons in the nine leading industrial categories in this country, not including people working in agriculture and in establishments employing fewer than fifteen persons. The figure includes transportation, construction, financial establishments and the like.

• • •

As a basis for comparison, an index figure of employment has been used by the statisticians at Ottawa. Employment in 1926, a good average year, is set at 100. Using this basis, employment since the low of 1935 (below 80) rose to 120 at the outbreak of war and to a wartime peak of 190 at the end of 1943. It declined more than 20 points in the next two years, but early in 1946 rose again to the highest ever reached — 199.7 last December 1st. That is, employment was nearly 200 per cent. greater than in 1926 and higher than at any time during the war.

• • •

Last year was therefore a boom year in employment. We even passed beyond what statisticians call "full employment", for there were more people employed than they thought employable. The decline after December 1st (to 193.7 on January 1st) can mainly be attributed to seasonal unemployment.

• • •

The figures are heartening. There has been some unemployment in the Maritimes, Montreal and Vancouver, but not of an alarming kind. The prospect of having "full" employment again this year is good. Average weekly earnings have risen from $25.49 in June, 1941, to $32.15 at the end of the war to $36.07 last June and to last December 1st's high of $38.24.

Hours Of Sale For Gasoline

The Ontario Minister of Labour, the Hon. Charles Daley, has introduced a bill into the Legislature which will give municipalities the right to set hours of sale for gasoline. At present such hours of sale are set in zones, under provisions of the Industrial Standards Act, and this method of regulating sales by service stations has caused a good deal of dissatisfaction. The Industrial Standards Act is a good Act where it concerns large industries, in which overtime and shiftwork create special problems. Its application to the comparatively small and rather personal business of running a service station has not been fortunate and has, in our opinion, violated individual rights.

The regulation as it stands permits city operators to dictate the hours which will be kept by country and village operators within the same zone; this is unjust and Mr. Daley's amendment will correct it. But it still looks as though a majority of service station operators in a community might force their will upon a minority in the matter of hours for gasoline sale. The nub of the matter is this: will municipalities, under Mr. Daley's regulation, be required to set gasoline hours according to the will of a majority of gasoline sellers, or will the municipality be allowed to use its discretion?

If a man wants to keep his service station open at hours when other stations are closed, we think that he should be allowed to do so. There are rules to keep him from overworking his employees, and if he wants to work hard himself, that is his business and no majority in the same trade should be allowed to tell him that he must not do so. If a group of service station operators choose to make rules for their own conduct, that is their right. But they have no right at all to impose their rules upon others in their trade who do not choose to abide by them. Unless Mr. Daley's regulations make this clear they will not have reached the root of a vexatious problem.

The Speaker of the Saskatchewan Legislature rebuked a member who referred to the Premier as "a stinking skunk". For tautology?

The Site For The New City Hall

The new City Hall will be built, when it is built, between George and Water Streets, the Public Library and Murray Street. It will be fronted by Confederation Park and diagonally across will be Victoria Park. It will therefore be fairly central, out of the main business section and protected from the encroachment of commercial buildings which might blight its setting. We hope that with such a good site, care will be taken to design a buildings which will be beautiful as well as practical, enduring as well as functional, and sufficiently commodious to serve this city for three or four hundred years when the population may be doubled or trebled.

The building should be planned and erected with confidence that it will serve for centuries. Some pessimists may say: What is the use of building for the future—war may come upon us and then where would our fine new building be? We think it a good gamble that it would be right where it will presently be erected. A third war might bring enemy planes and bombs to this country and to Peterborough, an important industrial centre and arsenal. Nevertheless, there are two good reasons for thinking that the new City Hall would be preserved. The first is that its site is not close to factories which would be targets for the bombs (though it is a little too close to the river which would be a guiding line for planes not mechanically directed). The second is that enemy who have any hope of occupying or controlling a city try to keep the chief administrative and records buildings intact—for their own use or for the convenience of Quislings. Let us therefore build with confidence, even if the future quakes.

The C.C.L. Bars Communists

On Wednesday last we commented on the influx into Canada of Communist labour organizers who had left the U.S.A. because of the Taft-Hartley legislation. The Government has banned the entry of such visitors, and the Canadian Congress of Labour has acted quickly to support the federal regulation, saying that it "will not approve in any way the importation of persons associated with any branch of the Communist movement, either from the United States or elsewhere". This is good news. Canadian labour, as a whole, is opposed to Communist influence in any form, but the Communists are making a strong bid for leadership in several important unions.

Canada occupies a difficult place in relation to the labour movements of the U.S.A. Tested labour techniques have been used here by labour leaders from the States, and from time to time new techniques have been given their trial here. There is no doubt that Communist labour organizers, if they could work unmolested in Canada, could exert a considerable long-distance influence in the U.S.A. We must take care that we do not give Communists a sanctuary from which they can act against us, or against our neighbour.

Wise labour leaders know that Communists are not simply labour men who are farther to the Left than themselves; they know that Communists are an entirely different breed, who use the labour movement as a stalking-horse, under cover of which they create discontent and disruption. They know also that under a Communist regime labour unions would disappear, and that the lot of the workers would be very hard indeed. It is good to see labour taking a sharp tone with the Communists in the unions.

Recruits Are Needed

Our services are not up to the modest strengths authorized. The following show the maximum strength authorized, the present limits set, and the present strength:

	Maximum	Present Limits	Present Strength
Army	26,329	20,079	15,409
Navy	10,375	7,875	6,782
R.C.A.F. ..	18,221	14,271	11,636
Totals	54,925	42,225	33,827

That is, the services are 8,398 men under the presently permitted strength, ahd the largest gap between what it has and what it should have. According to answers given in Parliament, the reserves are also under strength.

Recruits are needed in both the Active and Reserve forces, particularly of the army. Canada cannot afford in these times to allow its services to remain below the small strengths authorized, even though military theory is in flux owing to new weapons which may change military practice. There should be no difficulty in recruiting as many men as are needed, for the services now offer good financial and social security and provide attractive opportunities for education and promotion to able young men.

One of life's bigger post-war ironies is that U.N.'s Security Council meets at Lake Success.

The Examiner's London Letter

By J. D. CAMBRIDGE

MARCH came to London in the guise of the Lamb. Over the week-end the weather was warm and sunny, and Londoners in their millions turned out for a stroll around the park, around the block, or just over to the pub. Topcoats were gone, and it would be hard to imagine a great contrast between this and the previous week-end, when we were all snowbound. The ever-ready statisticians were handy to inform us that Saturday was the warmest February day in three years. Monday the first of March continued the warm spell, and altogether, Londoners are fervently hoping that the last of the snow has been seen for this year at least.

AFTER a winter surprisingly free of fog, we have had quite a taste of it this week, with heavy fogs every night, only clearing late in the day. When I say "taste of it" I am speaking literally. A London fog has to be experienced to be believed. Every trace of smoke and dust in the district is held suspended in the fog, and breathing soon takes on the quality of last night's party, or Ten Nights in a Barroom, from the taste in your mouth. More seriously, the fog causes tremendous confusion in traffic control, and many accidents. On Tuesday a Belgian airliner landing in the fog crashed and exploded, with a loss of 19 lives. A number of seamen were injured in a ship collision on the Thames, and countless road accidents could be accounted for by the fog. The fog problem is as great to the British authorities as is the snow problem in Canada, both costing time, money, lives and tempers.

THE exhibition of the wedding presents of Princess Elizabeth closed last Saturday after the remarkable total of 261,832 persons had seen them. An average of 3,500 filed through daily, and it is estimated that more than £16,000 was collected in admissions,—better than $50,000. The profits of the exhibition are to be divided among various charities of the Princess' choosing, as yet unannounced. There is quite a little human interest story about the wedding presents received. For the first time in the modern era, presents for a Royal wedding were accepted from all who cared to send them. The results were often weird and wonderful. Many a treasured keepsake was forwarded; some sent lovely and intricate handwork beyond value, unique in the hundreds and thousands of hours of painstaking effort devoted to making them; some sent articles useless for any conceivable purpose, often garish and rather pathetic little things; some sent magnificent things of the most exquisite workmanship and of enormous value, such as the jewel-studded wristwatch presented by the Swiss Watchmakers' Society. Furs, fine furniture, jewellery, house furnishings, many things beyond price, but one department has been neglected—kitchen equipment.

A STORY in the "Times" this week is a perfect example of the poor sense of public relations so frequently shown by the Russians. Several ships have lately arrived at British ports from Russia, carrying grain under the new Anglo-Russian trade agreement. At Bristol, one of these Russian ships, the "Selenga", was visited by a delegation from the local branch of the British Soviet Society, a nationwide organization formed during the war for the purpose of promoting friendship and understanding between the Russian and British peoples. The local chairman, a Rev. John Bliss, accompanied by 20 members of the society came down to the dock area, carrying flowers and other gifts for the Russian ship. Once on board however, the Russian captain refused to see them, and his deputy ordered them off the ship, and further, refused to accept the gifts, which were left lying on decks behind the crestfallen delegation. In what is surely the understatement of the week, the chairman said he "thought there must have been some misunderstanding". From the details given, it would seem the misunderstanding is all on the part of the British Soviet Society. The Russian viewpoint is crystal clear: no personal dealings with anyone or anything in the West.

✧ ✧ ✧

BRITISH movie producers are indignant of the way British films have difficulty in securing theatre space in the U.S., which they attribute to Hollywood influence. The "Evening Standard" says the high costs of publicity and distribution in the U.S. eat up virtually all the earnings of the British prestige films with which it was hoped to capture a good share of the American market, leaving little net gain in the quest for U.S. dollars. Serious charges of inefficiency have been made by the "Economist" and others against the British film industry. They take much longer on the average, and cost more than the comparable Hollywood product. In spite of the present opportunities to expand markets, the industry has less floor space than it had ten years ago, and 103 feature length films were produced in 1947, compared with 215 in 1938. While no one would suggest the quality of British films today is not vastly superior to those of ten years ago, there is something fundamentally wrong with an industry that contracts when by all the laws of logic it should be expanding.

UNCONSIDERED TRIFLE

In the office of the manager of the large department store, a woman customer was complaining.

"I can't understand," said she, "why your shopwalker had to be so unreasonable. I asked him a simple question, but before he answered he wanted to know where I came from. Why must he know that?"

"What question did you ask him?" the manager inquired.

"Just a plain, simple question," the woman retorted. "I simply said 'Pardon me, but is this the second turn to the left?'"

A FEW CRUMBS, PLEASE?

The Younger Generation Is Going To The Dogs

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

WE are sure many people will agree that the younger generation is going to the dogs. Indications of the grave seriousness of this trend are offered by children of today; they are impertinent, they lack respect for their parents. In general, their conduct is reason for no small amount of viewing with alarm, and it was well described in a recent letter to The New York Times.

This letter quoted two grave warnings on the subject, one from a world-famous philosopher, who declared that "The children now love luxury, they have bad manners, contempt for authority, they show disrespect for elders, and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up dainties at the table, cross their legs, and tyrannize over their teachers."

The other warning was from an eminent religious authority, who declared even more emphatically that "Our earth is degenerate in these latter days. There are signs that the world is coming to an end. Children no longer obey their parents. Everybody wants to write a book. The end of the world is near."

So it is easy to see how serious the matter is. And it isn't as if the human race wasn't warned in time, for the first complaint, according to the letter, was made by Socrates about 400 B.C., and the second was inscribed on papyrus by a discouraged Egyptian high priest about 4000 B.C.

The youngsters are going to the dogs, all right, but it's taking them an unconsciously long time to get there.

'On The Rocks'

Britain faces bankruptcy. That is the real significance of the Government's latest White Paper. At last, the British people now know where they stand. In the past two years, they have as a community overspent their income to the extent £1,000 million and the rate of overspending was almost twice as large in 1947 as in the preceding year. The spectre of starvation and mass unemployment is now alarmingly close.

Britain has been living like an improvident family which, failing to make both ends meet, first spends the accumulated capital of the past, then borrows from friends — from American friends, from Canadian friends, from South African friends—and when their loans are exhausted, begins to pawn the furniture. How else can one describe the latest deal with Argentina in which the whole capital asset represented by the British-owned railways is bartered away for 18 months' supply of meat?

It is of course true that there is nothing discreditable in the events which led the British community to this desperate plight. Alone of the belligerents (except the German aggressors) Britain fought in two World Wars from the first day to the last. The income from overseas investments which nearly bridged the gap between imports and exports in 1938 disapeared in the struggle. Exceptional conditions of world demand created by war devastation added £300 million to the cost of British imports in 1947.

But in fact the reasons which have brought the British to beggary are less likely to be remembered than the fact that they are beggars. The old soldier showing his campaign medals at the street corner is an object of pity, not of respect.—London Economist.

A Bible Message

And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee and Judaea, and Jerusalem: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them. And, behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon the housetop, and let him down through the tiling with his couch into the midst before Jesus. And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee. And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins, but God alone?

But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house.

And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God. (Luke 5: 17-25.)

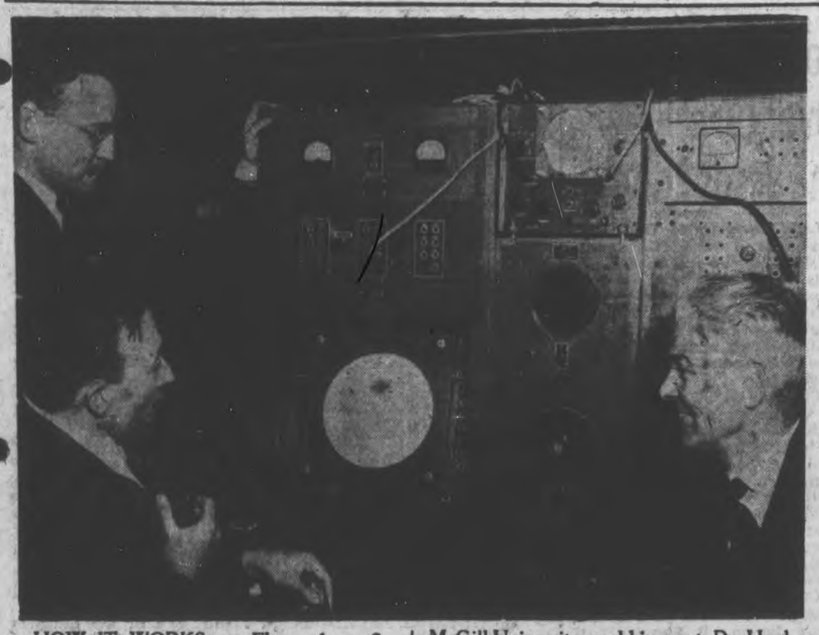
Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? let him sing psalms....And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him.

Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. (James 5: 13, 15, 16.)

Students Plan To Leave Canada

Two out of every five students in the universities in Canada plan to move to the United States to live when they graduate. They are taking advantage of the courses offered by the universities of this country and then they hope to get higher salaries and greater opportunities in the United States.

Of the major universities in Canada, the students of the Universities of Manitoba have the highest percentage of those planning to remain in Canada and help with the development of this country. Students of the University of Western Ontario in London have the highest percentage of those intending to move to the United States when they graduate.



Canada is investing a lot of money to train these young men and women, who intend to shake the dust of Canada off their feet the moment they get their degrees. Instead of Canada gaining the benefit of their education, the United States will gain.

There is a problem for the Dominion Government to tackle. Instead of making laws that drive the young people out of Canada, how about making laws that will make this Dominion so alluring the young people will not have any desire to leave!—W. L. Clark, in Windsor Star.

Approve One-Year Extension Of Order Barring Japanese

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, March 16—(CP).—The Commons yesterday approved a one-year extension of wartime Orders-in-Council which authorize the Government to control the movement of Japanese within the boundaries of British Columbia. Signifying extension to April 1, 1949, the Chamber voted 73 to 23 against a CCF motion which would have produced the automatic expiration of the orders at the end of this month.

This division, an informal standing vote, capped a three-hour debate in which CCF members called for the abandoning of the restrictive measures and Labor Minister Mitchell, who implements policy on the Japanese, gave assurance that the orders would not be extended beyond the new 1949 expiry date.

Opposing the CCF move, Liberal and Progressive Conservative members from the BC coastal areas joined in suggesting that continued prohibition of the Japanese from BC was best for the Japanese themselves.

The debate developed as the House moved into committee to study the 27 orders which make up the backbone of the Government Bill to extend emergency controls, such as those over prices and domestic rentals, for another year. The measure received the second reading.

Formal Division

A CCF attempt to transfer from the Government to Parliament the power to abolish the Prices Board produced a formal division in which the Chamber voted 116 to 31 to reject a motion moved by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North-Centre). Four Liberal members supported the motion.

Justice Minister Ilsley, moving the control legislation, said the Government's decontrol policy has not reached a stage where all controls can be abandoned now or before the end of this year. Most members would recognize this.

John ° Bracken, Progressive Conservative Leader, said no one could oppose domestic rent controls but felt there were others which might be attacked when the measure reached committee stage.

Mr. Mitchell, seeking extension of the Japanese orders, reported that as a result of his department's relocation program, only 6,291 Japanese now were living in British Columbia compared with a total of 21,975 in Janpuary, 1942. A total of 4,067 Japanese had been repatriated to Japan on a voluntary basis, leaving Canada Japanese population at 20,788.

Prince Edward Legislature Studies Strike Rulings

By The Canadian Press

A labor bill embodying some provisions of the United States Taft-Hartley Act, including the elimination of "closed shop" agreements, was introduced in the Prince Edward Legislature yesterday by Horace Wright, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Wright said the bill was "designed to prevent a similar occurrence" of conditions at Charlottetown last autumn when Mr. Wright acted as controller for a strike-closed meat packing plant after the government took over its operations.

Discussion of the bill was postponed until opposition members had time to study it. It contains a clause reading "no strike action shall be undertaken....nor shall any lockout action be taken by an employer unless and until all differences have been submitted to arbitration."

The Quebec Legislative Assembly government bills extending financial assistance to Laval University, University of Montreal and Uuniversity of Bishop's College. Another bill would increase the number of superior court judges in the province from 37 to 43. Study of budget estimates was started.

Coal Cars Idle

Nova Scotia's legislature heard opposition charges that 100 coal cars were idle all winter while miners worked part time because of a coal car shortage. Notice was given of eight bills, bringing the total on the docket to 42.

The Saskatchewan House approved the 1948-49 budget of Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines by a 44-5 recorded vote after Mr. Fines defended the C.C.F. government's award of highway regravelling contracts. He admitterd the government had made a "very great" political mistake in the award but said there was nothing "morally or economically" wrong with it.

The Alberta House defeated efforts to obtain higher benefits for injured workmen and their dependents under a new Workmen's Compensation Act and also defeated a C.C.F. opposition amendment to give organizations another opportunity to make submissions on a proposed consolidated act.

Even Jurists Not Infallible Charge Over Hong Kong Probe

TORONTO, March 16 (CP) — In a front page editorial to-day the Toronto Globe and Mail described as "dishonest and indefensible" any attempt to relate the findings of the 1942 Hong Kong Royal Commission inquiry to the prestige of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The newspaper replied in its editorial to a statement issued at Ottawa Sunday night by Justice Minister Ilsley criticizing a March 12 editorial because it said the findings of Commissioner Sir Lyman P. Duff, then Chief Justice of Canada, "were false on the four points of issue."

"This newspaper is well aware of the great talents and intellectual distinction of Sir Lyman Duff, and of his wide reputation as a jurist," the editorial said. "While he sat as a Royal Commission, however, he temporarily suspended his function and status as Chief Justice, and any attempt to relate his findings on the Hong Kong issue to the prestige of the Supreme Court of Canada is dishonest and indefensible. His report is in no sense a court judgment, and is absolutely subject to criticism, debate and rejection by anyone who can recognize facts.

Not Superior

"Whatever the duties and responsibilities of the judiciary in the democratic system, they are, nevertheless, not superior to those of newspapers. Newspapers are protectors of the people's rights against encroachment and violation by power-drunk politicians. They would be failing in their trust if they did not expose the blunders and failures, the mischief and irresponsibility of governments, as they see them.

"In ths issue, Mr. Ilsley must accept his share of the blame. As a ranking member of the Cabinet, he knew the facts which were suppressed for so long and acquiesced in their suppression. He knew what tragedy and waste of young Canadian lives resulted from uncorrected policies which continued with his consent. He cannot have forgotten the occasion when his fellow-Maritimer and Minister of National Defence, Col. Ralston, returned from Europe, and told the Cabinet what it must do to stop that waste and was fired. For his part in that grave responsibility, the Minister of Justice will have to make terms with his conscience...."

No More Copies

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons that the government is not considering having additional copies of the Hong Kong Royal Commission evidence printed and distributed. One copy of the 1,000,000 words of evidence and exhibits was tabled in the Commons last week.

He was replying to John Bracken, Progressive Conservative Leader, who said that not one in 10,000 would see the evidence. In view of the controversy over the evidence he asked if the government would have additional copies mimeographed or printed.

Mr. King said he would have no objection to have the question referred to the House Committee on Printing.

Cabinet Man May Introduce Bill In Senate

OTTAWA, March 16 —(CP)— Speaker J. H. King ruled last night that a cabinet minister may legally introduce legislation in the Senate.

He also offered the Senate some advice—it would be "wise" to further "clarify the atmosphere" before Transport Minister Chevrier entered the Senate to discuss proposed amendments to the Canada Shipping Act.

The ruling resulted from an objection raised last week by Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader. He claimed Mr. Chevrier's appearance in the Senate — proposed by Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader — would be "unconstitutional." The cabinet minister would be "a stranger—and I'll ask that he be removed."

Speaker King said a change the Senate made in its rules last year permitted cabinet ministers to address the Senate. Such rule changes did not conflict with the British North America Act.

"I think it opportune and wise that I should rule now....I have no alternative but to apply rule 18a....Any interruption or interference when the minister arrives and is on the floor of the Senate would be entirely out of order."

The Speaker added: "It was unfortunate that the constitutional aspect was not discussed when the resolution was under debate last year. But if there is a feeling that constitutional difficulties are present, it is within the right of any member to state his objections on constitutional grounds and give members an opportunity to debate the question."

HANDS AT WORK...

LEARNING AERO ENGINE AND AIRFRAME MECHANICS

ONTARIO'S products are desired and purchased by people all over the world and the capacity to produce such goods largely determines the economic welfare of every man, woman and child within her borders. Because the sale of every article produced in Ontario brings valuable dollars into this Province, we all are more assured of job security . . . and we and our children can have more of the better things in life. To produce such goods in sufficient quantities, skilled labour is vital. That is why every single one of us should be glad that war veterans are constantly being trained to provide the skilled hands so needed by industry. Veterans receive ON THE JOB training under expert instructors in our Ontario factories.

This training, provided through the co-operation of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Federal Department of Labour and the Ontario Department of Education, starts veterans off on the road to skilled craftsmanship. Taught to use their hands in general aero engine and airframe work, both on military and civilian aircraft, these veterans may qualify for a Department of Transport license, authorizing them to declare aircraft airworthy. In aircraft manufacturing plants and on flying fields throughout Ontario, these newly-skilled veterans will have the opportunity to apply their talents and training. Their efforts will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and will contribute to the welfare and happiness of all her citizens.

AERO ENGINE MECHANICS

H. Parry, 25, of Oshawa, Ontario a Canadian Army veteran, is shown making an adjustment to the engine of a Cub Trainer. Students work on various types of aircraft ranging from the Cub Trainer to multiple engine military aircraft. Many veterans, trained as ground crew specialists during the war, have chosen to take post-war training in this occupation for which they are particularly suited. For them the transition to peace-time employment has been easier.

Legionnaires Take Close Win Over Toronto In Shinny Fray

Legionnaires out-shinnied Toronto Fliers by a goal in Lindsay last night to yank out a 5-4 win before hardly a thousand fans. It was the first of a two-game OHA Senior "B" playdown series—possibly semi-finals. Return game will be in Lindsay on Thursday if it gets considerably colder, otherwise Thursday or Friday in either Oshawa or Belleville, depending on the Toronto club's decision

The fray last night was strictly shinny as both sides batted around a rolling puck on sticky ice. Passing was guesswork and stick-handling next to impossible. The game was pretty clean with the winners drawing but four of the 10 penalties. The count was 1-1 in the first and 4-3 for Legion heading into the even third chukker.

None Starred

There were no particular stars on either squad as it wasn't the type of game where any player could be a standout over any length of time. They all battled hard, with the Fliers out-hustling Legion at times, though the winners had more in-close chances and they muffed a lot. Both goalies did well most of the way, but each fanned on one goal.

A rush by Rochetta and Doug Mortimer came close early in the first, which was not too fast a period and with Legion having a little edge on play. Burns notched the first goal on a passout after passes by Ernie and Ace Nicholls in close. The Legion third line threatened and later Crowley was chased for holding. It cost a goal as Murphy got in fast to bat one by Nicholls, with Vipond and B. Rich aiding. Vipond went off for cross-checking and Ernie came close. With all back, Murphy was robbed and Singleton hit the post. Mortimer missed an open net and Parnell was gated for tripping. Ned and Joe tried hard and then T. Rich got it for tripping. Godfrey hit the post at the end.

More Shinny

It was shinny again in the second and not too fast. Crowley pulled a good try and Diplock made Ross hop. Burns and Ace were in, too, for a try, and Legion pressed for a space. Rochetta made it 2-1 from Mortimer and Hicks neatly inside. B. Rich went over for hooking and Harley Greenlaw cuffed one home nicely from Dootch Vitarelli and it was 3-1. Murphy took a pass outside defence from T. Rich and his shot slipped through the goalie's pads. Hicks' long angle drive, on Ernie's pass, fooled the other goalie, going in off his skate. Ross robbed Fournier on a breakaway and it was hot and even, with Fournier finally getting in to push one by the post after Bradshaw's try. R. Nicholls came out 10 feet to stop two as Toronto tore in at the last, but it wound up 4-3.

Had An Edge

O'Donnell went off early in the third for interference and a drive by Rochetta and Crowley nearly paid off. He came back and it was ragged and pretty even, with each net-guardian in turn having to step lively as play swung up and down. Parnell got the finger for holding but returned with no damage done. Singleton's slap shot on a passout by R. Rich tied the count up and the Fliers continued to out-battle the Legion most of this heat. O'Donnell was chased again for boarding but was back when Dootch Vitarelli got the winner on a rebound, Godfrey and Crowley aiding. Crowley was close again and then Godfrey went off for slashing. The Fliers poured in furiously but Murphy was penalized just at the last for elbowing and it finished in a Legion win.

The teams:

Toronto: Goal, Irons; defence, Kwas and O'Donnell; centre, Bradshaw; wings, Fournier and Diplock; alternates, Murphy, Vipopnd, T. Rich, B. Rich, Singleton, Clarke and Southworth.

Legion: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and N. Vitarelli; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and D. Mortimer; alternates, E. Nicholls, A. Nicholls, Burns, Parnell, D. Vitarelli, H. Greenlaw and Hicks.

Referees, J. McEarchern and A. Bellemer.

LED SCORERS — Honey Tompkins led the Petes' scorers this OHA senior "B" season with 19 goals and 11 assists in 16 games for a total of 30 points. He was leading scorer for the club the previous season, too.

Tompkins Tops The Petes With 30 Points

Honey Tompkins, Petes' classy right-winger, led the hockey club in scoring again this winter with 30 points in 16 games, nearly two a contest. He had 19 goals and 11 assists for his total to retain club scoring honors of the previous year. Honey, who missed but one game all season, would have been well in front but for some phenomenal checking by Crowley of Legion, who kept him off the score sheet in four playoff games of group finals.

Bun Kingdon, canny veteran centre, placed second in scoring for the Petes with 26 points, 14 of them goals. He took over second place from Joe Blewett—who held it in 1947, as Joe garnered but 17 points this past season for third place. A surprise fourth was the club's battling coach, Red Creighton, with 16 points, a fine mark for a defenceman. Fred Mortimer was next with 15 and Freddy Garvey had 13. The results:

	G	G	A	Pts
Tompkins	16	19	11	30
Kingdon	17	14	12	26
Blewett	15	10	7	17

O'Connor, Lach In Scoring Race

MONTREAL, March 16 (CP)—Buddy O'Connor of New York and Montreal's Elmer Lach go into the final week of the regular schedule running neck-and-neck in the tightest race in years for the National Hockey league scoring crown.

Official statistics released today show O'Connor leading Lach by one point, 57 to 56, with three Chicago marksmen, Gaye Stewart, Norman (Bud) Poile and Doug Bentley right on their heels with 54 points.

A terrific late season surge by Lach, including four points during the last week, has gradually whittled down O'Connor's lead which the Ranger playmaking ace has held for 11 consecutive weeks.

Although he has been finding the pace pretty tough of late, lightweight Buddy had everything in his favor in the run down the stretch. Besides his point advantage, he has three games left to play while Lach has only two contests remaining.

Stewart, Poile and Doug Bentley also have three games to go.

Top Goal-Getter

Ted Lindsay of Detroit still tops the circuit's goal-getters with 32 counters with Lach running second with 28. Doug Bentley's 35 assists are tops in that column.

Biggest gainer of the week was Canadiens' Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who at this time last year was battling with Max Bentley for the scoring crown which he lost to Max on the last night of the schedule. The Rocket broke out of his scoring slump with a bang to rack up four goals and three assists in Montreal's last three games, and moved up the ladder into eighth place with an even 50 points on 25 goals and 25 assists.

Quinte columnist says the OBA executive is willing to send down a couple of officials to help re-organize the COBL this spring if enough prominent men are interested in serving as club officials in the Central Ontario cities. He feels that Belleville will go ahead as well as Peterborough in fielding senior clubs and suggests one league of Belleville, Oshawa, Batawa and Peterborough; with another setup of Kingston, Smiths Falls, Perth and Brockville. Either independent loops or working an interlocking schedule. Meantime, Eddie Murphy here is checking all angles, including a possible interlocking schedule with a Toronto senior circuit.

* * * * * *

"Pro ball has been shelved here and in Peterborough for the nonce," Scribe Carver continues, "and a number of men whom we have contacted lately are of the opinion that a senior loop would go over big with fandom. Peterborough, always a strong advocate of better class ball, has fallen in line with the idea. Up in Oshawa, the near venerable but still sprightly Moose Matthews, COBL veteran, is dreaming of his favorite game. Nothing has been reported of the Oshawa activities yet but if the Motor City crew gives the idea the frigid shoulder and the Moose is available, Belleville interests could do a lot worse than secure the services of the big coach-player." We fear Scribe Campbell will continue to keep Oshawa a softball city.

Honey Still Potent

Petes' final puck scoring marks for the season are listed in tonight's gazette. Honey Tomkins again leads the way with 30 points in 16 games, while Bun Kingdon is a good second, ahead of Joe Blewett. Red Creighton turns in a fine showing for a handicapped defenceman to place fourth right on Blewett's heels. Mortimer and Garvey follow in that order. It might be added that Tompkins' showing would have been even more impressive but he was kept off the score-sheet in four group playoff games by the persistent checking of Bill Crowley of Legion. Some of the other Petes were woefully weak in bashing the burnt biscuit by opposing goalies through the winter.

An old clipping of over 30 years ago comes to the desk and reminds one of today's trips by local fans to Lindsay. It speaks of an OHA junior semi-final betwixt Toronto U. and Lindsay Midgets. Wilf Stratton of Peterborough played right wing for Varsity and a guy named Conny Smythe was at centre for them. Both starred though Lindsay won this game, later losing the round. Art and Chuck Carew were prominent for Lindsay as was Lefty McElroy who pitched afterwards for the Petes in the COBL. Some of the local fans attending the fray were: Pete Spratt, Charles Paton, A. H. Stratton, Harold Morrow, Pete Gettas, Roy Smythe, Harold Knapman, V. R. Craig, Harold McGill, Gordon Long, Jack O'Brien and Fred Moran.

Just One Goal Ahead

Not too many braved the wretched weather last p.m. to see Legion pull out a 5-4 win o'er Hank Goldup's Fliers of Toronto—they've dropped the "Q & L" handle—but the rink was well over half filled. Turned out to be just a shinny match on heavy ice. While Legionnaires had more chances right in on Goalie Irons' front porch (and missed too many), the Fliers proved a hustling bunch of battlers who gave them a fight all the way. No outstanding players on either side as a rolling puck in the heavy mucking knocked most attempts at good hockey into a cocked fedora. Ernie Nicholls, Bill Hicks and Dootch Vtiarelli led the locals at bat with two points apiece, and the whole squad tried hard.

It was the first of a two-game OHA senior "B" playdown series—not certain yet if it's semi-finals as the OHA recently jacked up a couple of intermediate "A" clubs to a senior "B" rating. Goldup said afterward the return tilt will be in Lindsay on Thursday only if the weather is considerably colder. Otherwise it'll be Thursday or Friday either in Belleville or Oshawa. He wasn't sure but said: "We'll wait about two more days first and see how the weather is." It's their "home" game so they have the say. Hank doesn't play as he is still on Cleveland Barons' list but is sitting it out this winter after suffering a broken ankle last fall in softball. We'll shoot the dope on the next number as soon as we hear.

Plan Hoop Playoffs

Executive meeting of the Girls' Basketball League at seven in the YW tonight to settle playoff finals. Lock Co. edged CGE 18-15 last night so they'll go into intermediate finals 'gainst Normals as Electrics take on St. Paul's in junior playoffs. Kawarthas are out, and it's Nurses vs. Neill's in senior finals. This winds up the round-robin serial and the finalists are all picked and ready to go. Start likely this Friday in the gloaming. Finals are all best-of-three games. In men's play, Marines go to St. Kitts this week-end in the return of their intermediate "A" semi-finals. If they take this and then the OABA finals, they'll go to Northern Ontario about April 10 for all-Ontario finals. PCVS senior "A" and junior "A" cagers are in COSSA semi-finals this Friday up Toronto way.

Overshadowed by the scoring duel but with the outcome just as much in doubt, goalies Tuck Broda of Toronto and young Harry Lumley of Detroit are waging a nip-and-tuck battle for the Vezina Trophy which goes to the netminder who has played in the most games for the team having the fewest goals scored against it.

U Of T Takes Trophy

BOSTON, March 16 — (AP). — The University of Toronto, which shared the Alexis Thompson Trophy, emblematic of international college hockey supremacy, with Dartmouth last year, became sole custodian of the cup last night. The rugged Canadian sextet handed Dartmouth its second defeat of the season 5-0. The two teams played to an overtime 2-2 tie in the 1947 contest.

Foes Start Good

NEW YORK, March 16 — (AP). — New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers, 1947 World Series foes, top the American and National League respectively in the "grapefruit" league.

Both sport perfect records, with the Yanks the more impressive. The Yanks have won eight games while the Dodgers have won all their five starts. The Dodgers, however, have yet to engage a major league club while all of the Yanks' victories were against big league competition.

Lock Works Win Over CGE In Lasses Loop

Lock Co. defeated CGE 18-15 last night in the YWCA gym to qualify for the intermediate finals with Normals, and the Electrics drop back into junior playoffs with St. Paul's. The Kawarthas are out of the race now, and Neill's are in senior play-offs. The intermediates play Friday at 8:15 p.m.

CGE had an 8-7 edge last night at the half-way mark of a fine, tight tussle, but Lock Co. had a little margin in the last part to pull out the victory. I. Stewart, Marg Perrin, and Marg Kennedy until she went out in the third with five personal fouls, were best for Electrics, and Wilma Floyd, Betty McIlwaine, and Joan McIntyre stood out for the victors. The teams:

Bill Stanbury rolled the Commercials back into a first place tie with Canada Packers in the YMCA Men's League last night, his club defeating B'nai B'rith 6-0. Stanbury rolled high three games of 787 and high single of 297. The best the Packers could do was a 4-2 win over Aberdeens.

In the other games Jay Bees whipped Quakers 4-2 and Artists defeated Tips Tops by the same count. The teams are closely bunched in this loop with only a few points separating the top and bottom squads.

Besides Stanbury's good score Ross Hopkins tossed in a neat 769 count and V. R. Henry had 723. Hopkins had the second best single score, 292.

Henry Rochon, 24-year-old Montreal southpaw, yesterday was named Canada's top netman in annual rankings released by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association. Rochon was ranked above another Montrealer and his Davis Cup teammate, Brendan Macken. Don McDiarmid was seeded third.

Results of the 37th annual Field and Stream fishing contest announced in the current issue of the magazine show that five Canadian anglers won prizes and 35 of the 135 prizewinning specimens came from Canadian waters. J. J. Harris of Kirkland Lake led the Dominion anglers with an eight-pound-eight-ounce brook trout which placed first in the open class. The fish was caught with a Williams wabble lure in Munro Lake, Ont. Winners in the brook trout open division of the contest divide a total of $4,012 among 300 winners.

R. T. Kenney of Roosport, Ont., won fifth prize in the lake trout division with a 37-pound-10-ounce entry from Lake Superior.

Pete Morin of Montreal Roy-als, was crowned scoring champion of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, according to final statistics released last night. The lightweight wingman finished with 91 points and a 13-point edge on Ralph (Bucky) Buchanan of Shawinigan Falls Cataracts. Morin accumulated 34 goals and 57 assists while Buchanan got 43 goals and 34 assists.

Promoter Jack Alen said last night he is trying to obtain either Clayton Kenny of Ottawa or Don Blair of Kingston for the five-round bout headlining his amateur boxing show at Maple Leaf Gardens next Monday night. Alan McFater will be on the other corner. Kenny and Blair, in their only meeting, fought a five-round darw at Ottawa.

Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds enters the final week of play today boasting a 10-point edge in the individual American Hockey League scoring race. The sharpshooting left winger has collected 107 points on 46 goals and 61 assists. Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis is second with 97 points and Harvey Fraser of Providence third with 90 markers.

Toronto Byers Smash Vics 6-2

OSHAWA, March 16.—(CP).—Toronto Byers evened their Junior B Ontario Hockey Association semi-final series with Kingston Vics by a smashing 6-2 victory here last night.

The win leaves each team with a win and a tie in the best-of-three series

The Byers squad completely dominated play throughout the game and dazzled the Vics with the skill and ease of their passing.

The Byers took a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period. The second period saw Byers return to a defensive style of play which still gave them possession of the puck for most of the frame. Pankoski drilled this same puck in off the goalie's skate to make it 4-1. Toronto notched two more goals before the end of the game to Vics' one and this left the final at 6-2.

Tigers Dump Dutchmen Have 3-1 Series' Edge

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Tigers were only one game away from another Senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association championship today after taking advantage of the breaks to beat Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-1. The victory last night at Waterloo gave the unpredictable veterans a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven final series for the Lop title.

Meanwhile, a revived Barrie Flyers team bounded back into the Junior "A" OHA finals by swamping Windsor Spitfires 10-0 at Barrie and tying up their best-of-seven series 2-2.

In the game at Waterloo the Dutchmen carried the play for most of the way but Hamilton took advantage of scrambles and counted once in each period. Scorers were Johnny Conick, Bobby Laurent and Frank Liscombe. Doug Verity banged in the Kitchener goal in the second frame when Hamilton was a man short.

Four Barrie players counted two goals apiece in the junior game, with Frenchy Mayer leading the barrage with three assists as well. Other doubles were counted by Rusty Aikin, Paul Meger and Jerry Reid while Fred Favero and Whit Mousseau got singles.

Flyers had complete control of the game throughout and after the first period it seemed just a question of how many.

Chatham Player Signs With Washington

CHATAM, March 16.—(CP). — Jack Duyvestyn, lanky righthander who played for Chatham Shermans, O B A intermeditae A champions last season, has signed a pro ball contract with the Washington Senators and will play for their farm team at Emporia, Maryland, in the Eastern League this season.

A student of Assumption College, Windsor, the tall athlete also played for Morley McMaster's Chatham Junior Jumbos which won the WCBA junior championship last season, moving up to the Shermans when the Jumbos were ousted by Windsor.

Hespeler Manager Suspended By OMHA

TORONTO, March 16.— T. J. (Dubby) Duval, manager of Hespeler Juvenile C hockey team, has been suspended and banned from any arena in which an OMHA game is being played, it was announcer by OMHA Secretary Jack Christie last night. He said the suspension and ban on Duval, imposed as a result of a disturbance in the third period of last Saturday's Bobcaygeon-at-Hespeler Juvenile C game will be in effect pending further investigation of the fracas.

"Fear Of Bat" Pitcher's Worst Handicap

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 16.—(AP).—Ben Chapman, who comes close to being the most quotable manager in baseball, is a firm adherent to Herb Pennock's theory that a pitcher's greatest handicap is "fear of the baot."....The Phillies' pilot was holding forth on that subject yesterday and using Del Ennis, who was taking batting practice, as an example...."All a pitcher has to do is get in there and he has the advantage," Ben argued. "A good hitter bats about .333. That's one base hit out of every three times he hits one—and yet those pitchers keep trying to miss the plate ....Whew, look at that one"....Ennis had poled a long drive over the fence, but his next one was a dribbler to the infield...."You see,' Ben continued. "He hit six; one was a home run; one you could call a base hit; the other four were outs. That's why I tell by pitchers never to be afraaid of the batters....Still, last year before I'd go to bed, I would pick my starter—and then I'd have to pick three relief pitchers."

Lively Enough

Babe Ruth, who is touring the training camps and cutting up a few touches with old friends, was lunching with Phillies' officials yesterday when someone suggested that the Babe should be hitting' em now, when the ball is livelier than ever...."Lively ball," growled Ruth. "Why, I hit just as far back in 1916 as I did when I was at my peak."

TOOK TOP SPOT

Elaine Fildes, 21-year-old Montrealer took top spot in the women's rankings above another Montreal star, Pat Macken. Mrs. Vera Lewis, Ottawa was third.

Communists Have Canada On List For Revolution, Rotarians Told

"Canada is on the list of countries marked for international revolution; the plan of international Communism does not stop at boundaries." In these words Donold M. Fleming, KC, MP, outlined what he believed was one aspect of the present world crisis in an address, "What Price Freedom?" delivered to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club on Monday.

As an indication of the Communist attitude to his native country, Mr. Fleming quoted from two press despatches in which Tim Buck, head of the Communist Party of Canada was interviewed.

Asked in Vancouver what he would do if Canada and Russia should go to war Mr. Buck was quoted as saying "I would go into hiding the same as I did at the start of the last war."

In a Prince Albert address in Nov. 1946 Mr. Buck was quoted as saying: "Communism is spreading throughout Europe, and given 10 years of peace that continent will become entirely Communist.

"It is important for Canadians to recognize the importance of this movement," Mr. Buck added, "and form a partnership with the peoples of the Central European countries."

Mr. Fleming said if ever in the history of Christendom there was a time when people were asking the question, "What price freedom?" it is now.

"Freedom has never been won without a price being paid," he said.

In three great battles for freedom—the Spartans under their valiant king at Thermopylae, the struggle between king and parliament for mastery, and the recent Battle of Britain—he pointed out that not all those who paid the price of freedom were able to enjoy its benefits.

'Even the purchase of freedom at heavy cost does not guarantee its preservation."

A Fight Looming

"Russian imperialism under the dynamic of Communism is seeking world revolution. We must fight if necessary to preserve that freedom." Hitting a pessimistic note he said, "Democracy has been fighting a losing battle for years."

He said many people hitherto undecided had been able to make up their minds "on the principle of freedom" since the Czechoslovakian coup. "What has happened to Czechoslovakia in these recent weeks has come as the greatest shock since the end of the war."

Referring to the Czechs, he said, "It seemed they had shown that Communists and Democrats could work together in the same government. But it didn't work for long. The iron curtain has now been advanced one more step westward."

Compromises by Roosevelt and Churchill to get along with the Russians were described as one reason for the present situation. Instead of majority parties running the government as in the British parliamentary system, he said all parties were allowed representation. That's how the Communists got their foothold, he said.

In Czechoslovakia he pointed out that Communists mustered slightly over 30 per cent of the votes even though they were the largest single party.

Pattern The Same

He said the pattern of conquest remained the same. Communists stroye for the key posts in the cabinet: control of the police, security forces, press and radio, and labor unions. Then when a crisis arose they would take over, he said.

More than 200,000,000 people are now under Communist domination in Europe, he said. "It couldn't have been done without the threat of the Red Army, direct or implied."

"In central Europe the next on the list are Italy and France where Communists are strong in both countries. If Italy should go how long could France stand?"

"If Italy and France should go human culture would have been turned back by centuries."

Control of Finland would give Russia control of the Scandinavian peninsula also, he said. Control of Greece would give that country control of the Eastern Mediterranean and allow it to put pressure on Turkey. If Turkey goes, so go also the gas and oil fields of the Middle East. The present Chinese Nationalist government was described as "just hanging on."

He said reasons for Russia's aggressive moves must necessarily be speculative. "The secret may be that they have mastered the secret of atomic forces; at any rate they are prepared to take risks with the peace of the world."

"There is not a very profound difference between Russian and Fascist totalitarianism," he said. "Will appeasement stand us in any better stead than in 1938?"

"Gottwald participated five years ago in the so-called abolition of the Communist International. He was one of the European Communists who participated in that monstrous pretence."

But the Toronto member of parliament for Eglinton West, said there were two encouraging signs: One, the people of Britain and this continent are more aware of the danger than previously; two, the Marshall Plan which has voted $5,300,000,000 for the first year.

Many people feel that ERP is too late, he said, but it is hoped that it will be speeded to give economic power to the forces of freedom on that continent.

Referring to the internal danger he said, "Let's see to it we know and understand this danger; shake off the shackles of indifference, and realize the danger among us."

Mr. Fleming then listed the names of those who he believed to be the most outstanding Communist leaders in Canada: Tim Buck, Michael Buhay, Gui Caron, Sam Carr, Raymond Arthur Davies, Dewar Ferguson, Norman Freed, Leslie Hunt, Bruce Magnuson, Leslie Morris, Dorise Nielsen, Fred Rose, Edna Blois Ryerson, Stanley B. Ryerson, Joseph B. Salsberg, Charles Sims, A. E. Smith, Stewart Smith (described by the speaker as the cleverest Canadian Communist), and John Weir.

"These people are not just using Trojan Horse tactics but putting themselves into high places," said Mr. Fleming.

He cautioned his listeners "not to make the mistake of underestimating these men; they are slected with greatest care."

In the Communist party discipline is stronger than anywhere else, he said. Even stronger than military discipline. He also described their organization as very efficient.

As a remedy he proposed that every citizen should become aware of the danger. "It is no good expecting the government to take strong action if the people are indifferent."

"It is about time the professedly religious people realized there is no compromise between religion and Communism. To the Communist religion remains as in Karl Marx's day, "The opiate of the people.

"Is democracy strong enough unless it has the dynamic of the Christian religion behind it?" he asked. "Christianity can exist without democracy, but not democracy without Christianity."

"Lincoln proposed in his Gettysburg address 'that this nation under God should have a new birth of freedom'."

In conclusion Mr. Fleming said it was necessary to have a new birth of freedom so that in the words of that great American statesman "government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Mr. Fleming was introduced by James Dutton, and thanked by Thomas Carley. In the absence of Charles Cummer, Harley Keefer occupied the chair.

A sing song was led by Jack Smith accompanied by Harry Northrop.

Students Mob Buck

VANCOUVER March 16.—(CP).—Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive party, yesterday was the centre of a near-riot when he told 2,000 University of British Columbia students: "There's a crisis of national policy in Canada." Students greeted Buck wth shouts, jeers, pea-shooters and cap pistols, and at one point a dead cat landed at his feet.

May Extend Recess

OTTAWA, March 16 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the Commons yesterday the Easter recess, now scheduled to run from March 24 to 30, will be extended to April 5 if progress is made in passing the government's emergency legislation.

Eire's Economic Problems To Get First Consideration

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

DUBLIN, March 16—(CP).—John A. Costello's new coalition government is pledged to put the solution of economic problems ahead of everything. "The average citizen is primarily concerned with the problems ahead of everything. "The average citizen is primarily concerned with the problems of making ends meet," said the Prime Minister in a broadcast a few days after he broke Eamon de Valera's 16 years in office.

"These economic considerations must take priority over all political and constitutional matters. Indeed, it may well be that our success in solving these problems may make easier the solution of political and constitutional difficulties."

All groups in the Coalition are in "complete agreement" in economic matters, he said. Each party would maintain its individual politicial entity, but even on political questions "points of difference, if any, will be much fewer than was expected."

Partition Problem

Even with the emphasis of economics, however, Costello could not omit a reference to partition, the division of Ireland into 26-country Republican Eire and six-county Northern Ireland, owing allegiance to the King.

"Chief of the fundamental objectives upon which there is complete agreement is our determination to assert the right of the Irish nation to complete territorial unity and to absolute freedom," he said.

"This is a matter upon which there is complete agreement upon all the members of my government. I wish to declare that this fundamental objective will in no way be abandoned, waived or abated so long as I remain at the head of the government."

Political Future

Even De Valera's Fianna Fail party, largest individual party in the Dail, acknowledges that Costello's administration is likely to remain in office for a considerable time.

"It is foolish to expect that the government will dissolve quickly through internal dissensions," said Sean Lemass, former Minister of Industry and Commerce.

Costello has announced that his government will not regard defeat in a "snap" vote as necessarily involving its resignation.

"This should not be regarded as a sign of weakness on the part of the government, but a sign that it wants to act democratically," he said. "The Opposition should drop any idea of playing party politics or trying to ambush the government by snap divisions."

Princess Margaret Thrilled About Australian Trip

LONDON, March 16—(Reuters).—The thought of accompanying the King and Queen on their tour of New Zealand and Australia next year has completely thrilled their 17-year-old second daughter, Princess Margaret. A palace official said that the princess "could hardly wait" for the trip, and expressed a desire to see Canada and "as much of the world as I possibly can."

With Princess Elizabeth settled into marriage, the royal family is "grooming" her younger, livelier sister for a more intense public life. The spotlight during the past few months has been increasingly upon Princess Margaret as she accompanies the King and Queen to public functions.

Princess Margaret, who will be 18 next August, is five-foot-two, shorter than her mother and three inches shorter than her sister—in fact, the smallest woman in the Royal family. She is slimmer and has darker hair than Princess Elizabeth. Although she has the mild blue eyes and lovely complexion of her mother, she looks more like the King than Princess Elizabeth does. She has often been described by the British press as the "girl who sometimes steals the picture" because she is more photogenic than Princess Elizabeth.

Likes Clothes

Fashion designers delight in her and, with an eye to dollar markets, have been building up her name to become synonymous with all that is best in British fashion. Like the Duchess of Kent, she takes a keen delight in her clothes and often sketches the designs herself. She has a tendency, like most teen-agers, to prefer too sophisticated styles, but the Queen then steps in to give guidance.

The younger princess is said to have been extremely lonely since Princess Elizabeth's wedding to the Duke of Edinburgh. Because the girls had been devoted companions all their lives, despite the four years difference in their ages. Although they are not alike in temperament, the sisters share the same love for music, riding, swimming and other hobbies.

Princess Margaret is acknowledged as the best pianist in the Royal family and she is also said to have the loveliest singing voice. She has also a gift for languages and still takes French lessons twice a week.

Gravest Danger

CAPE TOWN, March 16 (Reuters).—The spread of Communism in Europe is "undoubtedly the gravest danger that has ever threatened mankind," Prime Minister Jan Smuts told the South African House of Assembly yesterday.

Drew Predicts Legislation On School Taxation Of People On Crown Lands

TORONTO, March 16—(CP).—Legislation designed to assure that all people who receive the benefits of education in Ontario will be required to contribute to school upkeep will be placed before the Legislature this week. Premier Drew forecast the measure yesterday while discussing eight Government bills dealing with various phases of education.

Most of the bills, he said, pave the way for the new education legislation which will cover school taxation for persons living on Crown lands, such as wartime housing areas, who do not at present contribute directly to education costs.

Disclosure of the pending bill highlighted a session which saw two Labor-Progressive bills defeated in a recorded vote, and the second visit to the Legislature by Barbara Ann Scott.

Welcome Barbara Ann

Desk-pounding from the floor of the chamber and applause from the gallery greeted the pretty figure skating queen as she entered the House with Premier Drew.

A sprig of white heather, flown from Scotland especially for the occasion, was presented to Barbara Ann who said she would do all she could to live up to the words of praise which came from the Premier, Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver, and W. J. Grummett, CCF leader.

The CCF supported a Labor-Progressive bill to extend the municipal franchise to all persons now eligible to vote in provincial elections. It was defeated 60 to 9. The second Labor-Progressive bill, to reduce voting age to 18, drew support of five of the six Liberals in the House at the time. Aure Belanger (Lib.-Prescott) voted with the government to help defeat the measure 51 to 14.

One of the measures given second reading excludes persons living on tax-exempt lands from being covered by present school legislation.

At present, the Premier said, there are many districts in the province—such as wartime housing—where the occupants do not pay direct taxation to the municipality.

In some cases a grant is given yearly to the city or town by the Dominion government in lieu of taxes. In other cases there is no agreement and thus persons living on these lands are not contributing in any way to municipal taxation.

One bill in line with the new legislation is the Department of Education Act. It provides the government with authority to fix a method of calculating the cost of education for pupils residing on crown land. It also provides that the pupils may be charge a fee or that the province can enter into an agreement with the federal government for payment of a fixed amount in lieu of the fee.

A Public Schools Act amendment provides that where pupils live on land exempt from taxation and their parents do not pay school taxes, fees shall be paid monthly to the school board by the parents or guardians.

Foster Home Week

A column conducted by the Peterborough Children's Aid Society in the interests of "Foster Home Week" which is being observed this week.

The constant and increasing demands made on the local Children's Aid Society also bring a constant need for homes.

An average of six children a month have come into the care of the Society during the past year, some for short periods, some permanently. The Society's responsibility is for all children, regardless of race or creed. What happens that children cannot be looked after in their own homes?

Some parents are incapable of their job for such reasons as mental defectiveness or instability. A mother, deserted by her husband, may not have enough interest in her children to try to maintain a decent standard and feels that she should not be "tied down" when her husband isn't; a child may be left an orphan with no relatives to look after him; unmarried mothers may have no home to which they may take their children or feel that if adoption can be arranged that is the fairer thing for the child.

It would be folly to think that the cessation of hostilities at the end of the 2nd Great War brought normalcy to their homes. Young couples who got married during the war and never established a home together find that the enforced separation has done something to that marriage. Some mothers have enjoyed a certain independency; men in the active forces found a certain relief from home responsibilities and find it difficult to accept these responsibilites again; increased illegitimacy may be the result of a lack of acceptance of more obligation; housing adds to the family's problems.

And so the Children's Aid Society finds that a greater number of children need care outside their own home. The birthright of every child is a home of his own and when a child's home fails him then a foster home must be found for him. The Society can fulfil its obligation to these children only if homes are opened for this important work.

Easing Stigma Of Illegitimacy

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — The Ontario Legislature took steps yesterday to assure that the stigma of illegitimacy will not follow a child through its lifetime.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar introduced a Bill revising the Vital Statistics Act in which it will not be necessary any longer to show illegitimacy on birth certificates.

Under the provisions the certificates will show the names of the child's parents. If adopted, only the adopted name of the child will appear.

Another change in the Act is that registration will not be evidence to contradict the presumption that a child is legitimate if born to a common-law wife.

Illegitimacy or adoption will still be shown on certified copies of birth certificates in the hands of the department, but these will be obtainable only on court order from the Registrar-General.

Another provision of the Bill is that in future death certificates will not show cause of death.

The Tourist Camp Regulations Act which requires posting of rate-cards in bedrooms of tourist camps, exempts tourist camps operated by charitable organizations from regulations of the Act.

Considerable controvery has arisen over the suspension of Plante, who, as head of Montreal's Morality Squad did much to clean up vice in the city. The suspension order has created a crisis in the civic administration of Montreal.

Think Gardiner May Try For King Mantle

By ROSS MUNRO.

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — Race for leadership in the Liberal National Convention here in August to-day shows signs of becoming a competitive, wide-open contest — rather than one fixed ahead of time.

Two months ago—when Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced he intended to step down —it appeared that the mantle would fall without much argument, on the shoulders of External Affairs Minister St. Laurent.

Even such political battles as Agriculture Minister Gardiner at first did nothing to stop the boom for the 66-year-old French-speaking lawyer from Quebec City, who has only been in politics since the end of 1941.

Situation Changing

But the situation seems to be changing rapidly.

Parliamentarians close to Mr. Gardiner indicate that he likely will be among contenders. Some leading Liberals in various parts of Canada are being sounded out quietly as to whether or not they would back the 64-year-old veteran-farmer-politician from Saskatchewan.

Although the next 4½ months can radically alter the race, the current signs point to Mr. Gardiner giving Mr. St. Laurent a close run.

With the earlier cut-and-dried St. Laurent situation loosening up, the younger Cabinet ministers — Finance Minister Abbott, Health Minister Martin, and Defence Minister Claxton—are having second thoughts.

One or all of the three may be in these when nominations are called.

Justice Minister Ilsley also seems to be showing an inclination which might lead him to seek the top party position.

Washer Loses Appeal Must Serve 15 Years

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP). — Ontario Court of Appeal yesterday dismissed an appeal by Clarence Washer, 35, of Kingston, against a 15-year-prison term for manslaughter arising from the shotgun death of his landlord, Michael Kazna, last fall.

No reasons were given for the judgment.

Washer, originally charged with murder, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced at Kingston by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer.

W. B. Common, for the Attorney-General's department, opposed the appeal. He said there was a "good deal of drinking" at the Washer home before the shooting. Washer at his trial said he left the house with the shotgun, tripped over some lumber and shot Kazma accidentally.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

Through their Eyes

. . . CANADA is the most desired of countries. It represents hope and opportunity. It is where they want to be.

The dream of millions overseas is a reality for us.

"To see ourselves as others see us" strengthens our realization of our country's new importance in the modern world. The Canada that emerged from the war is a far greater country than we ever thought possible — a country of vastly increased and varied productivity — with a million more employed than before the war — with a new wealth of interesting careers awaiting those alive to the opportunities around them.

125,000 APPLICATIONS were on file in Ontario House, London, when Ontario began its immigration plan. It has been estimated that at least 80% of the displaced persons in Germany want to emigrate to Canada.

SIGNIFICANT, too, is the number of new plants established here by foreign firms. Specially interesting are those built up by wartime refugees, of whom about 3,500 entered Canada. They established at least 56 new industries employing over 6,000.

CANADA is increasingly attractive for visitors too! More tourists than ever came to us in 1947 — making an ever-growing contribution to continued Canadian progress and prosperity.

LOUIS FISCHL, escaping from Czechoslovakia, came to Canada in 1938 — began manufacturing kid gloves in an old renovated Ontario factory. Canadians joined his original handful of skilled Czech workers to learn the new art. Today thousands of pairs of finest Canadian high-fashion gloves, in leather and in fabrics, are being produced both in Prescott, Ont. and St. Tite, Que., their new branch.

LOUIS FISCHL says: "When I knew I was finished with Europe and had to begin a new life at 50, Canada was the country to which I was most anxious to come. Here there is a future. Here is everything needed for industry; vast resources for development; great opportunities for new careers".

George Street Extension Through Morrow Park Goes Before Supreme Court

City Council adopted Monday night the recommendation of its finance committee that City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, KC, be directed to apply to a Judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario for a decision on the question whether the members of the H. A. Morrow Trust may permit the extension of George St. through Morrow Park as requested by the council.

This was the outcome of the recent conference of the committee and the trustees who expressed their willingness to support the proposed application. It was also the council's action on a petition for the street extension which was largely signed by residents of the new area of the city south of Lansdowne St. The report of the finance committee was read by Ald. M. J. Swanston, chairman.

The recommendation also authorized Mr. Huycke to consult with the solicitors of the Morrow Trust regarding the phrasing and scope of the question or questions, "and that this council seek to have the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board join with the city council and the trustees of the Morrow Trust in favoring this application."

The council's action on the request of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club for an indefinitely extended use of the property on which Miller Bowl has been built was contained in the report of the legal committee, read by Ald. Adam Sands, chairman:

"That that part of the block of city-owned property lying west of George St., between Rink and Townsend Streets, shown on a survey to be occupied by the Miller Bowl be set aside by bylaw for use for lacrosse purposes.

Grant to Club

That an agreement be drafted for the tenancy by the Lacrosse Club of the property occupied by the Bowl.

That a grant be made annually to the PLC to assist the club in its expenses for the development of minor lacrosse activities in the city."

Expressed intention of the committee is that the amount of this grant should be the equivalent of the municipal tax on the Miller Bowl site.

Another resolution adopted in the finance committee report, gave the council's support for increased payments by the government to men who suffered major disabilities in war service. The general designation has been amputation and blind cases.

The text was: "That we hereby endorse the principle that war disability compensation for Canada's fighting men should be fixed with due recognition of the economic conditions under which they must suffer lifelong disabilities.

We consider the request made unanimously by all organizations of the war-disabled in Canada for a basic rate which will provide $100 a month for 100% disability to be reasonable and just, and we ask the government of Canada to implement this proposal."

Endorse Resolution

The report of the welfare committee presented by Ald. Dick Raine, chairman, proposed "that the Dominion government consider the advisability of increasing the amount of unemployment insurance benefits.

Due to present living costs, the maximum amount provided in the Act is not sufficient to meet the necessities of life and protect the living standards of insured workers and their families . . . And, further, that to ask municipalities to supplement this insurance, which in the average Canadian family basis is considerably lower than direct relief to unemployables, would be unwise and might easily lead to undermining the financial soundness of many municipalities."

This was the substance of a resolution from the city council of Brantford. A copy of Peterborough's endorsation is to be sent to G. K. Fraser, M.P.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission of Canada is also requested in the welfare committee report "to reduce the number of waiting days to six, rather than the present nine, during which no payment is made of unemployment insurance benefits."

Reason for this shortening of the time of waiting for insurance were set out in the Raine report: "municipal welfare departments are receiving many applications for welfare assistance from unemployed persons during the time they are waiting to receive their first cheque from the unemployment commission; any municipal grant in such cases is chargeable 100% upon the municipality, since these persons are employable; and any action by the Commission to shorten the delay in the payment of the first unemployment insurance cheque in all such cases would be most helpful to the municipalities and the individuals concerned."

Owner Unaware Truck Stolen

A bread truck was stolen from the city Monday night and was reported found before its owners were even aware of its loss. Oshawa police notified the department here that a Canada Bread truck had been found abandoned outside that city. Aurora provincial police also advised the city department that two Toronto youths, who gave their names as Earl Eden and Donald Rogers, had been arrested on suspicion of the theft. Acting Det.-Sgt. John Stevenson and PC William Aggas left this morning to bring the two suspects to Peterborough for investigation and trial.

The truck was stolen some time Monday night from the company premises on Chambers St.

Playing some 15 years this is the first time he ever held a possible, though once getting a 28-hand.

Music Festival Contestants Find Adjudicator Severe

When the first day of the second annual Festival of Music ended shortly before midnight on Monday at the George Street United Church, the audience and contestants felt it was well on its way toward a successful week.

In his opening remarks on Monday morning Edward Pridham, president of the Kiwanis Club, sponsoring the Festival, said the purpose was "to add to the cultural development of the community." And Mr. Alec Redshaw, adjudicator, gave ample indication that the standard of musical appreciation and ability expected was high.

If his criticisms were at times sharp, they were also sympathetic and constructive: at all times calculated to help aspiring musicians correct their errors.

Mr. Redshaw was frankly disappointed with the morning and afternoon entries. At the conclusion of the last chorus in the afternoon he said: "Not one of these young people has shown that he is prepared to sing in public."

Speaking to the Examiner afterwards he said: "Before these people are ready to sing in public there must be some initial spadework. They have not yet achieved a regard for pure musical sound; and yet there was evidence of a great number of really fresh young voices."

Much more favorable criticism was forthcoming in the evening. The adjudicator gave high praise to several of the entries and reported that he was "very well pleased" with that part of the day's program.

Obviously not a man to indulge in overstatement, Mr. Redshaw said, "If there were no brilliant performances, at least there were several very promising."

Lindsay Boys Good

He gave special mention to the Piano Sonatinas, 14 years and under, singling out June Hutchinson with the high mark of 87, followed by Faye-Diane Schwartz with 85.

In this same category he placed the lone entry in the boys' vocal duet for unchanged voices. Kenneth Hallett and Francis Taylor received high praise and also a mark of 87.

The two Lindsay boys impressed him so much that he immediately recommended that they take part in the final night's concert to be given on Friday.

Piano sonatinas, boys' vocal duet, girls' vocal duet (20 years and under), and the tenor solo (under 21 years) were considered the best evening entries.

The suitability of the number "Czardas" for violin solo (17 years and under) was questioned by the adjudicator. He pointed out the difficulty of the Anglo-Saxon catching the gay abandon of the gypsy mood.

One piano duo was entered and Mr. Redshaw paid tribute to musical appreciation of the couple, Norman Lowes and Dorothy White. He said the piece was composed for organ by Johann Sebastian Bach and not for piano.

"A very fine evening's program," said Mr. Redshaw officially closing the first day of five-day Festival of Music.

False Alarm At Theatre

When smoke was seen issuing from the Famous Players' theatre now under construction on George St., a passer-by thinking it was an accidental fire rang in the alarm. It turned out that the smoke was due to a wood fire being used to dry the newly-laid cement inside the structure.

TWISTING THE TWISTER

In the Lions Club the Tail Twister plays the same mean role that the Sergeant-at-Arms does in other service clubs. He badgers the unfortunate membersw ith threats of fines if they do not address the chair properly, arrive punctually, or even sing with a mouthful of scalding soup. It seemed only poetic justice (in the form of a burly provincial officer, rumor has it) when the miscreant Jim McCulloch was suddenly seized, handcuffed, shackled with ball and chain and forced to sit at a table apart when the Lions celebrated Past President's night on Monday night. And he sat there a deserted figure for the greater part of the evening. It all goes to prove you can't twist a Lion's tail forever without getting clawed. —D. W.

A POPULAR CHOICE — W. Harold Yelland, hard-working and popular member of the Canadian Legion, Branch 52 executive for several years, was elected president of the branch Monday night in a four-way contest. He served in World War 1.

Harold Yelland President Of Can. Legion

Legion hall was filled Monday evening for the annual meeting and election of officers, and there was keen competition for all posts. W. Harold Yelland, first vice-president, was elected president succeeding F. P. (Paddy) Burke who served as president two years, then retired this year because of the press of other business.

There were four members contesting the presidency, George Gimblett, Sr., Bob Hotrum, Arthur Noakes and Harold Yelland. Mr. Hotrum was a vice-president last year and George Gimblett is a former president.

Other officers elected are, George McNabb, first vice; Louis Durkin, second-vice; and an executive committee consisting of Bert Deck, William Gracie, Harry Kelsey, Claire H. Stuart, and Garfield Torrance. O. Varty is sergeant-at-arms.

Rev. W. J. Gilling, OBE, padre of Branch 52, Canadian Legion, presided during the election. Douglas J. Lawrie was chief scrutineer and had eight volunteer assistants.

Frank Burke, retiring president, extended warm congratulations to the new officers, voicing at the same time, his desire at all times to work wholeheartedly for the members. He expressed regret at the fact that responsibilities forced him to relinquish the post of piloting the organization. He was soundly cheered as he gave over the chair to Mr. Yelland.

The financial statement was read by D. J. Lawrie and showed the branch finances in good condition. Membership had shown little change during the past year.

Obtained Benefits Illegally; Fined

In the first case involving illegal obtaining of unemployment insurance before the magistrate's court in more than a year, Kenneth E. Downer, 20, of 458 Bolivar St., was sentenced to three days in jail. He pleaded guilty today to obtaining four days' benefits for days on which he was employed.

Frank Sewell, of the Unemployment Insurance Commission Office, Toronto, was only witness. He read a statement made by the accused to him, which admitted the benefits obtained.

The statement mentioned that the accused had been ill for six weeks some time ago, for which he had not collected benefits, and he said that he had claimed for the four days because "I felt those days were due to me." He referred to the unpaid period he had not collected as "unfair" in the written statement.

Mr Sewell mentioned that the accused had made full restitution of the amount involved—$5.10.

Smith Defers Action On Reeveship

Smith township council is deferring until early in April the calling of a meeting of the ratepayers for nominations to the vacancy in the council caused by the death of Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl.

The members met at the weekend to consider what steps should be taken in the unusual situation resulting from the sudden death of Reeve McIlmoyl. Deep sentiment of regret was expressed in the bereavement of his family and in the loss to the community and to the municipality.

With the March sessions of the county council called for next week, it was decided not to take immediate action for nominations. Deputy Reeve Ross Harrison will have an empty seat beside him at the county council's sessions.

Discussion suggested that the ratepayers might give their assent to Mr. Harrison moving up to the reeve's chair, that Councillor Robert Tully might be acceptable for deputy reeve, and that the ratepayers offer nominations for a vacant councillorship. The decision, of course, remains with the ratepayers themselves, but that seemed to be a practical and convenient approach to restoring the council to its statutory strength.

Butter Famine Hits City Stores

Corner groceries were out of butter this morning with no deliveries in sight until Friday. That was the report from several of the independent retailers who have been "trying to take care of our regular customers."

Housewives who have been following the graphs of declining butter stocks have been making the rounds of the downtown stores. One of them said she couldn't get a pound Monday afternoon. A George St. clerk said he had been applying his own plan of rationing, with a preference to regular buyers.

"I can spot the people who are trying to grab for themselves," he said this morning. "We don't turn them all away empty-handed as long as we have butter in stock, but you hate to give them more than you feel they should get, especially when you are expecting regulars to arrive for their needs."

Canada didn't get the ten million pounds of New Zealand butter that was expected in January. It all went under contract to Britain. Produce houses intimate the local market will be light until next month.

"The estimated shortage of butter in Canada at present is 5,000,000 pounds," Mayor Ovens said to-day. "The situation is temporarily desperate. We have not half enough to meet the demand. I understand there is a lot of second and third grade butter in storage in the West, but there is some weed that gives it an off-flavor, and I don't think the Eastern consumer wants it. I can't see any relief until the middle of April when deliveries increase from the farmers who supply churning cream."

THRESHERMEN AND SEED GROWERS WILL MEET IN CONVENTION

Good Pastures Are Cheapest Feed For Livestock

A 1948 pasture program should be designed primarily to maintain maximum production of milk or meat, with a minimum or supplementary feeding. High yields of pasture are also important in order to release as many acres as possible for hay, corn and grain crops.

Early Fertilizing. — Earliness and volume are important and both can be increased by early spring top dressing of your pastures with a nitrogen carrier, such as ammonium sulphate at 100 lbs. per acre.

Early Cut Hay. — In order to have sufficient pasture during midsummer there will likely be a superabundance in May and June. This should be cut early for hay. In extremely favorable weather conditions it may be cured in the usual way. If sufficient labor is available a limited acreage may be cured on tripods. This method makes every high quality hay Perhaps the safest method, involving less labor than tripoding, is to put this in the silo.

Supplementary Pasture.

Aftermath from hay crops should be utilized for midsummer pasture. However, it may not be economical to have sufficient acreage in hay and pasture to maintain the herd at peak production throughout a prolonged period of midsummer drought. Therefore, it is safe policy to have a small acreage of Suran grass, or oats and Sudan grass, seeded in June for supplemental pasture during the dry weather period.

Fall Pastures. — Pastures and meadows which have been partly dormant during a midsummer drought utilize the growing period in the fall to feed the root growth. Thus it is important not to graze heavily during that period of fall growth. September is the critical month. New seedings should not be depended on for fall grazing. Fall pasture can be provided for this period by using fall rye, marrow stem kale, or rape.

Rotational Grazing.

No pasture program is complete that does not allow for practical details of management. Rotational grazing is important. This necessitates dividing available pasture area into several paddocks. As each paddock is grazed off the cattle are moved. They should be returned to the first paddock when growth is approximately six inches high. This ensures that cattle are always grazing fresh growth which is higher in protein and minerals than more mature forage. The interval required for that new growth will be shorter in May and June than in July and August, hence the necessity of providing more pasture during the midsummer months.

Early clipping of pastures controls stemmy growth, promotes fresh forage, and the clippings themselves tend to provide a moisture holding mulch. Late clipping, August or September, is frequently desirable to control late maturing weeds.

Effect of Harrowing

Harrowing of pastures is beneficial to spread accumulated droppings, thus distributing the fertility over a wider area. Aeration of roots by loosening of dead grass is also important. Harrowing has no adverse affect on ladino or white dutch clover. Frequency of harrowing should depend on amount of grazing animals carried. The fall is however the most important time.

Light fall applications of manure provide winter protection and added fertility. Top dressing should cover an entire paddock, otherwise selective grazing may result. It should also be completed before the snow covering is heavy.

Good pasture is the cheapest and most productive source of high quality livestock feed. Good pasture management involves less labour than for any other crop. It pays well.

U.S. SENATE PASSES RECOVERY BILL—The 5.3 billion dollar European recovery program was overwhelmingly approved by the U.S. Senate by a vote of 69 to 17. Passage of the "Marshall plan" came after the Senate had been in continuous session for 12 hours. Shown in Washington are Senator Tom Connally (D.), of Texas, left, who strongly supported the measure, and Senator. Arthur Vandenberg (R), Michigan, who guided the passage of the bill, as they celebrated their success.

AMMAN, Trans-Jordan—Trans-Jordan signed a new treaty of alliance with Britain, replacing their 1946 pact which the Arabs had criticized as equivalent to peacetime occupation.

OAC College Community Centre For Rural Ontario

By W. D. TOLTON, B.S.A.
Director,
Public Relations Department.

"Hello! Yes, just a minute, let me check that date. The third week of June, 1950. That's fine, we will hold it tentatively for your conference. Thank you, Mr Secretary; good-bye." This phone call is typical of the beginning of many hundreds of conferences for groups which come to the colleges during the summer months.

As far back as their history the Guelph colleges have been used as a community centre for agriculture for Ontario.

In 1947, from May to September over 35,000 friends made use of the buildings and campus for conferences, celebrations, meetings. The largest of the gatherings was the 50th anniversary of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario when 12,000 ladies from all over celebrated; and how they celebrated. There were 194 buses, five train loads and hundreds of cars.

Everybody on the staff turned out to help with the throng. We served over 12,000 lunches in less than one hour and 15 minutes, and liked it; it was fun.

Meeting the Staff.

At Guelph the spacious campus and huge dining hall and dormitories is an ideal spot for agricultural groups to come together. Not only has it delightful surroundings and adequate accommodation for groups, it has somethings else — the staff members and their colleagues. They are striving winter and summer to solve the problems of science of agriculture.

The College Spirit so obvious on the rugby field has its beginning with the staff which permeates the life blood of these institutions which continue year after year to enjoy the confidence and good will of people of Ontario.

We have three main tasks to do:—Teaching, Research and Extension. We have no time clocks, if you listen you can hear the rythmic tick of the busy depart-

AGRICULTURALISTS PLAN SPECIAL FARM WEEK IN PETERBOROUGH

500 Soil Tests Made In Waterloo Basic Plan Of Farm Management

By PROF. H. G. BELL,
Dept. of Public Relations, OAC.

For some time past there has been quite a stir in agricultural circles in Waterloo County with reference to the general problem of soil conservation. Farmers in this county, as well as in neighboring sections, have noted the wash of much of their good top soil to lower levels.

In some sections little hillside rills have developed into destructive gullies. Mr. E. I. McLoughry, agricultural representative of Waterloo County, determined to bring the question on conservation forcibly to the attention of the farmers of his county.

For some years Waterloo County Council has been interested in the problem of reforestation. There are certain steep hillsides and comparatively rough lands which never should have been cleared of forests, hence the earliest move to conservation was the replanting of forest trees in some of these areas. The farmers in certain sections, noted early growth of oats beginning to brown and a large percentage faded out as the season progressed.

Investigations Proceed

Investigation by the Field Husbandry Department in co-operation with the local branch of the Department of Agriculture, discovered presence of nematodes and also indicated that where nematodes were most plentiful there was high degree of soil exhaustion due, no doubt, to much of the available plant food being leached out of the soil.

The Department of Soils has completed a mapping of Waterloo County soils. In connections with this work we interviewed Prof. G. N. Ruhnke, head of the Department of Soils, OAC, to learn some of the important revelations of these soil studies. The county had been thoroughly covered and all prevailing types of soil had been examined and samples taken for testing.

Said Prof. Ruhnke: "We have found in many sections a lowering of crop yields. Farmers have told us of previous accomplishments of their soils but now some of these fields are much lower in yields. Too much of the rich soil of the higher levels has been washed down to lower lands and many soils instead of being well balanced are showing a lowering of organic matter which permits sandy soils to drift and clay soils to become hard.

Pactures Are Poor

"One thing that has been worrying not a few of the farmers is the fact that their meadows and pastures are not maintaining yields. Some sections are suffering from lack of sufficient drainage and, indeed, certain sections indicate that some of the land should never have been cleared for agricultural purposes.

"Now these were not only interesting observations but they had a very definite meaning for the good farmers of the County of Waterloo and as a consequence ways and means were undertaken to meet the situation. Mr. McLoughry has enjoyed the active co-operation and backing of County Council through its reforestation and conservation committee, and its agricultural committee, and he proceeded to focus the interest of these bodies, with the co-operation of the Soils Department, OAC, on these soil problems of the county."

We were particularly interested in Prof. Ruhnke's description of the thorough manner in which the problem has been undertaken. He said, "There are five definite steps to the scheme of procedure. First, there is the study of organic matter maintenance which arose out of the county soil survey. Five hundred samples of soil have been taken from 114 farms, examined for their content of available plant food and their organic matter.

Farmers Questioned

The location of these samples have been carefully noted and farmers have been questioned in every case regarding the cropping practices followed for some years in each locality and the yields that were recorded. This material is now being examined. When the study is completed Waterloo County will surely have the answers to many of the questions which are troubling land owners.

The second step in the scheme is to insure supervised soil management. Demonstrations are being set up to prove the correctness of recommendations.

The third step — definite means of measuring erosion are being installed.

Now the results of these three means of investigation are of very little use if simply recorded and not elaborated for the farm owners. Hence, educational meetings have been held throughout the county where the whole scheme has been thoroughly laid on the table and discussed. Mr. McLoughry and his co-operators are very much pleased with the interest which is being shown. They are not resting even with this means of spreading the gospel of good soil management, but, the matter is being taken into the schools where maps, films and slides tell the story in a most effective manner to all students.

Several Objectives.

"We have several objectives," said Prof. Ruhnke. "We want to arouse the sincere and conscientious interest of Waterloo County farmers in the welfare of their soils. There is little use of repeating a number of dry facts. Our second objective is, therefore, to demonstrate how unfavorable conditions can be met and the problems solved. Then, what we wish to do is to get as many farmers as possible to adopt approved practices as an evidence of their conviction. And finally we wish to give every help and encouragement possible to reforestation of non-agricultural lands especially to those of a sandy nature that tend to drift."

Many Waterloo County farmers are already convinced of the thorough nature of this investigation and they are lending active support to its completion.

Seeding Pasture Mixtures

A pasture seed mixutre contains two kinds of seeds: clover seeds, which are small and heavy, and grass seeds which are light and frequently coarse. The problem of seeding such a mixture to get a uniform distribution of grass and clover in the crops is sometimes difficult.

Clovers and timothy tend to settles to the bottom of the bag and the seed drill box, leaving the lighter grasses, orchard, meadow fescue, brome or blue grass on the top. This condition will result in poor uniformity of the mixture in the field unless the seed is well mixed just prior to emptying in the box, and kept well stirred during seeding.

During seeding a slight breeze will also cause separation of grass from clover unless the seed is delivered close to the ground.

Since most pasture mixtures do not feed well through the grass seed box, it is common practice to seed through the grain box. Most drills will seed the required amount of the mixture if set to sow wheat at from four to 6 pecks per acre.

Broadcasting is important as drilling results in crowding, also

Gay Nineties Costumes In the Spotlight At IODE Fashion Show

As an antidote for the "New Look" and the "Battle of the Hemlines" that have been taking up fashion interest for the past six months, Peter Robinson Chapter, IODE, presented an intriguing display of costumes dug out of trunks in cobwebby attics all over the city. Modelled on the stage of the Sunday school auditorium at George St. Church Monday evening, their wearers seemed to be stepping from the pages of old magazines that occasionally turn up at housecleaning time.

We are told that Milady of spring 1948 must look romantic, lady-like and gentle, which seems a perfect description for the belles of 1948, and on through the decades to 1918. Commentaries on almost every outfit revealed some trick of design that is being used today. Even the colorful nosegay, that touched off a picturesque gown of pale mauve taffeta with very full skirt with folds caught in at the waist line, is being seen at spring fashion shows.

A very jaunty costume of 75 seasons ago was made of deep red corded silk with pleated petticoat effect at the hemline and several petticoats underneath to hold it out. The bodice was tight and boned so that the figure must conform to its lines, and the scalloped closing at the centre made use of small cut jet buttons. The matching hat was made of overlapping velvet petals and the model, Miss Helen Burgess, held high her small black taffeta parasol.

A summer outfit of 1880 suggested the box jackets of today, and was of grey corded material with appliqued lace trim. The matching hat was of velvet, straw and satin with feathers. From the crinoline period there was a charming evening gown with very off-shoulder decotellage, and she carried a feather fan. A dainty dress of pink muslin had been the breakfast gown in grandmother's trousseau.

In more modern trend, there was a dress of 1912-15 season which seemed almost plain in contrast to the gathers, frills and tucks of the '90's. It was of white batiste with eyelet embroidery and pin tucks for trimming, worn with the popular "leghorn" hat. Probably the ugliest fashion period was representated by a wedding dress worn in 1926 when hair was mannishly bobbed and skirts were knee-length. This one of satin and lace, dipped to points at the hem and was longer in back. A Dutch-style headdress held a full-length veil of white net which seemed incongruous, but it was the style then.

Some outstanding features of the clothes were fish-tail effect, leg-o-mutton sleeves, kimona shoulder, narrow trend, bead and jet embroidery dolmans and capes, all included in the spring fashion story of noted designers. Silk brocades and corded silks that were so popular 50 years ago are again forecast, and many skirts are more than four yards around the bottom right now.

The last word in headgear is always a "sailor" and the show included one of stiff black straw, with white ribbon band and worn straight on the head. It topped a costume 125 years old made of heavy dark green material with a wired bustle, covered by intricate folds of the skirt which fell gracefully. Several costumes had several feet of train, one being held up by string fastened to a button near the bottom of the skirt. These were from the 1870 period. Pockets were hidden away in most of the skirts and usually held "snuff" and a "hanky." Tiny breast pockets were for the gold watch that hung on a chain.

Costumes for this show were loaned by Mrs. Gordon Matthews, Mrs. Menzies, Mrs. Logan, Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. R. Allen, Mrs. Robinson of Toronto, Miss Derry, several from the collection of Misses Burgess, Miss Linden Hall, Miss Weir and Mrs. S. Ward.

Mrs. Laurie Mitchell entertained delightfully with several solos. The three M's a piano trio who entertained were Margaret Martyn, Mary McBride and Mildred Hayward.

Miss Mary Green, regent of the Chapter, in her opening remarks said the chapter is 48 years old this year. The members are pledged to support the new Civic hospital and are giving all the help they can to Britain.

Announcement that Mrs. H. M. Aiken, speaker of the evening, would not be present, was made when a phone call advised she had suffered injuries in a motor accident while making the journey from Toronto.

It is of ivory satin and lace with applique and pin tucks trimming the wide vee-shaped band which extends down the back. The skirt is very full with a train and the veil is full-length. Mrs. D. Munro in the Centre wears the wedding dress which was characteristic of the period and worn in 1878. It displays the narrow trend in the skirt and the bodice is tightly fitted. Her plumed hat matches exactly. On the Right, Miss Moira Whalon wears an example of what 1948 stylists are trying to forget. It is a 1926 gown of white satin and lace in knee-length with sleeveless bodice, and typical of dresses in that ugly period.

3-Act Comedy By CYO Group Is Crowd Pleaser

Opening night of the Catholic Youth Organization's presentation of "The Arrival of Kitty" was attended by more than 500 people at the Collegiate. A three-act comedy, "Kitty" kept the audience in spasms of laughter throughout.

The plot involves a scheming playboy with a rich, prudish sister-in-law (whose pet aversions are strong drink and actresses); a niece who has to marry a dudish friend of her father's to further her uncle's mercenary scheme. Crux of the plot revolves around an actress friend of the uncle and the acting ability of the heroine's true suitor, who impersonates the actress with hilarious complications when the two "girls," dressed alike, wander through the hotel confusing everyone concerned.

The part of Bob Baxter—the true love of the girl and the erstwhile "Kitty"—presented the best chances for comic situation, and was capitalized on by Robert Baldwin, who made the most of his opportunities for laughs.

"Ting," the pillow-padded hotel manager, was played by George Clark, who wandered about trying to help friends and pad his pockets with a competent showing of incompetence in both lines.

William Winkler, the scheming "uncle" of the piece was well-played by Raymond Young, who had a long part to take. His woes were complicated by his old-maidish sister-in-law's dislike of stro-ng drink and actresses—both of which appear to attract Uncle William.

Aunt Jane, the money source of the others, was a fluttery, out-to-get-her-man Agnes Barrett, who played the thankless part with ease.

Fergus Sheehy was the foppish Ben Moore, pre-destined husband of the girl. Poor Ben never does get his share, being incorrectly identified by everybody, and further befuddling himself by making love to the "Kitty" version of Bob Baxter. A "big black bottle" which he drains to brace himself to see his intended does not improve his clarity of thought. Mr. Sheehy was particularly effective in the fast-moving parts of the later acts, in which he acted with fine spontaneity.

"The girl" of the play was Jane, played by Marie Kieran. Tossed from uncle's orders to a girl-impersonating boyfriend's appeals, the part was well played for its portrayal of a bewildered girl who knows what she wants but doesn't know how she's going to get it.

Henry McIsaac, in weird make-up, was hilarious as Sam, the Negro hotel porter. Supporting role of Suzette the maid was played by May Lindsay.

Title character—"Kitty"—was decoratively played by statuesque Florine Killen, who arrives in the plot in time to further confuse the issue and later clear it up.

Intermission songs were given by Deowne Hurtubise and Angus Twomey, Ennismore.

Between the acts, special Irish music was played. The orchestra members were: piano, Mrs. R. Aman; violin, Mrs. E. Foster, Mr. B. Wardle, Mr. J. Murphy, Mr. K. Leahy, Mr. A. Seidel; cello; Mr. T. Smith; base, Mr. W. F. Skitch; trumpet, Mr. J. Minicola; clarinet, Mr. S. J. Rowe; drum, Mr. A. Walters.

Of Interest to Women

Mother God's Gift to Man As Brave as Any General

A wife and mother, who says that she has gotten comfort and strength out of reading and re-reading a column I wrote many, many years ago, asks if I will re-print it because she says, mothers and wives haven't changed. They are still that-away. The article is about an old woman, who, when selected to be paid some especial honor in her community, exclaimed: "Who, me? Why, I've never done anything. I've just brought up a houseful of kids to be decent men and women. That's all."

Dorothy Dix

"She never did anything," yet she was a soldier who fought her battles as bravely as any general whose breast is covered with medals and whose deeds live in song and story. Eight times she faced death through torture that has become the synonym for suffering to bring her children into the world. Her life was always a hand-to-hand fight with poverty and ill health and discouragement, but she never once ran up the white flag.

"She never did anything," yet she was a financier who would have been Secretary of the Treasury if she had gotten her just deserts. Balancing the budget would have been no trick at all compared to spreading her husband's thin pay envelope over the needs of a big family. Yet she did it.

Versatile Expert

"She never did anything," yet she was a jack of all trades and good at them all. She was a judge who had to use the wisdom of Solomon in settling the disputes between her children. She was a doctor who knew what to do for minor juvenile ills and who could kiss a bump and make it well. She was a nurse whose hands had healing in their touch, and who could go without food or rest or sleep while a sick child clung to her who would only be quiet in Mother's arms.

"She never did anything," yet she was the character builder whose work made the kind of men and women who are the glory of our country. She had rock-bottom principles and she founded her children on them. She had high ideals that she always held before her sons' and daughters' eyes, and she bred in them honor and honesty and decency until these qualities became as much a part of her youngsters as their own skins.

"She never did anything," yet she was a day laborer who had no union hours and no 40-hour week. She had no holidays, no vacations, not even a Saturday afternoon off. For there was always so much to do in a poor household where there were no servants and where the babies trod on each other's heels.

"She never did anything," yet she was a heroine because with her own hands she raised her children above herself and opened doors for them which would be forever closed to her. She went shabby that they might have good clothes. Hungry that they might be fed. She stayed put that they might travel.

"She never did anything," yet she cooked in the kitchen the good food on which her children entertained their friends in the parlor. She sat up of nights making the pretty dresses in which her lovely daughters would dance at parties, and washing the shirts so that her boys would be spick and span and efficient looking when they went to work.

"She never did anything," yet for years and years she slaved and pinched pennies and denied herself even the medical attention that she knew she needed, that her sons and daughters might have the education that would forever put them out of her class.

"She never did anything." No. Of course not. She was just Mom, and even her children never knew how great she was.

FASHION TIE-UP — We like the idea of a close alliance between Parisian designers and North American manufacturers, especially for fashions for children, a branch of design in which certain French designers excell. One design is this bolero suit for the teen-ager. It is of black faille and has a full skirt caught at the waist by a red cummerbund. The white eyelet embroidered blouse is daintily frilled.

ENGULF "CHAMP"—Queen's Park page boys, seeking autograph of Barbara Ann Scott, all but engulfed the "champ" when she visited the Ontario Legislature yesterday to receive the tributes of the men who govern the province. The eager youngsters crowded around the Ottawa miss in the Speaker's office and clamored for her signature which was freely given.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 17

A particularly lively and enterprising day is forecast in which the spirits, morale and ideals as well, come to the front calling for direct and positive expressions. This not only on realistic and constructive lines but sustained by the exceptional in the emotional, creative and idealistic. Hard work in putting over ambitious objectives could bear rich fruits, with promise of stability and long-range security and rewards.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a promising and productive year, in which energy, initiative and an adventurous and bold spirit are sustained by diligencs, industry, sound ideas and wise purpose, in which the emotions and aspirations have part, giving substance and stability to what might be idealistic or conspicuously creative. Service, intuition, "hunches" may gratify.

A child born on this day may have a well-rounded character and high ideals, but is sustained by energy, initiative, industry and the lon-range view and devotion.

Rev. A. S. Robbin Speaks At Park Street

Sunday was Mission Circle day in Park St. Baptist Church. The special spaeker for both services was Rev. A. S. Robbin of Silverthorn Baptist Church, Toronto. Mr. Robbin gave two very forceful messages. The morning subject was "The Great Commission."

In the evening he gave an illustrated lecture on "Home Missions," and especially stressed the work in Slate River district where he was in charge for some time.

Mrs. J. Halcrow, president of the Mission Circle, was in charge of both services, assisted by Mrs. Ray Derrick and Miss Doris Menzies in the morning and by Mrs. M. Dunkley and Miss Olive Tedford in the evening.

The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Adam Hawley, contributed suitable anthems at both services.

Missionary-Elect Addresses Circle

A well-attended meeting at Park St. Baptist Church Saturday evening was under auspices of the Women's Mission Circle, with Mrs. J. Halcrow in charge. Miss Doreen Barrie of Toronto, missionary-elect to Africa, was guest speaker. She stressed the great opportunities for women today, basing her remarks on the commission given to women at the tomb, "to go and tell the disciples that Christ had risen."

Mrs. E. J. Whan extended appreciation of the circle to Miss Barrie.

Musical numbers greatly enjoyed were a trio by Mrs. C. Corbett, Mrs. J. Barry and Mrs. G. Batley, and a duet by Mrs. Corbett and Mrs. Batley, with Miss Ruth Barrie at the piano.

The offering was presented to Miss Barrie, and a prayer of dedication offered by Rev. E. J. Whan. Scripture reading was by Mrs. James Tranter, and prayer by Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Dunkley. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. M. Partridge of Mark St. United Church.

A social hour was enjoyed, and refreshments were served by members of the Barrie family.

Truman Plans To Address Joint Session

WASHINGTON, March 16 — (AP).—A troubled United States Congress awaits President Truman's report tomorrow on world conditions amid speculation of stepped-up Russian pressure on non-Communist Europe.

Truman did not say what caused his sudden decision to address a joint session of the Senate and House at 12.30 p.m. EST Wednesday.

The White House simply announced that Truman will discuss the "foreign situation."

Without any hint of what the President has to tell them, legislators generally directed their thinking along these lines:

1. There may be new Soviet expansion plans, possibly directed at pushing past Finland toward the Scandinavian countries.

2. These may involve a Russian gesture toward defence pacts with Norway, Sweden and Denmark—the sort of treaty Finland is in the process of being forced to swallow.

3. If any such moves should prove successful, they might help swing the April 18 Italian election to the Communists.

4. After Italy, whatever the outcome there, the Soviet union may turn its attention anew to Turkey.

Meanwhile, the Swedish defence staff was said in Stockholm dispatches to have asked King Gustav V for measures to strengthen that country's defence. The staff stressed "the increased danger of war."

In Washington, some officials saw trouble ahead for Turkey in the word that Moscow is going to fill its long-vacant ambassadorship in Ankara. Railway Checks 3 Accidents On Reid Street

Three traffic accidents at the CNR crossing on Reid St., south of McDonnel St., can hardly be pressing uneasily on the conscience of the railway management, judging by the information its agents compiled about these mishaps.

In the last 10 years the company has recorded four accidents at that crossing. Three have been within recent months. They were similar in most aspects, automobiles and carelessness behind the wheels. One driver tried to race a CNR train over the crossing; another got himself in the dangerous position of stalling on the crossing with another train only a short distance from him; and in the last instance, the front door window was broken and was replaced by a square of tin, which cut off the view and the awareness of danger at the crossing.

Dominion Board of Transport recently sent several traffic men to examine the circumstances at the crossing, at the request of the council. They have not yet made a report, but it is understood that they do suggest a flasher type of signal, one on each side of Reid St. as perhaps being potentially more effective in catching the attention of motorists apparently not sharply concerned about safety.

From 1908 to 1926 the crossing was protected by a watchman. That type of guarding was replaced by a wigwag and bell on the north side of the tracks, and the CNR cut the rate of travel to 10 miles per hour as a further precaution.

"In the accident Jan. 24 the automobile was struck by our train moving at 8 to 10 mph, with the engine bell ringing. The glass in the door on the driver's side had been broken, and was replaced by tin, obstructing the driver's view."

Estimated cost of an additional wigwag is $950. CNR is willing to accept any order of the government board, but its opinion is that the present signal, combined with the running rate of 10 mph, constitute sufficient protection. They propose that 40 per cent of an extra wigwag be contribtued from the railway grade crossing fund, and the remained apportioned equally between the city and the CNR maintenance costs to be borne by the three parties.

There hasn't been any disposition of this matter yet. CNR is being asked by the Board of Transport to submit their case.

Seeding Pasture

open spaces between the drills, which make for drying out and for easy invasion by weeds. If the day is calm, the spouts may be removed entirely, and the seed allowed to drop from the box. If there is any breeze it is preferable to pull the spouts from the discs, and let them deliver the seed on the surface a few inches behind the discs.

The seed bed should be fine, and firm. If a nurse crop is used, sow nurse crop and fertilizer. Follow with cultipacker or roller, then seed the pasture mixture. It should be seeded very shallow, from one-half to one inch of covering. A roller or cultipacker following seeding is sufficient to cover and to pack the soil firmly around each seed.

Pasture mixtures may best be seeded as early as the soil is in suitable shape, and should not be seeded later than early June. Late seeding involves higher risk of poor stands if extremely dry weather occurs before seedlings have become well established.

Too Many Students

KINGSTON, March 16—(CP)—One of the greatest problems facing the engineering profession is the large number of students now enrolled in engineering faculties across the country, Lt.-Col. Le Roy F. Grant of Kingston, said.

Heaviest Snowfall

JERUSALEM, March 16—(AP)—A three-inch snow blanketed Jerusalem today. The weather bureau said it was the heaviest fall in a generation. Police said the snow apparently cooled both Jewish and Arab fighters, and only minor shooting incidents were reported.

African Film Has Blackout On Publicity

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 16 (AP) —In this town where most films are accompanied by a noisome fanfare, it is news when one is made under a publicity blackout.

The picture is "Mr. Joseph Young of Africa," which John Ford, Merian Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack have been filming for almost three months under the quietest of conditions.

No free lunches have been dangled before reporters to lure them out to see the shooting None of its performers has fainted on the set so they could get the picture's title in the papers.

The man behind all this secrecy is Willis O'Brien, who created the "King Kong" ape in 1933. For seven years, he has been making a mechanical jungle menagerie for "Mr. Young."

O'Brien's animals are not freaks; they are exact replicas of real beasts. What's more, they are twice as versatile. Animated by a secret process, they can do things that real beasts can't be trained to do. And they have a wider range of facial expressions. For example, the fake lion can unleash a roar that would make MGM's Leo cringe with fear.

O'Brien's piece de resistance is a nine-foot human giant that makes several appearances in the film. It's just as faked as the animals.

The producers invoked closed-set rules to preserve the secrets of these costly inventions. The story begins in Africa, where an expedition has been sent to capture wild animals for American entertainment acts. The party returns to the United States with a large collection of beasts, plus the nine-foot giant. Then things begin to happen. I won't spoil the surprises.

The picture has Terry Moore, Ben Johnson, Robert Armstrong, and Frank McHugh in the cast, and has been budgeted at $2,000,000. It is estimated that a third of that went for experimentation and creation of the animals. Those are pretty expensive toys.

CALVERT · 1622 — MEN OF VISION — HEARNE · 1771

In 1771 Samuel Hearne, fur trader and explorer, blazed the first overland trail from Hudson Bay to the Arctic Ocean. Returning by Copper Mountain and Great Slave Lake, he opened up a vast territory to trade. Appointed Governor of Fort Prince of Wales, he later established a new fort on the site now occupied by Churchill.

In 1771 HEARNE said:
"Encourage a spirit of industry"

In 1622 CALVERT said:
"Promote industry and public benefit"

CALVERT, Man of Vision of the 17th century, said to his New World settlers: "Work earnestly for the benefit of all... enlarge our trade."

In the early 1600's Calvert foresaw prosperity and growth through united effort. "Be partners," he urged. "Seek to advance... encourage the building of this country."

Famous English Statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert's ideals of unity have been shared by all men of vision through the generations since Calvert's time three hundred years ago. Today, let each of us be a man of vision and "encourage a spirit of industry."

The full measure of our stature as a nation depends upon unity of purpose. There is only one Canada for clear-headed Canadians.

Clear heads call for... a United Canada

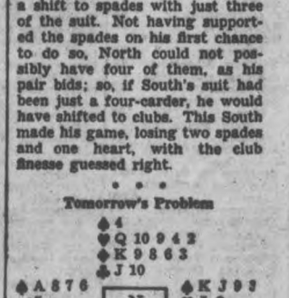
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

HOW MANY HAVE YOU?

IN YOUR PLAY for a suit contract, the height of your side's trumps is not so important as the number of cards held by yourself and your partner. That is the factor which determines whether or not you can remove the defenders' trumps before your own are gone. The factor of honor strength applies with practically equal force to all four suits. It helps during the auction to bear in mind that aces, kings and queens in side suits usually take the same number of tricks as if they were in trumps.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

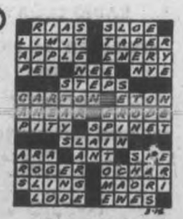


North	East	South	West
1. 1♣	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	3♣	Pass
4♣	Pass	5♣
2. 1♣	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♥	Pass	3♣	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠

What a difference in skill between the bidding at those two tables of a tournament. At Table 1, South was one of those chaps wedded to the expression "biddable suit" and has not yet learned that a major suit of any five cards is usually worth bidding. Having no high cards at its top, he could find nothing to say except Clubs, so his poor partner landed in an unmakeable eleven-trick contract in which he had to lose two tricks in spades and one in hearts, even though he guessed the club finesse right.

At Table 2, South had learned from experience that a bid like his 1-Spade was winning bridge, especially when he had such a neat fit for the clubs and that beautiful singleton top in diamonds. North did exactly right on his second turn to bid his hearts. When South then showed the club fit at the three level, North knew he could safely try a shift to spades with just three of the suit. Not having supported the spades on his first chance to do so, North could not possibly have four of them, as his pair bids; so, if South's suit had been just a four-carder, he would have shifted to clubs. This South made his game, losing two spades and one heart, with the club finesse guessed right.

• • •



Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What should be the order of bids after South opens with 1-Diamond?

LAVERY—In loving memory of Michael Lavery, who passed away 5 years ago.
God called him home, it was His will
But in our hearts we love him still;

When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Ever remembered by Pearl and Edith.

Peaceful be thy rest, dear father,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;

LAVERY—In loving memory of Michael Joseph Lavery, who passed away March 16, 1943.
Gone, dear father, gone forever—
How we miss your smiling face;
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed—
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Always remembered by daughter Lillian, and son-in-law Leo McGuire.

SIDDALL—In loving memory of our son Robert, who died 4 years ago March 16, 1944.
I seem to see in the soft dim light
A face I loved the best

Than I did the day of your going.
—Sadly missed by his parents.

Thames River Rises Not At Danger Point

LONDON, Ont., March 16 (CP)—The Thames river rose at a rate of five inches per hour at London today but city officials said the river was still 5 feet below the danger point at noon.

Heavy rainfall overnight and late yesterday sent the river up seven feet as the north and south branches of the Thames became turbulent. The north branch overflowed its banks at Gibbons Park this morning for the first time this spring.

Cooler weather expected late today would help to stop the rise, a city official believed.

Riot On Gold Coast

ACCRA, Golid Coast, March 16 (Reuters)—News reached here today of a riot yesterday at Kumasi, 120 miles north of Accra, in which several Europeans and Africans were said to have been injured.

Speaker Raps Liberals Over Inertia

The "austerity program" put into effect by the Dominion Government on November 17, 1947, was described by Mr. Donald Fleming, K. C. of Toronto as "a measure which is the essence of dictatorship." Addressing a meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association Monday afternoon in the Orange Hall the speaker said that two ministers of the Liberal government, Hon. Douglas Abbott and Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe had in fact been given power over all Canadian Business. The restrictions and taxes imposed on that date went into effect immediately, without the consent of Parliament, and just three weeks before it had been called to meet. Also, the tariffs imposed falsified assurance given by Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsley just a year previously, he said. "We are taxed beyond our means today through mismanagement of the Liberal government".

Mr. Fleming explained that there has always been an unequal balance of trade between United States and Canada and that the balance in favor of US dollars had been averaging about eighty million per month for some time prior to the announcement. He said that gold had always been the one commodity Canada depended on to equal the trading deficit, yet the government had watched gold production being cut in half, without making any effort to help up to that time. It was also shown that 73 of a list of 86 items imported from other countries were restricted by the order, yet there was no shortage of currency to overcome in these directions. The ban on electrical equipment and addition of 25 per cent tax he described as an effort by the government to prohibit Canadian manufacturers going ahead.

"On November 17 the clock was turned back 300 years to the reign of King Charles I" Mr. Fleming declared. "When the monarch attempted to collect taxes without authority of parliament, he found himself on the execution block." If our government is allowed to do this, there is no limit to what they can do" he continued, stating that they have already collected about six million dollars in excise tax without authority from parliament.

"The opposition party in the House of Commons is working hard with increasing effectiveness," the member said. "There are many battles being fought in the House of Commons. Some are for the veterans and some against the inertia of the government to fulfill its promises to them." Illustrating the unfairness to veterans he referred to posters put out by the Liberal party offering beautiful homes for $13.82 per month when they would leave the services, which have not materialized as yet.

Housewives Enraged

"Housewives have been outraged at the high prices and rightly so" he said. At Ottawa a prices committee has been set up and the speaker is one of 16 men on that committee. "My conservative estimate is that it will take five years to complete the investigation and discover if the increase in the price of bread is justified," sad Mr. Fleming. "The fact is that the government is dodging responsibility for causing the high prices, and is passing the buck to the unfortunate committee."

Mrs. W. Addyman thanked the speaker for clarifying matters in regard to the austerity program that had been bothering many citizens.

Introduction was made by Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, MP, who said the speaker had been a member of the Federal House since 1945.

In a brief address to the Association, Mr. Fraser said he did not know if there would be an election this year, but announced his willingness to run for member in this riding if his supporters wished to have him. He also extended an invitation from Mrs. [illegible] meeting at Ottawa on April 19, 20 and 21 to be her guests.

Mrs. J. Cridland, president, opened the meeting with an urgent appeal to members to study world affairs and current events thoroughly so they would realize what democracy is and how important it is to maintain it. "Demand and see to it that affairs are run properly," she said. "Keep a close watch on men who offer themselves for public office". If you demand the best, the best will be the result."

A report of the recent tea was given in part, and it was estimated there would be more than $60 to give the Appeal for Children fund. The raffle on a dressed doll is being continued until a card party is held shortly, and the winner announced at that time.

Hold Minister's Son

DETROIT, March 16 —(AP)—Clayton Wurtz, 28-year-old son of a Lutheran minister at Snover, Mich., today was held on a charge of taking $1,773 in two robberies from a suburban loan office. Wurtz is accused of holding up the office with a double-barreled sawed-off shotgun. The defendant stood mute to the armed robbery charge and bond was set at $5,000.

Will Suggest Free Press Human Right

GENEVA, March 16—(Reuters)—Another effort to frame a common statement of the two concepts of liberty which split the world will be made at the conference on freedom of information and of the press opening here March 23.

The over-all task of the conference will be to fill out and to suggest ways of implementing the pronouncement of the United Nations general assembly 16 months ago that "freedom of information is a fundamental human right and is the touchstone of all the freedoms to which the United Nations is consecrated."

A debate extending over nearly a year has shown the delegates to the conference the extent of the divergence between the opposing conceptions.

Th main division has been between those who feel that the worst possible abuse of freedom is its denial, and those who feel that the worst possible abuse of freedom is its development into licence.

Another division is expected in the debate on dangers in control of media of information by the state and by private monopoly.

Raps State Monopoly

At the meeting at Lake Success of the sub-committee on freedom of information Canada's George V. Ferguson from Montreal said he regarded state monopoly as "the most abominable type" of control. J. M. Lomakin of the Soviet retorted that state monopoly was preferable to private monopoly in that it operated in the interests of the people.

All governments have been asked to send delegations consisting of working newspaper men, broadcasters and film men to the conference.

The agenda ranges from philosophic consideration of the basic purpose of the press to detailed measures such as regulations for peacetime censorship.

Study Statement

The conference will have before it a statement approved by a 12-man sub-commission against the vote of the Soviet representative.

This statement lays down hat:

1. Freedom of information implies the right to think and to hold opinions without interference to seek, receive and impart information and ideas by any means without fetters and regardless of frontiers.

For news personnel, but also for everyone so far as practical considerations permit, this freedom includes the right to have the widest possible access to sources of information and to travel unhampered, and also to safeguard all sources of information honorably used.

3. The right to freedom of information and expression carries duties and responsibilities.

Jaycees' Debate Backfires; Babies Winners

There was a small riot at South Beach Hotel Monday night. It occurred during an inter-Chamber debate featuring Belleville and Peterborough. Staunch supporters of the affirmative issue in "resolved that the Baby Bonus should be paid to Fathers," John Lennox and Lou Yovanger stoutly defended the fathers of the land. Doug Delaney and Marlow Banks, for the mothers, were game to the last point.

In the judges panel the following influenced both affirmative and negative debaters: Mrs. Pappy Yokum (Dr. Harvie Bell), Mrs. Fatso Fatima (Frank Hammon), the Chief Justice (Dr. Bill Blackburn), Stu Loyst and Gerry Brady.

The debate followed one of the most successful Jaycee meetings in the Chamber's history. Despite the weather, fog and icy roads, more than 60 Jaycees and guests attended the South Beach Hotel dinner.

John McMillan, 1st Vice-President, conducted tre meeting, substituting for President Ken Jones, suffering from a flu attack.

Judge Blackburn, who waived the intimidation of both debating teams, cigars, etc., in summing up the points made by both teams reached a verdict declared unanimous by the five judges: "that the baby bonus should be given to the Babies."

Past Presidents Entertain Lions

Peterborough Lions held one of their most entertaining annual events on Monday night at the bi-monthly meeting at the Kawartha Club. It was past president's night, and an all-round good time was the order of the evening.

Arrangements were in the hands of Past Presidents Max Swanston (also Charter President), Douglas Anderson, James Dutton, Jr., Arnold Deyell, Stanley Darling, Edwood Girven, and Herbert Jamison.

Mr. Jamison, with Jack Dane assisting, led the crowd in the sing-song of Irish airs. A lively skit was put on by James Marshall and Edward Oates depicting an "unambitious insurance agent unselling a willing customer." It produced many a hearty laugh.

Feature of the evening was Ralph Cooper, Toronto, who proved particularly popular with his wit and repertoire of comic songs.

Charter President Swanston boosted President Patrick Scollard. The booster prize was won by Arnold Deyell.

At the head table were Messrs. Cooper, Jamison, Deyell, Dutton, Darling, Girven, and Anderson, who was chairman.

Guests included Ellery Van Blarcom, Vernon Rose, Jack W. Smith, and Nile Bingeman.

with the best of them, had trouble hitting National League pitching last season, his first in the majors.

Two rookie hurlers, John Hall and Chriss Van Cuyk, are impressing Brooklyn manager Leo Durocher.

Hall won 18 games for Mobile of the Southern Association last year while Van Cuyk, a brother of pitcher Johnny Van Cuyk, also with the Dodgers, posted 25-2 mark for Cambridge of the Eastern Shore League.

Veteran Mark Christman is making a strong bid for the shortstop spot in the Washington Senators' starting lineup. His competition, Johnny Sullivan, shows signs of being a better hitter than Christman, but manager Joe Kuhel likes Christman's edge in fielding.

Bank's Review Says Devaluation Not The Answer To Dollar Worry

By The Canadian Press

In a concise analysis of international currencies, the Bank of Nova Scotia's current monthly review concludes that currency devaluation in itself, even of severe proportions, will not bridge the United States dollar gaps in the accounts of most European countries.

"Devaluation in itself is a quite inadequate means of dealing with the urgent needs for reconstruction and subsistence which lie behind the dollar shortage. These needs can be met only by assistance such as that planned under the European recovery program and by the individual and joint efforts of European countries to expand their production and exports and to establish orderly economic conditions," the publication states.

In its argument against devaluation as such, the review reminds that currency depreciation does increase a country's competitive ability in export markets, but it does so by enabling exporters to reduce their prices in foreign currencies.

However, unless the improved competitive position leads to an increase in the quantity of exports that more than offsets the lower prices, the country concerned will not increase its receipts of foreign currencies and thus its ability to import.

While it is clearly essential that exports be competitive, the process of depreciation if carried too far may simply mean that a country is exporting more and more and getting few more imports in exchange. Moreover, devaluation inevitably raises in relation to export prices and in circumstances like the present it is likely to give further impetus to the inflationary spiral.

CITY TRUST BILL APPROVED IN TORONTO

European Situation Critical Truman Asks for Draft Law

World Conditions Never Worse–King

OTTAWA, March 17 —(CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King told a Liberal caucus today that the international situation had never been worse.

Before the members adjourned to listen to a broadcast of President Truman's call to universal military training in the United States, they heard the prime minister give what one member called "a pessimistic interpretation" of the crisis in Europe.

Without specifically mentioning the prospect of war, Mr. King said the crisis might well come to a head in weeks. The Italian elections next month were of the greatest importance.

There was some speculation in parliamentary corridors that if the situation continued to darken it might mean postponement of the August convention of the Liberal party to choose a successor to Mr. King.

Canadian reaction to President Truman's call for universal military training is likely to be towards a strengthening of the Canadian forces, now totalling only 44,000.

But there was not the slightest suggestion that either the government or the Progressive Conservative opposition would advocate compulsory military training in Canada. Cabinet ministers ducked this question when asked for comment.

Senator William Duff (L—Nova Scotia) gave the most outspoken comment, saying:

"Sure, that is good. We can't let those Russians get away with this."

MILITARY CONSCRIPTION —President Truman asked a joint session of Congress and the Senate to approve universal military service in the United States because of the critical world situation.

Charges Russia Obstructs Peace

WASHINGTON, March 17 — (AP). — President Truman told Congress to-day the situation in Europe is "critical" and asmked a temporary draft law and universal military training.

The President also urged swift Congressional action on the Marshall program of economic help for Europe.

Truman went before a joint session of Congress in person to present a grim picture of world affairs and a major report on his foreign policy.

"The recent developments in Europe," he said, "present this nation with the fundamental issues of vital importance."

He pointed than to the just-completed Five-Power Western European pact for common defence against attack, and said:

"This development deserves our full support. I am confident that the United States will, by appropriate means, extend to the free nations the support which the situation requires.

"I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them to do so."

Blames Russia

Then, plainly speaking of Russia, Truman said:

"The situation in the world today, is not primarily the result of the natural difficulties which follow a great war. It is chiefly due to the fact that one nation has not only refused to co-operate in the establishment of a just and honorable peace, but—even worse—has actively sought to prevent it."

The European pact Truman mentioned was announced officially less than an hour before he spoke. In it, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg pledged each other military aid if one should be attacked.

The treaty leaves the way open for other countries to join. It says the five countries "may, by agreement, invite any other state" to agree to its terms.

Must Not Hesitate

Truman said there are times when it is "far wiser to act than to hesitate"—even though action always involves risk.

He said his recommendations at this time for action represent "the most urgent steps towards securing the peace and preventing the war."

The President stressed that the United States will continue to

European Pact Promises Military Aid

BRUSSELS, March 17.—(Reuters).—A 50-year treaty of economic co-operation and military aid was signed here today by representatives of five western European countries — Belgium, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Britain. Other nations may accede to it on agreed conditions.

Designed "to fortify and preserve the principles of democracy, personal freedom and political liberty, the rule of law and constitutional traditions," the treaty provides that if an armed attack in Europe should be made on any one party to the treaty, the others will, in accordance with Article 51 of the United Nations charter, afford all military and other aid and assistance.

All such measures shall be immediatey reported to the Security Council and be terminated as soon as the Council has taken the necessary measures to maintain or restore international peace and security, the treaty emphasizes.

A permanent consultative council will be set up and at the request of any party to the treaty shall be immediately called for consultation between the parties should Germany again adopt an aggressive policy; or with regard to any situation constituting a threat to peace in any area, or with regard to any danger to economic stability.

SA-A-A-A-Y, WHAT'S THAT?—A single white vapour trail which lay across the sky from southeast to northeast at 10 a.m. caused more consternation among the people of the city and district than anything since VJ-Day. Comments ranging from a queer cloud formation to signs foretelling the end of the world were among many suggestions offered the Examiner editorial office in a hectic hour of phone calls. Left picture shows the "trail" floating over the belfry of St. John's Anglican Church, and Right, "it" appears streaking down the sky past the clock tower of the Post Office, looking west along Hunter St.

Strange Cloud Causes Furore

People of Peterborough forgot all about St. Patrick's Day, their work and personal problems when they looked into the sky about 10 a.m. to see a pencil-thin cloud stretching from the south-east to the north-west horizon. It stood out white against the pale blue dome and looked like a phenomenon if there ever was one. People who had been overseas during the Second World War and seen the heavens cross-crossed with air vapor trails from the combat aircraft, rockets, and ack-ack, were not so surprised.

Some thought it portended the end of the world which, through some inside information of theirs, is to take place in 1950. Others thought it was indeed an odd cloud formation and the rest were too stunned by the sight to ha-

Secret Underground Retreat To Be National Museum

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, March 17—(CP).—Newspaper men for the first time today were permitted to inspect the secret wartime underground headquarters of the War Cabinet and the wartime chiefs of staff. The stone-walled rooms, situated 50 feet below the ground and level with the bed of the River Thames, cover six acres of space under Whitehall.

There are 150 rooms in this underground retreat and it was from one of them, a small council chamber reinforced with four feet of concrete and buttressed with iron girders, that Neville Chamberlain, then Britain's Prime Minister, made his declaration of war broadcast on Sept. 3, 1939. The underground headquarters are to be preserved as a national museum.

The famous War Cabinet and map rooms, air conditioned and centrally heated, have been left just as they were when the war ended. Lord Ismay, who as Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay was wartime military adviser to the Cabinet, held a press conference in the main council chamber.

The atmosphere was redolent of battle of Britain days.

Each of the 24 seats, packed in a tight square, still bore the namecard of a member of the War Cabinet. In front of Winston Churchill's green leather chair stood a large yellowing card inscribed:

"Please understand that there is no depression in this House and that we are not interested in the possibilities of defeat. They do not exist.—Victoria RI."

Mayor Ovens Presents Letter From Commission Members Rapping Eastwood Action

North Monaghan Annexation Approved
Extension Bus Franchise
Also Passes Private Bills Committee

TORONTO, March 17—(CP). — The Ontario Legislature Private Bills Committee today gave approval to a request from the City of Peterborough that it be allowed to annex 300 acres of North Monaghan township. The bill also provides for an amendment to the 1908 and 1918 Acts of the Peterborough City Trust by which the city-owned properties, now administered and managed by the City Trust will return to the control and management of the City Council, and grants permission for the City Council to extend the franchise to the Border Transit Limited to operate a bus transportation system in the city for a further period of five years, until December 31, 1958.

Considerable discussion both pro and con preceded the approval of the annexation request. Mayor W. G. Ovens spoke for the city. He was accompanied by W. H. Huycke, KC, city solicitor.

The opposition came from Arthur Fair, a solicitor, representing some families living in the affected part of North Monaghan township. Harold Doig, who owns a 20-acre field of asparagus, was heard against annexation too.

Mr. Fair claimed that the objective of the annexation was that the city would have a larger area to assess and tax in order to help pay for the city's expansion program which includes a new city hall and sewage disposal system.

Get Higher Taxes

He contended that all the people will get for several years will be higher taxes since the land in the annexed district was too low and wet for trunk sewers.

Mayor W. G. Ovens of Peterborough told the committee the city has already drawn up plans to service the area and has spent $15,000 for town planning which includes the part of Monaghan township in question. The city, he declared, has concluded that the only way to develop an area was to take in a whole school section.

There was also opposition to the move to take over properties now administered by the City Trust. Mr. B. D. Hall was present as solicitor of the City Trust Commission and represented the opposition as expressed in a brief which had been circulated among the members of the committee. But before the brief came up for discussion Mayor Ovens presented a letter signed by James Hamilton, A. A. McIntyre and W. R. Morris three of the five members of the City Trust Commission which said the brief had no standing and was not the official opin-

Flood Waters Drop 5 Feet At Etobicoke

TORONTO, March 17 — (CP). — Ice-choked flood waters of Etobicoke Creek receded from five to six feet today and weary rescue workers probed the flat area of suburban Long Branch in search of persons who may have been overlooked in a dramatic all-night rescue operation.

Only two families remained in the area, containing flimsy summer cottages, and they have refused all offers of aid to evacuate their homes.

Three cottages were uprooted from their foundations and swept into Lake Ontario yesterday when the flash flood followed a sudden thaw and heavy rains, covering the half-mile square area at the mouth of the stream with raging waters.

Long Branch police said the "immediate danger has passed," but that the waters could be expected to rise about a foot today.

More than 100 families were trapped in Toronto's suburban Long Branch as the worst flood in the history of Etobicoke Creek brought lifesaving crews from neighboring communities. Ladders, lifeboats, motorboats, punts, breeches boys and ordinary ropes were used in performing 35 spectacular rescues.

Councillor James Wallace of Long Branch said today 115 cottages in the flooded area suffered "considerable damage that will run into thousands of dollars."

Damage $5,000 At Tackle Plant

Fire of unknown origin broke out at noon today in the warehouse of Lucky Strike Bait Company at 505 Sherbrooke Street. Employees eating dinner fought the blaze with extinguishers until the firemen arrived, and brought the blaze under control. Damage was estimated at $5,000 by Frank Edgar, owner of the plant.

Plastic baits, troll feathers, and special wood used for making wooden plugs, along with metal parts of baits were lost in the fire. The damage was confined to the warehouse and will not affect production in the main plant which is just east of the warehouse.

Recapture Trio

THREE RIVERS, Que., March 17.—(CP).—Three juveniles who escaped from the juvenile court building in Montreal were arrested by provincial police near here early yesterday after a wild, 300-mile chase during which they stole four cars in Montreal, Three Rivers and Quebec City.

Discover Bullet In Cabbie Case

PEMBROKE, March 17.—(CP). —Police investigating the slaying of James Edwards, 35-year-old taxi driver, today reported "some progress" and expressed the hope a solution would soon be announced.

Robert Wannell, provincial police inspector, in charge of the probe, said satisfactory results had been made, but declined to say whether an arrest was imminent.

Meanwhile, parts of a shattered window pane, a rubber floor mat and sections of upholstery are being analyzed for possible clues. Police said they hoped these objects would disclose some facts other than those already gathered.

Police also have the spent bullet used in the Sunday slaying. It was found after an intensified search in a clump of snow 25 yards away.

Doubt Rumor True

LONDON, March 17 (AP). — Buckingham Palace sources said last night they did not know whether Princess Elizabeth is expecting a baby. Most doubt reports abroad that she is. One qualified informant said "We doubt that she is, because of the heavy series of engagements necessitating public appearances which have been made for the next three months ahead."

Say Police Director Offered $300,000

MONTREAL, March 17. (CP)— The Herald said today it had learned that two gambling syndicates had offered Pacifique (Pax) Plante, suspended assistant police director, bribes of $300,000 and $100,000 about a month and a half ago and warned him they would make things tough for him unless his anti-vice campaign was relaxed.

Plante, who goes before the city's executive committee today to present his own case on his suspension on insubordination charges, did not accept the bribes, the Herald said.

Treason Preached by Communist Press

Newspapers In Many Tongues Published For Canadian Reds

(Editor's Note — Here is the seventh of a series of articles in which Don Cameron, staff reporter of The Windsor Star, tells how Communists have gained strength in Canada. His story is based on facts gathered in the course of a long and far-reaching investigation.)

By DON CAMERON

The Red fifth column that demands the surrender of Canada's democratic liberties speaks treason with many tongues, few of which are intelligible to the great majority of Canadians.

Ukrainian, Russian, Finnish and Yiddish are the leading languages in which the slave doctrine of Marx, Lenin and Stalin is preached throughout the Dominion. Bulgarian, Croatian, Czech, Hungarian, Lithuanian, Norwegian, Polish, Serbian, Slovak and Slovene are others.

Listening to the babel of the Communist press in this land of predominantly English-speaking and French-speaking people, one is astounded to hear so little English and less French.

It is the strongest possible indication that the harsh and ruthless cult of Red revolution is not native to our soil.

Three English Publications

Although a good many English labor publications in Canada are as Red as their editors and give aid and comfort to the Communist cause wherever possible, only three English-language periodicals of general circulation are openly dedicated to the Kremlin-inspired world revolution.

They are the weekly Canadian Tribune, Toronto, edited by Leslie Morris; the Monthly Public Affairs, edited by Charles Sims, Toronto alderman, and the Weekly Pacific Tribune, edited in Vancouver by Tom McEwen, formerly known as Ewen. An attempt last year to establish the Canadian Tribune as a daily failed, with a reported loss to the Communists of a quarter of a million dollars.

It is estimated that these periodicals share considerably less than 20,000 circulation between them.

The French-language press, also is notably weak in its support of Moscow, although a number of union papers that are friendly to the Reds publish pages in French.

Compared with the huge daily, weekly and monthly independent press of Canada, these hysterical mouthers of made-in-Moscow phrases are almost negligible. However, one finds a very different picture when he reviews the foreign-language papers.

14 Party-Line Papers

Of the 74 newspapers published in Canada in the languages belonging to the Slavic, Teutonic and Ugro-Finnish groups, or in Yiddish—aimed at fewer than 2,000,000 in all — 14 are frankly Communistic, follow the Communistic party line invariably, or are friendly to Communism. The percentage is just under 18.

That would be approximately the percentage of Canada's foreign-speaking people, too, who are exponents of Communism. By far the greater number of these should be classed as Communist-friendly, or "fellow-travellers" with the Reds, rather than as dangerous revolutionaries.

The official report of the sixth national convention of the Communist Party of Canada, held in 1929, states: "Although the overwhelming majority of the population (of Canada) is made up of Canadian and French-Canadian workers, 95 percent of the party membership is confined to three language groups—Finnish, Ukrainian, Jewish."

Since then the percentage has probably dropped to 75 or 80, and other language groups have gained greater prominence than they then held.

It is certain that more than 80 percent of Canada's foreign-born and foreign-descended peoples are loyal and not only have no use for the Communists, but for the most part resent and resist them. For these it is unfortunate that the disloyal minority is highly organized, excessively vocal and committed to a program of decisive action.

Red Papers Subsidized

Of the 25,000 persons who make up the hard revolutionary core of the Communist movement in Canada today, at least 20,000 are distributed among 13 language groups other than English or French.

To serve these 20,000 and their borderline friends who number many times that, Communist organizations publish at great expense (for all their papers are subsidized and paid for from the official treasury when special contributions fail to pay the bills) some 75,000 copies a week of propaganda sheets aimed directly at undermining the governmental and economic structure of the nation.

Nine of the papers originate in Toronto, the heart of the Red network in Canada and the hub around which all its devious and far-flung activivies revolve. Several are printed at the same Adelaide street west address.

Two Ukrainian weeklies, Life, of Toronto, and The Word, of Winnipeg, head the list. Between them they have a circulation of 13,000, and their editorial content is unrestrainedly incendiary and designed to stimulate anger, discontent and confusion considered necessary to the propagation of Communism.

Canada "Robs" Its Citizens

UKRAINIAN LIFE (Ukrainske Zhittia) tells its 8,000 readers in recent issues of the conspiracy of "financial monopolists, big industrialists and other capitalistic leeches" who "openly, shamelessly and unmercifully are robbing the Canadian people in broad daylight" through monetary policies approved by the government, which is described as a "bourgeois committee."

Prime Minister King has spoken out against Communists of late, the paper says, to draw attention from the United States' program to take over Canada as an "economic-strategic-military base of American imperialism."

Thousands Parade To Honor St. Patrick

DUBLIN, March 17 — (AP). — Thousands of shamrock-wearing soldiers jostled through Dublin's streetr today in the biggest St. Patrick's Day celebration since before the war.

Detachments of all branches of Eire's services marched through the festive city as Irishmen paid tribute to the country's patron saint. Irish folk crowded churches.

Saloons were traditionally closed, but a few Irishmen, with an early thirst slipped across the border into Ulster for a St. Patrick's Day drop.

3 Czechs Quit Parliament

Demand 5 Legislators Tried For Treason

PRAGUE, March 17—(CP). — The President of the Czechoslovak National Assembly announced to a full session today that Dr. Peter Zenkel, former vice-Premier; Dr. Hubert Ripka, former Minister of Foreign Trade, and Dr. Prokop Drtina, former Minister of Justice, whose resignations from the government led to the recent crisis, had given up their seats in parliament.

Meanwhile a parliamentary committee demanded that immunity be stripped from five legislators and it is expected that the arrest and trial for treason of the five will be asked.

Two of the five are reported to have fled the country.

The accused deputies include Vladimir Krajina, former general secretary of the Czech National Socialist Party; Jan Ursiny, former deputy Premier; Fedor Hodza, former secretary-general of the Slovak Democratic party, and Alois Cizek, accused of being Krajina's aid in an alleged plot to spy on the security police. The name of the fifth person was not available.

The Lefist paper, France, reported that Krajina and Cizek fled after the recent Communist coup.

Prospectors Can Seek Uranium Ore

Government Will Buy Radioactive Ores; Will Pay $2.75 Lb.

OTTAWA, March 17 — (CP). —Private prospecting for uranium and other radioactive minerals is permitted and encouraged by the government under a plan announced in the Commons last night by Reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe.

Announcing removal of restrictions by which the Crown reserved title to these minerals, he said the United States Atomic Energy Commission's policy is "along parallel lines."

Mr. Howe said the radioactive ores, when mined, will be purchased by the government through Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., or any other designated government - operated agency.

To encourage the search for and development of atomic materials, the government would pay $2.75 a pound, based on uranium content.

Mr. Howe said the government retained its original title to radioactive minerals "largely because the question of ownership of ores in the ground was still under discussion in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission and it was felt that no action should be taken here that might embarrass those discussions."

"Since then the second report of the U.N. Commission has been published and that report does not contemplate ownership of ores in the ground by any international authority which may be established.

The government now was satisfied that removal of restrictions against private prospecting and development was in Canada's best interests. The Dominion's atomic energy regulations provided for control of radioactive material after it was mined.

Money Nobody Owned Is Finally Claimed B. Parker Solves Mystery, Proves Ownership

The Great Mystery of the Money Nobody Owned has been cleared up. Bruce Parker, 341 Reid St., was the lucky man. The sum of $305 was returned to him by city detectives this morning after he had shown his right to ownership.

The money was the focal point of a nice mess more than a month ago, in which an elderly lady had reported losing a similar sum. After strenuous effort and questioning a little girl and her mother who had found—and kept—the money, Acting Det. William Clarke got the lady's money back.

Then the case really got confused. Seems the lady hadn't really lost any cash, just her bank book. So the police force have been acting as nurses to the wad of bills until this morning, when all concerned were quite happy about the restitution to its lawful owner.

Probe Hoarding In Increased Butter Prices

OTTAWA, March 17 —(CP)— Growing indications were evident today that the Commons price committee plans to dig into the effect of hoarding in pushing butter prices upward.

Another element due for further investigation, it appeared, was the Montreal commodity exchange and its relation to upward price movements.

Committee counsel Fabio Monet suggested that butter speculators could drive up prices in times of shortage and that the possibility of "abuse" existed in the exchange's operations.

J. F. Singleton, Dominion dairy commissioner, agreed with him on both counts, though he said the exchange had "useful" functions.

The commissioner said its useful aspects included those of bringing buyer and seller together and of enabling country creameries to buy butter futures against winter requirements.

Evidence that butter is withheld from the market to drive up prices came during the testimony of John S. Turnbull, general manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creamery Association, Ltd.

Hydro Cycle Bill Receives First Reading

TORONTO, March 17.—(CP).—A Government bill to facilitate the change over from 25-cycle to 60-cycle power in southern Ontario was introduced yesterday in the Legislature. Premier Drew said the legislation "undoubtedly" would be the most important dealt with at this session.

Given first reading as an amendment to the power commission to bear all expense involved in changing domestic and commercial equipment and one-third of the cost of converting industrial equipment.

The Legislature devoted both the afternoon sitting and a 4½ hour night sitting to Throne speech debate. In all, 24 measures, including government and private bills, were introduced.

Premier Drew said the Ontario Commission, in making the cycle conversion, will use its own revenues and funds accumulated for that purpose. Local boards and commissions will be authorized to apply their own funds to converting their own equipment.

"Members should bear in mind when examining the amendments that the proposals provide for the full expense of the change over in domestic equipment, urban and rural, such as refrigerators and stoves, to be borne by the Hydro. Commercial equipment also will be converted without cost to this type of consumer."

Industrial equipment worth $250 or less would be converted free by the provincial commission.

"Only in the larger industries which have electrical equipment costing more than $250 will there be any charge and in these cases the industries concerned will pay only one-third of the cost. This decision is based on the fact that the value and life of such equipment will be improved by 36 per cent when converted.

"In effect, the expense which the industries will be asked to bear is merely a payment of an amount to cover the increased value of their equipment as shown on their books."

The commissions expenditure for conversion would amount to considerably more than $100,000,000.

Volume Not Heavy But Stocks Recover

TORONTO, March 17—(CP).—Stocks made a good recovery on the Toronto Stock Exchange today in a rebound from yesterday's sharp losses although today's volume was not as heavy. Golds came back most of the way but industrials showed less progress while base metals and western oils were narrower still.

The exchange's noon index showed industrials up 1.79 at 150.92, golds 2.49 at 94.36, base metals .66 at 78.35, western oils .32 at 29.00. Volume for the first three hours was 1,014,000 shares, about 398,000 less than yesterday's similar period.

The price range in the junior gold producers widened to gains as high as 35 cents, with several issues ahead 10 cents and more. Senior golds moved up fractions for Hollinger, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore and McIntyre, while better juniors were Aunor, Campbell, Central Patricia, Elder, Eldona, Giant, Kirkland Lake, Little Long Lac, MacLeod, Malartic, O'Brien, Sullivan, Sylvanite, San Antonio and Pickle Crow.

Fractional advances ruled among the industrials and the gains were widespread. Key issues ahead were Abitibi, Algoma Steel, Bell, B A Oil, Canadian Breweries, Canadian Celanese, Distillers, Dominion Steel, Fanny Farmer, Great Lakes Paper, Walkers, Imperial Oil, International Petroleum, Laura Second, Loblaw, Massey-Harris, Orange Crush, Winnipeg Electric and International Paper.

Cabinet Minister Gives First Talk To Senate

OTTAWA, March 17 —(CP)— Government legislation to amend the Canada Shipping Act was explained in the Senate yesterday by Transport Minister Chevrier, first non-Senator cabinet minister to pilot government business in the Upper Chamber.

Mr. Chevrier entered after Speaker J. H. King, ruled "entirely out of order" the renewed objection of Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Chevrier outlined the proposed amendments. The main suggested changes:

1. Permanent relaxation of certification regulations because of the "prevailing scarcity of deck officers and engineers."

2. Clarification of the shipping of seamen and their rights and liabilities "to bring the act more in line with modern conditions of employment."

3. A provision enabling dependents of seamen killed in marine accidents to institute proceedings against captains and owners.

The debate following his address was highlighted by the conflicting statements of Senators G. P. Campbell (L—Ontario) and A. W. Roebuck (L—Ontario).

Senator Campbell said that certain unions, with "tremendous power" are not co-operating in development of the Canadian merchant marine. Unless their attitude changed, he was not hopeful that the industry could become strong and efficient.

ion of a majority of the members of the Commission.

Object to Brief

The letter said all the members of the Commission, with the possible exception of Mr. Vincent Eastwood, the chairman, objected to the brief as it was prepared and presented at a meeting of the Commission. The Commission moved a sub-committee of three members should amend the brief. The letter also stated that every member of the Commission, with the possible exception of Mr. Eastwood, was not opposed to the City Council taking over the administration and operation of city property now administered by the City Trust.

Instead of the sub-committee as ordered by the Commission being called together, the letter went on to say, this committee was ignored, as was also the motion of the Commission and instead Mr. Eastwood had Mr. Hall rewrite the brief "in practically the same terms" without consulting the other commissioners. The letter also alleged Mr. Eastwood, without authorization, sent copies of the brief to the members of the Private Bills Committee.

"The brief is supposed to be submitted on behalf of the City Trust Commission by B. D. Hall. Now B. D. Hall has no authority or right by direction of the Trust to submit this or any other brief to the Private Bills Committee on behalf of the Trust," the letter said.

The committee of the Legislature would not hear Mr. Hall and refused to accept the brief.

Mayor Ovens, discussing the extension of the bus service, said the city has grown and needs better transportation facilities.

Weight of the Private Bills committee views on annexation were influenced considerably by the Municipal Board approval given to it at a hearing in Peterborough some time ago.

Mr. Fair, however, said the people of the township were not organized at the time and therefore could not present their objections properly. He added that a petition was before the Board asking re-consideration.

As far as annexation itself is concerned, he said he can see no benefit accruing to the people of the district for many years. The area is practically level with the Otonabee river and sewage is difficult to construction. There are no roads, no sidewalks and no sewers, he said, adding that with all the improvements needed in Peterborough itself, it would be a long time before the township territory would receive any benefit from the increase it will have in taxation.

Mr. Fair said that the city apparently has a housing scheme development in mind for the annexed area. In reply to a question he said there is enough space in the city proper for housing development.

The solicitor also asked that the committee make it necessary to call a vote of the 100 families in the township area before the annexation takes place. The committee took no action on this.

Says Incorrect

Mayor Ovens said Mr. Fair was incorrect in expressing the opinion that the city won't do anything.

It has already spent $15,000 on town planning which covers a radius of five miles around Peterborough, he declared. The only sane way to proceed was to take in a whole school section.

Mayor Ovens said in regard to the city trust that the people had voted to take it over and that he was thus following the will of the electorate

U.S. Aid Plan Prevents Bad Collapse

Must Have Continued Help To Keep Europe On Its Feet

PARIS, March 17 — (AP). — Short-term aid from the United States prevented serious collapse in Europe, representatives of the 16 Marshall plan countries said today, but added: "This aid was designed with limited objectives and could not modify the situation as a whole."

The French version of the official reported, approved yesterday, used the word "brutal" to describe the threatened collapse. The official English translation changed the word to "serious."

One high American official here named France, Austria and Italy as countries rescued by more than $500,000,000 spent in interim aid.

He added that if these three countries had gone under there would have been no reason to spend the $5,300,000,000 now planned as the first year's expense in saving the economic lives of 250,000,000 Europeans under the Marshall plan.

The report said recent developments confirmed forecasts of both the United States government and the committee of European economic co-operation and demonstrated that without external aid the economic situation of the European continent would continue to deteriorate.

The report said European countries have been able to help one another "in certain directions but in others co-operative progress is closely linked with the availability of external aid.

"Nor is the production picture by any means one of unrelieved gloom. In certain important items, for instance coal, iron and steel, wheat sowings, etc., in which self-help was possible, energetic action has been taken with positive and encouraging results."

Mayor Says Restraint Of Trade As Council Bans Mobile Canteen

COBOURG, March 17.—(ENS). —With the largest audience it has had in many years, Cobourg town council Tuesday night passed a resolution banning the operation of mobile canteens in Cobourg. Most of the gallery was made up of merchants who attended to end moral support to a petition against the granting of a license to operate a mobile canteen.

The applicant was Gordon Healey, veteran of both wars, but it was intimated that the petitioners felt that Stan Williams, lessee of the Cobourg pavilion, was the backer of Mr. Healey. The petition requested that a license be denied to any operator of a mobile canteen on the grounds that it was unfair competition to merchants paying taxes on fixed locations.

J. C. M. German, KC, representing the petitioners, said that before a license was granted the town would have to pass a bylaw setting forth what could be sold and where the goods could be sold. Unless there was a covering bylaw there would be no limit what could be handled, Mr. German argued.

Mayor Joe Smith declared the council had not intended to give Mr. Healey a free rein, but had at the previous meeting indicated to the applicant that he could go ahead and order his trailer subject to the terms of a later bylaw.

"This petition," His Worship said with some heat, 'is actually a restraint of trade. Mr. Healey is just as entitled to a living as any merchant. The petitioners, in my personal opinion, have taken a definite stand backward to restrain a man't initiative."

"There must have been some tacit agreement," suggested Mr. German.

"Mr. Healey asked for the permit to run the mobile canteen. He has been talking for some time about it, during the time we have been running the pavilion. I told him to go ahead on his own, and run the mobile canteen," said Stan Williams. "People are after Williams from what I hear I can tell you that Williams has nothing to do with it," Mr. Williams said.

"I have been considering this plan for a long time," Mr. Healey told the council. "I applied to the council for permission; they told me to go ahead and buy my trailer and that the bylaw would be put through later. I was born in Cobourg. My father and mother both were in business. I served in both wars if that means anything."

"The merchants contend that this canteen will take the cream off the summer business," Councillor Fred Bell declared. "Nobody can sell in the park except Mr. Williams, but this canteen will be able to meet the boat and go anywhere. I would like to see the merchants, Mr. Healey and the town solicitor sit in and draft a bylaw.

Further discussion followed after which it was moved by Councillor Bell and Councillor George Galbraith that operation of a mobile canteen be prohibited in Cobourg. This was carried.

"Remember, it is my personal opinion, and I say again that it is a restraint of trade and initiative,' Mayor Smith declared.

Ice Jam Blasted Free

COBOURG, March 17 (ENS)—An ice jam at the mouth of the factory creek last night caused the water to back up until it flooded a wide area on either side of its regular course. Water advanced until it was in the backyards of several houses and the streets department was notified. After considerable blasting the jam was freed.

3 Musketeers Jinx Film With Sickness

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 17 (AP) —At M-G-M they call "The three Musketeers" the jinx picture. Lastest to join the cast's sick list is Keenan Wynn.

The actor reported for work with a painful wrenched shoulder. He was immediately accused of indulging in his favorite pastime, motorcycling, but he assured me he got the injury by stumbling on a flight of stairs. He will be unable to work for several days.

Incidentally, Lana Turner, before a fall that put her in the hospital, was being protected by the studio in a manner that recalled the old days. Not only was her set closed to visitors, but the scene she was working in was screened from the view of even the set workers. This practice has seldom been seen at M-G-M since the days of the temperamental queens Greta Garbo and Norma Shearer.

Fight Still on

Larry Parks expects to be working soon at Columbia, but that doesn't mean he's giving up his fight to end his studio contract. He still plans to appeal the court decision that upheld his Columbia deal. Meanwhile, he wants to work with the understanding that his case will not be prejudiced by his taking a picture. . .

Candy Toxton, the M-G-M contract player whose film name is Brook Chase, finished a bit in "The Missing Bandit" and flew to Miami. The object of her flight is Tommy Dorsey, and the combination is rumored to be serious. . . .

Treason Preached

An editorial commemorates the 24th anniversary of the death of that "huge genious Lenin," "the fiery leader of the peoples of the world."

UKRAINIAN WORD calls the attention of its 5,000 followers to a recent convention of the Canadian University Students' Federation at Winnipeg, where 65 delegates from 21 universities voted to join the International Students' Union, with headquarters at Prague, Czechoslovakia, despite the protests of "some reactionary students" who claimed the ISU was Communistic. This was hailed as another victory in the fight for the "liberation" of Canada.

Finns Campaign For Wallace

LIBERTY (Vapaus) the thrice-a-week Finnish Communist paper published at Sudbury, Ont., beats the drum for the presidency of Henry Wallace, Communist-backed third-party candidate for the presidency of the United States. Wallace, says Liberty, attracts from the Democratic and Republican parties "all that which is truly good and progressive, truly American" — including adamant opposition to the Marshall plan.

This paper, most of whose 4,000 readers came to Canada as fugitives from the ill-fated Communist revolution in Finland in the early 1920's, also takes issue with Walter P. Reuther, international president of the United Automo-Workers (CIO) on his program to rid the American and Canadian labor movement of Red domination.

CANADIAN JEWISH WEEKLY Wochenblatt) of Toronto, keeps its circulation a secret but not its Communist bias. A late issue gives much space to a speech by Tim Buck, Labor, Progressive (Communist) Party leader, and to the recent visit of Joseph B. Salsberg, Toronto MPP, and high-ranking Red, to England, France, Germany, Poland and Palestine.

Other pages are given over to the affairs of the Jewish section of the LPP, to condemnation of England and the United States for "sabotaging" the United Nations plan to partition Palestine and for failing to give the Soviet Union credit for its part in forming the plan.

Stalin Could Read This One

THE HERALD (Vestnik), a Toronto bi-weekly, is successor to The Factory Whistle (Gudok), which was banned early in the war. Canada's only Communist paper printed in Russian, the language of the "fatherland of world revolution," it quotes Lenin:

"Using this machine (the state) as a cudgel, we will do away with all exploitation and then there will be no possibility of exploitation, no landlords, no factory owners . . . This is the point of view of our Communist Party."

It brands as a "clumsy forgery" reports of a plan of Red-instigated strikes in Western Germany to sabotage the Marshall Plan, and speaks of Eastern Europe, under Communist rule as "forever liberated from political swindlers and economic oppressors."

WEEKLY CHRONICLE (Kronika Tygodniowa), Toronto, is the Polish-language contribution to the cause. It takes the place of the old Voice of Labor (Glos Pracy), suppressed during the war, and has a circulation of between 4,000 and 5,000.

NEWS (Novosti) is the Croatian paper. Also published in Toronto, it is issued thrice weekly. It is the successor to the Communist Free Thought (Slobodna Misao), banned at the start of the war.

Hungarian, Czech, Croat

CANADIAN HUNGARIAN WORKER (Kanadai Makyar Munkas), a Toronto weekly, is another of the more outspoken Red organs. "King Admist Bankruptcy of Capitalism," says a recent headline. Another shouts, "Impotent Western Leaders Clear Their Propaganda With Anti-Communist Slogans." It gives several columns to Tim Buck's utterances.

NEW HOMELAND (Nova Vlast), a Czech weekly, published in Montreal, can indeed speak of a new homeland since the late Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. Being the organ of the Czechoslovak National Alliance and friendly to Czech Communists, it is very happy about what has been happening in Eastern Europe.

*PEOPLE'S NEWS (Ludove Zvesti), Slovak weekly, Toronto, is happy also. It recently printed a big picture of Joseph Stalin casting his ballot in last December's Soviet Union elections, thus proving that Democracy reigns in Russia.

SERBIAN HERALD (Srpski Glasnik), published twice a week at Toronto, quotes the Moscow Pravda (Truth) to show that Wall Street is bent on rallying the western powers to attack the USSR.

NEW TIME (Novra Vreme), Bulgarian weekly, Toronto, is the smallest of the lot with a circulation of about 600. Almost without advertising, or other visible means of support, it yet manages to appear regularly with all the appropriate adjectives denouncing the capitalist system and heralding the day when victorious Communism will have abolished it for all time.

The message is preached in these dozen papers, and a couple of others that are only slightly moderate, in a confusion of tongues — but there is no confusion about the tenor of their sermons. They are the sermons Lenin preached, inciting the Communists of Russia to successful rebellion in a day when they were fewer, proportionately, than the Communists of Canada.

Among the foreign-language groups of Canada are tens or hundreds of thousands of people — exactly how many probably no one can guess — new enough to this land, or isolated enough from the mainstream of its traditions—to accept the distortions for truth:

Stalin and his obedient subleaders here are counting on them to help when the revolution, its preparatory phase ended, erupts into action.

Tomorrow — Communist secret agents are entering Canada!

Meter Question Still In Air At Cobourg

COBOURG, March 17 (ENS)—A representative of the meter company that installed Cobourg's meters, addressed council and informed them that the company would instal at no cost, new meter heads which would accept copper coins from one to five cents, instead of one cent and a nickel as at present. Mayor Smith observed that another company would give a sales talk to council this month, after which council would decide as to whether the meters, which have been in a year, would be retained or thrown out.

"Changing the meter head will only prolong the agony. They were installed over the protests of the merchants last year. I would like to see a good parking by-law in town and do without the meters. Port Hope has stuck their neck out and signed on for the meters. We have a chance to get the jump on Port Hope. We have plenty of parking space, so let's throw the meters out," Councillor Bell said.

"We have a $400,000 capital expenditure on sewers this year and the meter revenue is worth almost a mill. When paid for they will be worth two mills," said Mayor Smith. Councillor Bell asked what the revenue to the town was in the 12 months and the clerk replied that, including $448 in fines, the net would be about $2,282.

"You don't know yet who will get the fines. Perhaps they will go to the province," said Councillor Bell. "We pay $1,800 for a police officer to enforce the meter regulations so if we don't get the fines, we end up nowhere, to say nothing of all the goodwill we have lost."

HATS: "Should a lady wear her hat to the dining car while traveling on a sleeper on a long journey? What about the dining-room of a large hotel if she is living there?"

Nowadays the correct thing seems to be unimportant. It's the easy or comfortable way that attracts most of us. Generally speaking, travellers on a three or four-day journey omit the hat when going to the dining car. In a hotel dining-room most of us feel better dressed with a hat. But looking about, you will see the majority of women without hats. That seems to be the answer.

Judging Peterborough Music By Festival Standards

We have already commended the Kiwanis Club for their splendid work in organizing a musical festival for this district; we now compliment them on the service which they have done to the community by bringing Mr. Alec Redshaw to Peterborough to adjudicate the competitions, and to bring a high international standard of judgement to them. Some of Mr. Redshaw's comments, we understand, have been considered severe. Our comment upon that opinion is to say that it is only by severity toward poor work that high standards of musical performance can be achieved and maintained; it is no part of an adjudicator's duty to accommodate his standards to local deficiencies; Mr. Redshaw brings with him standards of adjudication which are established and respected in Great Britain and in the more musical sections of Canada, and it is a privilege for Peterborough contestants to measure their work against those standards.

* * *

Musical achievement in Ontario is remarkably uneven. The audiences of Toronto are as exacting, perhaps, as any in the world, and the performance of the ablest Toronto musicians meets that standard. In several other districts of Western Ontario similar high ideals are cherished. In Eastern Ontario, unfortunately, too many people think of music exactly as their grandparents did fifty years ago — as a genteel accomplishment, the wonder of which is not that a few people play and sing badly, but that they are able to sing or play at all.

* * *

It is only by such means as the Kiwanis Music Festival that this contentment with the third-rate can be destroyed, and higher standards of musicianship substituted for it. As we have said before in these columns, every kind of music in Peterborough needs a thorough shaking-up; the application of international festival standards to our local efforts can do nothing but good.

The Attorney-General Takes Prompt Action

The Ontario Court of Appeal has ordered a new trial for the man who was tried some time ago in Kitchener on a charge of having had carnal knowledge of a girl under sixteen years old, and who was at that time released, with a fine of $3,500. Peterborough people will have a special interest in this case, we think, because the man was dismissed with a fine on grounds that he was to do some contracting work in this city. The judge said, at the time, that the offender was "an important cog in the machinery which is today trying to supply the people with the housing and hospitalization for which they have been crying to high heaven upward of three years". The Attorney-General's office immediately appealed against the fine, the case has been reviewed, and a new trial has been ordered.

We think that the Hon. Leslie Blackwell should be commended for his prompt action in this matter. It looked very much as though the accused man had been let off a jail term because he could pay a large fine and because he could plead that his work was important. The law, however, is not supposed to permit such considerations to influence its decisions. As Mr. Justice Roach of the Ontario Court of Appeal said: "The offence here charged is a serious offence against society, that is, the State; if the accused is guilty, the mere accident of his employment and his ability to pay the substantial fine imposed should not enable him to escape the term of imprisonment which the offence merits; that it should would be quite contrary to British justice"

With all of this we heartily concur, and we once again draw attention to the determination of the Attorney-General that justice shall not stray from the straight path in this Province.

We cannot repress a feeling, however, that the law relating to sex offences of this kind need re-examination in the light of modern knowledge and common sense. For a man to debauch a young girl is a crime deserving of severe punishment. Many jurists and psychologists, however, are of the opinion that young girls are debauched against their will in less than the total number of such instances. It is not unknown for girls below the age of consent to consort with many men, either for money or for other gratifications. In such cases, is the man to be charged as a seducer, and the girl to bear no responsibility for her actions?

A great deal has been heard during the past half-century about equal rights for women. In the light of the progress of women toward full responsibility as citizens, is it not foolish to proceed in every case of sexual irregularity as though all the aggression, all the invitation, and all the corruption were on the masculine side? Between the ravishment of an innocent and unwilling girl and the employment of an under-age prostitute there are a great many gradations of guilt, and the law should be equipped to take cognizance of them.

Patron Saints

Saint Patrick was a fine man of Christian zeal who founded the cathedral church of Armagh, but he was not an Irishman. He was born on the banks of the Severn in Wales and until he was a mature man had no knowledge of Ireland except for what he gained in his youth as a prisoner of Irish brigands. It was as a Welsh missionary approved by the primitive church at Rome that he arrived in Ireland to convert the chieftains and tribesmen, and not as a patriotic Irishman.

Saint Patrick is the patron saint of Ireland, not an Irish patron saint. The logic of this is not as Irish as it sounds, for in the British Isles only Wales has a native son as patron saint. St. David was born in Wales about the year 389 and his festal day is therefore truly Welsh. Patrick and David have this in common—they are both Celtic saints, as distinguished from Roman or continental European saints. It is lamentable that of the large number of Celtic saints (the Reverend Sabine Baring-Gould devotes a third of his 12-volume Lives of the Saints to Celtic saints) only Patrick and David are popularly commemorated.

St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland whose festal day falls on November 30th, had a connection with Scotland so tenuous that the most that can be said of it is that it is mythical. Whether this saint of Scotland is Andrew the Apostle, Andrew of Cappadocia or some other Andrew, his name is Greek, and his nationality almost certainly Syrian. He was crucified, according to tradition on a decussato ("Saint Andrew's") cross in Achaea in Greece, and his bones are reported to rest in Amalfi, an Italian town below Naples where there is a statue of him and his cross.

St. George of England, commemorated on April 23rd, is also known as St. George of Aragon and St. George of Portugal. His name is as far removed from English as Greece is from England. He did, according to report, visit England on an imperial Roman mission a thousand years before the English claimed him as their patron saint. He died in Palestine, probably as unmindful of England as Anatole France says that Pontius Pilate was of Christ.

Canada has no patron saint for neither the dollar nor domestic dullness have been canonized. It does not, however, lack for saints' names. The current edition of the Canadian Almanac has nine double-column pages of place-names which begin with "Saint"—from St. Abdon to St. Zotique. Not all of them are in the Province of Quebec so perhaps one of them would suit our requirements.

"Apt Alliteration's Artful Aid"

When we went to school, teachers of English composition warned us against alliteration; it was, they told us, a cheap trick. Later, at the university, professors assured us that alliteration was as grave an error of taste as a rhyme might be in a modern poem. Nevertheless, we have always had a sneaking fondness for alliteration, and we were delighted the other day when Winston Churchill demanded of the British House of Commons:

"Can you wonder that you are cheeked by Chile, abused by Argentina, and goaded by Guatemala?"

It was an earlier Churchill who spoke of "apt alliteration's artful aid"; our modern Churchill knows how to use it to tickle our ears. Like everything else, the value of alliteration depends upon the art with which it is employed, and the personality of its employer.

The Recovery Of P. G. Wodehouse

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SINCE the war P. G. Wodehouse has written, if I am not mistaken, three novels, "Money In The Bank", "Joy In The Morning" and "Full Moon"; this may be a miscount, for Wodehouse is a hard worker, but these are three which I have seen. They compare favourably with the best of his pre-war work. He is a remarkably even writer and rarely disappoints his large public. Nevertheless, I was curious to find out whether his troubles during the war, his loss of popularity, and the war itself, had affected Wodehouse, who is now 66 and who might excusably have retired as a result of the scandal which attached itself to him. So far as I can tell, Wodehouse is unchanged.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is his unchanging quality in a world which has been changing rapidly and disagreeably for thirty years or more, which gives Wodehouse his strong hold upon his readers, I suspect. Of late serious critics like John Hayward and George Orwell have been saying their say about Wodehouse, and one of the charges they make against him is that he writes of a world that is gone as though it were the world today; his nitwitted aristocrats, his infallible menservants and his countryhouse settings are, these critics say, things of the past, dying by the end of the First Great War and utterly dead by 1925. Wodehouse has no political insight, they say, and has been blind to the changes that have taken place in the world since the days of King Edward VII; they remind us that Wodehouse has had a very long career, that one of his best books was written in 1911, and that he has not invented a new character of any consequence since 1925—that he is, in fact, a back number. Personally I am not a Wodehouse fan (though I enjoy his books from time to time I do not re-read, exult, quote and burn incense as his thoroughgoing admirers do) and I am ready to admit that all these criticisms of Wodehouse are true. But I think that his critics, like so many serious-minded and socially-conscious people, are squint-eyed in their appraisal of him, and are perhaps incapable of understanding why he is so widely read and admired.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOWEVER regrettable it may be from the leftist point of view, a great many people today hanker after the past, when a privileged class had money and the leisure to enjoy it. There was always the chance that a stroke of luck might raise one to that class, even if only for a few weeks; nowadays there is no one to envy, for even the leaders of labour unions, despite their great wealth and privilege, bear heavy responsibilities and have to do a little work, sometimes. We do not all, as socialist idealists imagine, yearn for security and a modest competence; millions of us yearn for big fortunes and freedom to enjoy them. The characters in the novels of P. G. Wodehouse are usually enviable; they have plenty of money, they are never pestered by the troubles of the outside world, their worst enemies are their ferocious aunts, and their creditors (if any) can always be eluded. Let a psychologist make of it what he will, this is the world which many a man would choose as his heaven.

✧ ✧ ✧

WODEHOUSE presents this world, also, with all the art of a master of farce. Few of his readers realize how sturdy are the iron frames which he hangs with cobwebs. Nobody remembers the story of a Wodehouse novel, but it has an extremely clearcut, if trite story, and it moves along at a good, brisk pace. Wodehouse knows just as much about telling a story as R. L. Stevenson or Kipling, though the stories he tells are not as good as theirs. What we remember from these stories are situations and turns of phrase. The situations are pure farce, though sex, one of the mainsprings of farce for other men, is absent from Wodehouse' books in any sense which could possibly be considered "objectionable". The turns of phrase deserve a paragraph to themselves.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are hundreds of thousands of people in the English-speaking world who try to talk like Wodehouse characters from time to time; sometimes they do it well but more often they do it with embarrassing ineptitude. Some earnest Ph.D. should investigate Wodehouse' debt to the Bible and Shakespeare, which is enormous; time after time he lifts his most telling phrases from those sources, twists them a little, and pops them into his farces. The odd thing, and the thing which makes Wodehouse a minor genius, is that the trick never seems to grow stale. It is not true that Wodehouse is a master of the slang of two continents, though it might fairly be said that some of his inventions have passed into the slang of two continents. But it is true that the echoes of Holy Writ, Shakespeare and Tennyson in his novels are numberless, and that they are employed with a unique degree of tact and skill.

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD farce is its own justification. It could also be argued that no good farce is ever laid in the world of reality. For thirty-five years P. G. Wodehouse has been supplying his faithful public with excellent farces, and it looks as though he intended to go on doing so until he dies. More power to him!

Unconsidered Trifles

"You are the sunshine of my life, Mabel! Your smile drives away every cloud. With you at my side I would defy the storms of life—"

"Is this a weather report Siddey?"

✧ ✧ ✧

"I saw you out with your boy last night. I thought you'd given him up."

"Yes; he's just working out his notice."

"Why?"

"Well, I've made up my mind to refuse him, and I simply can't get him to propose."

NO SATISFYING THAT KIND OF APPETITE

Letters To The Editor

DEFENDS SECONDARY RINK PROJECT

Sir: After reading your editorial on the Secondary Rink I would like to offer a few criticisms, based on my own opinions, to some of your statements.

The statement that struck me as being the farthest off the beam is the one dealing with $640,000 being rather a large sum for a city like Peterborough to spend in ten years on sports buildings. If there had been money like this spent you wouldn't need an editorial on the subject. We would have an Arena and there would not be any need for a Secondary Rink.

We all know that the people in general and the youth in particular in our town, have been short-suited as regards facilities for hockey in comparison with most other towns. I am on the Civic Arena Committee because I believe that there are enough citizens in the city who believe as I do, that our young people deserve the best we can give them.

You think that Peterborough needs an Auditorium more than it needs an Arena. In other words you think that your interests should get primary consideration. We all are aware of the fact that music and drama are a very important item in any city, however Peterborough can get along for a while yet without too much inconvenience along those lines. You can have plays and concerts in the Collegiate. As long as hockey is being played in outside centres we are endangering the lives of people who travel to partake of the pastime they think as much of as you do of yours. One week ago an accident happened that took one of the city's finest citizens from us. No matter which way you look at it, if we had an Arena in Peterborough the accident would not have happened.

If the Memorial Centre could be built right away everything would be fine. If, as you say, the Memorial Centre's chief function will be a hockey rink, what in the world is holding things up? If it was to be a rink only we could build one of the finest in the Dominion with the funds available.

Your statement as regards the city "rushing into making extensive and extravagant preparations for a single sport"; there isn't another sport or recreational group in the city that has more followers or players than this one. Lacrosse may have, but most lacrosse fans are hockey fans and most of the lacrosse players play hockey also. Surely the pastimes that are supported by, and contribute to, the most people should have a little more consideration than others.

I do not think that you will see any "widespread anxiety" that Peterborough should have two rinks. We just want one rink. You do not think it is possible to collect $140,000. If our committee fails to do so, it will not be because we didn't try, and we will keep on trying as long as we are of the opinion that our efforts are for the young people and the people who have not forgotten that they were young once too. These youngsters are the ones that may have to go in the near future, to shoulder arms and pilot planes to protect you and I. I believe they are worth making an effort for now, and not waiting until it is too late when the most of them are no longer with us.

It may surprise you to see how many taxpayers and business men consider our youth a worthwhile investment. Most of these taxpayers and business men are fathers you know and they will come through again, I think, to see that their children and they themselves do not have to travel all over the country to play their hockey games.

Thank you.

STAN McBRIDE.

RENT AND THE MARKET PROPERTY

Sir: During the recent controversy over the sale of the Market Square I was surprised at the lack of understanding on the part of many voters of the phenomenon of rent. It was not that they lacked intelligence; it was just that they had never thought of it scientifically.

Now rent is elementary economics. Even the professionals speak of it in understandable words as "an unearned monopoly return".

To put it another way: A person who is fortunate enough to acquire a piece of land past which increasing numbers of people will pass, can sit back and reap a harvest where he has not sowed. This is literally true of an absentee owner. The landlord who lives in the community contributes something to its value by his mere presence. He may contribute much more in proportion to the energy and enterprise which he displays in making it a better town and thus attracting more people who will pass his property, some of whom will stop and shop.

Contrary to common parlance, cities do not grow. They are built. Built by the industry and intelligence of their citizens. Peterborough is a good example. Its pioneers exploited the natural wealth of the district shrewdly and energetically. They created industries and made jobs, causing more and more people to choose this city as a good place to live. If you and I and 34,998 other people had not so chosen, the market square would be just fair farm land.

Fortunately there is no sign of this enterprise abating. Our industries are expanding; our tourist trade is increasing. Every hundred people that are attracted to Peterborough make all its property more valuable, but especially the central or retail section.

Who is more entitled to share in this increase than the people who create it?

GEO. C. SCOTT.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen....

By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went....

By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days. (Heb. 11: 1, 8, 30.)

✧ ✧ ✧

What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?....

Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works....

But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead? Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect? (James 2: 14, 18, 20-22.)

Chrysler Strike Notice Served

DETROIT, March 17 (CP). — There was three-prong action yesterday on three sectors of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) wage front.

Norman Matthews, UAW Chrysler director, served notice that he was filing a routine 60-day strike notice against Chrysler Corporation. Chrysler talks started February 28, but are now recessed until March 24.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer and Briggs director, announced formal wage demands against Briggs Manufacturing Company. They were similar to demands against General Motors Corporation—a flat 25-cent hourly wage increase, plus five cents for social securiny and other "fringed economic demands."

Non-wage sections of the Briggs contract run until April 28, 1949.

Fight Asthma—Bronchial Coughs

If you suffer from difficult breathing, coughing, wheezing, and can't sleep well because of Asthma or Bronchitis attacks you owe it to yourself to try Mendaco. The very first dose of Mendaco starts working through your blood in 30 minutes, helping Nature loosen and remove the thick, sticky mucus which causes coughing, gasping, difficult breathing. This loosening action helps open up your bronchial tubes so you can breathe more freely; then you can sleep more restfully, gain vitality and begin to enjoy life. Fines would get a "quick chance to prove their charges in a court of law" if they would make "definite charges of either fraud or wrong-doing against me" outside the Legislature.

Vets Get Preference

TORONTO, March 17 (CP).—Seventy-four per cent of the persons hired by the Ontario Government in 1947 were veterans, Provincial Secretary Michener said in the Legislature yesterday as he spoke on governing policy giving veterans preference for Civil Service jobs.

Rail Franchise Gets Approval

TORONTO, March 17 (CP). — A Bill which would grant a franchise to the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Co. was approved by the Ontario Legislature Private Bills Committee yesterday.

Also approved was the sale of the Municipal Telephone System of the Township of Dover to the Bell Telephone Company. George W. Parry (PC-Kent West) said no one is objecting to the sale.

A Bill to establish the Strathroy General Hospital was given approval. The hospital has operated since 1912 under a municipal by-law which has now been discovered to be void. Henceforth it is to be operated and managed by a specially-appointed board.

An Act to clarify the powers of Alma College in St. Thomas with respect to property holdings was approved by the committee. The college is a United Church of Canada non-profit institution. Fees were remitted for this as well as the Strathroy Bill.

Approval was given to annexation of four areas in Raleigh and Dover Townships to the City of Chatham. Three went through without dispute, but one piece of land in Raleigh in the city's new industrial area was debated by a deputation.

Province Drops Control Of Gas

TORONTO, March 17 — (CP). — Labor Minister Daley said in the Ontario Legislature yesterday that the government will proceed with its bill to return control of gasoline sale hours to the municipalities.

Mr. Daley made the statement after reading a telegram from the gasoline section of the Retail Merchants Association asking that the bill to transfer control be referred to a committee and hearings be held.

There could be no point to hearings, the minister said. The measure was simply returning to municipalities a duty that had been theirs for years.

The bill to transfer control of sale hours has been given first reading. It applies particularly to the cities of Brantford, Windsor, Toronto and Ottawa, where at present operating hours are regulated by the province.

House Ends Study Of Controls To Be Continued Another Year

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP).—Except for a few loose ends, the Commons yesterday completed study of 27 wartime controls the Government wants continued for another year. Consideration of the controls, to remain in effect until April 1, 1949, produced a rambling debate on rentals, price control, construction priorities, housing and sugar purchasing.

The debate took place during the committee stage of the enabling bill, which will empower the Government to continue the orders into 1949. They may, however, be revoked in the meantime if the Government feels they no longer are necessary.

The chamber also resumed debate on second reading of a government bill to amend the wheat act to increase the initial wheat payment, empower the wheat board to take over marketing of barley and oats and establish a pension scheme for employees of the Board.

Revenue Minister McCann disclosed that interest paid on the refundable portion of 1942 income tax now being distributed will be taxable as part of 1948 income. The refundable portion itself will be tax-free.

Defence Minister Claxton reported "good progress" on bringing Canada's armed forces to peacetime strength.

Reconstruction Minister Howe said Canada, with 200,000 houses completed since the end of the war, is going as well as any other country in the field of home construction. More than 50,000 houses were built in 1945, 67,000 in 1946 and 77,000 in 1947. Carried over from last year are 45,000 uncompleted houses.

He reported, too, that there is no bottleneck of building materials but there is a shortage of bricklayers and plumbers.

No one could say, he went on, whether there was any sign of a dropping off in the cost of housing. Costs of materials were levelling off, but costs of labor were increasing.

Will Make Statement

R. W. Mayhew, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, disclosed that the government will make a statement within a few days on how long it plans to continue buying Canada's bulk sugar supplies. The Crown-owned Commodity Stabilization Corporation, which buys the sugar, also purchases scarce fats and oils from external sources.

He said rental control was one of the most important still functioning but at the same time was one of the most difficult to administer. There was no pattern to follow.

As for the future of rent control, it would be up to parliament next year to decide whether or not it should be continued beyond April 1, 1949, the date to which it now is being extended.

Some members pressed for the lifting of rent controls in smaller communities but Mr. Mayhew said the Prices Board had found that there was just as great a shortage of housing in the small centres as there was in the towns and cities.

Lawrence Skey (PC—Toronto Trinity) belabored the government's policy and charged that controls were "aggravating" the housing shortage. If the government insisted on continuing controls, it should either build houses or subsidize the provinces and municipalities in this field.

Housing was Canada's No. 2 problem of the day, he said. It came behind Communism and, in fact, helped to create Communism by producing "dissatisfaction and discontent" over housing regulations and restrictions and the lack of accommodation.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Minor rugby is to get a break here this year if present plans are carried out. Working in conjunction with the senior "B" squad's executive, a junior setup is in the making. Earl (Doc) Spencely is to be coach with Gord Beatty manager, Doug Miller Jr. secretary, and Henry Robinson treasurer. Earl Spencely will take in the grid coaches' school in Hamilton this spring, and 'tis expected to have spring training again with possibly some of the Big Four aces down for a day or two each. Also they're hoping to get minor "touch" rugby going here with the aid of the Recreation Commission to bring along younger lads. It sounds okay.

* * * * * *

A reader sends in a clipping on Fred Collins of Trenton, asking when he coached senior ball here. Can't recall the exact year but he followed Knotty Lee, who was on hand about the middle 30s for several seasons. Fred, recovering from a recent illness, was out on the West Coast not long ago but is back as hotel manager in Trenton again. Clipping says: "In his younger years—and he is not old by any means—Rip was manager of the Peterborough senior baseball team which held a high place in baseball realms. Today if he visits the Liftlock City, he is always welcome. As a matter of fact, Rip is well known to Central and Eastern Ontario sportsmen. He glories in helping youth because he believes in them. Yeah, we remember the Ripper well.

* * * * * *

Some He Dislikes

Dan Odette of the Kitchener Record says the OHA has had some poor refereeing this year. Says he: "If we were given a choice of grading referees we have seen in senior contests this year we would fill out a list like this: Good—Ken Holmshaw of Toronto, Bill Morrison of Oshawa, Doug Young of Windsor and Gord Parsons of Windsor; average—Frank Elliott of St. Kitts, Pat Patterson of Toronto, Dinty Moore of Port Colborne and Bill Townes of Hamilton; poor—Charley Good of Toronto, Jack Liscombe of Galt, Jack McEachern of Toronto, and Pearcey Allen of Oakville." Some of these arbiters have been down this way, too.

* * * * * *

On this St. Patrick's Day, as Legionnaires impatiently await their next OHA senior "B" playdown game with Toronto Fliers, those Irish members of the club—like Crowley, O'Vitarellis, McGodfrey and the O'Nicholls—pray for fast ice. "Sure and we can lambaste thim guys," said Coach O'Vitarelli, "on fast ice. But in the heavy muck anythin' might happen." Faith and it's a fact. We like Legion's chances, but the Fliers might hit a hot pace, too, on firm footing. Locals are a goal up and should yank it out but they want no part of heavy ice for the return go. Don't know yet when or where it'll be. Maybe tomorrow in Lindsay if it gets cold enough.

* * * * * *

With Credit Due

It mightn't be a bad time to make mention of the good work the younger rookies are turning in for Legionnaires this semester. Al Burns, ex-Lindsay junior, is holding down a regular berth on the good second line and doing okay. Bill Hicks is spare defenceman and has also been showing plenty of hustle and fight. Harley (Toodie) Greenlaw is a fast-stepping boy of junior age hurrying every minute on the third line, and you'll hear more of him and those others another year. Mucker O'Connell (another Lindsay lad) is spare goalie, and Bob Workman has been signed but not used—just kept in case of a series of injuries. Me might also point out that speedy back-checking by the various Legion wingmen have helped make the defence look real good.

The fair trundlers of the Girls' Bowling League are pounding down the stretch these days along the wooden runways, and Towne Togs took most of the bingling honors this week. They totalled pinnage of 3185, and had high game count of 1125. On top of that, Marg Selkirk, of this squad, led the way in threesomes with 816 and her nifty 365 was easily the best single effort. B. Pogue of Merry Macs came closest to the blind score mark of 587. 'Twas a night of shutouts, only one 2-1 score being hung up as whitewash was splattered liberally about by the colleens. This circuits season hasn't far to go now.

Girl Cagers Ready

Executive meeting of the Girls' Basketball League last twilight lined up the final playoffs in three sections. All two-in-three sawoffs. This Friday at the YW, Neill's and Nurses tangle at 8.15 in first of the senior setup, followed an hour later by Normals and Locks in intermediate playoffs. Monday at eight p.m. sees Lock Co. playing Normals their second money struggle. April 2 it's Nurses vs. Neill's and Electrics vs. St. Paul's (a junior fray). Then, if necessary, Nurses meet Neill's again April 9 while CGE takes on St. Paul's. Latter two go also on April 16, if necessary, same thing applying that e'en to Lock Co. and Normals. Annual windup banquet is billed for April 21 as the girls call it a season. Togs were eliminated recently in LOBA semi-finals.

Marmora Gets First One In Playdowns

MARMORA, March 17—(ENS)—Before only a moderately sized crowd in Madoc arena on Tuesday evening, Marmora defeated Bloomfield 7-3 in the first of the OHA playdowns. The second game will be played in Wellington on Thursday evening.

Despite soft ice, play was fast. In the first period, Parks in goal for Bloomfield demonstrated to the oppostiion that goals would be difficult for them to obtain. More shots were rained on him than on Koski, and K. Trumble's shot which beat him, gave him no chance. Marmora kept up the pressure in the second period scoring twice. Marvellous play again by Parks in the nets kept the score from soaring. After Hamilton had scored early in the third, the visitors soon retaliated Platford beating Koski on Vance's assist. After Marmora had scored a further two goals in which Hamilton and the brothers Leonard figured prominently. Denville got two goals for his team in the space of a minute. Cousins got the last goal in the closing minute of play. The game was free of roughness and interesting to watch.

Teams:

Bloomfield—Goal, Parks; defence, Abbott, MacDonald; centre, R. Cork; wings, De Mille, A. Cork; alternates, Vance, Pike, Welsh, Platford, Mesky.

Marmora—Goal, Koski; defence, G. Leonard, E. Leonard; centre, Cousins; wings, K. Trumble, Goodchild; alterantes, Loveless, McInroy, E. Trumble, Scott, Payne, Brown, Hamilton.

CURLING NEWS

By HERB MARTIN

It was a great day for the boys from Keene. Some time ago they held a bonspiel down there but were rained out after two games were played. They concluded the 'spiel up at our rink on Tuesday. They began at 9.30 a.m. and finished around 5.30 p.m. They had one grand time and many of the old-timers showed thta they had not forgotten what it is all about. The rinks skipped by S. Cromie and C. Mather were declared winners.

We have no information on how G. Putnam, Dr. R. Clark, T Doughty and V. O'Toole are making out down at Kingston.

One time a seven-end was a very rare thing in curling, but of late it seems to be slipping. On Saturday night E. Metcalfe slips a seven-end over Dr. R. Clark. On Monday night M. Cruthers dose the same thing to B. Dench,, and then, just to be in stayle, F. Batten slips a seven over W. Hamilton on Tuesday night. Who will be the next?

How about an entry for the Osterland Trophy bonspiel on Good Friday. Schedule calibre, $5.00 per rink.

All curlers will be pulling for a speedy recovery for Chris Graham, who met with a serious accident Tuesday. Our information is not complete, but we believe he will be laid up for some time.

We are pleased to report that the condition of our good friend Harold Darling shows improvement.

The Neill Trophy games continue this evening.

NHL Playoffs Open March 24

NEW YORK, March 17—(CP)—Governors of the National Hockey League decided today that the 1947-48 playoffs for the Stanley Cup will open March 24 in Toronto, if the Maple Leafs win the league championship, or in Detroit, if the Red Wings, now in second place in the standing, finish first.

The opponents of the first-place finisher will be, as in previous years, the third-place team. The second team will play the fourth-place finisher in the lower half of the semi-final round.

Boston now is in third place and New York, with 53 points, only a point behind.

The regular schedule ends March 21. Montreal Canadiens, in fifth plac with 49 points, have a mathematical chance of beating out the Rangers for the fourth and last playoff spot.

Public Schools Win Sports Cups

Something new has been adopted this year in public school sports. For the first time a cup for the team showing the best sportsmanship has been offered. Votes are given after each game by the "teacher referees" and these are totalled up by the secreetary.

The final standing is as follows:

Senior Division Winners—King Edward school tied with Prince of Wales school, each having 4 points. The cup will remain at these schools for one month eachc.

Junior Division—Queen Alexandra school is the winner with 6 points.

The cups will again be awarded next spring at the conclusion of the saftball season.

The cups were generously supplied by the Peterborough Optimists' club.

The main bout is the tag team wrestling go between the Sharpe Brothers, Mike and Ben, and Wee Willie Davis and Jack Moore. And it should be a humdinger. The opener is between Jimmy 'Red' Sims and Bulldog Drummond. It looks like plenty of action for the fans tonight.

What's What In Baseball

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP).—With only three positions set—first base, catcher and left field—one of the merriest scrambles for regular jobs is taking place at Washington Senators' training base here.

According to Manager Joe Kuhel, Mickey Vernon is a fixture at first, Al Evans has the first string catching job in the bag, and young Gil Coan has won the regular left field position, but "who will win the other five berths is anybody's guess."

Manager Charlie Grimm has received good news from pitcher Hank Borowy. The hurler, bought for $97,500 from New York Yankees in 1945, said his arm feels better now than it has in two or three years

Ashburn, who hit .362 for Utica last year, is expected to be sent to Toronto this year for more seasoning.

Eddie Stanky won't be allowed to get into a Boston Braves uniform until X-rays have been scanned by club officials.

Stanky is recovering from an illness variously described as lobar pneumonia and virus infection. He was X-rayed yesterday.

Bruins Wallop Rangers 6-2 Habs Cling To Cup Hopes

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Today's most frustrated coach of National Hockey League teams is undoubtedly genial Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers. And today's most tensely-uncertain coach, also without a shadow of a doubt, is canny Dick Irwin of the Montreal Canadiens.

For in the only game last night Boston Bruins walloped New York Rangers 6-2, right in Madison Square Garden before a crowd of 15,111.

That result just put emphasis marks under all the "ifs" that the NHL governors were forced to include in their playoff schedule.

It meant that the fifth-place Canadiens still have a mathematical chance of getting into the four-team play-off for the Stanley Cup. Rangers at present hold the fourth and last play-off spot. Canadiens in fifth place could tie Rangers, if Canadiens win both remaining games and New York lose their two games.

The Canadiens who sank to lowly positions this season after ruling the roost came back with the most determined fight that the league has seen in many a year. They beat Rangers twice last week-end, once in Montreal and once in New York, and then had to sit back and hope. Because a Rangers tie with anybody much less a victory, would put Canadiens out of the play-offs. When Rangers lost last night, the noise in Madison Square Gardens must have been a mumble compared to the glee in the Habitants' idle camp.

Had Bad Luck

Bouchers' Rangers had bad luck all the way in last night's game. Frankie Eddolls, their steady defenceman, suffered torn ligaments in his left leg in the third period, and he won't be with the team when they meet the Hawks at Chicago to-night.

The first period was scoreless, and Boston rammed in four goals in the second, from Johnny Peters, Pat Egan, Milt Schmidt, and Johnny Pierson. New York's rookie from Winnipeg, Don Raleigh, broke the parade with a goal early in the last frame, and Bryan Hextall got their other goal. But Pete Babando and Ken Smith added two for Boston.

While the Rangers are playing at the Chicago Black Hawks to-night, the Detroit Red Wings will endeavor to tie Toronto for the league leadership by beating the Bruins at Boston, no easy task. Whether or not the Wings win, the league title will be settled by the week-end games between Toronto and Detroit.

Suspend Boxing For 23 Days

CHICAGO, March 17.—(AP).—Repercussions of the ring death in Chicago last month of Sam Baroudi were capped yesterday with suspension of professional boxing in Illinois for 23 days.

The shutdown was asked by Governor Dwight H. Green and commission chairman Sheldon Clark said the request was accepted in "complete accord." The commission will meet tomorrow to act formally on the matter.

The move climaxes criticism of pro boxing stemming from the death on Feb. 21 of Baroudi, 20-year-old Akron, O., boxer, after his 10th-round knockout by Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati.

The ban will be lifted April 7, date of the Chicago stadium benefit to raise $10,000 for Baroudi's parents. The bout will be between Charles and Elmer (Violent) Ray of Minneapolis.

Schwartz, Shields Win Tennis Round

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP).—Billy Talbert of New York and Marcel Bernard of France, who head the domestic and foreign seeded lists, make their bids today for semi-final berths in the national indoor tennis tournament.

Talbert was paired with Armando Vierire of Brazil. Bernard, lefthanded French champion, was matched with Ed McGrath of Brooklyn, eastern indoor titlist.

Sydney Schwartz of Brooklyn and the veteran Frank Shields of New York gained the round of four yesterday.

Schwartz, fifth seeded, upset second-ranked Irvin Dorfman of New York 9-7, 7-5, 2-, 3-6, 6-4. Shields eliminated Nathan Goldstein, the Brooklyn upsetter 64, 6-3, 6-2.

Henri Rochon of Montreal, Canada's top netman, and Robert Kerdasha of New York defeated Richard Squires of Bronxville, N.Y., and Dr. Reginald Weir of New York 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, in the second round of the men's doubles events.

Lakefield Club In Favor Of A New Rink

LAKEFIELD, March 17. —(ENS).—Members of the Lakefield intermediate hockey team were presented with sweaters by the Hockey Club at a meeting held in the council chambers Tuesday evening. President Tom Staves presided for the session. Those who received sweaters were Eldon Jewell, Harry Jewell (coach), George Chappell, Royden Wasson, Gord. Henry, George Hopkins, Charles Birch, George Birch, Keith Fawcett, W. Morin, Archie Stewart, H. Campbell, Tom Staves (manager), Garnet Samis, secretary, Don Hill (stick boy), Jack Jopling, Bob Chittick, Bill Atchison, time-keepers.

During the session Mr. Staves asked a number of those present to express their views regarding the erection of a new rink.

Reeve Grant stated a new rink was badly needed and suggested that the hockey association put a great deal of effort into getting representative citizens to attend a public meeting to discuss the possibility of a new rink.

Poor Shape

Harry Stabler, who has been managing the rink this year for the Lions Club, said the rink was in very poor conditon and there had been many complaints during the year about the small ice surface.

Others who were called upon for comments were Ken Morris, Bill Morrison, Eric Anderson, Winder Smith, Reg Doubt and Garnet Samis.

The general trend of the meeting was that the building of a new rink should be under the supervision of some local service organization, preferably the Lions Club since it is the strongest club.

A committee composed of Harry Stabler, Bill Morrison, Tom Staves, Winder Smith, Reeve Grant, Eric Anderson, Joe Blewett and Frank Coyle was appointed to inspect rinks recently erected and present a report to the public meeting as to the type of structure, approximate cost and suggestions for location of a new rink.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A two-day Olympic trial meet is being sponsored by the Canadian Amateur Basketball Associationtion at Toronto May 10-11 in which four teams will meet with a trip to the Olympics at London as their goal, CABA president A. Laurie Irwin of Toronto announced yesterday. The tournament will be held at Maple Leaf Gardens with double-headers each night.

First game will be between the CABA Eastern and Western champions. The final game of the first will be between the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, Canadian intercollegiate champions, and either University of British Columbia or University of Alberta. The first night losers meet in the first contest of the second night, and the first night winners meeting in the final of the second night.

Frank Boucher, manager of the New York Rangers, said yesterday that Madison Square Garden officials would not back any appeal made by Billy Taylor against his expulsion from hockey on charges of gambling in the National Hockey League. Boucher said in an address to the New York Sports Broadcasters Association, that additional evidence in the recent NHL betting scandal which also resulted in suspension of Don Gallinger of Boston Bruins would be made public shortly.

With the understanding that all standing room accommodation would be eliminated, the Barton Street Arena at Hamilton late yesterday was permitted to reopen five hours after it was ordered closed by Building Commissioner A. R. Hannaford. The Commissioner accused the rink owners of permitting overcrowding. The arena is the home rink of Hamilton Tigers who are now engaged in a battle with Kitchener-Waterloo for the OHA senior title.

Toronto Central YMCA swept to a 44-16 victory over Hamilton Tigers at Hamilton last night to win the Ontario Basketball Association's Senior B title. The smooth-working Toronto quintette took the best-of-three provincial finals in two straight games.

Randolph Turbin, 19-year-old British fighter, outpointed British middleweight champion Vince Hawkins at London last night in eight rounds of a non-title fight. The youngster can't hold the title until he grows up and won't be allowed to fight over the regulation 15 rounds of a title bout until he is 21. Turbin, son of a negro father from the West Indies, is Britain's newest boxing sensation.

British Columbia will not be represented this year in junior hockey playoffs for the Memorial Cup. Doug Grimston, B.C. vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said last night that Trail junior Smoke Eaters were merely B hockey champions of B.C. and there was no B.C. Junior A team.

A suggestion that the Allan Cup and Memorial Cups be retired to hockey's hall of fame has to be placed before the annual meeting of the CAHA for consideration, President Al Pickard, said yesterday at Regina. Mr. Pickard, commenting upon a letter he received from William Northey of Montreal, a life member of the CAHA said other suggestions in the letter, including the dropping of the word "amateur" from the Association's name, would be dealt with at the annual meeting if they were brought before it.

Delegates to the CAHA meeting at Toronto April 23 will discuss the possibility of signing players to contracts to play with amateur clubs, James A. Dunn, president of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association, said yesterday. He said the CAHA appointed a committee at its January meeting to look into the matter of player-signing by amateur clubs and to report at the April meeting.

Omaha In 2nd Place Trips Millers 3-2

By The Associated Press

All four teams in the United States Hockey League's northern division collide tonight with Omaha Knights having the most at stake.

A Minneapolis victory at St. Paul or an Omaha loss at Kansas City will eliminate the Knights from the running for first place.

Omaha went into second place last night with a 3-2 victory at home over Minneapolis Millers.

In the only other game last night George Agar of Houston set a league season scoring record as he pushed his season's total to 103 with four assists in his team's 8-1 win over Tulsa. Jack Geisebrecht, Andy Brown and Leo Gravelle contributed two goals apiece to the Huskies' total.

Lighter Side Remembered In Florida Trip

TAMPA, Fla., March 17.—(AP).—A spring trip to Florida is supposed to produce information on sports to serve as background through the enttire season, but these are the kind of things you remember most sharply when it comes time to go home:

The first blast of Miami's tropical sun on a new arrival from the north.

The sudden breath-taking beauty of the Hialeah race course when you first turn into it from the flat, scrubby country and shacks; the breath-taking prices at some Miami spots and the indignation of Miami Beach hotel men over a story that they planned to reduce prices.

The Philadelphia Athletics kibbitzing on one another's card games and shouting criticisms across the courtyard in their hotel. Connie Mack, garbed in a dark suit and high stiff collar sitting erectly on a folding chair beside the practice field. He probably is the only northerner not sneered at because he owns a hat.

Redmen Trounce Combines 6-1 In Northern Tilt

By The Canadian Press.

Northern Ontario Hockey Association fans will finally know the identity of the junior champions to-night after the seventh and deciding tilt of the best of seven final series.

Last night Copper Cliff Redmen scored a decisive 6-1 victory over Porcupine Combines to deadlock the series at three games each and force the series to go the limit.

Only in the initial frame was play anywhere on even terms as Gord Byers sniped one for Copper Cliff midway through the period and then Roger Minesult tied the count for Porcupine near the end of the frame. From there on play was all Redmen's as they added two goals in the second and three more in the third.

Marcel Clements scored the first of his two markers in just a little more than a minute of play in the middle session, and then Bud McIver added another at the half-way mark.

In the final stanza Ronnie Rubic, Marty Burton, and Clements with his second goal, each added one.

Porcupine Coach Carlo Cattarello yanked his goalie with more than five minutes left to play to put another forward on the ice. His plan backfired as Burton scored his goal by skating in on an empay net, after which the goalie was returned quickly to his position.

Hit New Snarl In Veterans Pension Raise

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, March 17 — (CP). — Next move in the tangle over veterans' pension increases is up to the cabinet.

The veterans committee of the Commons ran into a new snarl yesterday over the bill that would raise the rates for disabled pensioners, war widows and dependents from 16 to 20 per cent. It ended with return of the bill to the government.

In the Commons committee and behind the scenes, efforts have been made to obtain parliamentary approval for the increases, retroactive to Oct. 1, before the Easter recess starts March 24, it appeared a bit doubtful last night whether that is feasible.

Capt. Walter Tucker, parliamentary assistant to Veterans' Minister Gregg, raised the issue again in committee.

When it was suggested the bill be split in two M.P.'s said that would mean either forgetting the other amendments or trying to get the whole thing through now. Protests went up from opposition members, with T. J. Bentley (CCF-Swift Current) sensing "a threat that if we don't accept this thing in its entirety, the increases might not get through."

In the end, Brig. Gregg agreed to ask cabinet whether the bill could be cut in two, and, if so, whether the second part would get a hearing this session.

Wait Decision

Since the cabinet will not meet again Thursday, the committee adjourned to Friday. It then will consider the next step in the light of the government decision.

The other amendments include increases for dependent parents and orphans, salary increases for the pension commission, a few administrative changes and a provision to give senior officers the same helplessness allowance as that for other ranks.

It is considered possible that other changes may be urged in government ranks in line with some of the recommendations by veterans' organizations yesterday. These might include increased helplessness allowances and higher pensions for multiple disability cases.

Golds Tumble To New Low In Past Week

By The Canadian Press

Investors this week ignored the mounting indications of a brighter future for golds.

In only three and a half trading sessions they unloaded sufficient quantities of stocks to force prices down to the lowest level since Sept. 19, 1946, shortly after the Canadian dollar was brought to par with the United States dollar.

Golds listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange dropped more than three index points yesterday and showed a decline of 10.52 from the level of the previous Tuesday. This headlong retreat followed almost a year of successful stand against a steadily deteriorating market. Only a week ago golds were down but one or two points from their high for the year as compared with industrials which had slipped about 20 index points within little more than two months.

The gold mining industry only recently has shown signs of emerging from several years of depression brought about by wartime shortages of supplies and labor and by the more recent blows of dollar parity and inflation which increased costs of operation as against a fixed price for gold.

But, general market conditions, a darkening international scene, spreading strikes in the United States and fear of too sharp price readjustment have kept investors in varying degrees of uncertainty and ready to unload at the slightest provocation.

The impetus came Friday when a handful of junior gold mines were under pressure. Prices slipped and the downward move soon was accelerated in heavy trading

Western U Seeks Course On Advanced Business

LONDON, Ont., March 17 — (CP). — A suggestion that a Canadian graduate school of advanced business administration be established on a national basis with the University of Western Ontario as its centre was made last night by Western's president, Dr. G. E. Hall.

He proposed at a meeting of 100 business men that industrial firms provide an estimated $520,000 to establish the school and $60,000 a year after the school starts to operate.

Robert H. Reid, general manager of a life insurance company, moved for establishment of a management committee to explore possibilities of Dr. Hall's plan. His motion also urged that the committee should nominate a financial committee to raise the funds.

The motion carried.

Dr. Hall said that for the first five years the graduate school would work in conjunction with the present undergraduate department of business administration. After that, the business administration department would be widened into a "broad general arts course."

The new school also would be prepared to give a one-year course for graduates from other fields who sought business executive training.

Pierce Survey Party Nears Hudson Bay

F. W. Beatty, surveyor-general of Ontario and H. E. Beresford, director of surveys for the Province of Manitoba, propose starting today from Lac du Bonnet, Manitoba's Provincial Air Service base, to inspect progress of the cutting of the inter-provincial boundary between Manitoba and Ontario. The project, which has been underway since the first of the year under direction of E. L. Gauer and John G. Pierce of Peterborough, started on the Echoeing river, northeast of Island lake.

The position of the survey party at the present time is 47 miles southwest of the coast of Hudson Bay and if all calculations are correct, the "Line" will hit the intersection of the 89th meridian of longtitude with the south coast of the Bay. This will complete the cutting of the Boundary that has been going on at intervals for the past 50 years. John W. Pierce, OLS, MLS, DLS, father of John G., was the last surveyor to work on the project in 1937.

Flower Growers To Meet Mar. 22

A. E. Hick of Lindsay will speak on "The Proper Use of Annuals" at the meeting of the Horticultural Society on Monday, March 22, in the YWCA at 8 p.m. The hardier annuals such as petunias and verbenas bloom all summer and through the early frosts. The variety of annuals contributes a wealth of charm to flower gardens.

Mr. Hick is thoroughly conversant with the practical planting of annuals for their best effects of display. Door prizes will be collections of annual plant seeds. W. C. Wilks, secretary of the society, informed the Examiner that although Peterborough attained a new record of membership last year, the local society was in sixth place in the membership reports at the provincial convention last week.

Waterloo was first with 1,076 members, Kitchener second with 1,044. "We won recognition for our work among children," Mr. Wilks said, "and were also commended for our program in civic beautification and improvement, especially among new home owners. Many of the societies reported only four public meetings a year. When you consider that average against Peterborough's eight public meetings to which outside lecturers are invited often at quite an expense, you will see that the local society is doing its share to promote horticulture."

Paintings Set Off Big Controversy

By STUART UNDERHILL

LONDON, March 17 (CP)—If things get quiet in London's Art world they can always be stirred up by exhibiting a controversial painter, and Marc Chagall, whose works are on display at the Tate Gallery, is no exception to the rule.

Traditionalists, who like to see things portrayed roughly as they appear to the human eye, rushed to atttack as soon as the show opened. Epithets like "Pygmy Play the Fool" and "Perverted Imagination" were hurled at the Russian - born, Paris - trained painter.

The Arts Council, which sponsored the exhibition, replied with a straight face that "Those to whom Chagall will come as an entirely new revelation will recognize him as a great artist."

One picture showed a bare-legged woman standing on the roof of a house, kicking at a red horse. On the back of the horse another woman in red tights stands on her head. The horse straddles a bride and bridegroom in their weddings clothes.

The front legs of the horse have hands instead of hooves and one hand clutches a lighted candle in a candlestick. A new moon, a violin and some ghosts complete the decoration.

Differ on Symbols

Interpreters of Chagall differ on the symbolism of his work. Why, for example, does he paint a cow red and give it green horns, or detach a woman's heart from her body? Questions like these yield hours of debate in Chelsea studios.

But listen to critic Frank O. Salisbury, well-known portrait painter:

"Chagall's works are not the productions of a fine painter or a master of artistic technique, but the expression of perverted imagination, developed with a view to achieving a position with the mass-minded public."

Ice In Creek May Cause Some Flooding

Spring appears to be on its way in Peterborough. But, from the looks of things, it is going to be a painful process this year. Should the thaw continue at the same pace of the last two days, damp repercussions will be felt in many sections.

So far, the thaw has not gone out of control in the central sections and higher districts of the city. In the south end—particularly near the McKellar project—things are bad now, however.

Jackson Park Creek threatens to cause some trouble. The water flowing through it Monday and Tuesday was not in itself alarming, but the quantity of snow still to thaw makes the situation ominous.

The depth of the ice over which the water is flowing is also a matter of concern. The city street department has cut a channel along some lengths of the creek where it was apparently impeding the stream's progress. Street Commissioner J. C. Burgess reports that his department, in checking the ice situation, finds there is not a great quantity of solid ice under the water, most of it being "snow-ice," which he points out, should not prove too difficult with which to deal.

This week's thaw has already removed inestimable tons of snow and ice. Parkhill Road lawns, although white in spots, are quickly tossing aside the mantle of snow which, but last week, was the predominant feature of the landscape—city and country. Patches of grass are widening rapidly, making the snow the "patches" now, in many cases.

On the open countryside, snow blankets of the wide fields are sinking noticeably, with big, ugly wet areas showing through where the snow has come in contact with soggy ground.

Throughout the city, the thaw is making itself felt with many miniature lakes—some of them not so "miniature" either. Most of the vacant lots and low-set residences are beginning to resemble old English castles in the moat-like surrounding water.

Plenty Of Lakes

It is in the low-lying areas of the city where the thaw is most effective right now. The "race track" property area and the streets in its vicinity are veritable channels. The water on New Chamberlain St., for example, is in one place a foot deep over the road for more than 150 yards. The water is also gaining headway right around the houses in this section too.

The large space at the back of the CGE plant on Monaghan Road resembles a private swimming pool—except that it isn't private and would be a bit chilly for swimming.

The Jackson Park Creek at the Park itself is badly swollen in size. As further down, through the city, the water is tumbling fiercely over glare ice which can be seen from the banks.

In the centre of Peterborough, most of the main streets and secondary streets are cleared of snow.

Most of the men of the department are engaged in some form or another in "expedition melting." Crews with heavy pryers, crowbars and shovels are attacking the heavier stretches of ice along the pavement sides. The busiest squad is the detail assigntd to clearing catch basins and sewers, a job which keeps them on the jump, for the melting is bringing up quantities of dirt which clogs the drains with monotonous regularity.

One despairing veteran father on McKellar St., gazing at his own personal Lake Louise in the back yard, remarked wryly:

"I understand that a couple of the taxi companies are planning a gondola service for this section."

HEADS SEED SHOW—Manager of Quinte District Seed Fair, Stewart Bowman of the seed products branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is in charge of the entries that will be on display at Morrow Park this week. Eastern Ontario Threshermen's convention opens Wednesday, but a tip to the general public is to wait until Thursday when judging will be completed and the exhibits set for the rest of the week.

Seed Exhibits Tax Big Hall To Capacity

Rows of top quality seed grain for the new season's sowing occupied the spotlight of Farmers' Week exhibits in the former drill hall at Morrow Park this morning.

This was the feature of the Quinte District Seed Fair which is being combined with the Eastern Ontario Threshermen's convention and bacon show.

Seed grains and mechanics of its planting were significant of the approach of spring and its agricultural programs in which cereal production holds a first place throughout the district. Four judges began their work of deciding the grain awards of this week. Departmental and commercial displays occupied the rest of the big drill hall, but the space allotted to the bacon show was vacant, awaiting carcasses that are coming from Canada Packers. The hogs entered in this division of the show were being converted into Wiltshire sides, the prime bacon that has given Canadian producers a stronger place in the British market.

Stewart Bowman, fair manager, told the Examiner that everybody was pleased with the number and quality of the seed grain exhibits. Meanwhile Eastern Ontario Threshermen were arriving for their convention which opens today, expands tonight into a dinner at Canadian Legion Hall which all the tickets were sold last Friday, according to Vern

Fail To See Need For Pictures Or Fingerprints

"Dictatorship"!" is the definite term used by the majority of the city's taxi drivers in regard to the recent decision of the Police Commission to take a fingerprint and picture of each cabby.

One of the chief "beefs" the drivers have against the move is that they are expected to pay for the picture. They argue that this puts the taxi driver in a class by himself. Having paid the province for the privilege of driving for hire anywhere in Ontario, they have to pay the city for the same right. Now they feel that they are being classed as "criminals" under the new ruling.

"Why not have the bus drivers fingerprinted?" they query, pointing out that much more of the public is carried on the buses than in taxis and their drivers handle more money.

"If a person goes to work for a store in Peterborough," one of the drivers said, "he doesn't have to go before a board to be investigated like a Communist. And he doesn't have to pay for the privilege of working there, either. The stores pay a business licence, just like the taxi operators. Why should the people who work there have to pay, too? Are the clerks fingerprinted?"

The system is essential, they admit, for border cities such as Windsor, where taxis are regularly crossing the international boundary, and in larger cities like Montreal where control of the cabs is necessary to keep track of criminal elements which might be getting into the business.

But Peterborough has 60 drivers, Montreal has hundreds, they point out. All the city drivers are local residents who must know the city well to be able to do their work. They feel it unnecessary to have elaborate machinery of investigation for such a small group.

The Sunday night crowds at the railway station provides the cabbies with their only opportunity to meet as a group. Last Sunday, the air was thick with opinions—all of them strong and disapproving of the project.

Charge Discrimination

Several of the drivers have stated that they feel so strongly on the matter that they will leave their jobs rather than pay the two dollars which they have been told will be the cost of the police photograph.

Chris Graham Breaks Back In Attic Fall

Mr. Chris G. Graham, 595 Gilmour St., suffered a simple but serious accident at his home Tuesday. He was doing some minor domestic work on the third floor, and fell down the flight of stairs to the second floor. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital where an X-ray examination revealed a fracture of his spine.

Friends this morning were shocked by the news. From his boyhood Mr. Graham has always kept in fine physical condition, engaged in hockey, baseball, football and other sports without any serious mishap. Even in his later years of horseback riding he escaped a few spills with nothing more hurtful than a shaking up.

Mr. Graham is the retired proprietor of the Empress Hotel which he sold several years ago to its present owners. It was reported this morning that it will be a day or two before he is put in a plaster cast. His host of friends will extend to Mr. Graham one of Peterborough's finest athletes of some years ago, their wishes for his complete recovery and their regrets in suffering this accident which may confine him to bed for some weeks.

Rambling Reporter

IT'S IN THE BOOK, BEGORRA . . .

The Sivinteenth is the day that makes Irishmen the world over perk up a little more than usual. They dig out sprigs of shamrock, carry shillelehs, if their great-grandfathers were lucky enough to save them intact from some ancient Donnybrook, wear green ties and smoke clay pipes. Too bad its Lent or there might be time out for a little "strong tea" on the way home from work. It's a grand day and only happens once a year except to those whose names give them the right to carry around the memory for a lifetime and pass it along. The telephone directory, for instance, shows, two Shannons, five Irelands, two Isle's and eight Greens. There are no Harps or Shamrocks but there is one Boggs and the Christian name is not Pete.—N. Queen Mary Junior Chorus Wins At Kiwanis Festival

"The standard of every session has been consistently good," said Alec Redshaw, adjudicator of the Festival of Music, on Tuesday night at the conclusion of the second day. Highlight of the morning was the boys' solo, unchanged voices, which he described as "notable for excellent voices but complete lack of imagination." Summing it up he declared it was "a very constructive session; evidence of a lot of talent."

In the afternoon he selected the girls' solo, 10 years and under, as an example of "outstanding diction." The twd choral groups he said were "notable for a good and consistent tone." And the Queen Mary entry in the urban junior chorus as revealing particularly "good diction."

"The outstanding item of the evening was the male quartet under 21," said Mr. Redshaw.

Also singled out for praise was the baritone solo under 21. "It also showed good voices and told of much promise," said the adjudicator. Donald A. Landry and Robert King, first and second in their class, respectively, were warmly commended for their vocals.

Well-Attended

Once again there was a good attendance to witness Peterborough's second annual Festival of Music, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

"Dear Land of Home," sung by the male quartet, proved particularly popular with the audience, although all entries were well received.

Name Two Men For Posts On City Staff

At a salary of $1,800 a year, James Trotter has been engaged as a clerk in the city's welfare office. His employment was recommended to the council Monday night in the welfare committe report read by Ald. Dick Raine, chairman.

Mr. Trotter begins his duties March 29, assisting Mr. A. G. Metheral, welfare officer. No comment was made about this appointment, but it is understood that the addition of Mr. Trotter to the staff will provide extra time for Mr. Metheral to spend on plumbing inspections.

Another new appointment at the city hall is in the assessment office where Mr. Frank Pammett has been taken on as clerk, replacing John White who has gone to the Provincial Police.

The Raine committee has decided "that in all cases of applicants who request public welfare at the city welfare office during the time that they are awaiting their first cheque from the unemployment insurance commission as being unemployed, that if such persons are granted relief during this tide-over period this relief be considered as a loan to them from the city."

City Council Motion Annoys Labor Group

Failure To Amend Anti-Noise Bylaw Brings Barrage Of Abuse

Discussion on the press reporting of the last meeting, and a motion to amend or rescind the local Anti-Noise By-law regarding sound trucks and amplifiers, were the two items occupying the major portion of the evening at Tuesday night's bi-monthly meeting of the Allied Labor Council.

(The Examiner published a report of the March 2 meeting in which a controversial motion was defeated, giving the motion in full. Due to a misunderstanding a member of the Allied Labor Council, unaware that a reporter had been present, and believing the information had been handed in by Labor Council officials attacked them in a "Letter To The Editor", "for allowing the controversial motion to be sent to the press for publication.")

Commenting on this Alfred Barber, president of the A.L.C. said: "I feel it is a good move to have a reporter present so that he can report the proceedings without bias. So, those who speak for or against motions must be prepared to see their opinions as expressed appear in the press. If these opinions are of a constructive nature, no one need be ashamed to have uttered them."

Keep Politics Out

"If political beliefs are going to be continually pushed into our discussions, then we are going to break our Council up because it is obvious that this type of program will defeat the closer fraternal relationships between our various organized labor unions. And unorganized labor will be scared away also."

"It has been an unwritten rule that this Council is a non-political organization, let's keep it that way."

James Southgate said that Mr. Beggs had "acted without consultation with any other member of the Council. . . . What went into the press was what was discussed at this meeting."

William Whibbs who had supported Mr. Beggs on the controversial vote, described the press report as accurate and added, "I believe everything should be printed in the press that is discussed here."

Mr. Beggs said he had not realized a member of the press was present, but said he didn't like the idea of a defeated motion going beyond the Council itself.

He then went on to say: "The commonsense thing for labor to do is build a bigger and better trade union, and anything we have to say let's thresh it out in here."

"We want to examine everything in the press to see if it is trying to divide, but let us remain a free country and fight for labor under the labor banner."

Violate Free Speech

Reported refusal of the City Council to change the anti-noise by-law allowing amplifiers and sound equipment to be installed at factory fronts and gates, produced vigorous denunciation from those present.

Mr. Southgate described it as a "violation of free speech." He said loudspeakers were used during the summer at Riverside Park, and during the Christmas season equipment was installed to broadcast from the Market Tower. Even the factory whistle is objectionable to many people, he said on a semi-serious note.

"There are a number of old by-laws which are brought up when it is convenient for the city fathers and other interests," he said.

Mr. Whibbs said he agreed with Mr. Southgate that it was a case of discrimination.

Pending official notification of Council's refusal to change the by-law, members unanimously agreed "that the Allied Labor Council will take every possible step to see that the anti-noise by-law is amended."

Refusal of the city to allow a Toronto firm to sell surplus war goods on the Market Square on Saturday was severely criticized by Mr. Southgate. In the absence of more specific information it was decided to carry this matter over to the next meeting.

Mr. Beggs was installed as new treasurer following the resignation of A. E. Borland.

Ball To Have Prizes

There will be more than $200 worth of prizes offered at the annual Policeman's Ball, March 29. Door prizes include a rug, electric blanket, radio, two mirrors, a wool blanket and a cocktail set. There will be lesser prizes for spot dances. Tickets are still available from all policemen.

BLUEBIRDS BACK

Beecher Matchett of Otonabee says bluebirds have arrived in his western section of the township. He has heard them several mornings this week. Woodchucks are warming themselves in the spring sun. Rain and mild weather thinned the snow covering on the fields of wheat and clover.

Say Production Up 105 Per Cent

PARIS, March 17 — (Reuters). Prime Minister Robert Schuman announced yesterday that French industrial production as a whole now is 105 per cent of the 1938 level.

Holding his first press conference since he took office last autumn, the Premier gave an encouraging review of France's recovery since the war.

"We have no right to be defeatist," he said. "We are slowly, but surely improving our position. We shall succeed firstly by our own effort, and secondly by aid from abroad."

Stressing the importance of the Marshall aid conference now in session here, the Premier said: "We salute the massive vote in favor of the Marshall plan by the American Senate which has taken place with less delay than could at one time have been hoped for."

Schuman summarized self-aid French efforts as:

Agriculture: a 65 per cent increase this year in cereal acreage sown, bringing acreage up to 81 per cent of 1938, compared with 48 per cent last year.

Coal: Imports fully up to program. Present coal stocks normal.

Currency and prices: Budget for 1948 balanced; upward trend in food prices "reversed."

Exports: It is too soon to say whether the free market in gold and dollars is successful, but "we think our scheme has been justified by results."

TRIBES RENEW ALLEGIANCE—Two thousand chiefs and notables of the primitive Moi tribes of Indo-China renewed their allegiance to France recently at Banmethout, central Indo-China. Power Peak Up 2500 HP Over '47

The electrical power peak in Peterborough for February was 22,500 h.p. as compared with 20,800 h.p. in the second month of 1947, Ross L. Dobbin reported to the Utilities Commission Tuesday.

"On February 16 a reduction in peak load and kilowatt hour consumption was ordered by the Hydro-Electric Commission. By excellent co-operation on the part of all classes of consumers, we were able to comply with the order without resorting to compulsory rationing.

The average daily kilowatt-hour consumption for the first week was 271,600; second week, 260,800; third week, 268,000. The maximum allowed to us was 275,400 kilowatts. We are advised that the restriction will be in effect for another month at least.

Outside construction consisted of an extension down Park Street to serve the Arndon Sub-Division, and rebuilding of the lines on Monaghan Road at Romaine and Lansdowne Streets. In the rural district progress was made on lines to serve Wallace Point and the new Provincial Police radio station on Chemong Road. Forty-three three-wire services were completed and seven two-wire services; 39 additional flat-rate water heaters were connected."

In the Waterworks Department Mr. Dobbin reported February pumpage at 112,553,000 gallons as compared with 100,059,000 a year ago. "The increase was greater than usual, due mostly to the very cold weather during the month. As a result, many consumers have been running water to keep their service from freezing.

Cold weather in January and February froze 24 water services on the street, and many others on consumer premises. Seven fire hydrants were found by our inspectors to have ice in them, and were cleared.

Main Laid

Outside construction continued through February. On the Arndon Sub-Division there were 216 feet of 8" main laid, and 547 feet of 6" on Wilson and Jane Streets. No new water services were laid. Freezing of water services was partly due to less snowfall this winter, 53 inches to date as against 58.5 inches a year ago.

In the Gas Department, there was the usual increase in production, amounting to 31.8 per cent. "We were able to get enough oil from various sources to keep the plant running. Penetration of frost caused the freezing of 164 gas services, also the large main crossing the Hunter Street bridge. Three other mains were frozen | Streets. They were all thawed on Reid, Aylmer, and Sherbrooke | by the use of steam and alcohol."

PETERBOROUGH

FASHION PREFERRED—Miss Phyllis Turkington, Left, is ready for walking in the park in a 1902 costume that could be worn today with ten inches off at the bottom. Her flared cape is black broadcloth, and the suit is grey serge with wide band of stiffening to make it flare out at the hem. She wears the proper straw sailor, and note the umbrella. Mrs. Dave Wilson, Centre, typifies 1948 in a navy sheer wool bolero suit and white blouse with white lilac trimmed hat. The skirt is tucked every half inch. Miss Marion Mansfield, Right, wears the redingote of 1880 in plaid mohair, popular at that time, with a hat, using everything in stock for trimming. Her hair-do was done with rats and artificial braids by "teasing."

New Look Is Really Old '38 Club Proves In Evolution of Century

That the "new look" is a very "old look" was proven Tuesday evening by the YWCA '38 Club when they presented the "evolution of fashion" in the past century, providing delightful and amusing memories for more than 200 women. Oldest garment in the show was an 1840 Victorian Pelise or evening cape worn by the owner's great-granddaughter, Miss Geraldine Dunford, over a formal bustled-gown of that period, skillfully fashioned of black lace with black sequin and jet bead embroidery. In contrast, an alluring 1948 date-dress with the very feminine look was of black tissue faille with inserts of black lace over pink taffeta, and the very full skirt held out with miniature hoops. For added glamour the model, Mrs. Dave Wilson, wore a flower be-decked straw hat, artfully draped with yards of black tulle, long black gloves and a "clutch" bag.

"Flappers" of the 1920's stole the show in crepe-de-chine evening dresses, beautifully trimmed with bugle beads. Girls then exposed as much flesh as possible—arms, necks and legs—but there was a complete absence of waistlines. Accessories of that day were the long holder and cigarette flaunted by one model, and silver compact and gay 'kerchief dangling from the wrist. Earlier in the '20's they were somewhat more romantic as typified by Miss Madeline McWilliams in a gown, such as the famous Dolly Sisters would have worn for parties after performances, with Chinese silk shawl for a wrap. Panier effect at the sides of this dress were similar to the 1948 version.

Wartime suits, tailored and dressmaker, weren't greeted with enthusiasm, showing that the new silhouettes are pleasing to the public. Skimpiness of material showed even in the hat, and models couldn't create an illusion of feminine grace in short tight skirts and bare legs.

It is from the costume of 1880 that the designers are drawing inspiration for the fitted jackets and bustle backs of today. Miss Norma Wakelin wore the dress with wired bustle over her petticoats and walked with the "Grecan bend." Her blue velvet bonnet was a typical late Victorian model from the collection of Miss Linden Hall, who is also the owner of a very proper straw sailor with lavender and white flowers worn with the grey serge walking costume of 1902 by Miss Phyliis Turkington. Another of her hats that drew attention was small, but carried "everything but the kitchen sink." Believe it or not, there were sequins, jet beads, cream lace, pheasant feathers, velvet flowers, taffeta bows and velvet ruching. The daring hair-do beneath was created by the "teasing procedure" of that time for Miss Marion Mansfield. Her redingote type of dress, also worn about 1880, was of soft mohair, a typical walking or driving outfit, not comfortably worn in the house.

Miss Flora Metcalfe was the original "Gibson Girl," a counterpart of the modern career girl. Her jumper of black satin with artfully concealed plaits making the skirt much fuller than it seemed at first glance, and the blouse of blue georgette and ivory lace, trimmed with black velvet bows, were inspired by the famous American artist, Chas. Dana Gibson. A pert black bow was placed at the back of her "Gibson Girl" hair-do. It is interesting to note that the lady who included this dress in her 1910 trousseau was in the audience.

A gracious gown, donned for receiving callers in the afternoon, was of 1900 design, and very tight on the model, Miss Eleen Patton, because modern figures have not been previously confined in tightly boned and lacer corsettes that are hard to live in—but they are coming back to that? A 1910 overornate costume was complemented by a large velvet hat with blue ostrich plumes. A high-boned neckline of ivory lace was very evident in a beige bengaline outfit that had been made for confirmation. This model, Miss Maxine Elliott, wore the outrageously flattering shoes of 1910, very pointed toes and beaded buckles.

Complete liquidation of austere war time fashions and the dawn of more feminine era was hailed when interesting interpretations of the New Look followed. They featured hip-hugging box type, bolero and long fitted jackets atop pencil slim or full swinging gored skirts. Petticoats were showing 'neath ballerina and flouncing gypsy skirts worn with Gibson Girl and ruffled blouses. Miss Shirley Florence displayed golden ballerina sandals, the latest word! For urban wear there was a grey "coachman's coat" with great flare back and large pockets. Matching gloves, bags and rich furs completed these costumes, with hats and hair-dos specially designed for Easter Parade 1948.

CUTS DISHWASHING TIME IN HALF

Of Interest to Women

Men Must Act Tough Dealing With Lazy Mate

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 37, married 12 years and have two children. When I married my wife I was very much in love with her, so much so that I did not pay too much attention to what a bad housekeeper she was and, anyway, I thought she would improve as she grew older. But she has grown worse and now doesn't even bother about her personal appearance.

I try hard to keep up my end of the bargain, but it is very trying to come home to a dirty house, dirty kids and a sloppy wife and nothing fit to eat. She is still very pretty and has a nice figure and we could be happy together if she were not so lazy. She has perfect health, so she can't use even that for an alibi. When I try to talk to her, she only cries and says I do not love her any more.

All she wants to do is to read and to run to the neighbors' houses all day. What in the world is a man to do with a wife like that?

A VERY PUZLED HUSBAND.

ANSWER: Your problem is easy to solve. It simply consists in your being a man instead of a mouse. As long as you let a lazy, trifling wife make a doormat out of you, she will do it. But you can turn her into an efficient helpmate by the same process that you would use if you were dealing with a business partner who wouldn't hold up his end of the job.

Read Riot Act

All you would have to do is to read the riot act to her and put some punch into it. Tell her that your patience is exhausted; that you are tired of coming home to a dirty house at night; that you will not stand her neglect of the children any longer, and that she either has to do her duty as a wife and mother, or else get out.

When she moans out that you no longer love her, ask her how she expects a man to stay in love with a frowzy, unattractive woman who is too lazy even to comb her hair or put on a clean dress. No doubt she will weep all over the place, because it is easier to turn on the tear ducts than it is the washing machine, but don't let her get away with it.

Tears are the coward's weapons that wives use on weak men. Get wise to that simple fact and brace yourself for the rainy season. If you can only make your wife believe that you mean it when you tell her that she is going to find herself in the divorce court if she doesn't get busy in the kitchen, you will be astonished at the results. She will loaf on her job as long as she can, but she will get a move on her rather than lose it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a boy of 13 who is going with a girl of 12. She says she loves me, but I don't believe her. Anyway, I didn't know what love was until I looked it up in the dictionary. When I did, I found that I was in love with a very cute girl at school. Do you think I should go with the girl who is more my age, or leave them alone until I get older?

HANDSOME BOY.

ANSWER: Well, son, I think that 13 is a trifle young for you to begin bothering about love affairs. What should interest you now is trying to get an education, and athletics, and planning what sort of a man you are going to make of yourself and what career you are going to fit yourself to follow. Believe me, you will get a lot more profit out of doing that than you will out of trying to decide which of two little giggling boby-soxers you like the better.

But I am interested, Handsome, in your saying that you didn't know what love was until you looked it up in the dictionary, then you found out you had a case of it without knowing it. It is an experience that generally comes later on in life to members of the male sex.

Probably most men don't think about love until some pretty girl comes along and sells them the idea, and even then they have to look it up in the dictionary to find out what it is all about, and often they are surprised to find that they have the symptoms.

At any rate, it seems to me, that you have made a valuable discovery, and that is to turn to the dictionary, instead of the Dream Book, when you begin to have that gone feeling about little Tootsie Wootsie and are uncertain as to whether it is love or too many of Mama's pancakes.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a husband whom I love very much but he has one fault that embarrasses me continually. Every time I go to tell anything in his presence he contradicts me, which is mortifying. How can I stop him from doing this?

LILL.

ANSWER: Just say: "Darling, you tell the story so much better than I." That will please him and save your face.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday ,March 18

The forecast is for a day of surprise and unlooked for culminations which may cause all prearranged plans and objectives to be cast into the discard. A sudden and challenging occurrence or visitation may prove devastating and move the status quo to very shaky foundations. All contacts, ambitions, and planned action are subject to this radical event, in which all progress seems blocked. Nevertheless the mind is keyed to keen insight and may work out ways and means for really breathtaking and astute denouements.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of critical and unpredictable situations, in which all ideals, plans, objectives and ambitions may suddenly be upset with dramatic abruptness, involving all associations, contacts and relations under devastating and radical uprooting. All resources, affiliations, prospects and deals should be rigidly held together in a sort of suspended animation, until the crash blows over, which it will, as suddenly as it descended. This will happen because the mentality seems well equipped to shrewdly appraise all angles and come to the rescue with the proper and essential procedure for the mending of all fences. Pause for reflection, then move with audacity.

A child born this day has efficiency and mentality to cope with extraordinary calamity and crises in a spectacular life.

Some Canadian Plays Best Seen–Stuart

TORONTO, March 17 (CP).—Robert Stuart, English actor and regional adjudicator for the Dominion drama festival, says that in Canada he has seen some of the worst and some of the best amateur dramatic performances of his career.

He had nothing but praise for earnest amateur groups trying to present something even beyond their scope, but contempt for the many groups who playfully decide "Let's stage a play."

"There is no room in Canada for the people who are just having a bit of fun out of dramatic circles—they are cheats and completely dishonest."

Some plays he wouldn't adjudicate because "they were so brilliantly presented no comment was needed" and others "because they were "so awful was speechless."

There were about two groups in each province making a serious contribution to dramatic art.

"Dramatically speaking, the West is less vital than the East," he said. Although Western Canada was producing some good work their plays were "just a little ragged."

Mr. Stuart said Canada was not unique in her dramatic development—she was following the pattern of most other countries of the world, except that she had no commercial theatre.

The stage is a business had already taken root in Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

May Get More Bread

DUNDEE, Scotland, March 17. (Reuters).— Food Minister John Strachey hinted yesterday at a possible abolition of bread rationing this year. Strachey, speaking at a meeting said that bread rationing depended on the world cereal situation, which had improved appreciably, and on the Marshall plan.

MAIN STREET FLOODED IN BRAMPTON—This view from an amphibian plane as it flew north directly over No. 10 Highway shows flood waters of the Etobicoke Creek pouring torrent-like down the main street of Brampton to a depth of between three and six feet. Between No. 7 Highway intersection and the CNR bridge (seen near top of picture) parking meters were below the surface. Cellars and main floors of business establishments were flooded and glass broken in several store fronts.

Property Owners Can Appeal Assessments

TORONTO, March 17.—Every property owner is granted the right to appeal his assessment to the Ontario Municipal Board if he fails to get satisfaction from the court of revision or the county judge, under legislation introduced at Queen's Park yesterday by Municipal Affairs Minister George Dunbar.

At present the board authorized to hear appeals only on assessments of $10,000 in separated municipalities and $5,000 in smaller centres.

An amendment which is expected to have wide effect in Toronto makes a rooming house operator liable to business assessment unless he occupies 50 per cent of the floor space in his rooming house. Many such operators in this city live in only one room on their premises.

Another change concerns business assessments. Such assessments are based on a percentage of the assessed value of the property where a business is located. If there is any change in the property assessment, the business assessment is automatically changed to conform with it. At present an appeal has to be taken by the firms concerned.

Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy introduced a bill which extends for another year the payment of cheese and hog subsidies which have been in effect since 1941. The subsidy is two cents a pound on cheese and $1 and 50 cents on grade "A" and grade "B" hogs, respectively.

Another bill brought down by Col. Kennedy requires that used honey containers be cleaned before they are sold for re-use.

Greater assistance for community halls and athletic fields is proposed under another measure. Present limit of provincial grants for construction of halls and fields in rural areas is $2,000. The amendment increases the maximum grant to $5,000. It is also stated that a school area may be the unit in which a hall or field is built to obtain the benefits of the act.

Say Censorship Used To Hide Riot Facts

ACCRA, Gold Coast, March 17 (Reuters). — Representatives of the African press here yesterday charged that the imposition of a press censorship by the government following the recent "cost-of-living" rioting in which 21 people were killed was "a deliberate attempt to hide from the outside world what was happening."

A resolution adopted by a conference of members of the African press for transmission to Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones, declared: "That a censorship which is more rigid than in wartime is an unnecessary interference by the government with the people's rights of freedom of speech and expression...."

The Gold Coast Government last night accused Communists from abroad of being implicated in the recent riots.

Denounce Legislation

OTTAWA, March 17.—(CP).—Officials of the Dominion's two major labor organizations last night denounced as "stupid" and "retrograde" the labor legislation passed yesterday by the Prince Edward Island Legislature. The legislation, requiring all unions in the island province to be autonomous, bans affiliation with any national or international labor organization. It prohibits closed-shop contracts and provides for arbitration before a strike may be called.

Thinks Mine Unions Capable of Ousting Communists

TORONTO, March 17—(CP)—Director of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) answered questions about Communist officials for members of the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

Other speakers in the afternoon debate included F. C. Robinson (CCF-Port Arthur), who urged government control and operation of Forests; J. P. Johnstone (PC-Bruce), who suggested rural tours by cabinet ministers; Joseph Meinzinger (Lib-Lab-Waterloo North) and H. J. Sale (PC-York South).

Mr. Meinzinger called for wage boosts for civil servants. Mr. Sale said there were shortcomings in his party's legislation, especially with regard to welfare provisions.

Night sitting speakers were R. H. Carlin (CCF-Sudbury), Milton T. Armstrong (L-Parry Sound), Gordon Chaplin (PC--Waterloo South), and J. B. Salzberg (LPP-Toronto St. Andrew).

Mr. Armstrong criticized provincial encouragement of immigration and Mr. Salsberg said government members who attacked Communists were trying to stir up "war hysteria."

R. H. Carlin, Canadian director of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO), replied to questions asked in the Legislature last week by Kelso Roberts (PC-Toronto St. Patrick) who named two officials whom he said were Communist and asked Mr. Carlin about his views.

Internal Affair

Mr. Carlin said "those are matters concerning the internal affairs of the union. They have been and will be fully discussed at union meetings, at union conventions, at executive board meetings. They will be discussed there and they will be settled there. The union members will take care of it, as they have taken care of other problems. I do not believe it is part of my office to thrash out internal union affairs on the floor of this Legislature.

"I do not expect members opposite to understand that point of view. They are not labor men. But I say this. There is not a loyal trade unionist in Canada, who will not understand and who will no[illegible] that I am right."

Mr. Carlin said his union is in the process now of organizing one of the most hostile industries regarding trade unionism on the continent.

Hold Hammer

He referred to the gold industry and charged that the operators were holding a hammer over the head of the government, threatening to strike unless given concessions they demand.

Mr Carlin said that in this way the gold mining industry was attempting to force the federal government to hinder operation of the mine mill union.

Mr. Meinzinger said he had received the impression that a large part of the 7,000 immigrants from Britain were to take up farming. Instead, he said, almost all had gone into industry competing with Canadian labor at a time when there is still unemployment.

The member for Waterloo North said the business of immigration should have been left to the Dominion government, or, in any event, that unemployment here should have been wiped out before inviting others to settle here.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

RISK ONE TO GAIN TWO

WHEN the contract itself is at stake, it always pays to risk the loss of an otherwise apparently sure trick for a chance to take two in order to avoid sacrificing with striking other black suit which his partner had supported. He did it by laying down the spade A. When East gave him the 3 on that, he decided to return to the original at the dummy and knows he will doom his side to getting no trick in the suit unless his partner has the king.

	♠ 6 ♥ Q 10 9 4 2 ♦ K 9 8 6 3 ♣ J 10
♠ A 8 7 6 5 ♥ 6 3 ♦ None ♣ A K Q 9 3 2	N W E S	♠ K J 9 3 ♥ J 8 ♦ Q 10 5 ♣ 8 7 5 4
	♠ Q 10 2 ♥ A K 7 5 ♦ A J 7 4 2 ♣ 6

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	2 ♣	2 ♦	2 ♣
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
5 ♥	Dbl

It required rather funny bidding for South instead of North to be the declarer with that deal played in a heart contract. But then North had quite a long-winded explanation for his first round support of diamonds in place of bidding the hearts.

West made his most natural lead of the club K and, when he saw East's discouraging 4, knew that suggested a switch to the ouch marked East as the main threat to diamonds. When West discarded a club, the K won, the J was finessed, the A felled the Q and the dummy was now established to make the contract.

West had his chance on the second trick, but lacked either the imagination or nerve to hazard it. All he had to do was lead a low spade instead of the A, hoping East had the K. He did, would have won with it and then would have returned a diamond for a ruff.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 9 5 7 4 ♥ A K Q J 4 ♦ 4 ♣ K J

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

With normal bidding, South reaches 4-Hearts and West leads the spade J. What plan of play promises maximum results?

6—In Memoriam

DELAHEY—In loving memory of Mrs. Frederick Delahey, who passed away one year ago today.
She travelled life's journey with courage,
And helped others on its hard way.
She lived out each day in its fullness
With a heart always cheerful and gay.
She laboured and loved and was happy
She was our mother and friend
And to each of us who so well knew her,
She was faithful and kind to the end.
—Ever remembered by son, Harold, Viola and family.

HAMILTON—In loving memory of my dear father, Mr. A. R. Hamilton, who passed away 5 years ago today, March 17, 1943.

In the Sunshine of His Love.
—Remembered by daughter Margaret and family.

GLOVER—In loving memory of Mrs. Robert Glover, who passed away March 17, 1937.
There the buds from earth transplanted
For our coming watch and wait,

Though our hearts may break with sorrow
By the grief so hard to bear,
We shall meet her some bright morning
In the upper garden there.
—Ever remembered by Earl.

GLOVER—In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away March 17, 1937.

2 Toronto Boys Get Stiff Fines

Two Toronto youths received stiff fines for a joyride in a bread truck when they pleaded guilty to the charges before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in court today. Earl Eden, 17, was fined $100 and $2.50 costs or two months and Donald Rogers, 18, was fined $75 and $2.50 costs or 45 days.

Magistrate Philp commented that "there is a question in my mind whether joyriding should always be punished with suspended sentence," after Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry stated that he would be agreeable to such a sentence.

"It is really just a watered-down theft charge," said His Worship.

The accused youths had taken the truck from the Chambers St. yard of the Canada Bread Co. here, testified Acting Det. Sgt. John Stevenson. They had abandoned it on No. 2 highway between Whitby and Ajax when it ran out of gas. The truck had been found there by Provincial Police, who had also picked up the accused a little further down the hightway, hitch-hiking their way on to Toronto. They had been taken to a Toronto police station. The key to the truck had been found in Roger's pocket, he said.

The two had told Det. Stevenson on the way back from Toronto, he said, that they had come to Peterborough looking for work.

"I don't think they're very bad boys," he said, "if they're given a chance."

Mr. McElderry also commented that he believed the act had been done more as a prank and as a means of getting back to Toronto. He said he did not think they had intended to steal or sell the truck.

Another Toronto youth is to be charged with the same offence later, it was stated.

support the United Nations and will try every possible method of reaching international accord.

"At the same time, we must not be confused about the central issue which confronts the world today.

"The time has come when the free men and women of the world must face the threat to their liberty squarely and courageously."

And developments have reached the point, Truman said, at which America's position should be made unmistakeably clear.

He then spoke of the high purposes of the United Nations charter, and added:

"We cannot, however, close our eyes to the harsh fact that through obstruction and even defiance on the part of one nation, this great dream has not yet become a full reality."

Therefore, he said, supplementary measures are necessary for training, temporary revival of the the United States — universal draft, and swift action on the European recovery program.

Time Counts

"Time is now of critical importance," Truman said of the European aid plan.

The Senate has approved European aid to be started with $5,300,000,000 for the first year. The House has not yet acted.

In urging universal training, the President said the United States must remain strong enough to support European countries threatened with Communist control and police state rule "so long as Communism threatens the very existence of democracy."

Universal training is the "only feasible means by which the civilian components of our armed force can be built up to the strength required if we are to be prepared for emergncies."

The ability of the United States [illegible] all the world of our determination to back the will to peace with the strength for peace."

Temporary use of the draft, the President said, is needed to keep the armed forces at their proper strength.

He said these forces now lack the necessary men and have been unable to get them through enlistments.

Hence, selective service is needed until universal training can be established solidly. Then it can be ended and regular forces maintained on a voluntary basis.

Must Pay Price

"We must be prepared to pay the price of peace," the President said, "or assuredly we shall pay the price of war."

He said agreements had been worked out in world conferences which would have permitted a just peace. But he said they have been "persistently ignored and violated by one nation."

Youth 19 Gets 3 Months

Nineteen-year-old Weldon Finn 650 Gilchrist St. was sentenced to three months in jail by Magistrate Philp in court today after he pleaded guilty to being drunk in public. The charge was laid as a third offender.

Asking the accused's age, the magistrate told him: "With your record so far, you are getting to be very close to an alcoholic, Finn."

He strongly suggested that the youth take some medical aid to cure him of the habit.

"Yes, dear—this should be quite a safe place to nest for Easter——"

JOHN M. LUCAS

DOWNEYVILLE, March 17 — (ENS). — The funeral of the late John M. Lucas was held from his late residence north of the village on Monday morning to St. Luke's Church where requiem mass was said by Rev. Father McFadden. The funeral was largely attended showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pall-bearers were three nephews, Messrs. David, Joseph and Keith Lucas, George Morrissey, Joseph Clancy and Frank Morrissey. Rev. Father McFadden said the prayers at the cemetery.

John M. Lucas was the son of the late Joseph R. Lucas and Margaret Morrissey. He was born on the farm where he resided 65 years ago.

Mr. Lucas was ill a few days and his death came as a great shock to his family and friends. He was never married and resided with his brother Joseph. He is survived by seven brothers, Joseph, Thomas, Bert and Charlie of Downeyville, Austin of Fort Francis, Clement and Urban of Detroit, Mich.

Among those attending the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Clancey and Steve from Otonabee, Mrs. Thomas Clancey, son and daughter, Mr. Albert Ryan and Mr. W. J. Houlihan, all of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Leary, Mrs. Ada Ford, Mrs. John Hickey, Miss Ada Guicy and Miss Sullivan and Mr. Denis Sullivan, all of Lindsay, Messrs. Fail To See

Most of the drivers, they state, are men who are not presently employed in industry or "between jobs." Some are partially incapacitated from heavy manual work. The pay is not enough to provide for payment of the licence and pictures under these circumstances, they argue.

The majority opinion seemed to be that the taxi drivers are being "picked on." Why, they ask, not similarly fie information on bread drivers, truckers, trainmen?

One driver further explained that the cabbies must make application to the Police Commission yearly for their licences at which time pertinent information is given to the Commission. Even this, they feel, is an imposition on their line of business which is not forced on other lines.

When told that one of the reasons for the move was the fact that the operators had not been reporting promptly changes and additions to the driving staffs, their answer was against the fundamental principle of the reports to the police.

"What right have they to tell the operators how to run their business? After a store buys a licence, the police don't come over to tell them how many boxes of soap flakes they can put in their windows or make them get a licence for the man who serves the customers?"

"What's so special about us?"

Eddie Murphy Gives Council Financial Data

Referring to a news "squib" in The Examiner recently, disclosing the fact that the city council received only $34.50 from the Peterborough Ball Club last year, Eddie Murphy, manager of the club, was a personal deputation of one at the council's meeting Monday night "to answer any questions." He held a sheaf of paper, and stated that the reason he came before the council was "because I value my integrity and sincerity."

Mr. Murphy told the council the club's receipts last year amounted to $3,283. At the end of the season the players distributed among themselves a balance of $1,072. Each man got $70, and the manager was voted an equal cut.

He said he had looked after all the club's business, its engagements, purchases, guarantees, insurance and so on. Mr. Murphy said he had consulted Ald. Hurrell Dodds about a payment to the parks committee out of the play-offs. He suggested 5 per cent of the gross or 10 per cent of the net. Ald. Dodds was friendly in his attitude and agreed on the 10 per cent. "And that was $34 more than any one else paid to the council," Mr. Murphy said. "If the 10 per cent had been paid on the season's receipts the council would have got $320."

Ald. Swanston enquired about assistance to local minors. Mr. Murphy replied that as manager of the seniors he had spent $114 on baseball equipment for the youngsters that would have otherwise cost $250. And the seniors had provided $600 for the intermediates. Mr. Murphy said he had brought the club's financial figures to answer any questions which the council might wish to direct to the baseball club's financing.

8 Children Burned In Homes

Spreads So Rapidly Rescuers Unable To Reach Victims

By Canadian Press

Eight children perished in fires in Eastern Canada, Wednesday, six in Ontario. Three asleep in a home near North Bay perished. Two died in a Hamilton blaze, one at Sault Ste. Marie and one in Nova Scotia.

Two wan-faced parents of Port Loring, 68 miles southwest of North Bay, stood still and quiet today as neighbors told how their efforts failed to save three children—all under five—whose bodies were unrecognizably charred when fire turned their tiny tarpapered home into smouldering ruins.

The tots, Elda, 4; Wayne, 3, and Charlie, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fetterly, perished yesterday about 10 minutes after their father left to pick up a load of sawdust a mile away.

Their mother was visiting North Bay at the time of the tragedy.

Their grandmother and aunt—Mrs. Martha Currie and Mrs. W. Short—were in their home about 75 yards away when flames began to destroy the three-roomed, frame house.

The children were in bed.

Blame Pipes

"I went to look in upon them about five minutes before the fire, and there was no sign of anything wrong then," Mrs. Short said. "There was only a small fire in the stove."

"I think the pipes must have become overheated while Mr. Fetterly was cooking their dinner earlier."

Mrs. Short suffered numerous cuts and gashes to both hands and wrists as she fought frantically to force her way into the flaming house.

Within 15 minutes, the wooden house with its outside tarpaper covering and inside boardboard lining was an inferno, with eye-blinding smoke halting all rescue attempts.

Flash Fire

At Hamilton death toll in a flash fire which swept a tiny frame house rose to two late last night with the death in hospital of Thomas McCurdy, aged six

Believe Canada May Join Security Pact

OTTAWA, March 18.—(CP).—Possibility that Canada eventually might join the collective security pact signed in Brussels by five western European democracies was seen here today.

Official sources pointed out that the Brussels pact, signed by Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, need not be confined to European countries if it is broadened.

If this collective security grouping snowballs, Canada would probably be glad to be picked up, these sources added.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's brief statement yesterday in the Commons on the Brussels agreement is considered significant.

He put the Canadian government squarely behind the idea of regional pacts when he said "the peoples of all free countries may be assured that Canada will play her full part in giving substance to the conception of an effective system of collective security."

Officials here said this pact, bolstering western Europe against Communist advances, "may well" become a model for a broader collective security system within the United Nations. It might well lead to the inclusion of all free democracies.

Brig. Taylor, Seven Others "Bail Out" Over Berlin

BERLIN, March 18—(AP).—Brig.-Gen. Telford Taylor was injured today when he and seven other Americans parachuted from a transport plane over Berlin. Taylor, chief United States prosecutor of war crimes in Germany, was brought to an army hospital suffering from a wrenched back and a slight hip injury.

The plane developed engine trouble and all the passengers bailed out. The pilot and co-pilot landed uninjured at the RAF's Gatow airport, in the British zone of the city.

At least one passenger besides Taylor was reported injured — a sergeant who was treated at a hospital in the Russian zone.

Mrs. Taylor also was aboard the plane. She had not been located two hours after the bail-out. Others of the passengers also were being sought in Russian-occupied territory.

Several passengers who landed in the Russian-occupied suburb of Lichtenberg reported they had been picked up by Russian soldiers and taken to Soviet headquarters.

It was learned that Mrs. Taylor was among those who bailed out. Army authorities held up the full list of passengers until they established the fate of each.

Treaty Group Namd In Week

BRUSSELS, March 18—(Reuters). — Delegates of Britain, France and the Benelux countries will meet in Brussels next week to establish the permanent consultative committee provided for under Article 7 of the five-power Western Union Alliance signed here yesterday, it was learned today.

The Belgian government today prepared, for immediate parliamentary ratification of the pact signed yesterday. Prompt steps by Britain, France, Holland and Luxembourg to ratify the pact were expected to follow Belgium's lead.

Economic and defence planning are regarded as the most urgent tasks now and the forthcoming visit of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, to Brussels is expected to be the occasion for joint defence talks.

Coal Supply Dropping, Curb Railway

Canadian Transport Not Affected; Steel Industry Hit

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) —The government today ordered a 25-per-cent reduction in passenger train service in the United States because of the coal mine shutdown.

The office of defence transportation order is effective at midnight next Sunday, March 21.

It was issued under the wartime powers which the ODT still retains.

The agency said the step was necessary because "railroad coal stocks today are considerably lower than they have been on previous occasions when stoppages in coal production have interfered with railroad operations."

The bureau of mines reported two days ago that coal stocks generally were at a dangerously low level.

At the time the ODT act, the government was making other moves to end the pension-caused work stoppage which already has forced the steel industry to cut operations.

Talk With Lewis

Cyrus Ching, Canadian-born federal conciliation chief met with Ezra Van Horn, spokesman for the mine operators, and arranged to talk later with John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers (Ind.).

The ODT order requires railroads to reduce coal-burning passenger train service 25 per cent under the operations as of March 1, 1948.

It prohibits the carriers from substituting diesel-electric or other equipment for coal-burning locomotives which will be laid up as a result of the order.

All special passenger train service requiring coal will be prohibited, and circus and carnival trains using coal will be banned for the duration of the order.

ODT authorized the railroads to cancel passenger reservations or take any other action necessary to carry out the terms of its order.

Canadians Safe

At Ottawa, government officials saw little likelihood that the United States soft coal strike would affect Canadian rail services.

They said Canada's coal stock position at present is "pretty good," and that the effect of the U.S. strike would not likely be felt in the Dominion for some little time.

Good, Clean Fun

LONDON, March 18 (CP) —'Twas St. Patrick's Day in St. Michael's Street yesterday. Sweet music and singing described as beautiful issued from a house in the streets by that name. Suddenly the music stopped, five shots rang out and a squad car arrived. Two Irishmen are in hospital and seven others were taken into custody as a sequel to what neighbors described as "a good old Irish ding dong."

400 Visitors At Opening Of Farmers' Week; Bacon Show Added Feature

Judging Of Seed Grain From 10 Counties Completed, Prizes Given; Wesley Wilson Has Best Winter Wheat

Four hundred farmers attended the opening Wednesday of Farmers' Week at Exhibition Park, the joint agricultural enterprise of Quinte District Seed Fair and the Eastern Ontaria Brotherhood of Threshermen, with a bacon show as an added feature. That was only the curtain raising on stage that lacked complete setting until this morning when the dressed Wiltshire sides of the bacon show arrived from their processing at Canada Packers. The joint committees have arranged a continuous program for the rest of the week until the auction of seed exhibits Saturday afternoon.

Farmers will find many interesting commercial displays in the big parade hall of the war period. All the space beyond the allotments for the grain and bacon shows is occupied by farm implements, dairy and household equipment, feeds and fertilizers and so on. Convention meetings are held in the shooting gallery annex. Draws for door prizes are scheduled for 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. each day. The public is advised that there is no admission charge.

Judging of the seed grain was completed Wednesday afternoon. Durham grain growers were prominent in the awards, but on the whole the prize money was broadly distributed among the ten countless comprising the Quinte Seed Fair district.

Championships

The championships were announced as follows:—Winter wheat—Wesley Wilson of Omemee. Oats—Melville McHolm of Port Hope. Barley—Henry Coulter of Foxboro. Potatoes — Delbert Olan of Cavan township showing Chippewas.

Peterborough was represented among the grain men by Earl Petries whose first prize registered barley was especially commended; Gerald Anderson of South Monaghan; Robert Armstrong of Cavan winner of the top prize for registered wheat; Harry Jackson of Omemee; W. W. Dawson of Otonabee; W. Clarence Mann.

Sweden Healthier

STOCKHOLM (CP)— The year 1947 saw a further decline in the number of cases of epidemic diseases in Sweden. In the two most dangerous diseases--diphtheria and infantile paralysis--there was a drop of 217 from the 1946 total of 14,659 cases.

Ilsley Warns Canadians Of Red Danger

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP). — A blunt warning to Canadians to see to it that Communism in "some" of the trade unions of Canada "does not spread very much further," was sounded in the Commons yesterday by Justice Minister Ilsley in an outspoken, three-hour debate on the dangers of Communism.

He said Communist infiltration into the trade unions was "a more important factor" in Canada than that of infiltration into government. The Communist had little power in legislative bodies such as municipal councils or in the political field.

Then he added:

"But proportionately they are very much stronger, I am afraid, in some of the trade unions in Canada. And I would say, without trying to cause any undue alarm, without saying anything that would cause panic or anything of that kind, that the situation at present in Canada is such that Canadians would do well to examine all the facts and be alert to this matter, and alert to it every day, and see that it does not spread very much further."

He also declared himself emphatically against any Communist or former Communist being allowed to join the Federal Civil Service.

Debate on Communism

A debate sprang from a motion by John Bracken, Progressive Conservative Leader, calling on the Commons to adjourn its regular business to discuss the dangers of Communism. The motion

German 'Reds' Plan New Code

BERLIN, March 18 — (CP). — German Communists announced today their intention of replac[illegible] power Allied Control [illegible] of new leader[illegible] of those who look forward, as a matter of course, to internment and other restrictions. Everywhere in Canada such leaders are being schooled in the techniques and tactics of sabotage and riots, in every phase of the dark science of destruction.

But more valuable than a thousand young fanatics trained by revolutionary pamphlets and word of mouth are a few score veterans of the revolutionary firing line who, in Greece or Yugoslavia, or in any of the underground armies of the final phase of World War II, have been hardened and tested by desperate conflict.

It is to bring such men as these into Canada and the United States that the Communists today are making use of every legal loophole and illegal dodge possible under the immigration laws as they exist and as they are enforced.

Immigration regulations along the Canada-US border and at all ports of entry are being observed with greater vigilance than ever before. Yet, notwithstanding this, it still is ridiculously easy for all but the most widely publicized agents of Communism to enter the country and to pass freely back and forth between Canada and the States.

Prime Minister Stalin and Winston Churchill.

Herman Matern, Berlin leader of the Communist - controlled Socialist Unity (SED) Party, told a Soviet-led "people's congress" at a constitution for a German republic must be worked out "very quickly."

Thousands massed here to celebrate the centennial of the 1848 revolution and honor those who fell in that unsuccessful effort to establish a constitutional German government.

The congress is expected to set up a 400-member people's council late today. The Communists have claimed for this council the right to speak for all Germans.

10 Aboard B-29 Killed In Crash

TAMPA, Fla., March 18 (AP). —Ten men were killed and four injured early to-day when a B-29 from the Spokane, Wash., United States Army Air Base crashed and burned on landing at Macdill Field here.

The four survivors were admitted to the base hospital. Their condition was described as good.

The bomber was coming in for a landing in a dense fog when it hit the edge of the runway at the south-west corner of the field.

The big craft hit the ground, bounced once and then crashed and burned. Wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Fog was rolling in from the bay and hugging the ground about 150 feet thick. Apparently it was impossible to pick out the runway quickly.

Ready To Name Man For Masaryk Post

PRAGUE, March 18—(AP).—Czechoslovak government sources said today a successor to the late Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk will be named "within a matter of hours."

A government spokesman said: "The matter has been arranged."

There seemed to be general agreement the post, made vacant when Masaryk fell to his death from a Czernin Palace window on March 10, will not be filled by Vlado Clementis. Clementis, a Communist, was Masaryk's chief assistant.

Make All-Out Effort Or China Lost–Chiang

NANKING, March 18 —(CP)— Chiang Kai-Shek said today this is "the hour of decision" in the government's campaign to defeat the Communists in central China.

"Unless an all-out effort is made to turn the tide of war in central China, the last reservoir of Kuomintang (government party) power faces complete collapse," he told a conference of military leaders and governors of six central provinces.

Chiang's pessism surprised neutral observers. There has been little news of fighting in that area for weeks. It apparently has been overshadowed by government defeats in Manchuria, marked by the recent fall of the big cities of Szepingkai and Kirin.

Communist 20 Years Editor Quits Party

LONDON, March 18 (Reuters). — Douglas A. Hyde today announced that he has resigned as news editor of the Daily Worker, the Communist party newspaper, because he has become "increasingly disturbed by Russia's foreign policy and appalled by what has happened in Czechoslovakia."

"It became obvious to me that the movement for which I had fought and worked for so long was destroying those very freedoms and decencies for which it claimed to be fighting," he said. "Communism is incapable of providing a cure for an extremely sick world." Hyde has been a Communist for 20 years.

Gun Artist Dies In Fire

'Chief' Smiley Trapped In Blazing Home

PORT DALHOUSIE, March 18 — (CP). — Jim (Chief) Smiley, veteran marksman and vaudeville trick-shot artist, burned to death early today when fire destroyed his combined home and boat livery here on the banks of the old Welland canal.

Police said flames were sighted by a passing motorist and when volunteer firemen arrived the small frame structure was engulfed and entry was impossible.

When flames were quenched an hour later, the body of the "Chief" was found lying a few feet from the door. He had apparently wakened and tried unsuccessfully to make his escape.

Smiley acquired the name "Chief" years ago during a 20-year career on the stage and was considered one of the ranking revolver shots of the day. He was a familiar figure to Royal Canadian Henley regatta spectators who watched amazed as he performed trick shots from a canoe in front of the grand stand. Two years ago one of the racing shells of the St. Catharines Rowing Club was named after him.

Firemen said that an overheated stove was responsible for the fire.

Loopholes in Law Admit Red Saboteurs

Graver Crisis Facing Canada Than In The D[illegible]

(Editor's Note—The Peterborough Examiner to-day presents the eighth of a series of articles in which Staff Reporter Don Cameron of The Windsor Star sets forth the findings of a long and far-reaching investigation into the Communist strength and activities in Canada.)

By DON CAMERON

Seasoned veterans of Red revolution in many lands are entering Canada secretly to lead a nation-wide offensive of sabotage and terror scheduled for the immediate future.

Dominion authorities are well aware of this—and helpless to prevent it. In the highest circles of the federal government no other item of business takes precedence over the search for measures to guard against this gravest threat from within the nation has ever faced.

US, Canada Are Targets

In the United States, also, a similar situation exists and is receiving the fullest attention of the government and the Department of Justice. For as the two great democracies of North America represent the strongest opposition to the Kremlin's program of world conquest, and as their economic and military security are interdependent, so Communist plans for their overthrow are integrated and synchronized.

These statements are not exaggerated. They are supported by the authoritative voices of men on both sides of the border who have seen the incontrovertible evidence.

Many of those men were interviewed by author of these articles in the course of his investigation into Red activities in Canada, and most of them welcomed the opporunity to place the full truth before the public.

Seeing the western democracies' "cold war" against Stalinist totalitarianism grow warmer with each successive power grab by Moscow's operatives, and knowing how swiftly further aggression may fan it to flame, leaders of the Red fifth column in Canada are prepared to strike at a moment's notice.

Their primary objective is to foment social and economic disorders through strikes, riots and wide-scale industrial sabotage, in the hope of causing a depression far worse than that of the Thirties. Thus they would weaken opposition to Soviet offensives in Europe and Asia by concentrating official attention on internal problems here, and at the same time create the unwholesome climate of confusion, discontent and despair in which the germs of revolution flourish and propagate.

Battle Plans Drawn Up

Their secondary objective considers the possibility of a shooting war between the democracies and the Soviet Union, which every Canadian Communist has taken a solemn oath to defend. Once hostilities began openly, there would be no waiting for Sovi[illegible] the horrors of modern warfare to Canadian soil.

Trained saboteurs would lose no time in putting into effect plans for the demolition of airstrips, disruption of communications, destruction of factories, seizure of armories, wrecking of public utilities — for carrying out every conceivable treachery to cripple Canada's fighting strength and spread panic through the populace—which plans, worked out to the last detail, exist in secret Communist files in every major city of the Dominion.

The final objective embraces the sum total of all the intermediate and temporary aims of international Communism since Russia became its first victim — the violent overthrow of "bourgeois" and "capitalistic" institutions, the seizure of wealth and power, and the abolishment of representative government in favor of the "dictatorship of the proletariat" which already exercises a master-and-slave rule over hundreds of millions of helpless men, women and children.

The Communists know they will not accomplish these ends without challenge. It is a foregone conclusion that their known leaders would not remain at liberty in the event of war with Russia, and that any outbreak of violence even without a war emergency would result in strict surveillance of their every move.

Packers' Official Questioned In Probe

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP). — The Commons Committee on Prices, probing the cost of butter, to-day will question the first large packing company to be called. The witness will be J. S. McLean of Canada Packers.

In its investigation into butter prices the committee has already questioned representatives of the producer organizations, but has not had any wholesaler before it.

V. Campbell Heads Threshermen

Weed Seed Danger Stressed To Farmers, Said Growing Worse

Vern Campbell of Douro, was re-elected president of the Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen at Wednesday afternoon's session of their two-day convention.

The other officers are: Vice-presidents Goldie McInroy, Stirling, and Earl Dunn of Cameron; secretary-treasurer, J. Arthur McIntyre, Peterborough.

Executive committee —Charles Mills, Robert McAdam and William Steinkrauss. Legislative committee: Clayton Cosh, Bobcaygeon; Oscar Merrick, Stirling; Lou Osland, Port Hope.

Directors: W. W. Dawson, Peterborough; F. W. Werry, Campbellford; H. S. Oliver, Campbellford; Ed. Dunn of Cameron.

Mr. McIntyre reported a financial balance of $631.65, an increase of $200 in the year, but expenses of the present convention would cut into the bank cash a little more sharply than usual.

"We get a grant from the Department," said Mr. McIntyre, "and we thought we ought to show our appreciation of this help by making a special effort in our convention this year. That is mainly why we went in with the Quinte Seed Fair because everybody would benefit by joining hands."

Big Attendance

The enlarged program backed by fine weather brought out the bigest attendance in years. Others were due for the dinner in the evening and today's sessions. Harvey Lyon of Oakville, president of the Western Ontario Threshermen, brought greetings from the members west of Toronto. He was accompanied by his brother, George Lyon.

Vern Campbell was chairman of the convention sessions in the old shooting gallery annext of the main drill hall of what was the military camp during the war.

J. W. McRae of Kemptville, speaking on weed control, said the farmers of Ontario had done a great job during the war. To that end they imported millions of tons of feed grain from the west, which unfortunately included a tremendous quantity of weed seeds.

FAMOUS CATERERS — Threshers who have eaten at the homes around Stewart Hall, Otonabee, each fall have been high in their praise of good things to eat. In fact, the ladies of Stewart Hall have become renowned caterers, and on Wednesday evening they fed more than three hundred people from 10 counties who attended the Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen's banquet at the Canadian Legion auditorium. CAS Reports Very Busy Month

Thomas T. Rodger, chairman, presided at the meeting of the directors of the Children's Aid Society Tuesday.

The report of the Superintendent, Miss R. Young, stated there had been 137 office interviews and 555 visits made in February.

A total of 156 families, 167 children in care and 41 unmarried parent cases were known to the Society in Februury.

Of the 156 families, 26 were referred to the Society during the month by D.V.A., other Children's Aid Societies, employer, personal application, police, relative, minister and lawyer.

The problems presented were separation of parents, inadequate care of children, non-attendance at school, drinking, unemployment, delinquency of children, desertion of children, non-support, assault and inadequate supervision.

Of the 167 children in care, 6 came into the care of the Society during February. Three of the children were made temporary wards when found deserted by their parent, one child was placed for adoption and two children placed privately were brought to the attention of the Society. Two wards were discharged from care, one adoption was completed and one child returned to another province. Five children were placed in foster homes for the first time and two children were moved from one foster home to another. It has been possible to arrange to have all wards, except those working, have both a medical and dental examination during the year. It is hoped to carry out this plan each year.

Five unmarried parent cases came to the Society's attention.

During Foster Home Week, the need to have foster homes waiting for children was demonstrated by the admission of three children to care—two of whom were taken to the Shelter as no foster homes near the city were available, it was stressed. When children first come into care it is necessary to have them nearby as they have to appear in court, and medical and dental examination are necessary.

The question of people placing children privately was discussed. It would not be feasible to allow no one to place his child in another home without the recommendation of an approved organization. However, it was stated, children are getting into homes where a child should not be. Not only is physical care too close to a minimum, but what is more serious, is the lack of ability of the foster parents to give intelligent direction in the child's social adjustments. Unfortunately, neglect cannot be proven in some of these situations and so the child remains in the home, the report added.

Inspector Lauds Milk Plants

In the past 10 years, since the introduction of compulsory pasteurization of milk in the district, there have been only four reported cases of milk specimens which have been underpasteurized. There has not been one case of this in the past five years.

This fact was noted in the monthly report of the inspection branch of the Department of Health. Butterfat samples in that period were all within the legal limit, it stated, with an average of 3.6 per cent for February.

Pasteurizing plants have all been kept in clean condition, with only one case of neglect noted.

The report of the Sanitary Inspector R. M. MacPherson spoke highly of the co-operation which dairy farms had given in keeping their premises and equipment sanitary. There has been a noticeable improvement in the past decade.

Second Offender Fined $50 And Costs

James Duignan, Toronto, was was found guilty of being drunk was found giuity of being drunk in public as a second offender. Evidence given by PC's D. J. Farthing and Edward Niziol stated that the accused had been in a "very drunken condition." They testified that it had been necessary to assist him to the police car.

The accused, giving evidence, stated that he had an accident at his work about a month ago which had given him blood poisoning. The treatments he was receiving for this, he contended, would make him appear more intoxicated than was the actual case. He admitted he had drunk "four beers" that afternoon.

Say Canadian Forces Likely Strengthened

OTTAWA, March 18 —(CP)— Pressure of critical world events seemed likely today to lead to a strengthening of Canada's defence forces, now only 34,000, compared with more than 1,000,000 enlistments during the Second World War.

Following President Truman's speech to the United States Congress in which he called for universal military training in the U.S., urgent demands for an increase in the three Canadian services are expected to be made soon in parliament.

This increase is likely to come, in the first stages at any rate, through an increased recruiting drive.

Steel Production Hit

PITTSBURGH, March 18. (AP) —Steel production and railroads in the United States today fell victim to the four-day-old pension-raised soft coal work stoppage.

The first blast furnace was shut down to conserve fuel and in Washington the government ordered a 25 per cent reduction in passenger train service, effective next Sunday at midnight.

The office of defence transportation said the order was necessary because of low railroad coal stocks.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. shut down one of the blast furnaces at its Briar Hill plant at Youngstown, O. A company spokesman said it was done to save fuel. Two other companies would soon follow suit.

Throne Speech Debate Expected To End Soon

TORONTO, March 18—(CP)—Throne Speech debate was expected to end today in the Ontario Legislature. Both afternoon and evening sittings were scheduled. In yesterday's sitting, devoted to discussion of bills, the House gave first reading to a bill enabling the province to cut off all services to a Crown-owned community such as a wartime housing unit if the Federal Government does not agree to make grants instead of paying taxes. Crown lands cannot be taxed.

Services which could be excluded are hospitals, fire protection, police, sewage, garbage collection, welfare, relief, planning, public utilities and others which the province might decide upon.

Reform Minister Dunbar introduced a bill to amend the training schools act. Thirteen government bills; eight dealing with education, were approved in committee and second reading was given eight other government measures.

The House gave first reading to bills sponsored by R. H. Carlin (CCF—Sudbury) to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act and to control fumes given off by industrial plants. Three private bills also were given first reading.

Defeat Milk Bill

On a recorded vote, a Labor-Progressive party bill to give municipalities the right to buy, sell and store milk was defeated 58 to 2.

It is expected that government milk legislation, which may include provisions to enable municipalities to go into the milk business, will be introduced at this session. Premier Drew said the Labor-Progressive bill as it stood did not properly provide for what is intended by the forthcoming legislation.

The training school amendment will increase the daily rate paid to training schools for each person to $1.50 from $1, with the municipalities and the province sharing the increase equally. Mr. Dunbar said that in unorganized areas the provincial government pays all of the increase.

The government bill to amend the industrial standards act was given lengthy discussion before second reading.

It will return to the municipalities the authority to establish hours of operation of service stations.

Peter Lemoire 98 Years Old

HASTINGS, March 18—(ENS)—Believed to be the district' oldest resident, Peter Lemoire celebrated his 98th birthday on Wednesday. His friends are sorry to know he has been confined to bed for the past week, but is showing some improvement now. During the past year he suffered two strokes affecting his speech and eyesight. Nevertheless he is a remarkable old gentleman, nearing the century mark.

Peter Lemoire was born in Quebec province, a son of Michael and Lucy (Fershe) Lemoire, coming to Hastings at the age of three years. During his working years he spent a short time on a farm, followed by 12 years in a knitting factory. Then he went to work in the local sawmill; saw it burn down, rebuilt, and went back to the same employment until it was torn down.

Mr. Lemoire has eight daughters and seven sons, Mrs. Kathleen Burk, Lindsay; Mrs. Madeline Davis, Peterborough; Mrs. Veronica Ronco, Rochester; Mrs. Loretta Mowbry, Mrs. Gertrude Chilman, Detroit; Mrs. Agnes Sweenor, Port Huron; Mrs. Marie Sparrow, Detroit; Mrs. Helen Fink, and Peter Lemoire, Amsterdam, NY; Harry, Peterboro; James, Trenton; Ted, Albert and Alfred of Hastings; and celebrating his birthday also on the 17th Patrick of Peterborough.

Mr. Lemoire is a member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church. His wife, the former Matilda Pello, predeceased him almost eighteen years ago.

Mr. Lemoire recalls no outstanding incidents in his life, believing it to be an ordinary unexciting one.

Coal For Canada

LONDON, March 18 — (CP). — The Financial Times in a Cardiff dispatch says today that large quantities of Welsh anthracite coal will be shipped to Canada this year. "About 150,000 tons which is more than three times the quantity shipped in recent years, is mentioned," the paper says.

Whitby Plant To Employ About 150 People

A new basic industry, the first of its kind in Canada, will be established in Whitby by Woodhall Mines Limited when a plant for the processing and refining of barite — a little-known mineral widely used in the manufacturing industry—comes into production.

Present estimates for investment over the next two years reach $1,000,000. A large deposit of barite is being developed in the Porcupine area of northern Ontario. It is said that there is a world shortage of this mineral and no new sources are being discovered.

An extensive deposit of high-grade barite ensuring a steady supply for industry will also gain U.S. dollars for Canada by maintaining a high export level.

Barite—natural sodium sulphate — is of vital importance in the manufacture of such products as paint, enamels, vitreous enamels, linoleum, glass, pottery, bricks, rubber, sugar refining, as well as in oil well drilling and coal washing.

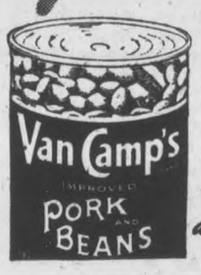
Previously Canadian industry has had to rely on imports of this mineral to supply the many trades requiring it. Before the war Germany was the chief exporter of barite. Substitutes have hitherto proved unsatisfactory.

Construction on the plant adjacent to the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Co., near Heydnshore Park, is expected to begin within two months. Order for the first unit of the structure has already been placed. It will be situated on 14-acre tract of land employing some 30 persons at first to be increased to an estimated 150.

Barium chemicals are used for a variety of purposes including steel and brass, X-ray, pyrotechnics, tracer bullets, bleaching, and insecticides.

By entering this new field of enterprise it is believed Canada will save several millions of dollars annually.

Neighbor Kills Fire With Wet Cloths



CAMPBELLFORD, March 18—(ENS).—Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Saunders Free, Hastings Road, Tuesday afternoon, but no damage resulted from the overheated pipes and chimney fire.

As soon as she noticed the smoke, Mrs. Free, alone at the time, called a neighbor, John Lisle, who called the fire department. He cooled the pipes with wet cloths, before the arrival of the department.

About two hours after the first call another alarm was turned in from Taylor's meat market, Front St. It was confined to the chimney.

"McMAHON"

LIFT-TYPE - - DISC-TYPE

TWO-WAY TILLER

McMAHON FEATURES . .

1. Close-up hitch effecting minimum strain on hydraulic mechanism.
2. Ease of steering, elimination of wear on the tractor front end mechanism.
3. Front section right up close to the tractor wheels, cutting and tilling half of the full 5-foot width.
4. The rear section also close, cutting and tilling the remaining few weeds or grass, if any, left uncut.
5. 22-inch discs, plow angle type, not used in any other machine.
6. Individual bearings with Zerk fittings, giving ample lubrication.
7. No lever, no wheels, no axle, permitting maximum trash clearance.
8. No dragging of soil, the discs revolving, cutting and tilling at the same time, on account of their plow-angle feature.
9. Largest volume of earth turnover per tractor, brake, horsepower consumed.
10. Lowest maintenance cost per unit of work.
11. McMahon disc blades are self-scouring in damp or wet soil conditions.

The McMahon Lift-Type Disc Type is a Two-way Tiller. The front section tills to the left, the rear section to the right, each counteracting the other without side draft.

Relatively speaking, it is unsually light of draft on account of the close-up hitch and the fact that when the front section cuts its way, the rear secion requires less power. The 22-inch discs, he individual bearings and the exceptional trash clearance all add to the lightness of draft.

It DRAGS NO EARTH because of its plow angle discs, each independently revolving, cutting and tilling at the same time. This effects additional saving of power. Dissipation of power obviously is a serious and perpetual economic waste.

This implement is very popular among the agricultural fraternity who are amazed that a small tractor will do so much efficient and satisfying work at low cost.

THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1948

The End Of The City Trust

The action of the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature in ignoring a brief presented ostensibly by the Peterborough City Trust is easily understandable. The brief did not represent the will of the Trustees, but the will of the Chairman who has shown himself immoveably opposed to the transfer of the property controlled by the Trust to the control of the City Council. When he went over the heads of a majority of the Trustees and sent a brief to the Private Bills Committee which simply expressed his own views, Mr. Eastwood behaved in an autocatic manner which could not be tolerated by his colleagues on the Trust, and their behaviour in circumventing him was entirely proper. A measure of autocracy in the handling of city affairs may sometimes be a good thing, but it should not overstep the bounds of discretion.

* * *

It is a foregone conclusion that Peterborough's private Bill will now be passed by the Legislature, and that the City Trust properties will pass into the hands of the Council. The legality of certain leases which were recently extended may come into question, for there is doubt as to whether Mr. Eastwood was empowered to extend those leases when he did so; if he were not properly elected Chairman of the Trust at that time it may be difficult to defend the leases in court. In any case, the City Trust has little left to do but to attend quietly to the administration of the sinking fund debentures until 1951, when the last principals are payable. Serial debentures maturing in later years can be attended to by the City Treasurer.

* * *

In spite of the squabbling and jockeying for power of the past year, the end of the City Trust will by no means be inglorious. It has done a fine job for the City, and the City is grateful. Our earnest hope is that the City Councils of the future will never bring us to such a pass that another City Trust will be needed to put us back on our feet.

We Are Accused Of Capitalism

We have received a letter which complains in strong terms about the articles on Communism in Canada by Don Cameron which we are publishing at present. We are not going to print the letter, because it is signed with a false name, but we think that our readers may be interested in hearing the gist of it.

To begin with, it accuses The Examiner of being a capitalist concern. This is true. Like every other business in Peterborough, not excluding the Co-Op, The Examiner is run to make money for its owners; in doing so it provides employment for a number of skilled workers and, judging by our circulation, it provides the people of this district with a newspaper which they want to read. Having admitted that this is a capitalist paper, what next?

Next comes the accusation that we are attacking Communism in order to discredit the trade unions; if we link the two, says our correspondent, it will then be easy to shout "Communist!" whenever a union wants more for its workers than they are getting now.

This is untrue. Some unions have Communist leadership and some have not, and we have a pretty good notion which are which. It is an established Communist technique to keep organized labour, wherever possible, in a state of discontent; it is not too difficult to distinguish the operation of this technique from the demands of unions who want new conditions of work.

Our correspondent thinks that because this is a capitalist paper it is incapable of telling the truth; we gather that he does not find Communist papers any more to his liking. We can assure him, however, that if he has a monopoly on truth, and some special source of infallible information about the world's problems, he can begin a very profitable business of his own any time, and become a capitalist.

Reading Speeches In The Commons

At least once during every session of Parliament the Speaker of the Commons warns members that they must not read their speeches, but these adjurations seem powerless to stop the abuse. Again and again members rise to their feet, clutching wads of manuscript; they make a halting beginning and then, within five minutes, they are frankly and shamelessly reading. Very few of them are even good readers. They mumble their way to an ignominious close and sit down, conscious that on the morrow their speeches will appear in Hansard looking a great deal better than they have ever sounded.

Newspapers comment upon this abuse in vain, but we think that most papers are too polite to strike at the real root of the matter—the real cause of these miserable oratorical fiascos.

We believe that many M.Ps read their speeches because they are too ill-educated, too inept in the use of their mother tongue, to be able to say anything without a manuscript which they have prepared laboriously, or have caused to be prepared for them. To make a speech without reading it a man must be either naturally eloquent—a very rare state of grace in this Dominion—or he must be a man of well-stored mind and adequate vocabulary. Few of our members of Parliament on either side of the Commons belong to either of these groups.

It is fruitless for our contemporaries to recall the splendours of the Commons when Macdonald, Laurier, Foster, Blake or Borden took the floor; it is useless to invoke the shades of Peel, Palmerston, Disraeli and Gladstone. These men were men of great natural abilities, improved by first-rate schooling. Whatever may be said of Canadian schooling at present, it does not make ready or interesting speakers.

The truth will make us free. If we recognize that the only men who read their speeches are those who are too stupid or ignorant to do otherwise, the custom will quickly decline, and we shall stop sending these mute fish to Ottawa.

Peterborough In 1912

In our Third Column today we publish some recollections of a Peterborough childhood, written by the well-known Canadian poet, Lenore A. Pratt. The city in those days was not the large and busy place that it is today, and perhaps Mrs. Pratt's reminiscences will evoke feelings of nostalgia in the hearts of those who remember it in the halcyon days before the First Great War.

Is it the golden light of childhood recollection, or is it really true that life in Peterborough had more style and grace in those days than it has now? There are plenty of fine cars on our streets, but nothing that could be called a fashionable equipage. Has any Peterborough lady a box of gloves and fans (or comparable fashionable fripperies of our time) that someone will recall with wonder in 1988? Has the city bought its present commercial success at the cost of its charm? Who can say? The only certainty is that we cannot turn the clock back, and that our only hope of regaining that lost quality is by going steadily onward.

Are You A Typical Canadian?

A public opinion poll has gathered some information about "typical" Canadians. The typical Canadian male, it says, is 5 ft. 8.7 inches in height and weighs 161.8 pounds. This makes him taller and heavier than a "typical" male of the British Isles. Canadian women, on the other hand, are indistinguishable from women of the British Isles except that they tend to have darker hair and eyes.

We are grateful for this information, though at the moment we do not know exactly what we shall do with it. It does not seem to explain anything, or prove anything. As we look out of the window for inspiration we observe an atypical Canadian over six feet tall going into the Post Office, and another atypical Canadian, about 5 feet six inches and weighing at least 200 pounds is climbing into a car; a couple of atypical Canadian women with mouse-coloured hair are pushing baby carriages containing babies who might easily be Eskimos or Chinese in the direction of the L.C.B.O. shop. The trouble with these "typical" people is that you never see them.

According to the Kingston Whig-Standard inflation has now reached the point where it is almost as easy to wish for a million dollars as it used to be to wish for a million.

Peterborough Through A Child's Eyes

By LENORE A. PRATT

IN the room in which I write there is a Victorian armchair that has outlived its original owners by many years; been crated for voyages by ship and rail; seen half a dozen changes in upholstery, from tapestry to chintz; even suffered a new leg, yet still retains something of dignity and certainly of usefulness. Almost forty years ago it was sold with the household goods of the Rogers family of Peterborough. Other bits and pieces from the sale have come with me to Newfoundland; a pearl and lacquer coin-box; a vase with Chinese figures outlined in red; an old and ugly wax dancing-doll originally dressed in turban and pantaloons, with strings through its wooden hands.

✧ ✧ ✧

MY family moved to Peterborough in 1908 and we lived there until the autumn of 1912. Our first house was opposite Nicholls Oval, a wooded strip of oaks, maples and chestnuts on Denistion avenue. Under the chestnuts stood The Museum, a house that seemed to my childish eyes a replica of a pretty little chateau in one of Madame d'Aulnoy's fairy tales. Originally one supposes it had been given to the town by a Peterborough family. I seem to remember it as being built of that off-shade yellow brick favoured by the Victorians. There was a graceful staircase of wrought iron; in every room were fireplaces of veined marble, and a dry mustiness, not unpleasant, pervaded the house. On long rainy afternoons we played with the caretaker's children amongst the cases of Indian curios and bunches of tropical grasses and palms.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER a year or two we moved to Rubidge street, at the steepest, longest and most lovely of all the hills. Up its slopes climbed London, Dublin and Edinburgh streets, rustling ankle-deep with maple leaves in autumn and glorious with ice and danger in the winter. We used to sleigh-ride down Edinburgh street and across the Chemong road, perilous on Saturdays with teams and fast cutters in from the country. We timed our descents as well as we could, hoped for luck and raced across the road far below.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOW many of the old houses on our hill are still standing? It is sad to think of change, that they may have been turned into apartments and the grounds made hideous with gas stations. Already, at the time of which I write, Magistrate Dumble's rambling old house had been left empty and silent under its trees. We were familiar with the figure of "Davey" Dumble. He owned a high-fenced vacant lot between our house and the Fessendens'; it was cultivated as a vegetable garden by a retired farmer, old Mr. Miller. There was an empty barn on the property; that part of Rubidge street may have been farmland at one time. In the lane by the barn a heavy waggon stood year in and year out, making for us a ship, a fort, a castle in a dark forest. We liked to imagine the barn was haunted, but when Mr. Miller from time to time unlocked the doors, there was nothing inside but a forlorn and dusty buggy and a few garden tools on which to build our hopes. The Millers lived near us and kept hens and had a raspberry patch, on the fringes of which I seem to remember prowling at dusk. I distinctly recall Miss Miller, a kindly spinster, bidding me tell my mother that eggs had gone up to twenty-six cents a dozen, she was sorry to say.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT that time I played a great deal with Gwynneth Hall. We made frequent visits to her grandfather's house at the corner of Rubidge and London streets, where I recall again, a gracious house of cream or yellow brick, with mansard roof. Lilac bushes, mock orange and honeysuckle, and misty smoke trees grew in clumps on the Adam Hall lawn; steep terraces broke its descent to the street, terraces down which we rolled until we made ourselves dizzy. The mistress of the house, "Aunt Sarah", was a woman of great elegance and style. A motor car had replaced horses in the Hall stables. When "Aunt Sarah" went driving with liveried chauffeur at the wheel, her plumed hats, veils, mink stoles and violets fill me with longing. In her drawing room, high-ceilinged, blue-and-gilt, filled with flowers and light, she would offer us chocolates from lacey boxes complete with little gilt tongs. Gwynneth was not allowed to eat between meals; she gave me her share.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT was at the Willie Halls' house on Stewart street that we played endlessly at a game of our own, "Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scots". It varied from day to day as our wardrobe and our reading varied. We had a box filled with long dresses, sashes, veils, even five yards of cheesecloth my mother had dyed pale green for us. We acted, declaiming, posturing, weeping, our "trains" sweeping up and down the stairs. I remember one day Gwynneth showing me her mother's evening scarves, fans and gloves in a shallow drawer scented with a perfume I at once disliked,—musk.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR two years I attended classes held by Miss Dorothy Hall in her own house on Charlotte street, that seemed a long way from Rubidge street. There were short cuts, one over a rushing stream with a wooden bridge. School was over at noon each day, a delightful arrangement. There were never more than sixteen pupils, all assembled in one upstairs room. The first rule of the establishment was no noise at any time, either going up or down the stairs, or in the vestibule, or in the class. When I think of Miss Hall, of whom I was quite fond, I see her sitting at the front of the class-room doing lessons from the First Reader with little Dora Brown, and pointing out the words with a steel knitting needle. Of my school mates I recall Joyce, Stephanie and Philip Davidson, Hilda Cubitt, Esme Aylmer, Phyllis Atwood, Frank Yeats, some of them seniors.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT what I remember with greatest joy are the bonfires. The leaves fell thickly on every road in our neighbourhood and were cured to a golden crispness in the sun. One could gather enormous piles with no effort. We made double and triple bonfires and roasted potatoes that always came out raw at the centre under charred skins. The Lang boys supplied from their orchard apples they called "Wolf Liver", the reddest apples I have ever seen. Not until I was grown up did I discover the name was Wolf River! On Saturdays in fall we made long expeditions for sweet acorns and hickory-nuts in groves and glades we had sworn to keep secret, though strangely, others were always there before us. Drives too, I remember in summer, at furious and dusty speed in an open car, rented for the afternoon. I seem to associate these drives with one place, Chemong lake, where there was some unusual feature apart from the mosquitoes. Was it a floating bridge? Even in 1912 there was a moving picture theatre in Peterborough; I remember being taken to picture versions of fairy tales.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are endless recollections; the winter of the ice storm when a great elm fell glittering by the house; Sunday School picnics attended under protest, even with a boat trip and the Lift Locks included; a pasture across from the Camerons' where rose-and-white English daisies had seeded themselves; a spin down the city toboggan slide in Jackson Park one winter night.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER the tragic death of a small brother, we left, in the close of 1912. In our grief and bewilderment there was little time to take farewell. I have never been back. I should perhaps find the hills mere gentle slopes, the old spacious houses neglected and smaller than I could have believed, the oaks and maples lost forever, everything faded with the years. It is better, sometimes, to remember.

Letters To The Editor

CITY JOBS SHOULD BE ADVERTISED

Sir: I see by the Examiner that two men have been hired on jobs in the Welfare office and Assessment office. Could you tell me why those jobs were not advertised. Surely in a city all jobs should be thrown open so that the people who are paying the taxes should have an equal chance to at least try for them.

I am not criticising the judgement of the Council in their selection of the men, but I do think it is bad business to fill city jobs without advising the people that the openings exist. The same method is followed in the fire department. Why are not applications called for in this department, the same as when there is a vacancy on the police department.

I don't like the system and I am not alone in my opinion. We have a good Council, but they won't hold my confidence very long if they resort to hiring methods, that smack of under-the-table dealing.

A TAX PAYER.

NOT HOCKEY, BUT HEAVEN

Sir: Mr. Stan McBride said in his letter defending the Secondary Rink project that our young people should have the rink now to enjoy while they are still with us on this earth, for many may soon have to shoulder arms and pilot planes.

It is very dreadful that our young men may again have to fight and meet death in battle. They might enjoy the clean sport of hockey but may I as an old man preparing for the Great Beyond say to Mr. McBride and to all young men that they should be looking in these grave days to Higher Things, and not to hockey. God is a jealous God and the idol of a hockey puck or the heaven of a new rink should not be put in front of Him and the Primary Arena beyond.

All people should take heed for the Hereafter. People on their knees do not suffer accidents on highways. The handwriting of God was in the sky over Peterborough this morning. It was a mighty arch of God and not a girder of a new rink which we saw. Let us have done with lesser things and take more pleasure in holiness than in hockey.

Yours faithfully,
J. C.

INVESTIGATE MACARONI AND CORN OIL

Sir: I am deeply interested in the investigation now being conducted in Ottawa by a special parliamentary committee into the price of bread and flour. But I think the committee should look into the high prices now being charged for macaroni products. They are made of the same ingredients as bread but have increased much more. Another item is salad oil or Mazola oil better known as corn oil. This has about doubled in price. These are foods the Canadian public use in their daily menu. I believe it is our duty to bring such increases as I have mentioned to the attention of the Ottawa committee and I suggest that others write to the Hon. Mr. Martin the chairman.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when it was determined that we should sail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other prisoners unto one named Julius, a centurion of Augustus' band. And entering into a ship of Adramyttium, we launched, meaning to sail by the coasts of Asia....

And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away....And falling into a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground: and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmovable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves. (Acts 27: 1, 2, 20, 41.)

And when they were escaped, then they knew that the island was called Melita. And the barbarous people shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand. And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live.

And he shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm. Howbeit they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and said that he was a god. (Acts 28: 1-6.)

Lindsay Girl Wins Praise From Festival Adjudicator

"I don't think I shall ever hope to hear such a moving performance," said Alec Redshaw, adjudicator of the Kiwanis Musical Festival, commenting on the Soprano Solo, "Jerusalem, Thou That Killest," by Jean Dunn, Lindsay.

Miss Dunn received the highest mark of the Festival to date (88) on Wednesday evening when she was given this praise. The feeling of reproach not rebuke ran through her solo, said Mr. Redshaw elaborating.

"Wednesday has been the best day of all," said the adjudicator summing up the third day of the five-day Festival.

The Port Hope Citizens' Band also came in for high praise. Mr. Redshaw described it as having "magnificent continuity of tone." "It was a very fine piece of work and I feel that the band should be commended. Port Hope should be proud of it."

He said too many high-brow composers tend to disregard the brass band when writing music. Confessing a great liking for a brass band, himself, he said this view was shared by the most eminent musicians. A composer uses brass to inject a thrilling note in the music; carried further this could comprise a whole band. A mark of 85 was awarded.

William Perry, Lindsay, was winner of the Tenor Oratorio Solo. He also received a mark of 85. "If With All Your Hearts" was the trial piece. The adjudicator said it was very difficult for young singers to gauge the true emotional intensity of Elijah's appeal. Despite this all the singers received high marks and all but one entrant were youthful.

In the afternoon an unscheduled event took place. The Rural Choruses were lined up together and given a few pointers on improved singing technique. This was described by Mr. Redshaw as "an inquiry into the subject of choral foundation."

Remarking on this group he said, "The standard of rural choruses was very much higher than on Monday."

He said the Choir Boy's Solo in the morning proved "a very unsteady class."

Mr. Dora Maver Moore who judged the verse speaking had one general criticism. She said that most of the children attempted to say their piece too quickly.

A larger crowd attended in the evening to hear and observe an enjoyable program.

Davis And Moore Win Mat Bout But Are Mauled By The Crowd

An infuriated crowd chased Wee Willie Davis and Jack Moore to the dressing room after the main bout of the pro grapple card at the Brock last night. Even police protection en route didn't save Willie and Jack from suffering several bad scratches on their backs. They had just won an unpopular decision in a team wrestling match over Ben and Mike Sharpe and the big crowd was peeved.

Davis, scaling 270 pounds, battered Ben Sharpe—going 236—into submission for the deciding fall and he then threw Mike Sharpe (weighing 246) out of the ring when Mike and Willie tangled after the last gong. It took 14 minutes for Davis to get the fall, with his partner—Jack Moore at 241—aiding slyly. The pair worked on Mike's neck again this round until Ben roared into action when they were pummelled about. But their villainy paid off finally when they teamed up on Ben and set him up for the fall as Referee Cliff Fox (a bare 190) tried vainly to keep things under control.

Evened It Up

Mike had evened the main bout up by taking the second fall in just four minutes over Jack Moore, making him concede it with his wicked "Sharpe stretcher" hold. Previously he and Ben had batted Moore back and forth in badminton style keeping him away from Davis' reach as the large crowd roared approval. Jack was punished plenty and in a hurry by the two tall ex-paratroopers, while Wee Willie didn't have a chance to get into it.

The first fall went to Moore in 21 minutes, with a lot of help from Davis, over Mike as he used a headlock with knee drop. Moore and Davis worked on Mike's neck and head till they had him softened up, and Ben had his nose cut when he mixed it hard. The Moore-Davis combine used illegal tactics throughout and the referee couldn't keep up with the action in and out of the ring. Hangman holds were pulled on each side in the ropes, with plenty of fisticuffing and at times all four were mixing it together in hot going as the fans yelled loudly.

Went Limit

John Katan, 246 pounds, and the 227-pound Don McIntyre went to a 30-minute semi-final draw in a lively tussle. Don proved real aggressive and faster than the other, but Katan's size and experience, plus rough stuff, made it a good even scrap. Don was popular but also drew warnings from the referee as 'they mixed it hard both in and out of the ring. They played the ropes a lot and Don got away with several good "hangman" holds to help even up some of the stuff the posturing Katan got away with. The fans made a lot of noise throughout the go.

Jimmy (Red) Sims, weighing 208, got the referee's decision in the prelim over Bulldog Drummond, who scaled 229, and it was popular with the crowd in the time limit. They staged a fine battle with Sims both active and popular despite his handicap in weight, as the Bulldog tried rougher tactics. They were out of the ring at times and played it wide open over most of the route to give the fans a lively opening bout.

Two PCVS boys' hoop teams are in COSSA playoffs in Toronto on the morrow, whilst Marines "A" chaps play in St. Kitts. Scribe there remarks: "Whatever hapepned to the local cagers in the Liftlock City is under the bridge but the Petes surely had an outboard motor attached to their heels as they whipped the NDBA champs by 25 points. However, the same spirit that won the war is still rampant here and, though that is a terrific handicap to labor under, Legions can turn the trick if they play the same game as put loop foes into the discard." Said he hopefully. Meantime, two girls' finals are billed for the YWCA tomorrow eve, Neill's vs. Nurses in a senior 8.15 p.m. go, and Normals vs. Lock Co. in an intermediate tilt an hour later.

Don't forget the big Central Ontario badminton tournament in Peter's busy borough this week-end. Annual championship play with the racquet aces of Bowman Villa—both femmes and fellows—likely to give local players the stiffest opposition. Though the Flying Club of Oshawa and some of the Lindsay badmintoneers may pull a few upsets in the ladies' doubles, men's doubles or the mixed twosomes. Draw being made tonight, and play will be in the Armouries and Market Hall on Friday night, and on Saturday aft and evening in finals at the Market Hall. The public is invited free gratis and folks can depend on some colorful activity.

2,700 Attend Games

Windsor scribe says: "How can a town the size of Barrie—9,000 to 10,000—support a junior 'A' hockey team in these days of high-priced players? Barrie Flyers draw from a radius of 30 miles but most fans come from Barrie itself and not all are assured of a seat at any and all hockey games. The small Barrie arena has only 1,500 seats. It also accommodates 1,200 people standing. For an important game, the fans start lining up at six p.m. for standing room. Most of the fans hold season reservations. Most of the Barrie players belong to Buffalo of the AHL, which gives some help to the Barrie club."

* * * * * *

If a town of hardly 10,000 jams 2,700 into a small arena for most hockey games all winter, wouldn't you figure that a place like Peterborough—of 35,000 and growing fast—needs something like three times that accommodation to handle hockey followers here? We would say so, in urging early action both for the Memorial Centre auditorium and the secondary rink project. And these thousands of fans—hockey fanatics, sure—are not a breed apart; no, they're a hefty cross-section of the citizens of this borough. Folks who are also keenly interested in other civic activities. Hardly a minority, either.

Legions Play Tonight

With the promise of colder weather yesterday aft, the Toronto Fliers piloted by Hank Goldup, decided to play their OHA senior "B" playdown game at nine tonight in Lindsay. Ice might not be too fast but they think it'll be better than last time out—and both clubs want to get this series cleaned up this week. Legionnaires are up one goal on the round (which may be a semi-final series yet) and will have to hustle like all getout to hold the scrappy Fliers, who are sure to shoot the works before bowing out. It ought to be a dandy battle with no holds barred, and will probably draw a big crowd again.

Lakeshore Junior Baseball League was re-organized at a Bowmanville meeting the other day with these officers re-elected: President, Dr. H. B. Rundle of Bowmanville; vice-prexy, Ed Campbell of Cobourg; secretary-treasurer, Ab Walker of Oshawa; and an executive consisting of one representative from each affiliated club. Oshawa B'Nai B'Rith won't operate again, but another Motor City entry made application, along with Oshawa Hunters—winners last season. And others expected in again are: Peterborough, Cobourg and Bowmanville. Walker will attend the OBA annual in London on April 16-17, following which another loop meeting will be held to accept entries and draw up the schedule. Phonse Brioux handled the junior Petes in this circuit last summer.

Hectic Time Was Had

Wee Willie Davis (he's only 270 pounds) and Jack Moore won the main team wrestling bout at the Brock last p.m. over the Sharpes but they suffered some nasty scratches by angry fans as they battled through the big crowd to the dressing room. We're told some fans were hit by their flailing fists, but folks take their own risk when they leave their seats to assault wrestlers en route to the dressing rooms. Just like those fans who go on the ice during a hockey fight. They can't hope to sue successfully if they get hurt. It was a mad main bout and it looks like the women and girls will soon outdo the weaker sex (that's right, Mr. Printer) in attendance at these bouts. Willie is getting so tough it'll soon take the Whipper or the Mask to tame him. Katan and McIntyre drew in the semi-windup and Sims got the prelim nod o'er Drummond.

Tigers Capture Senior Crown For Fourth Straight Season

By The Canadian Press

The ever-green veteran Hamilton Tigers are monarchs of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League for the fourth straight season. Last night they chalked up a 1-0 overtime triumph over the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen to take the senior crown in the fifth game of their best-of-seven final series.

Barrie Flyers completely outplayed Windsor Spitfires to take a 2-0 victory and go into a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven junior finals. Barrie netminder Jim Strachan chalked up his second straight shutout over the Spitfires with the win.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association junior champions also were decided as Porcupine Combines took down their second straight title by handing Copper Cliff Redmen a 6-4 beating. Porcupine won the best-of-seven finals 4-3.

The Hamilton-Kitchener match went scoreless until 2.05 of the second overtime period when Carl Smelle potted the title-winning marker on a driving shot. Earlier, goalies Art Childs of Hamilton and Keith Woodall of Kitchener, had put on a brilliant display of net-minding to frustrate attack after attack and keep the three regulation periods and one overtime period scoreless.

Goalies Tops

Smelle picked up the puck at centre ice, wheeled over the blue line, and whipped a shot from outside the defence to beat Woodall cleanly. Both clubs had numerous chances to go into the lead but the goalies were almost unbeatable as they stopped labelled shots time after time.

Tigers now will move against the winners of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association finals between Sault Ste Marie Greyhounds and McIntyre Mackmen for the all-Ontario senior championship.

Barrie outskated and outchecked Spitfires all the way, keeping the Windsor team disorganized and off balance while producing a fast passing attack. Frenchy Mayer again checked winger Gord Haidy, who played the main role in Windsor's two victories in the series, into the ice.

Flyers took a one-goal lead in the first period when Rusty Aikin scored on a pass from Gil St. Pierre. An earlier Barrie goal was disallowed on grounds that Jerry Reid had kicked the puck into the nets. Barrie's second marker came in the middle frame when Frenchy Mayer passed to defenceman Fay Garlepy, who fired the puck home from just inside the blue line.

CHAMPION TWOSOME — Between practices for their personal appearance tour throughout most of Canada, Suzanne Morrow of Toronto, and Wally Diestelmeyer of Kitchener, Ont., do manager to find time to go "partying." Above, Suzanne and Wally, North American pair champions who came third in the Olympic doubles, were "snapped" at the dinner tendered Barbara Ann Scott at Toronto, when the latter was presented with the Lou E. Marsh Memorial Trophy.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press

Frankie Brimsek, Boston goalie who also played airtight hockey at the other end of the rink.

Harry Lumley, Detroit goalie who blocked everything that came his way to chalk up his seventh shutout as Wings and Boston battled to a 0-0 draw.

Eddie Kullman and Edgar Laprade, New York forwards who garnered one goal and two assists apiece as Rangers whipped Chicago 5-2.

Star Rookies Steal Show From Veterans

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP).—There's at least one in every baseball camp....that is, a rookie "wonder" who won't be ready for a year or two....In touring the southland you hear more about these prospects than the veterans they may some day replace—about kids like John Groth, Walt Dropo, San Lopata, Dick Manville and Johnny Bucha.

Hand the Second

Dropo, a big boy from the University of Connecticut, isn't even on the Boston Red Sox roster... Still he's the guy they'll point out in the Boston camp and ask: "Doesn't he look just like Hank Greenberg?"

Johnny on the Spot

In the Detroit Tigers' camp, everything else comes almost to a halt when young Groth steps up to the plate....He has had only a year of pro experience and Steve O'Neill figures he'll need one more in the minors.... "Then he'll be back to stay a long time."

You can add Lloyd Merriman to this list....The Reds signed him for their Ogden, Utah, farm but after working out with the big team they figure he'll land in Class A.

Who's Who

Lopta went south as a member of the Phillies' "minor league" squad but Manager Ben Chapman keeps muttering about the possibility that he's beat out all three veterans....Bucha came up from Omaha to the Cardinals with a .361 batting average....Incidentally, they're about the only young catchers coming along....Manville, a year out of Yale, has had the Braves sitting up to take notice of his pitching "stuff." So has Ed Post, fresh out of Class "D" ball, but they won't stick this year.

Scoreless Tie For Wings As Rangers Trounce Hawks

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins played to a scoreless tie at Boston last night, while the New York Rangers beat Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 in Chicago. Those two results in the fast-closing National Hockey League schedule clarified things considerably. They meant, first, that the league title will be decided by the two games between Detroit and Toronto Maple Leafs this coming week-end, and Detroit goes into that climatic series behind the eight-ball. Toronto leads Detroit by one point. Saturday the Wings are at Toronto, and Sunday the Leafs are at Detroit.

And the Wednesday night games also meant that Montreal Canadiens at last are definitely out of the Stanley Cup playoffs. The post-season cup games will be between Toronto, Detroit, Boston and New York. The Canadiens join the Black Hawks in the discard once the schedule winds up Sunday.

The standing today gives Toronto 73 points with two games left; Detroit 72 and two games. Boston has 57 and one game, New York 55 and one game. Canadiens have 49 and two games, which just isn't enough to overcome that six-point gap between them and the fourth-place playoff spot. Chicago at the bottom has 44 points and two games left.

Goalies Star

Naturally the goalies starred in the scoreless contest at Boston last night. Young Harry Lumley in the Detroit nets threw out 31 shots, and Frankie Brimsek in the Boston cage had 27 saves. It was the seventh shut-out for Lumley and the third for Brimsek.

Bruins rested Winger Woody Dumart and defenceman Murray Henderson, who had worked in four games in five nights previous. They replaced them with Arnie Killman and Ran Hanson of the Boston Olympics, Quebec senior league team.

In the close-checking affair tension mounted until the bell ending the second period was the signal for a threatening free-for-all. Johnny Pierson of Boston jammed with Lumley back of the Detroit net and nearly everybody on the ice got into it. It took the officials three or four minutes to clear the mob, but nobody was hurt and no penalties were awarded.

Take Lead

At Chicago where 16,431 turned out to see Charlie Conacher's fighting Black Hawks in their third-last game of the season, New York rang up a 3-0 lead. Ed Kullman scored in the first, and rookie Ronny Rowe and Buddy O'Connor scored in the second period before Roy Conacher broke the parade with Hawks' first goal. Edgar Laprade and Tony Leswick scored again for New York before Conacher got his second goal.

For Buddy O'Connor it was a successful St. Patrick's night. His goal and one assist gave him a point-scoring total of 60, four more than second-place Elmer Lach of Canadiens.

Stanky Fights For Second Base

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Boston Braves' manager, Billy Southworth, let it be known today that Eddie Stanky will have to beat out Connie Ryan for the second base job.

Stanky got the news from Southworth, who confined his activities yesterday to a clubhouse meeting because of a heavy cold. Stanky has just joined the Braves after being traded by Brooklyn.

Connie Mack insists batting practice is the important thing in training camp, and he is giving Philadelphia A's two hours of it every day. "Batting practice serves to loosen up the swinging muscles," Connie said. "But its principal purpose, and chief benefit, is in getting the hitters to focus their eyes on the ball."

Kansas City Downs Omaha Knights 6-4

By The Associated Press

Omaha was bounced out of contention for first place and St. Paul eliminated from the playoffs in the United States Hockey League games last night.

Kansas City conquered the Knights 6-4, on the Pla-Mors' ice, and at Minneapolis the Millers won from St. Paul 4-2.

The results gave Minneapolis 74 points in the standings, four more than second-place Kansas City, and five more than the Knights. Omaha with only one game remaining can't catch the Milleres, but Kansas City has three games to turn the trick.

Minneapolis has a single contest on schedule, with Omaha Saturday night. St. Paul, with a single game remaining, has 66 points in the standings.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

A Canadian record of 24 years' standing for the 40-yard dash was smashed at Hamilton 12 years ago today when Sammy Richardson of Toronto ran the distance in 4.5 seconds, 1-10 of a second better than Bobby Kerr's 1912 mark.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Members of the RCAF Flyers last night at London told how Mike Buckna, pre-war Trail player and coach of the Czech Olympic team placed second behind Canada in the games, was "fired." The players said the Prague newspapers screamed for Buckna's "skin" after the highly-touted Czech team failed to add the Olympic title to the world championship won at Prague a year ago.

The fuss started when Vladislav Pabrodsky, starry Czech centre, was quoted in Prague newspapers as saying that Czechoslovakia would have beaten Canada if Buckna had allowed them to play a wide-open brand of hockey. They tied 0-0 in the Olympics.

"We played them in a wide-open game after the Olympics and beat them 5-2," one player said. "And this proved Buckna's tactics were correct."

He wanted to return to Canada but it's doubtful if he'll be allowed out of the country as his wife is a Czech."

Expenses of teams from eight provincial golf associations to Wilingdon cup matches, held at the venue of the Canadian amateur championship each year, will be paid from the funds of the Royal Canadian Golf Association's one-dollar-per-year plan, Association Assistant Secretary E. H. Banks said yesterday. The plan will also provide for international matches. Due to existing conditions in Great Britain, it is expected the committee will concentrate on matches with the United States.

Ken Lovegrove of the Hamilton Amateur Boxing Club last night knocked out "Irish" Joe Callahan of London in the second round of the scheduled five-round main bout at Hamilton. Billy Goulds of Oshawa, won a technical knockout over Russ Barko of Hamilton after one minute of the fourth round of a five-round 147-pound bout. In the 118-pound semi-finals, Mike Garlash of St. Mary's decisioned Bill Harding of Oshawa in five rounds.

Lee Perry, coach of the Sarnia Imperials, announced at Sarnia last night that they will have an entry in the Canadian-American Lacrosse League this year. Last year the team carried Windsor Stirlings to a seven-game final before losing out. At a Canadian-American League meeting at Sarnia Sunday, the possibility of admitting Toledo, O., and Chatham, will be considered.

Cleveland Beats St. Louis 6-1

By The Canadian Press

Those Cleveland Barons just keep rolling along.

Undefeated in their last 25 outings, the American Hockey League's hottest team on record, walked off with another triumph last night, dumping the hapless St. Louis Flyers 6-1 to increase their lead in the western section to an even dozen points.

Veteran Johnny Holota led the Cleveland onslaught, rapping in two goals. Rookie Bob Solinger counted his 40th goal of his first professional season. Bobby Carse, George Allen and Hy Buller got the other Baron goals. Eddie Olson netted the lone St. Louis goal.

Led by high-scoring Eldy Kobussen with two goals and a pair of assists, Springfield Indians edged New Haven Ramblers 6-4. Bill Summerhill also scored a pair of tallies for the Indians while Wimpy Jones and Bill Gooden each counted once. Jack Gordon tallied two New Haven markers, with Dunc Fisher and Mickey Mackintosh connecting for the others.

CZECH REFUGEES OFF FOR DP CAMP — Czechoslovak men and women who fled their Communist-dominated country stand at doors and windows of a train at Moschendorf in the U.S. zone of Germany, as they prepare to leave for the displaced persons camp in Schwabach. Side of the train has a caricature of a Czech state policeman with the inscription: "Yet we escaped." Another slogan reads: "Totalitarianism will be beaten." Hunters Oppose Leasing Water Rights

TORONTO, March 18—(CP)—Designed to enable the two-week-vacation-a-year-man to plan his holidays, a resolution suggesting that the open dates for hunting be published before July 1 was presented to the Ontario Legislature committee on fish and game today by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

The resolution came from the St. Catharines and Lincoln County Game and Fish Protective Association.

It was also recommended that the words "it is unlawful to carry a loaded gun in a motor car," be printed in red on the back of all gun licences.

Another resolution asked permission that everyone who hunts pheasants or rabbits in these areas, except a farmer hunting on his own lands, must be in possession of a township license.

A resolution from the Kent County Sportsmen's Association asked that the 78 acres of water leased by Bruce Bradley on the shore of Lake St. Clair be cancelled and that no water rights be leased on the shore in future. It asked that a survey started in 1945 be completed so that the shoreline may be established.

George McGavin of Chatham presented the resolution. He said that at present private persons were deprived of shooting privileges by the uncertainty of the shoreline and the large area leased to one individual.

A resolution from the Essex and Kent County Sportsmen's Association asked that Haldiman and Middlesex counties be included with Essex and Kent on the present non-resident licence as a closed territory for non-residents to hunt rabbits.

Bounty On Crows

Others from the association, presented by H. E. Chauvin of Windsor, secretary, treasurer, suggested that the opening season for hunting on Pelee Island correspond as clearly as possible with the open season in Essex county; designation of hunting hours for pheasants in the county as "sunset to sunrise" to prevent pre-dawn poaching; permission for spearing of grass pike, a scavenger fish, in water in and around Essex county; payment of a bounty on crows during April and May.

Also suggested was that in view of the increase in licence fees for Pelee Island for pheasant hunting, the government should discontinue donating pheasants to this area.

Park Belongs To Town Clears Up Confusion

LINDSAY, March 18—(ENS)—According to Miss Ada Greaves, chairman of Lindsay's Board of Parks Management, there is some confusion as to just who owns the new ball park in the south part of town, part of which is being laid out as a baseball diamond by the local Baseball Association.

When members of the Recreation Committee met the Parks Board to discuss matters of mutual concern, Miss Greaves pointed out that the property in question is actually under the supervision of the Board. However, she felt that many persons, including members of the Baseball Association, believed the field belonged to the association.

"Just last week I discovered the field does not belong to the association," said W. J. Ferguson, a member of the Recreation Committee. He pointed out that the association spent a great deal of money last fall in laying out a diamond, which they hope to finish for this summer.

"It would be too bad to take the matter out of their hands now," he told the Board.

Mayor Charles Lamb explained that the town purchased the property last year with the intention of converting it into a centre for outdoor sports. He said it was not meant to be solely a baseball field, but that there is ample room for a softball diamond and soccer or rugby field besides. Since then, the Baseball Association has been allowed to go ahead with their diamond.

At the suggestion of Miss Greaves, it was decided to notify the association as to the rightful ownership of the field. Members agreed that the association should be authorized to continue with the diamond project.

Labor Members Fear Reprisals

LONDON, March 18 (Reuters) — Uneasiness that the government's comb-out of Communists and Fascists from civil service security departments might involve political discrimination was expressed by a number of rank-and-file members of parliament at a meeting of the 400-strong parliamentary Labor party today, it was reliably understood.

A statement issued after the meeting merely stated that a discussion had taken place "on recent events in Czechoslovakia and on the prime minister's recent statement on civil service (Communists and Fascists)."

Herbert Morrison, who as leader of the House of Commons is the parliamentary "party boss," is understood to have given the meeting a full explanation of the government's attitude.

Still Need Saving In Lindsay Hydro

LINDSAY, March 18 (ENS)—"We are not out of the woods yet," commented J. H. Lightbody, manager-secretary of the Lindsay Hydro Commission, when questioned Tuesday concerning the shortage of power here for domestic, commercial and manufacturing purposes.

"Lindsay consumers have been very co-operative and we have not had to pull the switch at all during the period of power shortage so far," he continued. Mr. Lightbody stated that on two occasions—Monday and Tuesday of last week—Lindsay went over its quota. He said cloudy weather conditions have boosted the kilowatt consumption so far this week, "but so far we're doing all right." He attributed much of the power shortage to conditions in northern Quebec.

Royal Navy's Longest Battle With Customs, Excise Department

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, March 18—(CP).—His Majesty's Navy's longest engagement has been with His Majesty's Customs and Excise Department and, as usual, the senior service seems to be victor. The battle has been over duty-free tobacco supplied to sailors, a constant irritation to the Excise branch. The Navy has clung to its privilege, honoring it all the more vigorously since the price of tobacco has increased by more than three times this year, mainly due to the imposition of duties.

Duty-free tobacco was supplied to men at sea in 1793, and since 1887 men at some shore establishments and on service in home waters have smoked cheaply too. The Excise Department hustled into action again before the Second World War when it learned that between 1926 and 1931 the annual consumption of duty-free tobacco had doubled and there was evidence of "smuggling by navvy personnel."

The department suggested in 1932 that the admiralty exercise sharper control, resumed discussions in 1935 and an interdepartmental committee to examine the postition was established in 1938.

Defer Quarrell

In December, 1939, the treasury, as chief of the excise department, agreed to defer the question until the war was over. But it did not forget and recently asked if anything was being done, spurred by knowledge that the ordnary consumer last year had the price of his cigarets raised by 1s (20 cents) for 20 from 2s 4d to 3s by a 50 per cent increase in the duty on imported tobacco.

The lastest word has come from Sir Frank Tribe, comptroller and auditor-general, who said the problem's transition after the war "has militated against the settling of permanent arrangements."

Before the duty was raised last year Britons were smoking one third more than pre-war and this meant a drain on United States dollars as most of Britain's tobacco came from the Eastern States.

The tax was designed to reduce consumption by a third, but after a sharp decline when the new levy became effective, smoking has tended to rise towards old levels.

One economy device favored by many smokers is to consume as many cigarets as before but of a smaller type which cost 2s 6d for 20 against 3s 4d for what previously had been considered the normal type.

Demobilization Pleases 'Reds'

MOSCOW, March 18—(AP)—Red Star today hailed the Soviet army's demobilization program and said Russians "unanimously support the peaceable policy of their government."

"The sagacious Stalinist policy of peace and friendly collaboration among nations," the army newspaper said, "has had yet another convincing expression" in the decree which yesterday ordered demobilization of all but the 21 and 22-year-old classes.

(There is no information as to what the permanent size of the Russian army will be.)

A Moscow broadcast in English heard in London last night said the new army set-up "differs radically" from the "arms race in the United States" and Russia was the only one among the great powers to "place its armed forces really on a peacetime basis."

Belts, Buttons and Buckles Bugbears in Dry Cleaning

Buttons, buckles and belts are common bugbears to the dry cleaning industry, clothing specialists at a conference on clothing problems in Washington, DC, were told recently. Because of the way these three clothing items are made, many cannot be cleaned by any method. Thus, they cause much damage to clothing and much misunderstanding among customers and cleaners.

In making cloth-covered buttons, manufacturers often paste the cloth to the button with a dark or black glue. This dark substance dissolves in cleaning fluid and discolors not only the button but also the dress fabric around it. Some buttons are colored with a dye that "runs," from the steam of pressing, making a stain on the dress that cannot be removed. Some plastic buttons dissolve in cleaning fluid, becoming so soft that they smear and stain the fabric of the dress. The Institute has worked with plastic manufacturers to find out which plastics will withstand cleaning. Recently many buttons of uncleanable plastic have been eliminated, but, unfortunately, some are still being used on clothing and causing cleaning troubles.

Buckles Also

Buckles also give trouble to cleaners, especially those which are cloth-covered or of uncleanable plastic.

As for belts, it was stated that most belts on ready-made dresses cannot be cleaned. Very often the fabric is pasted to the back of the belt by an adhesive which loosens in the cleaning fluid. Then the belt comes apart or is discolored. Wet cleaning is not safe either because the backing often is imitation leather which is ruined by water. Cleaners, therefore, have had to solve the problem by just not cleaning belts.

One belt manufacturer recently developed a belt that can be either washed or cleaned. It carries a label on the under side near the buckle which states that it is guaranteed to launder or dry-clean.

First Venture A Success Tea Held in Rectory

Everyone loves a grate fire, even on a bright sunny 17th of March. More than 70 enjoyed afternoon tea and basked in the cosy glow from two fireplaces at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Moore, Braidwood Ave., Wednesday. The occasion was the first tea held by the newly formed Sanctuary Guild of St. George's Anglican church, and it was pleasingly successful.

Yvonne Glenn extended a greeting at the door, and Mrs. A. Glenn, president, received with the hostess. Lovely bouquets of carnations in the rooms were an added spring-time touch.

Mrs. G. S. Bousfield poured tea from a handsome silver service on the beautifully arranged tea table. Yellow daffodils in a low crystal bowl centred the lace cloth and were flanked by yellow and green tapers in crystal holders to match. Small tablets in the study made comfortable accommodation for guests, and they were centred with small pots of shamrock. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. S. Parks, Mrs. Robert Pilling, Mrs. Godfrey Moore, and Mrs. W. Bannon, tea convenes.

Bazaar, Tea Provide Funds To Improve New Hall

A St. Patrick's tea and sale of fancy work and home cooking drew a crowd of nearly 200 to the new Salvation Army Hall, Chamberain St., Wednesday. Watt of the Salvation Army Temple who conducted the official exercises that opened proceedings. Lieut. S. Williams entertained during the afternoon with his piano accordion selections.

Tasteful decorations on the walls and tea table were carried out in the green and white color scheme using traditional symbols of the Irish Saint's day. A handmade lace cloth was used and a double crystal candelbra with green tapers were in the centre, surrounuded with small green shamrocks. Mrs. L. French, vice president, and Mrs. T. J. Hunter poured tea.

Refreshments, touched with green, were served at convenient small tables by Mrs. W. W. Witherss, Mrs. H. Tippett, Mrs. J. James, Mrs. K. Griffin, Mrs. Geo. Collins. Plates were replenished by Mrs. A. Pagett, Mrs. D. Long, Mrs. A. E. Gilpin and Mrs. R. W. Oliver.

Painting and Cake Donated For CWL March 17th Tea

A delightful social event of Wednesday was the St. Patrick's tea at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. McNulty, Hunter St. W., under auspices of the Catholic Women's League (St. Peter's sub-division). The many guests who came in for a pleasant hour were received by Mrs. McNulty and the president, Miss May Grady. Miss Lillian Hurley was convener.

Mrs. F. J. Lynch and Miss Agnes Grant ushered guests to the tea room where the table was attractively arranged with a cloth of hand-made lace, festooned with paddy green streamers and clusters of large golden shamrocks. The crystal and silver centrepiece held a large bouquet of spring flowers. Lighter green candels were in silver holders.

Pouring tea were Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, Mrs. P. O'Brien, Mrs. T. J. Ryan, Mrs. A. Willis, Mrs. J. C. Donelly, Mrs. P. J. Cadigan. Assisting were Mrs. D. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. W. S. Blackburn, Mrs. W. J. A. Fair, Miss May Sullivan and Miss Margery McNulty.

In charge of the tea table and refreshments were Mrs. A. E. Cauley and Mrs. F. J. Hickey. Treasurers were Mrs. E. Riley and Miss Cathleen McCarthy.

During the tea hour Irish airs were played on the piano by Miss Bernice Greenan.

A water-color picture by the late Miss Mamie Langley McCarthy and donated by her sister, was won by Mrs. C. McCarney. Mrs. P. J. Doris and Miss Anna Murray were in charge of a cake, donated by the former, and won by Miss Catherine McTeague. The door prize went to Mrs. J. Roach.

Crowds "Queue" for Tea At Queen Mary School

"Queueing" is a novel experience in Peterborough, especially at afternoon teas. But Wednesday was St. Patrick's Day and perfect for a' wearin' o' the green or a flowery spring bonnet, so hostesses at Queen Mary school had to "line-up" their guests for admittance to the tea room. Those who came after four o'clock missed out on the alluring display of decorated Easter eggs and candy. Proceeds from this table will go to the "Save the Children Fund" and the sum realized more than doubled expectations. Mrs. Harold Burley was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Jack Comstock, Mrs. W. Flowers and Mrs. Robert Gibbons. Handicraft from the boys' department was on display and money from their sale will also go to the fund.

Novelties at the bazaar were most attractive and sales were being handled by Mrs. C. Ruth and Mrs. Fred Dobson. A "white elephant" table was also doing good business with Mrs. R. J. Burnside, Mrs. N. E. Elliott and Mrs. Allan Wilson in charge.

Several tables were required to display the delicious home-baked dainties, that guests were hurrying to secure. Icing on some cakes and cookies had been tinted green in honor of the Irish patron saint and the booth was made more attractive with St. Patrick's decorations. Salesladies were Mrs. H. B. McGinness, Mrs. G. Putnam, Mrs. J. E. Wilson, Mrs. C. J. Metcalfe and Mrs Roy Everett.

Presiding at a most charming tea table in the kindergarten room were Mrs. A. Nelson, Mrs. C. Pilon, Mrs. O. M. Steer and Mrs. T. Weir. Green and white carnations were used for the centrepiece on a white damask cloth, and green holders held tall white tapers. Serving were Mrs. G. B. Bailey, Mrs. H. B. Cowan, Miss M. Beals, Mrs. R. Hood, Mrs. H. B. Meyers, Mrs. I. Moldaver, Miss M. Munro, Mrs. E. G. Pridham, Mrs. G. Rishor, Mrs. J. Sinclair and Mrs. J Hardill. Mrs. R. O. Sindish decorate the table. Tea room conveners were Mrs. H. C. Huffman and Mrs. W. G Gordon, assisted by Mrs. T. Lister and Mrs. R. Cole.

Mrs. C. G. Collins, president of the Home and School Association, received with Mrs. George Reader, vice-president. Mrs. C. H. Spearin was the treasurer. General convener of arrangements was Mrs. Russell Morgan.

Golden shamrocks garnished with sprig of Ireland's emblem designated the ladies of the organization. A welcoming poster at the door was done on green cardboard, and in the hall a large Irish Colleen's picture smiled warm greetings. Effective skirting for the tables were made of paddy green crepe paper.

Dutch Brides To Be Honored

Mayor W. G. Ovens said today he hoped to arrange a small reception during the visit of the Netherlands Ambassador Dr. J. A. van Roijen on April 5.

The reception would be a gesture of goodwill and hospitality to a representative of a country that did so much for the Canadian soldiers during the last war. Dr. van Roijen will reach Port Hope Sunday evening, April 4, and will be met by the mayor, and will be guest of Mayor Ovens and Mrs. Ovens while in the city. He will address the Rotary club noonday luncheon on Monday, April 5.

All Dutch war brides, and others of Dutch descent who would like to attend the reception, time of which has not been set, are asked to leave their names and addresses with city clerk E. A. Outram at the city hall.

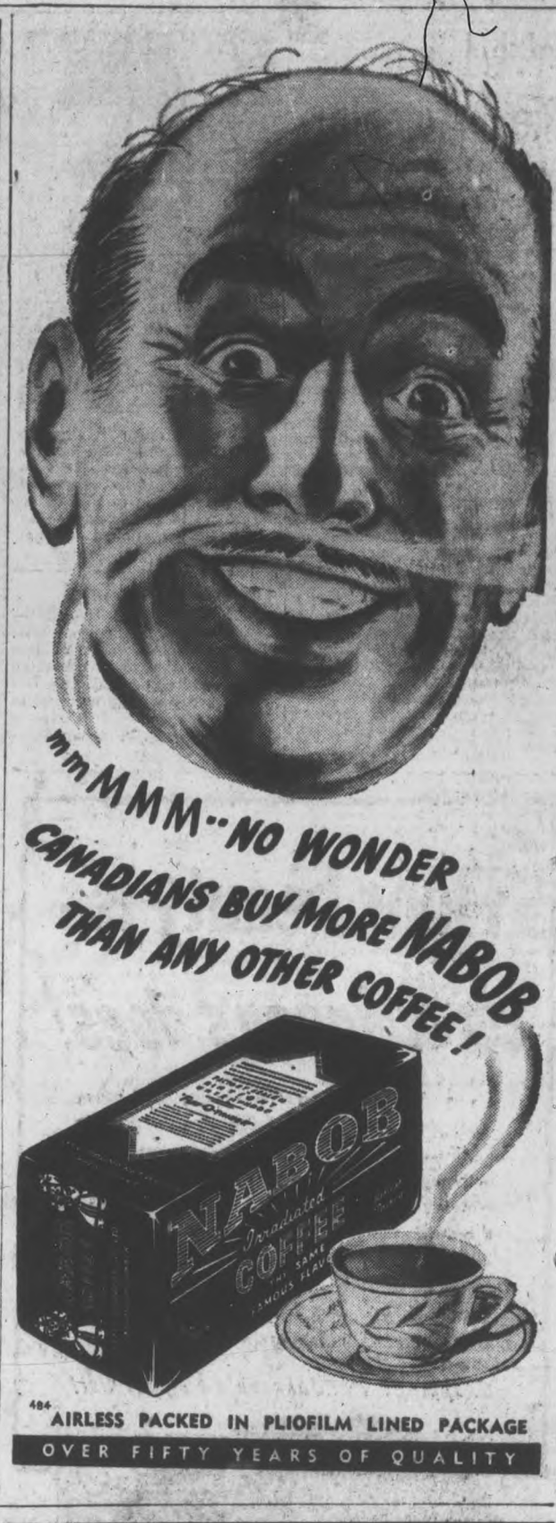
THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE



For Friday, March 19.

With a canny determination to drag into the open and deal summarily with recent and still pending dangers and devastation of best-laid plans, hopes and desires in all relations and objectives, it is possible that shrewd analysis, deep insight and the use of finesse, diplomacy and sagacious techniques may bring about a revolutionary recovery. In this the personal elements, of charm, social or romantic approach, judiciously utilized, could have sensational effect in recovering lost ground.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have promise of a clever recovery and reconversion from recent disintegrations, calamities or radical spading up from established fastnesses, by prudent use of elements and influences built upon personality, popularity, prestige, and social or cultural factors, even amplified by charm, beauty or romantic approach, in which personal magnetism has its proper place. Tact and delicacy in this might "move mountains."

A child born on this day has particular equipment for circumventing evil and fortifying good by its peculiar tact, prestige and personal charm, prudently "turned on."

Of Interest to Women

Man Tired of Domination From Wife and Her Mother

An unhappy man, who has stood being patronized and snubbed and bossed by his wife and his mother-in-law as long as he can take it, tells me his tale of woe. He says that he married a pretty and attractive young girl who evidently thought well enough of him to want him for a husband, and that as he was very much in love with her he agreed to her demand that they go to live with her mother.

Dorothy Dix

However, no sooner had they been married than both his wife and her mother began showing him that they considered that he was their social inferior and Angelina had been guilty of great condescension in marrying him. They never wearied of roosting in the family tree, and the only time they ever came down to his level was on the first of the month when the bills came in, which they graciously let him pay.

"Now," says this man, "it is quite true that my family has never owned a dilapidated ancestral home that has been in the family for three generations. They have always had modern houses with the newest gadgets in them. Nor have they been society leaders. They have always been plain, unpretentious, hard - working people who stood on their own feet and asked no odds of anybody. But my wife looks down her nose at them and gives them such a cold welcome that they have since quit coming to see her. And I wouldn't dare to invite any of my own friends to a meal. Worst of all, they are rearing our only child to be a snob.

Tired of Domination

"Now I have been unusually successful in business. I can give my wife a beautiful home and all that goes with it, but she absolutely refuses to leave her ancestral chicken-coop and her mother. And I am so tired of being homeless and looked down on and apologized for that I am ready to throw up my hands and quit."

This is a sad story. No man is more to be pitied than the one who has the misfortune to be married to a woman who considers herself her husband's superior and who is always reminding him of what a sacrifice she made when she married him. Yet there are more than enough of these she-who-must-be-obeyed wives whose husbands say "yes ma'am" to them, and who have been so browbeaten and cowed that they haven't even enough courage left to get a divorce.

We all know the woman who elects herself head of the house and who makes her husband nothing but a stooge in it. She decides every question that comes up, where they shall live, what kind of house they shall have, what church they shall belong to, with whom they shall go. She buys her husband's clothes and he drinks weak coffee, or strong, according to her dictates. She always says MY house, MY children, and tells how SHE has made such a success of her husband.

And there is the wife who is always correcting her husband in public. She corrects his grammar, his statistics, his table manners, his taste in neckties. She tells his best story over again with embellishments. And sighs and says: "Poor John never had the advantage of a college education as I did."

And most tragic of all is the fate of the man who has a silly, bird-brained wife, with an overly developed mother complex, and who sees her ruining his children, but is powerless to save them. For a mother's spoiling can always frustrate a father's effort at disciplining his children.

The moral of all of which is that when a man picks out his wife she should be neither his superior nor his inferior, but his equal.

The Terrific Impact of the Collision threw brakeman Alex Tipler to the floor of the caboose in which he was riding. There was the horrible scream of steel against steel as the two freight trains ploughed into each other. Dazed, and with sharp pain shooting up his back Alex Tipler picked himself up from the floor of the caboose and made his way along the icy stretch beside the train to the wrecked locomotives. Extricating a fellow brakeman from the debris, he carried him back the full length of the train to the caboose. Then once again he returned to the steaming, tangled wreck of the engines and, in spite of his badly bruised back, helped to get the young fireman out of the wreckage and back to the caboose. His back giving him great pain, he nevertheless stumbled for two miles through deep snow and extreme cold to a small village where he put through a message to railroad headquarters about the accident. As a tribute to his great courage ...the DOW AWARD, including a $100 Canada Savings Bond, is being presented to Alex Tipler of North Bay, Ontario. The Dow Award, presented from time to time to a Canadian hero for outstanding bravery, is sponsored by DOW BREWERY in Montreal.

Council Seeks More Revenue

Peterborough, St. Thomas and Galt are the only cities in the province which do not collect a fee for the issuing of building permits.

When the budget was being discussed a month ago, it was suggested that the council might pick up a little revenue from this source, following the example of nearly all the other cities in Ontario. The contingency fund in the appropriations was then a mere seven or eight thousand dollars, but in the final adjustment of the tax rate and the computing of the amount payable into the treasury, City Treasurer A. S. Couper found that he could spare a few more thousand for "unforeseen expenditures," and in the final financial allotments that item is credited with $14,000.

In the meantime the council's idea of gathering in some extra change, after the manner of other municipalities, is on the move. City Engineer Chalmers was asked for a report. Its information to the council Monday night included the three exceptions to the practice of charging for building permits. As for rates which might be considered for Peterborough he proposed that for jobs amounting to $50 or less there should be no charge; then from $50 to $500 the fee might be $1; over $500 to $1,000 a few of $2; in the bracket $1,000 to $10,000 there could be $2 for the first 1,000 and 75c for every additional $1,000 up to the $10,000 mark. The scale moves upward into larger values. At $50,000 the proposed charge is $28.75 for that amount and 30c for every additional $1,000.

Norwood Raises $488 For Children Appeal In Whirlwind Campaign By High School

NORWOOD, March 18—(ENS)—A group of 'teen-agers here decided to make something go over in a big way and they succeeded.

Norwood high school, with an attendance of 120 students, seem to be in position to challenge any other school to beat their record with a higher average per student. All the excitement started when the principal suggested form competition in the Canadian Appeal for Children campaign. Enthusiasm soared as the days passed, resorting to many money-raising stunts.

Then someone suggested canvassing the village, as no organized canvass was being conducted. The students literally took the town by storm. Heated arguments took place in the halls and class rooms.

The campaign closed with a wild auction sale of everything that had been hanging around the school for years. Everything from white shorts to a radio was sold by Principal S. S. Breckon, auctioneer. This boosted the school's total to $321.98.

Grade X topped the form competition with $106.50. Members of Grade XIII, with an average of $7.50 per pupil, were tops on per capita raised.

Donations made by villagers through the bank there totalled $166.50, which adds to the school collection to make $488.48.

Propane Tanks Being Placed

Placement of the two propane storage tanks at the gas plant, foot of Simcoe Street, may be completed by the end of this week, Ross Dobbin, manager, told the Utilities Commission Tuesday. First delivery of the new gas, arriving in liquid form, is expected April 1.

The compressor which is used to unload the propane gas from tank cars to the storage tanks has also been delivered with the 7½ h.p. motor to drive it.

"We cannot state when the new process will be in operation, but would estimate it about April 15. It will depend on delivery of various piping, valves and other special apparatus."

Call Tenders For Bell Bldg.

Tenders have been called for an extension to the Bell Telephone building on Hunter Street, according to F. D. Tufford, Bell Telephone manager here. The extension will house additional dial telephone equipment to allow for expension during comimg years. The dial switching equipment added to the exchange recently, which will be ready for service in April, completely fills the available space in the present building, and it is necessary to enlarge the structure itself before any further additions to equipment can be made, the manager explained.

The extension will consist of two storeys and a basement. The ground floor extension, measuring 41 by 62 feet at the rear of the present building, will house dial equipment. An enlarged operating room for long distance and information operators will be situated on the second floor, which is being extended along the full length of the east side of the building. The second storey will also contain a lounge, dining facilities, and office space for the company's commercial and plant departments.

Construction work on the extension is scheduled for completion during the autumn, and the installation of dial facilities to serve an additional 1,500 subscribers is expected to be completed in the Spring of 1949.

CHINA BLAST VICTIM — A U.S. navy hospital corpsman carries a tiny Chinese victim from blasted buildings in Tsingtao, China, after an ammunition dump exploded. At least 200 Chinese were killed and 800 injured in the blast.

WHERE 200 DIED IN AMMUNITION BLAST—U.S. navy fire-fighting and rescue squads survey damage caused by the explosion of an ammunition dump at Tsingtao, China. The flames were brought under control within an hour. At least 200 Chinese perished and 800 were injured in the blast. Most of the rescue workers came from U.S. navy ships anchored in the harbor. Official U.S. navy photo.

INCREASED EFFICIENCY

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DISCARD WHERE IT AIDS

THERE are two principal ways in which a declarer can profitably employ an opportunity to discard something from his own hand on a winning card in the dummy. The most desirable, of course, is to get rid of a card which otherwise would be a loser. Next, and sometimes just as important, is the tossing off of a card which is a possible though not certain loser. To carelessly throw away a card which could not be a loser under any probable circumstances—that constitutes the waste of an opportunity.

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	2♦	Dbl
Pass	Pass	3♣	Pass
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♥

West led his spade J, which drew the Q, K and A. After taking trumps out in three rounds, South took the finesse of the diamond Q, which he considered pretty well marked by the bidding, and then laid down the diamond A. Looking for something small to put on it, he selected the spade 4. Then he led to the club K, which lost to the A, whereupon the spade 10 and club Q held the declarer to exactly game.

There was not too much at stake, only an extra trick. But it was so easy to get. South had no valid excuse for discarding the spade 4 on the diamond A. That card could not ever lose a trick anyway, since only the 10 could score in spades for the defense. South should have tossed the club J on the diamond top—or the K if he wanted to seem fancy. In either event, he would have made sure he would lose nothing except on a trick in each black suit.

"But the king of clubs might have won a trick for me, if East had the ace," wailed South during the post mortem. Just how that could have helped him, however, he was unable to explain after the futility of seeking a club winner was clarified to him.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

After West takes three hearts and leads the club K, what should South do, seeking 3-No Trumps?

6—In Memoriam

DELAHEY, Mrs. Fred—In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away one year ago today March 17, 1947.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do;
No thought of self, but of the other
I know He said, Well done, dear mother.
—Sadly missed by Helen and Wally.

JACOBS—In loving memory of our beloved granddaughter, Margaret Jacobs, who passed away March 18, 1947.
She has gone across the river
To the shores of evergreen
And we long to see her dear face
But the river flows between.
Some day, some time our eyes shall see
The face we loved so well,
Someday we'll clasp her loving hand,
And never say farewell.
—Ever remembered by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCue, Curve Lake, Ont.

Vancouver Man To Treat Cancer

SYDNEY, Australia, March 18—(CP).—Harold A. Evans, 39-year-old decorating contractor of Vancouver, today began studying under John Braund the 78-year-old Australian layman's methods of treating cancer.

Evans, himself a cancer sufferer, arrived by air from Canada March 4 to undergo treatment by Braund after Canadian doctors pronounced his case incurable. Braund claims to have discovered a cure for the disease. His methods are currently under study by a New South Wales government commission.

Evans said in an interview at Braund's home today that he would return to Canada within three months to treat cancer sufferers in the Dominion and teach others how to cure the disease.

Weed Seed Danger

An arresting statement by Mr. MacRae was his quotation of an estimate by Dr. G. P. McRostie, head of the department of field husbandry, Ontario Agricultural College, thta in one year 6,000 cars of weed seeds had found their way into Ontario from western Canada. "That would mean 100 trains of 60 cars each. We shouldn't be expected to take it and spread it on our land."

Presumably Mr. McRae meant that this enormous quantity of weed seeds was included in the deliveries of feed grain. Although it was bought and used for feeding live stock, farmers were aware that one of the methods of spreading weed seeds was in green manure.

In his recommendations for combatting weeds, Mr. McRae said: "Our weed inspectors can do a great deal, but it is essential that we have the co-operation of our farmers and threshermen. One of the most effective methods is the more general practice of crop rotation. I believe that in the eleven counties of eastern Ontario in which I work, fewer than 30 p.c. of the farmers are working consistently on a rotational plan. And that is one place where we have room for a great deal of improvement."

"We must remember that we've got to keep fighting weeds all the time."

"Threshermen should keep in mind that the job you do may be the final job in seed cleaning on many farms," Mr. MacRea said. "One-third of the grain sown in the eastern counties is not fanned out at all. We can do a lot better job in seed cleaning in this province. We should have more and better cleaning plants, and farmers should know and realize the importance of sowing clean seed, and also good plump seed.

Harm Done

When we come to the harm that weeds do, we should remember that there are 600,000 acres of land in Ontario that have been given up. The great part ot that area is out of agricultural use because of weed pollution. A large part of that acreage, Mr. MacRae said, was at one tme in profitable production.

"In the last 35 years the yield of grain in Ontario has dropped about 50 p.c., and the chief cause has been from weeds."

As to the use of chemicals in weed extermination, Mr. MacRae advised farmers to exercise caution for the present untill more general knowledge of effects was available from experience.

Mr. W. W. Dawson, a past president of the Eastern Ontario Threshermen, congratulated the members on the large increase in their attendance. "The days of subsidies are over, and as farmers we have got to produce our grain as economically as we can." Mr. Dawson said the Peterborough Crop Improvement Association was adopting hybrid corn as a project this year. "From my own experience last year I know that grain corn has a high nutritional value as compared with other grains. We believe there is a place for hybrid corn in this area particularly with varieties that will mature in 90 days."

Vern Campbell thanked the Brotherhood for re-electing him to the presidency. "One reason why I am glad to accept it is because we have plans for a Grassland Day, and I don't like starting something I don't finish. I did not think it would be fair to leave that project for another president."

Predict Early Lak Opening

By The Canadian Press

Ship owners and sailors at Canada's inland ports are preparing for what may be the earliest start in history of Great Lakes navigation.

How soon the big ore-carriers and long grain-hauling freighters ply the run from Fort William and Port Arthur to the Lower Lakes ports depends on the weather. The ice still is thick and solid in the Upper Lakes.

The ore-carrier Fred G. Hartwell led a parade of freighters out of Buffalo harbor yesterday shortly after the United States Coast Gard icebreaker Mackinaw escorted the vessels through the Lake Erie ice. The freighters went to ice-free ports to await opening of the Straits of Mackinac.

Two tugs yesterday opened the harbor at Port Stanley on the northern shore of Lake Erie. Commercial fishermen there said harbor icefields and offshore floes probably would delay the start of fishing operations for several days.

CLEARING HOUSE FIGURES

Clearing house figures for the week totalled $1,711,471. This is less than the previous week. A slight decline in seasonal business in the winter to spring transition period is believed partially responsible.

NEW BANK MANAGER

Mr. N. Bingeman, accountant of the London East Branch, of the Royal Bank of Canada, London, Ont., has been transferred to the city to manage the new branch of the Royal Bank of Canada located in Peterborough South.

ARMOURIES ACTIVITIES

Mobile demonstration of 50th Regiment HAA, Prince of Wales Rangers, will take place on Sunday with a trial run to Lakefield. The excercise planned for March 7 had to be cancelled due to icy road conditions.

METERS YIELD $20,890

February receipts from parking meters were $1,504.24. Total since last May 12 to the end of last month was $20,890.85. During the month 159 motorists paid for parking tickets at the rate of one dollar each.

SIX MORE RECRUITS

Recruiting is holding up well and there have been six new recruits accepted into the 50th HAA Regiment at the last parade which brings the total for March up to 17. There will be special courses held in the Armouries lecture rooms for NCO's on Saturday.

BAD IMPRESSION

Fried eggs can be delightful. But, their attraction fades when particles are left clinging to an allegedly "cleaned" knife. This gruesome prospect greeted a visitor to the city Wednesday night. For those who comment indignantly, "there oughta be a law," the answer is: there is a law.

BUSINESS DROPS SLIGHTLY

Several merchants dealing in seasonable goods say that sales have recently dropped slightly. This they attribute to the change-over period between the end of winter buying and the beginning of spring purchases. It was emphasized that the decline is usual at this time of year.

NARROWLY MISS DEER

Gordon Broughton, theatre owner of Bancroft and former Provincial Constable, was driving into Peterborough this morning when two deer whisked across the highway in front of his car. His two children thought it was great fun, and the younger one urged the driver to capture the fawn as a pet. He decided it was much easier to drive on.

SPRING BIRDS ARRIVE

A few crows were seen flying around St. John's Anglican Church this morning probably looking over the seed situation in advance or hoping for free handouts at the Quinte Seed Fair. Several robins were also heard in the north end of the city early this morning and one was seen by Maxine and Ruth Sine at the corner of Aylmer and Aberdeen Sts., late Wednesday afternoon.

TWO LIVELY BATTLES

Canadian Appeal for Children fund will get a boost Friday night at Lakefield when four hockey teams clash. Lakefield Bantams, Northern and Eastern Ontario champs take on the undefeated 14-year-olds from The Grove. This game starts at 7. In the second battle the Lakefield Juveniles who were nosed out by Bobcaygeon will meet the Grove First team, beaten in only one game so far this season.

A DAY WITH MAYOR OVENS

Mayor Ovens arrived back in Peterborough from the session with the private bills committee of the Legislature Wednesday, going directly to Morrow Park where he made the door prize draw shortly after 4 p.m., and then in the evening welcomed to the city the visiting members of the Eastern Ontario Threshermen's Brotherhood at their dinner in Canadian Legion hall. Progress Noted Inspector Says

Much overall improvement has been brought about in the past two months in the eating establishments of Peterborough, reports the Sanitary Inspector, R. MacPherson to the Board of Health.

He attributed many of the changes to tangible results of the two-day course for food handlers held recently, at which 125 qualified for certificates of full attendance.

"This is an excellent showing for a city of this size," states Mr. MacPherson's report, "and indicates that food handlers are interested in learning their job and that management is co-operating with our efforts to improve catering services."

The report lists establishments having representatives at both days of the course. There were two hotels, 13 restaurants, 13 refreshment booths and four industrial cafeterias.

No Need To Worry Assessor Says

"I don't think the Monaghan people who are coming into the city need do much worrying about their assessments for awhile," said Assessment Commissioner Bert C. Graham this morning in a comment on the approval given by the private bills committee of the Legislature to the latest annexation.

Mr. Graham is not given to frequent expression of opinion on things municipal. His attention was called to the statements before the committee Wednesday in Toronto that the city was concerned only about incorporating more land to contribute to the treasury.

"Naturally we'll have to take into consideration that this new area is now on the city boundary, but inside it," Mr. Graham said. "This year, for example, the city council accepted the North Monaghan assessments because there would not be sufficient time to get the assessing done by our department after the annexation is authorized."

Mr. Graham declined to commit himself beyond the general attitude that the suburban circumstances would be taken into consideration.

Arena Campaign All Set To Go; Plan Big Show

At a pre-campaign meeting Wednesday night members of the Publicity Committee completed arrangements to swing the Civic Arena Campaign into action.

One highlight of the meeting was a report from Hank Winslow, directing the entertainment program, when it was learned that the projects to be conducted in the first week were arranged by the committee. Top feature of the week, said Winslow, is a variety show at the PCVS Auditorium. All the talent has been volunteered by artists in the city, and the show is scheduled to run about two hours.

Erection of the campaign banner will be made today, and work will begin to raise a thermometer on George St.

Early reports from campaign committees indicate that there is a good response to the campaign from businessmen.

Economy Drive Angers MOH

Dr. R. A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health, took sharpe issue with the City Council's economy drive at a meeting of the Board of Health Wednesday afternoon. His remarks followed the reading of a letter from the city clerk which advised the Board that Council had (1) cut the Board's estimates for the year by $1,500 and (2) instructed that all civic spending bodies were expected to stay within their budgets for the year.

The MOH objected on both counts.

In regard to the cut, the doctor pointed out that, over recent years, the Board had saved more than $1,000 in their estimates.

He was highly critical of the Council's action in evidently expecting the "Board to stay within estimates set by the Council, not by this Board. We have already pared down estimates to the barest possible figure which will provide the necessary health protection for the city."

In regard to the letter, which states that all chairmen will be held "strictly responsible" for spending over the estimates, Dr. Kelly added: "It appears that we are now receiving threats. I wonder if their Gestapo will be following up on their instructions."

Ease Trade Restrictions US Visitor Tells Farmers

Francis Flood, agricultural attache of the United States Embassy at Ottawa, told more than 300 farmers Wednesday night that trade restrictions on the US-Canadian border should be eased as soon as world conditions permitted. He stressed the important part which farmers played in the commercial relationship between the two countries — "more than any other single group."

Occasion of the address was the banquet of the annual meeting of the Threshermen's Association of Eastern Ontario held in the Legion Hall here.

The international boundary between the United States and Canada, Mr. Flood said, was gradually growing dimmer, insofar as concerns trade and commerce, and he looked forward to the day when it would be as thin in that regard as the Mason-Dixon line.

In regard to present trade restrictions, such as the embargo on Canadian cattle to the United States, he defended their necessity at the present time. These measures, he said, had been instituted during the war emergency, and, in regard to the supplying of foodstuffs to Europe, that emergency was still in existence. The moves, he said, are designed to make for the more efficient production and distribution of food to overseas points.

The Geneva Conference last summer, he said, had further eased some of the trade restraints, and as conditions improved, he stated his belief that the barriers would all be removed.

May Boomerang

History has shown, he pointed out, that trade restrictions tended to boomerang to the detriment of all countries concerned. As an illustration, he mentioned the 1934 restriction which the US had placed on Norwegian whale oil, to meet demands that the home producers receive first choice at the home market. As a result of this, he said, the Norway oil was sold to Germany, and the trade which the American machinery machinery manufacturers had with Norway was transferred to Germany. The all-around effects soon forced a change in policy.

"Farmers of both countries can do more than any other group to make trade freer. They should work towards that end, so that each of us can share the benefits of the resources of the other," the speaker said.

That 49th parallel, he said, not only held Canada and the United States apart, but it also holds them together.

"By working together, the farm populations of the United States and Canada will continue to promote international friendliness," he concluded.

Vernon Campbell, newly re-elected president of the Eastern Ontario Threshermen's Association, was chairman of the meeting.

Seated at the head table of the crowded banquet hall, were: M. H. Johnston, chairman of the agriculture committee of the County Council; G. A. Gillespie, secretary of the Peterborough Exhibition Board; John Rickard, president, Quinte District Seed Growers' Association; Mayor William Ovens; Warden James Humphries; Vernon Campbell; the speaker; W. A. Davidson of the Peterborough Co-op; Harvey Lyons, Oakville, president of the Western Ontario Threshermen's Association; Stewart Bowman, Seed Fair manager; Dr. G. P. McRosti, head of the field husbandry department of OAC; Alex Huston.

The speaker was introduced by W. A. Davidson, and thanks were expressed by Frank Graystock.

The banquet which preceded the addresses of the evening was a highlight in itself, as the ladies of Stewart Hall again outdid themselves in feeding the 300-odd who crammed the hall for the occasion.

Can't Enforce Holiday

THE PAS, Man. (CP) —The mayor and council has no authority to enforce any holiday, other than statutory holidays, town solicitor, J. A. Campbell said here. The legal ruling followed refusal of one business man to close his establishment during a public holiday proclaimed for the Trappers' Festival here.

Bacon Exhibits Take Over Fair Spotlight

The bacon show of Farmers' Week at the Exhibition Park moved into place on schedule this morning, and became at once probably the major attraction.

It is an objective educational display of export bacon, known as Wiltshire sides, and other pork products, that have been selected and arranged with an eye to creating general interest.

For example, one of the smaller details of a long table of assorted items that are common enough in the trade but are usually only names to the public is a plate of two contrasting pieces of pork described as the British two-ounce ration for one week. One cut is heavy with fat, the other is ideally lean, providing at a glance a quick understanding of the British consumer's preference for lean sides and bacon, because the protein is in the lean meat.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture and Canada Packers Limited worked together in planning and assembling this bacon show, and it is well worth seeing. Essentially there was an inter-county bacon competition. Seven counties are represented, and twenty-one Wiltshire sides were selected for that part of the display.

Another section of the show is a long row of split carcasses which were chosen to illustrate as they appear in rail-grading why certain hogs do not grade "A" when they are processed.

Flaws and faults are clearly indicated on cards, and Canada Packers have a staff of men who have the assignment of answering all the questions the public asks today, this evening and Friday. They were assisted this afternoon by three Junior Farmers, immaculate in white uniforms. They were: John Huffman, vice-president of Hastings county Junior Farmers' Club; Don Milburn, president of Peterborough's Juniors, and Ralph Malcolm of Durham county.

Grader On Hand

The awards in the competitive part of the bacon show were placed this morning by Mr. Elgin Senn, Toronto, supervising grader in Ontario for the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and Mr. Wm. S. McMullen, Toronto, district livestock fieldman of the production service of the Federal Department.

Producers of Ontario county were placed first by the judges, winning from Peterborough by one blue ribbon, the reserve champion Wiltshire side. Peterborough hog breeders were in second place and Hastings county third.

The championship went to P. W. Chepeswick of Prince Edward county whose first prize entry was grouped with a second and third, putting Prince Edward in sixth place.

The entries were rated first, second or third. Ontario county and Peterborough were tied at the top with two firsts and a second, but the blue badge award to G. Windott of Gamebridge, gave the Ontario county top honor.

The awards were: Ontario county, G. Windott, Gambridge, 1; Roy Scott, Seagrave, 1; B. Tocher, Sunderland, 2.

Peterborough—Delbert Coward, Otonabee, 1; Vincent Hickey, Lakefield, 1; Victor Edward, Lang, 2.

Hastings— Three two's: James Quinlan, Madoc; 2, Mrs. Gladys Campbell, Stirling; 3, Harry Coulter, Tweed.

Victoria—Harry Jackson, Omemee, 1; Steve Winn, Omemee, 2; G. Morden, Omemee, 3.

Northumberland—Gerald Mitchell, Campbellford, 2; W. J. Ray Pollock, Campbellford, 2; M. Meiklejohn, Harold, 3.

Prince Edward—P. W. Chepeswick, Picton, 1; Whytock Fox, Bloomfield, 3; Fred Kotchapaw 2.

Durham—J. E. Wilson, Garden Hill, 2; Walter Longyear, Garden Hill, 3; Stephen McMann, Port Hope, 3.

PULLS FIRE ALARM

Everybody, young, old, enjoys seeing the fire reels roar down the street with siren sounding and the firemen hanging on precariously as they button up their clothing. Evidently this temptation was too great for one young eight-year-old lad on Thursday morning. He climbed up on the running board of a car at Park and Townsend streets and pulled the alarm box. He got his excitement all right for three trucks answered the call. Excitement turned to fright however when he found that the firemen took a less light-hearted view of the situation. After a stern warning he vowed never to try it again.—D.W.

Mayor Claims Council Is Reasonable

Vindication of the council's position in relation to the City Trust Commission was seen by Mayor Ovens today as an aspect of the approval given the city's private bill by the committee of the Legislature yesterday.

"The sentiment of the city council since I have been a member is a desire to get along agreeably with other councils and commissions, and to keep harmony," His Worship said. "That has been the council's wish with the City Trust. The council has been pointing out to the public that we did not get co-operation from the City Trust in the matter of the giving of new leases for properties on George St. owned by the city in the market block. That same disposition from within the City Trust followed us right to the Legislature.

"I think the citizens will be fully convinced that the council was reasonable and right all the way through this matter. The final proof was the fact that a majority of the members of the Trust virtually came over to our view before the private bills committee of the Legislature. I think they are to be commended for their independence of thought and action. That is the way democracy should work.

"The point that I feel like mentioning is that the council was not unreasonable in this dispute about selling properties owned by the people. After all the authority had come from the ratepayers themselves with their ballots, and the council was simply taking steps to carry out the people's wishes."

U.S. Meat Prices Up As Supplies Dwindle

CHICAGO, March 18—(AP).—Meat supplies dwindled and price boosts in the retail markets appeared in prospect today as President Truman's new board of inquiry pushed its investigation of the United States-wide meat strike over wages.

The government's fact-finding board, after a preliminary meeting yesterday, called a joint session of major packer and CIO union representatives today.

Nathan P. Feinsinger, one of the three college professors named to the board and appointed chairman, said they will attempt to expedite the report on the dispute. The report on the strike by 100,000 meat packing workers is due April 1.

Police Officer Rescues One Late Fawn

An unusual activity among the big bucks in the Apsley area has been reported from several sources, all indicating that the bucks have been killing the late fawns.

OPP Bert Howden is now nursing a small fawn at his home in Apsley. He found is lying beside the highway with injured legs and hindquarters, seeming to indicate that it has been severely kicked.

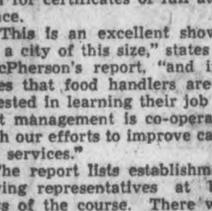
Even more definite information is provided by Archie Wilson, who lives a couple of miles south of Apsley. He has been feeding a number of deer on cedar trees during the winter. Two small fawns have been found dead by him with the same signs of a beating.

Recently he witnessed one of these woodland murders. A heavy buck was killing a small fawn, rearing on its hind legs and plunging viciously at it. By the time Mr. Wilson could reach it, the fawn was dead.

Veteran woodsmen report this is not too unusual as the bucks are noted for their mean dispositions, and even in captivity gamekeepers are careful not to let the old boys get at the fawns. During the early winter and spring months when the bucks lose their horns and the new ones start to come in, the males are rough characters with saw-edge tempers.

5 Crash Victims Getting Treatment

All five men who were injured in the fatality at the CNR crossing near Omemee on the morning of March 6 are still confined to bed, two still in hospital. All are reported to be considered out of danger, although the condition of William Howes, 373 Queen St., is still described as "serious."



Ed Curtin, 284 McGill St., is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital. He has a broken leg and is also injured in the other leg.

J. Ryan, 501 Donegal St., is at his home now and is stated to be in considerable pain from ankle injuries and broken ribs.

Receiving treatment for face injuries at the Civic Hospital is Thomas Martin, Albert St., whose general condition is good.

Jack Taylor, Port Hope Highway, is at his home and now walking with the aid of a cane. It is expected he will be able to return to his work sometime within the next two keeks.

44 Yards of Fabric Used In "New Look" Skirts

LONDON — The French textile industry and Paris dress designers have this spring made a new approach to methods of increasing the sale of yardage to dollar countries.

The New Look was launched last year to sell dresses employing up to 33, even 44 yards of fabric made into swirling, swinging skirts, the width pointed up by tightly-corsetted bodies.

Fashion may develop a theme, but cannot repeat itself. So the New Look spring fashions of 1948, as launched at the Paris dress collections (which will continue to be shown until the end of the month), have turned the swirling skirts into skirts that flute.

In place of the 33-yard hemlines of last year, a width which women found hard to handle as they mounted stairs and impossible to manoeuvre in entering a car no more than 11 yards are now used. But these 11, of the finest textured materials, are mounted over a stiffening of light tailoring canvas.

Backing the stiffening is an equivalent 10 metres of faille or taffeta lining. Beneath goes at least an equivalent amount of fabric in the shape of a rustling, flounced petticoat. In all, the amount of material used is no less than in the swirling skirt.

The French textile industry has been given the task of speedily and greatly increasing its exports. The New Look has been the industry's answer, one that has so far proved successful.

To launch this massively increased use of fabrics, the textile trade has put its whole weight behind the publishing of the Paris dress collections. Many of the leading dress designers are being financed and run by textile interests.

In a world of make do and mend, the Paris dress salons have been reinstalled and redecorated in a style more gorgeous than was known even in the golden days of Poiret and Vionnet. It is part of a bid to focus all eyes on Paris and through Paris on the French textile trade. Even hitherto lesser-known dress designers are moving from side streets to the great avenues.

The corset trade, also anxious to increase its exports, plays its part. Corset princes are themselves taking a hand in financing those dress designing houses which sponsor the wasp waistline.

Behind all this financial urgency lies the unknown factor of the dress designer, an artist who can be influenced in a direction which he considers to be in the line of the day, but who cannot dictated to.

Each of the great dress houses of Paris has at its head a man who is himself either a designer or, as it were, the conductor of a small orchestra of designers.

Where the house works as a team, the eyes of financiers rest eagerly on the members of the team, waiting for the moment when one will wish to step out into a world of comparative independence.

Christian Dior, who holds the highest position in Paris today as the man who invented the 33 to 44 yard wide skirt, was for some time one of the team working under Lucien Lelong, doyen of all Paris dressmaking.

Not all deesigners have sponsored the vastly full skirts. The main alternative line of the season has been the tubular skirt some eight or nine inches from the ground and so slim that at Paquin's the model girls could just step down from the displaying platform but could barely remount the steps.

Belt at Least 7 Inches Wide

Novelty belts are an important feature in any "new look" wardrobe. The wide, twice-around-the-waist, Balenciaga style belt reminds one of the leather girths worn by the huntsmen of the Middle Ages. Belt Modes are seven inches in their widest section and are fashioned of softest suedes. For those whose skirts lack the fashionable amount of "hip emphasis", there is a navy blue capeskin belt with wide padded peplums on either side. Particularly good for livening up white is the westkit style belt in black or green checked taffeta.

BLENDING GUARDS QUALITY

Some tea firms use as many as 30 different teas to blend their product. This enables them to maintain a consistent quality of tea regardless of fluctuations in quality or quantity of any one type.

Hairstylist Gives Hints For New Spring Coiffures

Bernord Guro, pace - setting New York hairstylish, played host at the Colony Restaurant last week to a gathering of society, Hollywood, Broadway, radio and literary personalities, when he unveiled a glamorous assortment of the smartest, up-to-the-minute spring hair-dos at the hair and hat show, aptly titled, "Headed For Spring." Guro pointed out several simple, but important factors that Miss or Mrs. Average Woman should bear in mind when deciding upon her spring coiffure.

In practically every instance, the new spring hats will be tilted, thereby allowing for a much greater "exposed" coiffure than has been in vogue for many seasons in the past. Two of the outstanding Guro coiffures introduced at the show emphasized the hair drawn back from the forehead in a loose wave, page boyed at either side and then allowed to turn up in curls at the back; and the other, the hair drawn to one side with large loose waves beginning high on the head and continuing down to cover the ear. But, regardless of the particular hair-styling that you prefer for the spring, there are certain basic factors that should be considered.

Keep An Eye On Scales In Bathroom

Lovelies of the silver screen keep a weather eye on the bathroom scales. They have to. Slenderness of figure is as necessary as an attractive face. It would be a good thing if all women would assume this obligation to themselves, keep weight normal, proportions neat and correct. Underweight and overweight may have a deplorable effect upon health as well as appearance.

Weight reducing is possible without violent exercise. Only moderate exercise is advisable; even the woman of normal weight should have that so she will not gain as the birthdays pile up. One can presto-change from overcurves to slimness by cutting down on those foods that are stored away in the form of adipose tissue. Why pet and feed fat cells?

There are good things on the table that one can eat without fear that the tape measure will give a discouraging report. Toasted rye should be substituted for white bread. Tea and coffee should be taken clear; cream and sugar are fattening. One can partake generously of lean meats, fish, poultry, vegetables, fruits, cottage cheese, skimmed milk. Green salads are recommended; they satisfy the appetite, provide bulk, don't put on an ounce in 100 years.

No cat naps during the day. At night sleep should be limited to eight hours. Before taking the morning bath, do ten minutes of setting-up exercises. You may thank you'll hate that routine, but you'll soon find out that it will put ginger in your heels, sparkle in your eyes.

SOMETHING FOR JUNIOR — This pin-checked reefer (Left) is really smart on a young miss while on the (Right) are mix-match pyjamas. This tommie coat and shorts do 24-hour duty.

Petticoats Come Out of Hiding

For every blouse there's a gamut of wonderful skirts — pleated ones, gathered ones, flared ones—a few padded through the hips to gain still more fullness. For street-wear, they are 13" and 14" from the floor, for dancing they are ankle length and longer.

This season there is much ado about petticoats. They have come out of hiding to show crisp white eyelet ruffles, and swooshing striped or solid taffeta founces beneath a full sweep of skirt. In addition to making a pretty hemline, they contribute fullness from the hip down.

VERDUN TREATY

Charlemagne's empire, fought over by his grandsons, was divided up by a treaty signed at Verdun.

AN EASTER HIT: A Jane Kirby blouse of lace top, made of fine crepe, three-quarters push-up sleeves with elastic frill cuffs. The skirt is of fine corded silk with over-pleats and band at the waistline. To complete this ensemble to be seen at Towne Togs is a taffeta petticoat, touched off with sheer Phanton hosiery.

—Duke Studio Photos

FOR SPRING VACATION — Destination, you can guess, but this wool top coat is in pale biege and can be worn over everything.

Sewing Sense In Remodelling

If last year's summer coat still has life in it, but needs a better fit, it can be altered satisfactorily.

For a straight-cut coat which needs enlarging, consider adding a front panel of the tuxedo type in a contrasting of harmonizing color. Too-short sleeves may be remedied by adding cuffs.

A pleat in the centre back may be opened and sloped to form a swagger style coat with more room. About the only cure for a fitted coat is letting out the seams.

A coat that "pokes out" unbecomingly in front can be corrected by opening the underarm and shoulder seams and increasing the shoulder dart or inserting a dart if there is none. The shoulder seam can then be adjusted to fit. Fullness in the front can also be removed by inserting or increasing underarm darts.

When moving buttons to make a coat smaller, be sure that the extra lap does not bring the underarm seam out of line. Gaping at the back of the neck can be eliminated by stitching a dart or two.

Less Embroidery On Evening Dress

There is less embroidery on evening dresses and what there is stands out in chunky effects. One of the novel types of embroidery used by several houses consists of irregular scraps of pearly sea-shells which mingle with topaz and gold, or coral and silver embroidery on the bodices of dresses. Curious alliance of fabric for evening wear consists of pastel-colored suede and tulle used by Jacques Fath for the bodices and full crinoline skirts for several dresses.

Brighter Colors Prominent In Male Wardrobe This Year

Bright color is invading the male wardrobe on an ever-growing scale. Even functional sportswear, long confined to the duller end of the spectrum, is surrendering to the influence of sunny colors. A pioneer in this trend is the noted sports apparel house of Berkray, now introducing a poplin casual jacket in pastel tones. When it comes to leisure wear, men are likely to outdo women in the gaiety of their ensembles.

A trend toward more comfort is another keynote of the spring style picture, dramatically illustrated by the ingenious Daks trouser. Tailored by Britain's famous S. Simpson Ltd., Daks completely do away with the need for a belt. The secret is in the snug elastic waistband which conceals five sponge rubber pads. Result: Slacks stay up and shirt stays down, without benefit of belt or suspenders, even when you take those mighty swings at the golf ball. Clever of these British.

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP) —Mrs. Charlotte Erasums was taking an evening walk with her dog when suddenly the animal nudged her and stopped, trying to prevent her from continuing. She ignored the dog but a few steps later saw a black ringhals snake poised to strike, and fled while the dog battled and killed it.

No New Look Slacks Or In Shorts

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON — New look coats, suits and dresses may emphasize lines that are full and flowing, but today's slacks, shorts and bathing suits go to the opposite extremes.

Slacks at Jaeger's spring shows had a masculine look with a slight feminine twist. Cut neatly to figure with masculine brusqueness of line, the legs were notably narrower than they have been for some time, giving a feminin slimness to the leg. Checks, tartans and Bedford cords wer favored.

One example was a scarlet Bedford cord with narrow legs and self-colored cummerbund knotted at the waist.

Brightly cheerful were the Buchanan tartan slacks in the same style with ¾-sleeved jersey of bright yellow wool.

Sweaters had wide sleeves narrowing to the waist or three-quarter length, straight necklines and the vertical sloppy-Joe look. When they were not worn over the slacks cummerbunds were the order of the day, in self or contrasting colors.

Knee-length and calf-length trousers also were used in these and the slacks turn-ups were most popular. Bolero and box jackets were used to complete the ensemble.

Tand and Mustard

A linen slack in a tan with normal leg width, narrow waistband, very slight stomach gathering and turn-ups was combined with a mustard blouse of the same linen by Laeta Ramage.

Formal bathing suits were designed to complement the built-up brassiere. Beach robes had full skirts, occasional stand-up collars and wide sleeves.

Striping was popular in the suits—horizontal, vertical, diagonal, herringbone, jazz, or seawave. Patterning was often created by panelling the stripes in various different ways. One elastic white satin suit had a vertical gold lame stripe and front skirt.

"Rage" was the suggestive name of a slimming, dark blue suit with white bobble trimming which had a large bobble-trimmed hat, beach robe and bag to match.

Reminiscent of a deck chair was the vertical striped pink and white suit with short self-colored frill on front skirt, back leg and brassiere. "Flirtation," a sky-blue suit with horizontal cut rib, front skirt and tie belt could be worn strapless.

Stripes were occasionally created by stitching, and floral designs were used both in wool and satin.

INVERNESS CAPE — This cape on a flaring topper is worn over a whirl of skirt and is topped by a grosgrain trimmed straw roller.

Why Not Dye Own Hosiery

New dark shades of hosiery which achieve a fashionable liaison between "new look" hemlines and shoes will be on parade in the Spring.

No Strain

Want to put your legs into this show? You can with no strain on your budget, if you'll round up those pale nylons that look dated and douse them in dark dyes. Thanks to new dark-toned stocking dyes, this trick of bringing pale socks up to date need only set you back a few pennies, cost little of your time.

Another point in favor of this simple and thrifty stocking renovation is that broken-up pairs can be dyed and put back into service with matching mates.

The Procedure

The procedure? First wash stockings and rinse thoroughly. Then dissolve dye in warm water in an agate or porcelain pan set on your stove. Heat the solution to just below a simmer. Drop in wet unfolded stockings. To distribute dye evenly, move stockings around in the dye bath — which is kept just below the simmering point — for 15 minutes. Rinse stockings in cool water to float out excess dye and hang your glamorous dark-toned sheers up to dry.

Don't Let Hat Betray You

If you're plotting ways to look younger, don't allow a hat to betray you.

You're tipped off about the types of hats that may do just that by millinery designer Mary Goodfellow.

One type is the too-severe hat. This is what Miss Goodfellow calls the "outline" hat that's all angles, little trimming, no curves.

Another type to avoid is the somber black hat. If you like an all-black hat, see that its gloom is dispelled by the shine of satin, jet or lustrous feathers. Color-contrast is even better than shine on a black hat.

As aging a choice, according to our expert, is the hat that is set straight on the head, hides half your brow.

The most youthful-looking hat a woman can wear, says Miss Goodfellow, sweeps up from one side of her face. A half slant is better than a full-off-the-face sweep. The softer and more becoming its color, the more flattering this side-slanted hat will be. For the most flattery, its outlines will be gently curved, not sharp. Trimming will be massive and flowing rather than tiny and tight. The proportions of such a hat will be scaled to the size of the face and figure; small, if you're petite; largish if you're tall or Junoesque.

Discarded Duds of Stars Found To Be In Big Demand

By RALPH DIGHTON

HOLLYWOOD—(AP). — Back in 1931 a pert little Irish girl named Patsy Brogan was faced with the program of stretching her secretary salary to cover the requirements of a secretary's wardrobe.

Patsy figured and figured. Finally she came up with the idea that has made her an international institution and a unique figure in the clothing business.

It started when Patsy began wondering what became of movie star's old clothes. She investigated and found that stars either gave them away or sold them to peddlers. Patsy cornered the market by offering the stars a better deal. Patsy would sell the clothes on consignment, for as much as she could get, and charge only a commission.

Her first client was Joan Bennett. She got the account simply by contacting a friend who was Miss Bennett's secretary. Patsy sold the clothes in a hurry, and Miss Bennett received more money for them than she had ever received before. Patsy was in business.

First thing Patsy learned about her strange business was that most customers didn't look at the label or feel the material. All they wanted to know was who wore it first. Patsy could prove that such and such a dress came from a certain star because she kept detailed records, so pretty soon her prices went up.

A dress worn by Hedy Lemar, for instance, will bring twice as much as the same dress worn by an unknown. As a result Patsh's fashionable shop in fashionable Beverly Hills looks like any of the "exclusive" stores on the street. She gets just about the same prices. You can pay $125 for a dress in Patsy Brogan's, and up to $3,500 for a fur coat.

Big Selection

Patsy handles a complete line, from lingerie to costume belts, and from hats to shoes.

Patsy will take you around her shop and pull out typical items.

"Here's something from Lady Mandl," she says. "It's a Paris gown, by Mainbocher, of multi-colored lame. It cost her $1,500. I'm selling it for $150.

"This is a beautiful eggshell satin gown of Ginger Rogers. She paid $450 for it and I'm selling it for $95. We also have a pair of Ginger's shoes — solid plastic with red ribbon ties. She bought them for $19.95, never wore them and now we're letting them go for $8.

Patsy does a lot of business by mail. She even receive requests from abroad. The latest was from a South American boy who wanted one of Mickey Rooney's ties. She frequently gets letters containing photographs of movie stars in certain dresses. The sender wants Patsy to get that dress for her, with price no object.

"One of the strangest requests I ever had to fill," says Patsy, "was from a little southern girl. She wanted one of Paulette Goddard's dresses because her boy friend was crazy about Paulette Goddard. I heard later that the girl married the boy — in that same dress.

Remove Brim On New Hats

By MARIENNE IZSAK

Attending a "hats for you" preview presented by Madame Aranka of New York was like a flashback to grandmother's day.

The showing included saucy, off-the-face bonnets, tied under the chin, with flowers sprouting over the narrow brim; heavy, droopy brims weighed down with flowers and sporting long streamers; frothy, black and white lace-and-veil-edged big brims, redolent of Merry Widow fantasies. There were also little flowered, ribboned and laced parasols to match some of the hats.

One observer gasped: "My goodness, I hope we won't have to start buying parasols to match our hats."

But there were innovations too. One was the removable wide, straw brim, which leaves a small plaid turban with a sash hanging down one side. In the removable class also were small black velvet Juliet caps with flowered earmuffs. These could be worn with or without wide pink shantung straw brims.

"Shooting quills" were a popular feature on some of the hats.

One number, displayed by identical twins, was a lacy off-the-face with bleeding hearts trembling from the brim.

A Continental influence was a headdress composed entirely of flowers, which tied under the chin with brom velvet ribbon.

A "beau catcher" was a doll-like Easter bonnet of pale blue straw with small rosebuds facing the brim and tied with long lengths of pink maline veiling. Another was Aranka's new color "Tiger Lily," designed in a square-crowned straw with wide handsome brim banded with Dresden ribbon.

SWANKY SPRING OUTFIT: This three-piece ensemble in gray English wool flannel has narrow slim skirt and one-button jacket and slightly flared cape with single pleat. The fine white straw is trimmed with paddy green taffetta ribbon, and the accessories are also in the paddy green theme. This is a Canadian Department Store offering. (Photo by Duke).

Fashion Flashes

HARDLY a Spring coat is without the sloping shoulder line. It certainly give a different look and makes the average coat really old-fashioned. A modified sheath wraparound in blue woollen has its sloping shoulder accented by a deep shoulder yoke that is embroidered here and there in gold thread.

✧ ✧ ✧

BIGGEST SEASON in many a long year for lace. The lace blouse is becoming a big favorite, as is the late afternoon lace frock. The lace evening frock bets better all the time. Fine black Chantilly type lace makes a handsome ankle-length evening frock, very wide of skirt, with an applique of the last forming a festoon on the skirt front. Strapless bodice.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE HEAR TELL that both mole and civet cat, with its beautiful black and white markings, are due for a revival next Winter. Whether the furs will catch on remains to be seen, although shops report that coats lined with these furs found ready acceptance in smart shops during the Winter.

✧ ✧ ✧

PRETTY AS A GARDEN of flowers is a ballroom filled with pretty young women. White is a favorite color for the important debutante evening frock. White taffeta is used for a dress with a boned, strapless bodice. The slim silhouette is broken by a wide polanaise drape and huge bustle bow of filmy white tulle.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVERYTHING in the way of apparel, it would seem, has been given a new look and outlook, even rainwear. For now we have the ballerina-type, raincoat, as interpreted in a coat that has a bodice of black moire, a cinched waist and a ballerina skirt of striped satin in shades of pale blue, with matching soft sash. The detachable hood, of moire, is lined with fabric to match the skirt.

FOR ALL OCCASIONS — This full, flare skirt has a cinched-in waist and is an all-occasion darling highlighted with a soutache braid.

Beauty Works KeptRunning With Vitality

What most women seek is beauty magic. Something in a jar or bottle the contents of which spread over the complexion, will make it look like the lily and the rose, no matter what its condition may be. They are eager for a short-cut to pulchritude. The long, hard pull in the form of devotion to hygenic habits and following the rules of health, just does not have an appeal.

Two factors are necessary for a clear, finely-grained complexion; splendid health and scrupulous cleanliness. Not only cleanliness of the feminine phiz, but the entire body surface. The daily bath performs cosmetic services. Resting in warm water for a few minutes, frictioning the flesh with energy, soap suds and a heavy brush, inspires the skin to carry on as a norganof elimination. It is a complexion beautifier of the first class.

Exercise Is Important

Exercise is an important factor, because it keeps the circulatory system, upon which skin coloring depends, in normal condition. It puts starshine in the eyes. It keep muscles sound and firm, so one retains the youthful figure. It boosts spirits, and you know what high spirits do to impart an animated appearance to face and body.

It is vitality that keeps the beauty works running. Make-up, snappy coiffure, grand dry goods; they are just the trimmings.

From Internal Causes

There are complexion disturbances that come from internal causes and all the cosmetics and beautifying treatments known at this moment won't correct them. The sallow skin, for instance, may be due to some disorder that calls for medical treatment, or a change of diet. The extremely dry skin will remain dry unless the victims drinks plenty of water each day and adds more fat to the diet. A greyish cast to the skin may denote failing health.

The skin has a sympathetic nature. Some disorder kicks up a fuss in a remote part of the body, the skin sulks, loses color, may even change in texture. Cosmetics are grand, but they can't fight impaired health.

Shorter Hair Continues To Be Fashion

Changes in beauty are far more subtle than changes in clothes, "Vogue" points out in a recent article. A change in beauty takes place far less often than a change in clothes. New fashions in hair and make-up take place almost by the process of osmosis, never with a big bang. They seep up so slowly into the consciousness and with so little fanfare, that it takes almost a Hollywood talent scout to know just at what point one beauty is dated and another is current.

The same woman who will scoop up a new silhouette or a wildly different hat, and be the first to wear it, is often the same woman who will dally about any change whatsoever in a coiffure or make-up. She may not think her face is very pretty, or her hair very chic—but she is used to it. And somehow, she would rather have what she is used to than to take a dare.

The lipstick colors will be much lighter than they have been, "Vogue" says. They will be rosy pinks, pale corals, diluted tawny shades, It doesn't matter much in which direction the color veers—as long as it is a light shade of color. And there is just as much room for lipstick color variety in the light range as there is in the dark.

With so much lightness in the face, eye make-up becomes more necessary to the pretty picture of today's beauty than it has ever been. Rouge too, could be important again for the same reason.

Nail polishes are now, and will be even more by Spring, following the lighter colors of lipstick.

The biggest news in hair fashions is short hair. Many women are just now trying it, many women who tried it a year or two ago are still loving it.

Narrow Waists, Full Skirts Featured in Paris Styles

(By Reuters)

PARIS.—Narrow waists, longer and fuller skirts, and increased decolletage, featured models introduced by leading Paris fashion houses at their preliminary spring shows today.

The shows carried on the "new look" introduced by Parisian fashion houses two seasons ago.

Jean Desses, an outstanding designer from last season's collection made full use of his new waist treatment, which provided a slight hip with a rounded and padded appearance without looking bulky, flowing down into a graceful full skirt.

Skirts are longer, reaching to approximately 10 inches from the ground.

Desses made navy blue his predominating color for day wear, followed by a range of crimson and clean reds. He used prints both alone and combined with plain colors.

His suits, on youthful lines, have full skirts and tiny peplum jackets with cutaway fronts revealing crisp touches of white. Lucien Lelong, one of the foremost French fashion designers, showed a wide range of Parisian models every one of which accentuated the feminine figure.

The big great coat figures largely in the spring scene.

Easter Hat Given New Angle

By FLORENCE MILLS

By The Associated Press

PARIS. — Easter bonnets this spring are going to be enchanting contraptions of straw and frippery especially created by Paris hat designers to dispel the rather aging effect of the "new look" dresses.

They can be worn with ease by older women and at the same time they will make the young look youthful to an extreme.

Foreign buyers, well equipped with extra spending money gleaned from the recent franc-devaluation, are going out on a purchasing spree and you can expect the hats to roll off the assembly lines in good time for the Easter parade.

Many of the models are of expensive silks, satins and gypsy-type scarves set on hand-shaped wired buckram mounts. But the majority are of Milan, Florentine or exotic Baku straws blocked into a variety of shapes which lend themselves excellently to mass production.

Varieties of the pancake and cloche, Breton sailor and bunberet, toque and tricorn are explored to the full but each shape is generally incidental to the trimming which mainly takes the limelight.

The angle at which hats are worn is very important. Most of them set straight on the head in exactly the same place you would set a book were you trying to balance it. Others are slightly tilted to the side-front.

Maud Roser's "Roofs of Paris" series, executed in Milan and Florentine straw, is meeting with great success. Buyers say the shape is "completely new."

Basically, it is like a flattened rugby ball set sideways on the head or at the "book" angle, has a beret back and is dipped gently either side. Holes are pierced in the crown through which veiling or cord is slotted to tie under the chin. There are several variations on this theme. A unique number call "The janitor on the roof" has a solitary aggressive looking dandelion sprouting through the top.

Some of the color combinations shown are exotic and striking. Shades of deep purple flashes against forest green and corn and pale lemon, stone, beige and honey form perfect backgrounds for the boldest colors of nature.

SWEET ILLUSION — This hat is a hair crin turban of bright white abloom with tulips in a romantic combination. It is an ear-tilting, lifting creation.

What's That Again?

TB Eradicated By Farmers Of Friesland

By DR. F. W. SCHOFIELD, Ontario Veterinary College

Speaking to the Ontario Veterinary Association on the subject of Veterinary Education and Research in Britain, Holland, Denmark and Sweden, Dr. Schofield assured the audience that in spite of the deplorable economic situation Veterinary Scientists were making important discoveries and educationalists were forming ambitious plans for the future. In Britain the old established veterinary colleges would soon become faculties of universities while at least two new teaching centres were being equipped and would be ready to admit students in the near future. During the past five years over a million dollars had been raised by public subscription for education and research. Due to the improved position of agriculture, veterinary practice throughout the country was extremely good.

In Holland, Denmark and Sweden, veterinary science was on a high level and the standing of the veterinarian closely approximated that of the medical practitioner. This is partly due to the fact that veterinary education has for many years been attached to the great universities. While the course of study extended over four years in Canada, and five years in Great Britain, in Holland and Denmark, the course was between five and six years, and in Sweden six to seven years. An outstanding piece of work had been accomplished in Friesland (North Holland) by Dr. Sjolema and his staff, in which tuberculosis has practically been eradicated among 250,000 cattle without any cost to the government. The expenses had been borne by the farmers themselves through their dairy co-operatives.

The most up-to-date research laboratory headed by the ablest veterinary pathologist in either Europe or America, Professor Hjarre is to be found in Stockholm. It is really streamlined and nickle-chromed and staffed with thirty veterinarians and nearly one hundred technical staff. About nine thousand post-mortem examinations are made yearly, many different kinds of immune sera and other biolgics are prepared and excellent research work is being carried on. We have much to learn in both science and culture from these alert, progressive and democratic Western European nations.

Spring Fashion Flashes

SAILING ALONG atop the smartest outfits will be oval or elliptical sailors, back posed and prettily trimmed with flower clusters and streamer bows.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT'S NICE to have polka dots again, and in such dressy clothes, too. Pure silk crepe in soft yellow polka-dotted in black is used for a pretty afternoon dress. The little collar and the slit pockets on the skirt are studded with tiny round flowers of jet.

✧ ✧ ✧

NEW BEAUTY for gloves, especially for late afternoon and evening wear. Black lace over pink taffeta is used for a pretty glove that has a flaring cuff with a deep side slit.

✧ ✧ ✧

REALLY NEW costume suits and ensembles for Spring, such as a slim black wool crepe skirt worn with a black-and-white plaided wool, dolman-like sacque coat, a topper that flares jauntily away or that is worn hugged close to the figure.

✧ ✧ ✧

LOOK OUT for new color schemes, such as the turban-type hat of yellow paillisson straw, its side swing marked by massed bows of deep wine-colored satin ribbon. Very different and very attractive.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALL TO THE GOOD is the idea of matching and mixing clothes, a practice that has extended to beach and resort things. A pretty beach suit of navy and white polka-dotted cotton, with a deep bra top and bloomers, can be had with matching skirt, bodice top and jacket.

SPRING COAT—Tailored to a fine degree and classic as a Greek column this fashion in virgin worsted gabardine has a gentle drape to the notched lapel and waist minimizing detail.

Big Favorite In Blouses

The spring blouse blossoms into fashion with a feminine look pared down to neat lace trimmings, functional lines and neckline variety for all occasions.

The Gibson girl look, in its 1948 version, promises to be the season's pretty favorite. Ruffles, smocking, neckline bows or cravats and lady-like standing collars share the turn-of-the century setting in these easy-to-wear styles. One lovely blouse softens the male heart by borrowing his collar and tie for Val lace-edged feminine counterparts.

Interest in these blouses is hardly centered in body alone; the sleeve comes in for its share, whether it be long with shoulder or cuff detail, three-quarter, or short. The blouses which boast long sleeves may have a ruffled cuff to match collar trim, turned-up French cuff to accentuate precise tailoring, or deep high-buttoned cuff as foil to the feminized Gibson cravat. One smart blouse in white shows black grosgrain cuffs to match the Peter Pan, emblem-emblazoned collar.

This is a year of yokes; square, round or suggested; a year of tucks and insertions—but above all, of frills without furbelows. A wide three-tier yoke, each tier edged in Val-type lace covers the front of a blouse. More tailored is a neat club-collared version, in a new rayon crepe, its deep multi-tucked yoke bordered in triple tucks.

Trimmings, however, are hardly yoke-monopolized. Narrow tucks march down the center-front of a blouse. The tucks are accented by a band collar, ruffle pleated at front. One designer shows a hand-embroidered style.

NEW FOR MEN—Here is one of the new linen jackets with squared bottom, vactical pockets and is specially styled for the well dressed young man.

Less Seen of the Sleeves Means that Gloves Briefer

This spring, short, short gloves team with short, short sleeves to create a new "bare-armed" look from shoulder to wrist and to make the purchase of your spring gloves an important investment in fashion.

For short gloves in fine leathers are a leading fashion feature for spring. Shorties will go with everything this year; they'll accompany tweed suits, sheer wool afternoon dresses and even cottons. And they'll be most important for after-five and evening dresses.

Fine, hand-sewn French doeskin gloves in soft shades of creme and beige, are shown with ballet-length cocktail and evening dresses with brief, cap sleeves, off-the-shoulder necklines and no sleeves at all.

Other short gloves, with a touch of novelty stitching on the back, are matched to rough - textured short-sleeved sweaters, to sleeveless blouses and sports dresses. And short glace gloves, as soft as the precious kid gloves of a century ago, accompany filmy organdies and a whole range of light-weight fabrics. Gloves are practical even in the pale shades of this season's fashions, because all of them are washable.

BABY'S tic

UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote restful comfort."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and her stomach became quite upset. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying — and quieted down."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easily crushed to a powder, if desired — prompt in action. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents.

'Sloppy' Look of Yesterday Gone from Men's Apparel

Transparents clothes were forecast at a press preview of the men's Apparel Fair in Toronto when a gentleman in spun-glass evening suit escorted a lady in an equally revealing evening gown as the climax to Canada's second annual men's fashion show. The Fair, was attended by men's wear retailers from coast to coast, and featured styles to be seen on men in this country during 1948-49.

When the press were presented with a flash preview of the style show they opined that the "sloppy" look of yesterday was gone forever. Today's male must look sharp, and those jackets that fell off your shoulders and sagged around your hips have been replaced by neater and more stylish coats. You'll have to get rid of those baggy-kneed trousers, too, if you want to make your mark with the 1948 lady. The girls were all for the new style pants that veered sharply away from the "zooty" styles of recent years.

Sponsored by the Retail Men's Wear Association, the Men's Apparel Fair has now become an annual feature in Canada. This year, for the first time, the general public was allowed to see the coming year's styles and pass judgment on them even before they appear in the stores. At last, wifey will be able to tell you she doesn't like your taste in sports jackets even before you go to buy one. This year there will be plenty of variety in sports, business and evening dress for her to approve or disapprove of. Yellow slacks for golfing, sports jackets with no collars, hunting outfits that would make deer walk right up to the muzzle of your rifle and a fishing outfit that would hypnotize the wiliest trout are all featured in the show.

Every main city and town from Victoria in the west to Halifax in the seat was represented at the show. Tailors and haberdashers from every province, as well as designers from New York were present to see the work of Canada's leading men's wear designers. Every type of men's wear from suits and overcoats to shirts and ties was exhibited.

The question that everybody asked was "—but will we be able to buy them this year?" — Answer, "Yes, but they'll probably cost you more!"

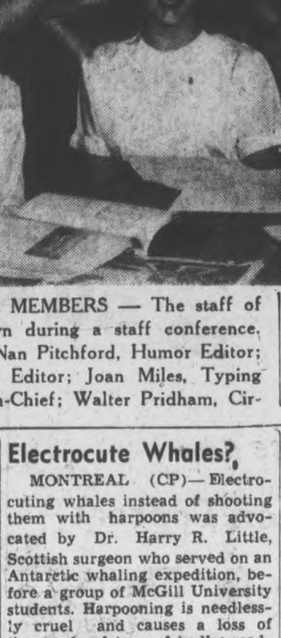
Huge Signal System



YORK, England(CP)—A new signalling system being installed here will be able to handle more than 800 different train routes when it is completed in 1950. The system, which will be the largest in the world, is so intricate that testing after completion will take several months.

Electrocute Whales?

MONTREAL (CP)— Electrocuting whales instead of shooting them with harpoons was advocated by Dr. Harry R. Little, Scottish surgeon who served on an Antarctic whaling expedition, before a group of McGill University students. Harpooning is needlessly cruel and causes a loss of thousands of tons of badly needed whale meat annually, he said.

75,000-Lb. Fish Catch

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's commercial fish catch for January was 75,000 pounds, the Ontario lands department has estimated. New statistical methods and monthly reports are providing the department's fish and wild life division with up-to-date, province-wide data, Dr. W. J. Harkness, division chief, said.

FOR AFTERNOON — Never did we see so many dresses that are perfect under coats, now, and that will be just as new looking, just as attractive later on. Navy crepe is the medium used for this charming afternoon frock which looks new but isn't overdone in any way. Rhinstone buttons fasten the snug, square-necked bodice, and a navy taffeta bow emphasizes the draped line of the skirt with its front hip swag.

Red Cross Donations Coming In Fine

TORONTO, March 18.—Ian R. Dowie of Toronto, chairman of the Campaign for the Ontario Division of Red Cross, today announced that Ontario had raised over a quarter of its $1,200,000 objective. Returns from thirty-two of the three hundred Ontario branches showed a total of $328,983.

While this figure does not compare with the amount raised last year, at this same period, Mr. Dowie stated that taking into consideration several factors, including the fact that many branches did not begin their campaign until second and third week in March, the results are not unsatisfactory.

The national objective is three million dollars.

Sportsmen Fear Deer, Moose Likely To Be Exterminated

TORONTO, March 18—(CP)—Unless some restriction is placed on hunters and fishermen from the United States a large part of Ontario's game will be wiped out, the legislature on fish and game was told this week.

Rev C. J. Jones, speaking for a delegation from Renfrew, Arnprior and Pembroke, made the assertion. He said drastic measures are necessary to limit non-resident licence issue.

There was considerable abuse of the bag limit. Father Jones suggested that all non-resident licences should be suspended and that the following increased fees put into effect: Moose $150; Deer $75; Bear $25; Small Game $10, and Fishing $10 a person and $15 a family. Present fishing fees are $8 and $10.

Father Jones said that in the last 25 years he had noticed a definite decrease in fish and game in his district and that unless drastic action is taken toward propagation and conservation it would be necessary to go to a museum to see a speckled trout in 25 years.

J. S. Wilson, who said he operated a resort between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, said it was not a question of tourists taking too many fish from the lakes.

He said the answer to the question is a government program to eliminate whitefish and herring from northern lakes and thus give game fish like bass and pickerel a chance to breed.

With such a program, he said, many northern lakes which now do not produce more than 100 pickerel a year that gain maturity, would supply enough to restock all Ontario lakes.

H. E. Chauvin, secretary of the Essex County Sportsmen's Association, said there are seven states in the U.S. where non-residents are barred from hunting.

"I know we need American money in Canada," he said, "but we also want a chance to fish and hunt in Ontario ourselves."

H. V. Sutton of Windsor, president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, said we must regulate game before it leaves the country."

Sold To Restaurants

He said there were many cases of deer being shot in Canada by Americans, taken back to the US and then shipped to New York or Boston where they were sold to restaurants for $400.

Today's meeting of the Legislature Fish and Game Committee, under chairmanship of J. A. Pringle (PC—Addington), dealt almost completely with game laws.

Clive Thompson of the Ontario Federation of Naturalists addressed a plea to the committee for legislation to protect birds of prey.

In many instances, he said, birds like hawks are the farmer's best friend. They kill rats and mice which might otherwise overrun a farm.

In general, predatory birds constituted a beneficial aid in keeping the stock of other animals high.

In 40 states of the US Mr. Thompson said, some measure of protection is given to predatory birds.

A general resolution from the Anglers and Hunters Federation recommended that non-resident deer and hunting licence be increased to $50.

Resolutions from the Northern Ontario Fish and Game Protective Federation were presented by Secretary S. Morgan.

One suggested that the Government prohibit the passage of any hunting party by air travel beyond points accessible by highway, railway or registered passenger boat.

He said such animals as moose have little chance of survival now that aircraft can reach places formerly inaccessible.

Other resolutions suggested:

Allowance of game wardens sufficient mileage for performance of their duties; return to opening of duck season in Northern Ontario to Sept. 15 instead of present Sept. 27; and Federal Government legislation to prohibit carrying of firearms by tourists in closed seasons.

Homesteading of Crown woodlands should not be permitted until competent examination has shown that the land is suitable for successful farming, it was suggested in a resolution from North Bay-Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie zone of the Anglers' and Hunters' Federation.

The brief, presented by Joseph MacNab of Sudbury, also recommended:

Government advertising of scenic beauty rather than merely destruction of wild life; prohibition of the use of aircraft for actual hunting; accompaniment of non-resident hunters by licensed guide; placing onus of proving innocence on hunter who found in possession of beaver carcass without legal authority; prohibition of shooting of female deer; that guides be prohibited from carrying firearms; establishment of a game preserve up to 1,000 square miles in the area north of Lake Wanapitei, including the upper waters of the Wanapitei and Sturgeon Rivers.

Re-Post Boundaries

It was also suggested that minimum physical requirements be assured, regarding eyesight, before a gun license is issued.

Kenneth Hanson of Nestor Falls, presented a brief from the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association, suggesting that a large percentage of revenue from hunting and fishing licenses be allotted to the territories in which they are collected. The money would be applied to fish and game conservation and propagation.

Other resolutions recommended:

That big game hunting within a half mile of all provincial highways be prohibited; that boundaries of all game preserves in Northern Ontario be re-posted; that a more efficient way of tagging big game be adopted—preferably one like the metal self-locking seal used in Minnesota, legalization of hunting wolves from the air from December to March with special license.

One resolution suggested that a study be made of lakes in Northern Ontario to determine whether the planting of wild rice or wild celery is practical, and that a program along these lines be put into operation as soon as possible.

Windsor Turns Down Factory Cut Homes

WINDSOR, March 18.—(CP).—City council last night reversed recommendation of the board of control and did not approve 50 factory cut "Haliday" homes as part of the first group to be built by Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation.

Building trades in the city had opposed construction of such houses which would be cut and made ready for assembling before being shipped here.

Controller Gordon B. Ellis said these factory cut dwellings were the first available since the war and were suggested as a means to expedite construction work.

Ireland Had Renaissance First

COBOURG, March 18 (ENS).—The renaissance began in Ireland 700 years before it was known in Italy, Rev. G. J. Maher of St. Michael's Catholic Church told the St. Patrick's night meeting of the Knights of Columbus and their families.

The temple of Irish fame, he said, rests on the triune foundation of religion, virtue and valor. It was St. Patrick who brought to Erin's shore the gift of God's faith. The conversion of Ireland from the time of his landing to the day of his death is the strangest fact in the history of early Christianity. The Saint met with no opposition in carrying and spreading the torch of the new Faith.

He said that St. Patrick's career resembled more the progress of a triumphant king than the difficult labor of a missionary. Ireland is the only nation in the world that entirely owes her conversion to the work of one man. Patrick found Ireland universally pagan; whe he left, Ireland was universally Christian, nor did that nation ever cost her apostle one hour of sorrow, a single tear or a drop of blood For eight centuries after the death of St. Patrick, Erin was the island of saints and scholars. Scholars of history attest that the Renaissance began in Ireland seven centuries before it was known in Italy. A French critic wrote that in the time of Charlemagne, almost all the learned men in Europe were Irishmen, Rev. Maher related.

The missionary spirit of the Irish people still goes on, the speaker pointed out. In 1947, in spite of a reduced population, Ireland sent 700 priests, nuns and religious brothers to missionary fields abroad. Ireland's much-discussed neutrality in the last war didn't keep her fighting sons entirely at home. A year before the end of the second Great War, it was announced in the British House of Commons that 780 decorations, including eight Victoria Crosses, were awarded to persons born in Eire.

In 1845 Ireland had upwards of eight millions. The next three years were devastating famine years and from 1845 to 1860 two million Irish left the homeland to go abroad. Of the 90,000 Irish immigrants who in 1847 set out for Canada, it is recorded that 6,000 died on ocean passage, 4,000 after arrival and 5,000 died later in hospital. Irish Canadians, he said in conclusion, contributed five of the Fathers of Confederation, Adam G. Acchibald, W. A. He[illegible], J. A. McCully, T. D'Arcy McGee and Edward Whelan.

Old King's Keys Ceremony To Be Enacted In Public

By SHAUN McQUILLAN

LONDON, March 18—(CP).—London's annual royal tournament of the three services at Olympia will have another attraction this year—enactment in public for the first time of the colorful "King's Keys" ceremony. It is probably one of the most curious customs observed within the Tower of London's grey walls, but nobody seems to know exactly how and when it began.

The earliest record is in the 14th-century reign of Edward III, when A. John of London performed the ceremony, but the custom probably was routine centuries before that—perhaps as far back as William the Conqueror, who built the Tower in the 11th century.

Shortly before 10 o'clock at night the chief warder goes to the guardroom, dresses in a long red cloak and Tudor bonnet, and lights a tallow candle lantern. Picking up the keys of the wicket gate and the byward tower he walks to the main guard, and calls for an "escort for the keys."

Bolts Shoot Home

First the wicket gate, by which sightseers enter the Tower, is locked, then the escort and keys retrace their steps to the towers of the outer ward where a great clanging of metal can be heard as the ancient bolts are shot home.

The only interruption is when the party approaches the dark arch of the bloody Tower. The sentry here lowers his bayonet and challenges:

"Halt! who comes there?"

"The keys," cries the chief warder.

"Whose keys?".

"King George's Keys", replies the chief warder.

"Whose keys?"

King George's keys," replied the chief waredr.

"Pass, King George's keys, all's well," says the sentry, and the escort passes up the slight rise of ground under the bloody tower towards the guard-room where the main guard is drawn up.

The guard presents arms, the warder steps forward with his lantern, lifts his bonnet and cries: "God preserve King George," and the guard, from officer to drummer- boy, answers: "Amen."

Once Interrupted

Only once in the ceremony's ancient past has it been known to be interrupted. During an air raid in April, 1941, the guard was knocked over by a bomb blast while marching across the courtyard, but nobody was injured and the ceremony proceeded.

The Royal Tournament is an annual display at which famous scenes from British history are vividly enacted.

Dress-up Look Called For More Often In Men's Wear

Men will find that clothes designed especially for town wear have a more dressed-up look than for some time. Coats, suits and accessories are all styled with a marked formal note and are detailed with artfully subtle fabr patterns and tailoring construction. Guard model coats. Chesterfields and Homburg hats, worn with very conservative shirts, will be high fashion notes for urbanites.

In suits there is a tendency towards modified square shoulders and a straight-hanging back. The extra-full drape is gone. Double-breasted jackets continue to stress a low-waisted look. 3-button styles are expected to show a great gain in favor among single-breasted suits. Jacket sleeves are more noticeably tapered.

New topcoat styles stress lower button placement, roomier cut and the revival of patterned fabrics. One new model is a roomy ragan with a very full skirt and military collar. These features give the coat truly casual and sporty air and make it highly desirable for comfort in traveling as well as for general use. Topcoats meant for town and dress-up wear are slightly fitted, come in single and double-breasted models, and will be available in wider color ranges of fine coverts and tweeds.

1948 sports jackets are featuring single-breasted designs with three buttons and three patch pockets. Most of these are very light in weight and some are longer than before, with two rear vents and slanted pockets. Fancy backs with shirring and half-belts have been revived somewhat in the newest models. Many new colors have been added in this field, since men will accept new color ideas most readily in their leisure clothes. Slacks to wear with these also come in a greater color variety. These bring new interest with added colors in flannels and featherweight worsted gabardines. Color offerings in all sportswear include bright shades of rust, blue, green and yellow.

Gabardine's Versatile

Gabardine emerged in the current Men's Fashion Guild of New York offerings as the most important men's fabric of the year. Prominently featured in almost every item of a man's wardrobe, sleek gabardine has been tailored leisure jackets, and slack ensembles, sport shirts, and swim trunks.

Time Has Modified Extremes Fashions Ultra-Feminine

Fashions this spring are fresh, spirited, uninhibited. They have taken their cue from trends introduced and developed last spring and winter and have reinterpreted them in a manner synonymous with spring-fever and tufts of new-born grass.

Fashions this spring are ultra-feminine. They have movement and grace, a soft loveliness not seen in many years. This season curves are in order, not jagged lines and angles. The waist is no more than a handspan—a tiny hand-span at that. He-man shoulders are out. Instead shoulders are soft and slightly rounded with only the gentlest of padding. Hips curve outward, bosoms are back. All in all, there's a suggestion of the Gay 90's about this season's girl.

The longer hemline, discussed by many with clenched fists, by many not discussed at all, has been accepted and approved by homemakers, play girls and business girls alike. They have discovered that a hemline 14" from the floor adds a grace and poise not found in the skirt terminating just below the knee-cap.

Suits, popular all year round, hit a high every spring. Particularly important this year are: the bolero suit, the cape suit, the basque suit and the box suit.

The bolero suit, Spring '48 has a midget jacket, which terminates either several inches above the waist or pust manages to reach it. The cape suit, back in the fashion picture after many a season in retirement, appears in a hip-length version in bright palids to spice a solid skirt, or in a solid color to match its skirt. The skirt in most cases is very slightly flared.

The basque suit consists of a sleek waist-hugging jacket and a voluminous flared, gathered, or pleated skirt; while the box suit flaunts a squared hip-length jacket and a slim skirt.

News in toppers points to barrel and box version in a fingertip length, flared or square in back, some cut-away in front with elbow length Inverness capes.

Redingotes are becoming more important this spring—in rayon faille or in light weight wool they can be worn over giddy print dresses all spring and far into summer.

Separates continue to steal the limelight. Blouses in order to fit into the picture of feminity, are high-throated with ruffles and little-girl collars in frosty white sheer and heavier weight cotton.

SPRING FROCK—In keeping with the soft, feminine, pretty fashions hat grace this spring season, is the afternoon frock in pastel toned silk, a nice choice for Easter festivities. Delightful detail marks this pretty design, model of pale blue crepe. A soft bow and shirring add interest to the shoulder line. A wide band of shirring and a series of soft, self bows grace the hipline and hold the front fullness of the skirt.

MORE ABOUT—

Loopholes

This reporter has been assured that such is the case by immigration officials ranging in rank from uniformed inspectors at border points to top executives in Ottawa.

It probably would be more difficult for Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) Party of Canada, to visit New York or Detroit, than for any of a dozen members of the central committee of the Communist International — not to mention innumerable lesser luminaries of world revolution — to visit this country, under other names, and pursue their affairs with comparative impunity.

Barriers Far From Perfect

Not only are Canada's immigration barriers far from perfect when it comes to screening out Reds in lily-white masks, but it is next to impossible to make them perfect. The one sure way to do this, officials point out, would be to seal the gates and allow no one to enter at any point — obviously an unthinkable alternative.

In the absence of such extreme measures, however, numbers of the enemies of Canada presumably will continue to creep in without any great risk or difficulty, aided by lies and forged documents, and will remain at least as safe from apprehension as the average cautious criminal.

Moreover, forged papers would not be necessary in most cases. In the ordinary course of events Canada admits millions of visitors and tourists and tens of thousands of immigrants from all parts of the world annually, and very little investigation is made of the vast majority of them.

If only one in a thousand entertained unfriendly designs against the country, they would constitute a group capable of incalculable mischief.

That the odd one slips in every so often there is no denying, nor any attempt to deny. Often the police have picked up such persons subsequently; more often, it may be assumed, they have never been bothered.

Official Tells Problems

"Canada has one of the most efficient immigration inspection services in the world," a high official of the department told the writer a few days ago. "We know this to be true, and can say so without exaggerating, because we have studied every other system in use and have adapted for our own purposes what is good in them and rejected what has proven bad.

"But don't forget, our immigration set-up exists not to keep people out of the country, but to bring people in. Our greatest need is for immigrants to help develop our resources. An important part of our national income is derived from the tourist trade.

"Our purpose is to obtain the best class of immigrants possible and to exclude those who, either through criminal proclivities or inability to provide for themselves, would become liabilities rather than assets. By and large, we are making a good job of it.

"But it would be over-optimistic to suppose that our inspectors do not make occasional mistakes in judgment, as all human beings do, or that they are not taken in by false representations and fraudulent records on occasion. I am satisfied that such cases are rare, but there is no doubt they do exist and will continue to exist in spite of all our precautions.

"However, if any great harm has come of any of our mistakes so far, I have yet to hear of it."

About Displaced Persons

My May some 22,000 persons from European displaced persons camps will have been admitted to Canada, most of them of Slavic stock originating in countries now ruled by Communist governments subservient to the Soviet Union. About half of them will be near relatives of immigrants already in Canada; the rest will be chiefly laborers destined for factories, mines, the bush and farms.

There is no doubt that nearly all of these not only are free of the Communist taint, but are violently anti-Communist. Hundreds have escaped from Communist forced-labor camps, and some have seen their friends shot down trying to escape.

This reporter has talked to many of these new Canadians, and not a one but has shown every indication of gratitude for being granted a chance for a new and better life in Canada. Most have a deep longing for the freedom which now hardly exists in most of Europe, and most are strong adherents of their religion, which the Reds have striven to destroy.

Nevertheless there is good reason to believe that Communists have infiltrated the ranks of the DP's to some extent, as they have infiltrated almost every other group one can mention.

Some Approved By Reds

By and large the Reds of Canada have denounced the displaced persons as pro-Nazis and "war criminals," because they have chosen to come here rather than return to their former homes in Soviet satellite nations. But not always.

Ukrainian Life, one of the louder voices in the Communist foreign-language press of the Dominion, states editorially in its issue of January 22 that some of the "more intelligent DP's subscribe to and read the Ukrainian Life," but adds that there are many more of "the other kind."

Numbers of the hitherto homeless refugees have joined unions distinguished by Red leadership, and of these a few —not many—have cultivated friendships with known Communists.

With the aid of army intelligence officers, police records and officials of the International Refugee Organization, teams of Canadian immigration inspectors and security police carefully screen displaced persons before they are approved for entry to Canada. Often enough they discover and turn back persons suspected of subversive sympathies.

But one wonders how many of those who "escaped" from Soviet slave battalions might not have been placed there by Soviet officials for the express purpose of joining refugee groups and making their way to hospitable lands where their revolutionary talents might be put to effective use.

A Few Could Be Dangerous

Only a handful, at most, out of 22,000—but a handful of trained, hardened and purposeful Communists can be more dangerous than their weight in TNT.

Then there are the thousands of Jewish refugees who have come and still are coming to Canada, who certainly cannot be accused of being pro-Nazi. Again, we know, beyond question, that almost all of them want only to forget the tragic fate of their race in Hitler's Europe and have successful, peaceful lives under Canada's system of democratic "bourgeois capitalism" — but there remains the suspicion that here and there some are not all they would have the immigration department think.

At the January conference of the Jewish section of the Communist LPP held in Montreal, the admission of 100,000 Jewish refugees was advocated by many speakers, including Joseph B. Salsberg, Toronto MPP and member of the national executive of the LPP.

It may or may not have been significant that Comrade Salsberg had just returned from a tour of Europe, in the course of which he visited DP camps in Germany and Poland, as well as making a trip to Palestine. And in this connection there may or may not be significance in the following report appearing in the February 13 issue of the United States News:

"Russian secret agents, on the basis of information in the hands of the US Government, have been moving regularly, over a rather long period, into Palestine with groups of Jewish immigrants who run the blockade. These agents are described as highly trained."

Fake Passports Spotted

The seven alien refugees ordered deported last month when it was revealed they had purchased fraudulent British passports were not listed as subversives, but there is no way of telling how many others like them, whose passports looked authentic but were not, have entered Canada and never been spotted.

"We have our official eye on some recent arrivals," a high police official told this reporter. "The company they keep isn't of the healthiest, but so far their own behaviour has been circumspect. If they try to make trouble, we'll know it soon enough."

"But we may be overlooking any number of smart operators who haven't given us the slightest cause for suspicion yet. If they're the wrong sort, sooner or later their actions will betray them. The only question is—will it be soon enough, or will damage have been done already before we can act?"

That's a question that is bothering a lot of people these troublesome days. The welfare and the very lives of thousands of loyal Canadians—and perhaps the life of democratic Canada itself — may depend on the answer.

Tomorrow — How the Communists Hope To Take Over Canada.

500 'Teen Agers Will Train For Officers

OTTAWA, March 18—(CP)—Whether to meet external threats or to protect Canada's internal safety, the armed forces will open the doors to its two service colleges next September to some 500 high school 'teen-agers to begin training as officers for Canada's navy, army anr air force.

Opening their first full years of operations, the two colleges will incorporate latest training methods and a variety of subjects in line with new warfare discoveries.

Unusual, too, is the collective method of training. The students will work side by side for the first two years at least; 160 of them at HMCS Royal Roads at Victoria, and about 350 at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Something New

Naval service headquarters said naval personnel at Royal Roads, which opened in 1942 and was converted to the new-style training in 1947, are wondering how army recruits will dove-tail. Although the navy has trained air force fledglings during the last year, it has yet to drill khaki-clad youngsters, who may range from 16 to 20 years.

The recruits entering RMC will remain for four years, but many of the navy entries will leave at the end of the second year and go to sea as midshipmen.

Similarly, at Royal Roads, where academic subjects will form the backbone of the winter training, all students will take the same subjects for the first two years, after which some will be separated, for sea-training with the navy or aircraft training at RCAF stations or to continue at RMC until their four years are completed.

OTTAWA, March 18 — (CP) — Tribute was paid in the Senate yesterday to Senator J. P. Molloy (L-Manitoba) who died Tuesday.

Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader in the Chamber, praised his record of public service and said he would "long be remembered" on Parliament Hill.

No Sailor Shortage

The 39-year-old RCAF veteran, father of four children, pleaded guilty. He told Magistrate W. R. Cobourg Weekly World Stops Publishing After 84 Yrs., Absorbed By Sentinel Star

COBOURG, March 18 (ENS).—The Cobourg World ceased publication Wednesday with the printing of its final issue after about 84 years of publishing. Due to ill health, the publisher, Frank Lapp, sold his paper to Foster Russell, editor of the Sentinel Star.

Mr. Russell bought the Sentinel Star about two years ago and in acquiring the Cobourg World he has the weekly newspaper field in Cobourg and district.

The World was founded by Henry Hough of Guelph where he was identified with the Guelph Mercury, coming to Cobourg in 1858. He edited the World until 1885.

The paper then passed into the ownership of M. W. Williams, S. S. Howell and Major H. Snelgrove. In 1893, Mr. Williams took over the paper and published it until his death in 1898. The paper was purchased by Thomas Lapp of Baltimore, Ont., who conducted it until his death in 1931 when it was taken over by his son, Frank Lapp.

The paper itself will be absorbed by the Sentinel Star but the printing office will remain open where the present composing room staff will run the job printing plant.

Didn't Know City? Fined For Speeding

William Shackleton, 352 McDonnel St., was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for speeding within the city limits.

PC Harold Mesley stated that he had clocked the accused's car leaving the city on the Clonsilla St. section of the Port Hope highway at 40 miles per hour.

The accuse admitted that he had been going at the rate charged. He contended, however, that there were no signs prominent in the area which would indicate when the city limits ended and the open highway began. This had been the first time he had travelled that section of the road, he said.

Police Chief John Thompson stated that the accused had come to his office and "grouched" about the manner of treating "strangers who don't know the city. Shackleton had been in the city two months, he stated.

"The motorist has some obligations and responsibilities, too," commented the magistrate.

Busiest Phone Line Is Dept. Of Health

Busiest lines in city hall telephony are those of the Department of Health as shown by the count kept by the new switchboard operator in the office of City Clerk Outram.

The figures for those 20 days are: Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, and Sanitary Inspector MacPherson, 438 calls; health department, secretary and nurses, 493 calls.

Presumably the bulk of those calls reflect communication with the public. Total calls for the three weeks were 3,807. To the welfare and plumbing inspector's department were 365 calls, parks and sanitation 334.

Character Role Said Better Than Top Billing

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 18 (AP) —When a three-time Academy winner gives advice to young players, it is worth listening to. Here is what Walter Brennan has to say:

"Let other actors fight for top billing. Give me a featured spot every time.

"Suppose my name tops the casting list in a couple of films, then next time I draw a smaller part and get fourth billing. The people would say 'Brennan's slipping; he has starred in his last picture.'"

Brennan feels many actors aim too high—they try to be stars when they should play character roles.

"Take me, for example," he said. "I started playing old man parts 25 years ago when they had to powder my hair grey and paint on the wrinkles. Now they just set a hat on my head and I hop to it."

Eastward Ho

Clark Gable is heading east for a three-week visit in New York, his first in several years. He will see "Command Decision," which he will play on the screen. Clark was offered the stage role but refused, saying he was happy being a movie actor (a rarity). He recommended Paul Kelly for the part. It's possible that another reason for Clark's trip is Dolly O'Brien....

The Dorothy McGuire starrer, "A Doll's House," may not be filmed in Sweden, as announced. Although the Selznick studio has made extensive preparations, the international situation appears too stormy.

Teachers Get Raise

HALIFAX (CP)— This city's 418 school teachers have been granted an average annual wage increase of $48 each by city council. The increase is contained in a grant of $35,000 to teachers with dependent.

RELUCTANTLY RESCUED—Surviving fire, explosion, water and billowing smoke in a Montreal fire recently, the tabbie above was finally carried from the ravaged building by a benevolent fireman, only to make a frantic dive to reenter the still-smoldering premises. The fireman caught it by the tail as it was disappearing through a smoke-spouting cellar window and drew it once more to safety.

Eight Present Talks In Missionary Study

NORWOOD, March 17—(ENS) —Evening Auxiliary met for a supper at the home of Mrs. G. R. Baker. Mrs. O. Edgeley and her group took charge of the worship service. Mrs. Edgeley and Mrs. Kempt gave the Bible readings. Mrs. Edgeley gave a talk on the difficulties of missionaries. Mrs. Reta Pakenham told of the work of Dr. Andrew Hensey of the Congo. Miss Weir told of the emotional re-action of the natives. Miss Borland spoke of the work in Guatemala. Mrs. A. R. Atkinson mentioned the difficulty of translating the Bible. Mrs. L. Freeburn pointed out that the missionaries find the reading of the Bible changes the lives of the natives. Mrs. C. Foster paid tribute to the work of the colporteurs.

Stock Markets Actively Firmer

By The Canadian Press

Stock markets were actively firmer yesterday with Toronto taking the lead on substantial advances for industrials and mining stocks although New York at the closing showed signs of retreating from the high points touched in forenoon trading.

The gains made on the Toronto Stock Exchange were in large measure a reaction to the sharp recession on the previous three trading days. Distress selling — investors holding stocks on margin and forced to sell when the price dropped below the margin requirements — was said behind a considerable portion of the heavy volume Monday and Tuesday.

Indications that when this type of selling dried up the market would rebound, were born out yesterday.

Trading in New York reflected anticipation that President Truman's address on the international situation would bolster equities of such armament industries as steel, rubber, motors and metals. Best example was the aviation stocks which moved up to new highs in morning transactions.

FLOODS THREATEN ONTARIO HAMLETS

Big Ice Jam Clogs Creek At Brock St.

14 City Employees Use Dynamite; Water Rising Rapidly

Jackson Park creek was on a premature rampage today promising plenty of trouble before nightfall with the possibility of flood conditions in the downtown section.

Ice rising from the bed of the creek in the upper reaches was jamming at Brock St., Hunter St. and beneath the covered portions of the creek south of Hunter.

Board of Works employees headed by street commissioner James Burgess had used 12 half sticks of dynamite by two o'clock to shatter ice jams, but it was heart-breaking work because the ice would move only 100 yards or so and plug the stream again.

Solid Jam

Swollen to spring level by the steady rain, the creek started to growl and pour muddy water littered with huge ice cakes through the downtown channel shortly after 11 this morning. Up to 12 noon all was well, then a jam clogged the stream at Brock St. where Aylmer crosses. The lowlying yard of the old Fitzgerald wood yard had two feet of water in it. The jam was almost solid halfway to Hunter St.

In the upper reaches there was little trouble with the channel open, and below Sherbrooke the stream was also clear but rising rapidly. It rose six inches in two minutes at Dalhousie St. at 1:30.

Workmen are hampered considerably by the fact that there is much ice frozen to the bed of the stream. Dynamite charges not only release jams, but usually frees bottom ice, aggravating the situation.

The water was even with the bridge at Brock and Aylmer and at Hunter St. near the Bell apartments at noon.

It is expected the creek will rise steadily during the day, and at least 14 city workmen were called to duty clearing the ice before three o'clock.

Low-lying areas in the southwest corner of the city, which is usually hit hardest every spring by the flooding of surface water, report that this spring—so far—conditions are actually better than usual. Families who look forward glumly to filled cellars state that they are still able to negotiate that sub-level floor without the use of a rubber dinghy.

However, as one housewife remarked unhappily:

"It's been very good so far, but if this rain keeps up, I'm afraid we're in for it...."

Palestine Peace Left In Hands of UN

Recommend Security Council Take Immediate Steps To Restore Order

LAKE SUCCESS, March 19 — The big powers today recommended that the United Nations Security Council take immediate steps to restore peace in Palestine. No mention was made as to how this should be done.

Warren R. Austin, chief sented the findings which emerged from two weeks of closed - door consultations among the four powers on the Palestine crisis. Austin said the United States, France and China were in full agreement but that Russia would state its own case to the Council.

Austin said the big poewrs hoped to continue their private talks in efforts to reach some agreement on how to carry out the recommendations.

The big power majority report said it was apparent that the U.N. Assembly's plan to partition the Holy Land into independent Jewish and Arab States could not be carried out by peaceful means.

Greeks Fear Albanian Attack

ATHENS, March 19—(AP).—Constantine Rentis, Minister of Public Order, said today the government had learned guerrillas planned an attack on Salonika between March 22 and March 30. A Foreign Ministry spokesman said considerable military movements had been reported in Yugoslavia and Albania. Salonika is a major port and military headquarters at the waist of Greek Macedonia. It lies about 180 miles north of Athens and 40 miles south of the Yugoslav frontier.

Rentis said reports had been received of an international brigade in neighboring countries. Official dispatches from Athens to the United States State Department, made public in Washington yesterday, said three Russian-backed international brigades were reported poised in Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria for a threatened attack. The forces were estimated to total 30,000 men.

Dwight Griswold, chief of the American mission to aid Greece, said he had received no report of an international brigade. He said he believed the Greek army could repel any such invasion without help of Americans.

The mission said four 170-foot motor patrol boats were expected today for delivery to the Greek navy. The boats left Norfolk 24 days ago, each with a crew of Greek officers trained there.

The state department reports, which estimated 30,000 men, mostly Greeks and Albanians, were concentrated under over-all Russian military direction on the Greek frontiers, said an attack from Albania appeared most likely.

Heavy Rains Aggravate High Rivers

Second Evacuation In Long Branch Area; Brampton Hit Again

TORONTO, March 19—(CP).—Flood warnings were issued here today by officials of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. They were "very much afraid" heavy rains which started in Western Ontario and are expected to sweep the province by tonight would cause rivers and streams which overflowed their banks earlier this week to run wild again.

WINDSOR, March 19—(CP)—Local weather bureaus said there was a "strong possibility" of a tornado striking this area today. Weather bureaus forecast winds up to 60 miles an hour and thunderstorms between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. today. The city is on the front of a low presure area which extends to Belleville, Ill. In Belleville, winds over 100 miles an hour were recorded and a tornado struck Scott Field there before 1 p.m.

Officials said there is still frost in the ground in various sections of the province while other sections are fully saturated with water from previous rainfalls, giving the present downpour no settling place but the rivers and lakes.

Thunderstorms were expected throughout the morning and late afternoon by weather officials here who said the rain started in the Windsor area shortly after six o'clock this morning and was spreading northward and over the rest of Ontario.

Light rain followed by Toronto's first thunderstorm of the year shortly after 10 o'clock this morning was responsible for disrupting Hydro power in several sections of the city. High temperatures, which also contribute to floods, were also forecast with thermometer readings expected to reach the middle 50's before nightfall.

Second Evacuation

Several families of Toronto's suburban Long Branch area, scene of the worst flood in the history of the Etobicoke creek Tuesday, were evacuated early today as a precautionary measure.

A heavy electric storm broke over Chatham this morning and the downpour gave aid to the rising Thames river which has now risen 13 feet above normal but is still eight feet below the level of last year's distrous floods.

At nearby Prairie Siding the river was rising due to decurring ice jams and during the night residents worked in an effort to strengthen earthen dykes.

Free Blood Transfusions To Be Given In Ontario

TORONTO, March 19—(CP).—A free blood transfusion service for Ontario will be in operation by September, Alan Ambrose, president of the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society, said today at the 28th annual meeting of the organization. Construction of four new Ontario Red Cross hospitals will be started this year at Burks Falls, Wiarton, Port Loring, and Rainy River, Mr. Ambrose said. In addition, new Red Cross hospitals will be opened soon in Nipigon, Huntsville and Bancroft, while extensions to existing hospitals at Bracebridge, Beardmore and Englehart are almost complete.

Arrangements have been made with the Dominion Government for the Red Cross to take over one wing of the former Chorley Park Military Hospital in Toronto, for use as an Ontario blood centre, the president said. He said building difficulties have delayed erection of the proposed Toronto blood centre until 1949.

Masaryk Aide Get Chief's Job

PRAGUE, March 19 — (AP). — The Prague radio announced today that Vlado Clementis, a Communist, has been appointed foreign minister Czechoslovakia.

Clementis, who had been the No. 2 man in the foreign ministry, succeeds Jan Masaryk, who died in a plunge from his apartment in the foreign office building March 10.

The new foreign minister, a Slovak had been secretary of state for foreign affairs and had been Masaryk's chief assistant for several years. He is a lawyer, 46 years old.

The Prague radio broadcast said the offices of foreign minister and secretary of state are being combined and that Clementis will fill both posts.

Known In West

Though for many years an energetic worker for Communist causes, Clementis has many associations with western countries. He speaks English and French fluently.

In 1935 he was a Communist deputy representing a Slovak district in the Prague parliament. Upon occupation of the country by the Germans he fled to Poland and Russia and ultimately reached France. There the Daladier government interned him.

After France fell he went to England. From there for several years he broadcast news of world events to his homeland.

In 1942 Clementis became a member of the Slovak state council in London. Now he is a member of the Slovak national council, a provincial legislature which sits [illegible]

Approve 275 Million For Greece, Turkey

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP).—The Senate foreign relations committee today approved $275,000,000 aid for Greece and Turkey.

Senator Walter George (Dem. Ga.) told a reporter that the 13 Senators lined un unanimously for the full amount President Truman asked for the Greeks and Turks.

George said the committee then began a closed-door discussion of the proposed $570,000,000 aid for China.

After this session, chairman Arthur Vandenberg (Rep. Mich) said no final decision was reached on China aid. The committee will meet again tomorrow.

Vandenberg said that besides approving $275,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid, the committee agreed to rewrite the original act for aid to those countries. He said the purpose is to "simplify" the language. The first Greek-Turkish aid bill was passed last May and provided for $400,000,000 to help them resist Communism.

Tornadoes, Gales Sweep Five States

CHICAGO, March 19. (AP)—At least four persons were reported killed and several scores were injured today when tornadoes and high winds swept across five states—Illinois, Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The Red Cross midwestern office said it had reported 80 per cent of the town of Bunker Hill, Ill., 40 miles northeast of St. Louis, was levelled. Bunker Hill has a population of 1,500. Field kitchens for 1,000 persons were being dispatched from St. Louis.

CRITICIZES DECISION

MONTREAL, March 19—(CP). — Senator C. C. Ballantyne yesterday voiced sharp criticism of the decision taken at Ottawa this week when Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier was allowed to enter the Senate to explain the shipping bill.

U.S. Officials Release Madame Curie

WASHINGTON, March 19 AP) —Attorney-General Tom Clark to-day authorized the release of Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, French scientist, who had been detained by immigration officials at Ellis Island.

Mme. Joliot-Curie was taken into custody and removed to the Island shortly after her arrival late yesterday in New York from Paris.

Waiting at La Guardia Airport to greet her were officers of the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, which has been listed by Clark as a subversive organization.

A committee spokesman said she had come to this country "to acquaint the American people with the immediate needs of the Spanish Republicans in exile."

The order for Mme. Joliot-Curie's release followed earlier indications from the Justice Department that she would be detained until it could be determined whether her entry would be "prejudicial to the best interests of the United States."

She was released on her own recognizance (without bond) for 15 days.

PARIS, March 19 — (AP). — A French defence official voiced aalrm to-day over the Communist sympathies of atom expert Frederic Joliot-Curie, whose wife, herself a leading physicist, has been released by United States immigration authorities.

Paul Anxionnaz, chairman of the Assembly's National Defence Committee, said he is "extremely uneasy over the fact that our atomic research is headed by M. Joliot-Curie, who has open Communist sympathies."

Has Hankering To See World After 40 Years In Alaska

CORDOVA, Alaska, March 19—(AP).—An Alaska old-timer was en route to Seattle today to see what the "outside" looks like after 40 years. He's Tom White, who in his almost 83 years—60 of them in Alaska—has survived a mountain climbing expedition in which six were lost, made the only rowboat trip up the turbulent Copper River for 100 miles, discovered an oil field and helped discover a mountain.

Once a saloon keeper got his hand shot to shreds in an argument and Tom amputated the hand, administering whisky internally as an anaesthetic and externally as an antiseptic. More whisky was used to sterilize a meat saw and a razor for the amputation job.

White discovered the Katalla oil fields in 1896 while hunting. Following tracks of a bear he had shot, he found himself mushing through a thick heavy ooze that smelled like kerosene. The oil field has been under extensive survey by the United States Interior Department the last four years.

Tom was with the National Geographic Society expedition which discovered and named Mount Logan, second highest peak in North America. He accompanied a dozen expeditions across 1,400-square-mile Malispina Glacier. He came to Alaska in 1888 in search of gold.

He is travelling modern and due to arrive in Seattle tomorrow by plane.

Revolt May Produce Central American War

SAN JOSE, March 19 — (AP). —Gen. Rene Picado Michalski, security (war) minister, said yesterday Costa Rica's political revolt is building into a Central American war.

Picado answered "yes" when reporters asked him if the week-old [illegible] forces under [illegible] Four other countries already a[illegible] said to be involved in Costa Rica's political quarrel.

Leave Door Open For Compromise

BERKELEY, Calif., March 19. (AP)—State Secretary Marshall today declared quick action is needed to stop the spread of Communism, but added "the door is wide open for any general conciliatory moves" by Russia.

He compared the spread of Communist influence in Europe with Hitler's tactics.

"Never before in history has the world situation been more threatening to our ideals and interests than at the present time," he told a University of California charter day audience.

He defined United States policy as: "To stand firm on basic principles but at the same time to keep the door wide open for any general conciliatory moves."

Bumper Syrup Crop Expected

QUEBEC, March 19 — (CP). — With the year's first cash crop at hand, farmers in the counties have an eye on the weather, a prayer on their lips and sugaries fully geared to handle the run of maple sap whose by-products in 1947 reached a gross farm value of $11,000,000 compared with $5,444,000 re[illegible]

hence the prayer for sunny days and frosty nights. Even if the prayer is answered, first reports indicate a strong flow but an abbreviated run.

Tree-tapping already has started in the counties of Beauce, Megantic, Shefford and Dorchester which in 1947 produced the bulk of Quebec's 2,381,000 gallons of syrup and 3,260,000 pounds of maple sugar.

Warn Canada To Slow Up Using Minerals Too Fast

OTTAWA, March 19 —(CP)— Canada's vast mineral resources are being devoured faster than new discoveries are being made, thus placing the country at a disadvantage in event of another war.

That is the considered statement of a mines official after noting that the government has encouraged private prospectors to seek uranium and other radioactive minerals, basis of the atomic bombs.

Elaborting, he said he was certain one other country—Russia—held an advantage over Canada since she had used her mineral resources over a shorter period and therefore could anticipate a great potential.

"I believe Russia's mineral strength and supply to be greater than our own," he said in an interview.

Turning to the United States, he said she was in a worse position than Canada. Mineral depletions were greater than discoveries.

"It's like oil and coal," he added. "You have to go slow or face scarcity."

Eventually, he continued, the world would either reduce industrial development or find synthetic material.

He said known synthetics such as magnesium and aluminum have already been manufactured. The cost was heavy compared with steel, but the potential seemed almost unlimited.

Amplifying the government announcement on uranium, the official said a booklet had been prepared for prospectors to assist them in the location of uranium oxide, usually found in pitchblende.

As to the price to be paid, he said it did not compare with gold for instance, but with tantellum, a corrosion-resistant metal used in the chemical industry and in the manufacture of surgical instruments.

He said the base price of $2.75 a pound may be changed, if warranted.

Fighting Breaks Out At Big Leftist Rally

ROME, Mar. 19—(AP)—Fighting broke out at a big leftist rally in the middle of Rome today and police riot squads were summoned to restore order.

The battling erupted after a speech by Luigi Longo, Italy's No. 2 Communist.

Police quickly quelled the disorders at the leftist rally and no casualties were reported.

The trouble began when crowds leaving the rally in the Piazza Santi Apostoli met those leaving a nearby Socialist meeting. Jeers and catcalls were exchanged and then fists began to fly. Police split the two groups and sent them on their way.

[illegible] Traders to Reds Revealed By Documents

Canada And United States Being Entered By Seasoned Revolutionists

(Editor's Note — To-day the Peterborough Examiner presents the ninth in a series of articles in which Don Cameron, veteran staff reporter of the Windsor Star, sets forth his findings in the course of an exhaustive investigation of Communist strength and aims in Canada. More than 20 Canadian newspapers are publishing the articles, through the courtesy of The Star.)

By DON CAMERON

Many a clear-thinking Canadian believes that this is a time of graver crisis for Canada than those tense months before World War II when statesmen argued whether to appease Hitler or risk dubious battle.

Then an arrogant dictatorship sought to dominate Europe; now a more sinister tyranny largely has accomplished that feat and reaches out for power to rule the world.

Then the grisly spectre of war sent shudders through nations thousands of miles away; now its ominous shadow falls across our towns and cities from east to west.

Foe Within Our Gates

Then the luftwaffe and the panzer divisions were an ocean away and the problem was how to confront them with men and weapons; now the enemy has its hands on the controls of our vital machinery of industry, business and government, and plots our ruin in the house next door.

We have our perennial optimists who feel sure the Communist fifth column in Canada never will have an opportunity to hack effectively at the pillars of our democratic institutions and spread terror and panic through the land. Among them are some who thought, 10 years ago, that the world was big enough to accommodate both Nazism and democracy without undue friction.

Such optimists can take no comfort from the Bolsheviks. Karl Marx was the first to announce—and that was a century ago, when the world was much bigger—that Communism must annihilate capitalism or be annihilated by it, because the two could never exist side by side. The sainted Lenin thought likewise and drenched Russia in blood to prove it. Today the voices of Comrade Stalin and his 18,000,000 disciples around the world din the grim doctrine into our ears.

It is the truth.

There will come a day soon enough — sooner perhaps than even our pessimists think — when the machinery of the nation will falter for a space, will stutter and hesitate. Someone may have tossed a monkey wrench into the gears. Some labor leaders, either blindly or with malice aforethought, may have engineered a strike of large proportions. Some unforeseen crisis, at home or abroad, may have arisen.

It might be the swift development of the "cold war" between the Soviet Union and the western democracies into a shooting war.

Reds Will Not Hesitate

Those unexcelled opportunists, the visible and invisible leaders of the illegal but never disbanded Communist Party of Canada, will be ready to take instant advantage of the break. They are ready now.

In the service of the Soviet Union, which every Communist has taken a solemn vow to defend, they will bend every effort to cripple and shatter the nation. At worst — from their point of view — they will succeed in some degree in unnerving the populace, in aggravating internal troubles to a point where few people will have time to worry about the progress of the Stalinist revolution abroad, and in testing and perfecting their own disruptionist techniques.

At best they will bring about the total collapse of our "bourgeois capitalist" economy so earnestly predicted by Marxist prophets and so ardently hoped for by the ambitious men in the Kremlin, and replace it with that rigid, ruthless slave system euphemistically called the dictatorship of the proletariat.

How, exactly, do they hope to accomplish these things?

In this writer's possession are certain illuminating documents of unquestionable authenticity—rare documents, hard to come by—that provide an eloquent answer.

The first was obtained by courtesy of a man who served in many parts of the world as a trusted member of a Communist S-unit (sabotage unit), but now has turned from the party in rebellion against its inhuman brutality and cynicism. At present, under an assumed name, he is enjoying the democratic liberty he knows he never could have had under any Communist regime.

Instructions for Sabotage

Here, shorn of superfluous revolutionary verbiage for the sake of brevity, are examples of instructions handed down not long ago by the top-level leadership of the Reds who would destroy our democracy:

Speed organization of Action Committees composed of the most militant and reliable elements in factories, shipyards, railroad centres, harbors, ships, armament and munitions factories, public utilities control centres.

Organize Red Vigilante Committees of tested comrades to check and report (in case of a war emergency) on armament orders and consignments of war materiel. Amounts and qualities of war goods, dates of shipment, names of ships, railroad schedules, photos of labels, etc., are important.

Forum Communist Nuclei in all active and reserve military and naval units to demoralize and undermine morale, organize rank-and-file antagonism toward officers and encourage insubordination, individual and mass desertion, strikes and open mutinies. "Revolution in the armed forces begins with grumbling and ends with turning the guns against the home government."

In conducting strikes, provoke violent clashes between strikers and the police. "This lifts the strike to a higher plane of revolutionary warfare."

Farmers' Week So Successful Plan To Make It Annual Peterborough Event

Entire Show, Particularly Bacon Section Rated With Best This Year; Auction Sale Of Grain To Wind Up Week

The remarkable success of Farmers' Week has already recomended its continuance as an annual spring agricultural event in Peterborough. This proposal cropped up in conversations Thursday afternoon and evening among farmers, commercial exhibitors, and Department of Agriculture representatives with such unanimous approval that steps may be taken immediately to extend this week's combined seed grain and bacon show into the future on a permanent basis.

It has been suggested that the ten counties comprising the Quinte District Seed Fair area may agree to hold county elimination competitions in seed grain, followed by a championships show in this city. Broadly, the general idea is similar in its outline to the program of competitions established by the Holstein Breeders' Association whose "Black and White" days appear to be definite fixtures.

Thousands Attend

The thousands of people attending Farmers' Week Thursday afternoon and evening exceeded the hopes of the joint committees who had planned it. All comments were decidedly favorable. Mr. Elgin Senn, supervising grader in Ontario for the Dominion Department of Agriculture, congratulated the planning groups on the success of the entire show, and particularly its bacon and pork products section. Mr. Senn said the bacon show rated with the best he had seen, and especially in its numerous educational details so strikingly prepared and presented by the staff of Canada Packers in Peterborough.

Best Show

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, said the bacon show was "away ahead" of the Middlesex county show in London last week for all its ten years' of experience.

Everybody has been happy about the results of the efforts that were put into Farmer's Week by the Quinte Seed Fair representatives, with some of the Eastern Ontario Threshermen, and a local group of enthusiasts from Peterborough industries attached to agriculture.

Many Displays

Diversity of interest was accomplished in the displays and in the programs with their numerous motion pictures as fillers between meetings and speeches. Friday should be another big day if the weather continues favorable, concluding with the Seed Fair dinner in the evening at George St. United Church. The guest speaker is W. H. Porter, editor of the Farmers' Advocate.

The Week winds up Saturday afternoon with the auction sale of grain beginning at 2 o'clock.

Rural school children of the 6th, 7th and 8th grades were given a holiday Thursday to attend the show, and there appeared to be hundreds of them among the big crowd.

Steel Parley Talks Stalled

TORONTO, March 19 — (CP). — C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), said last night that breakdown of contract negotiations between his union and the Steel Company of Canada in Hamilton meant that the matter had reached "very serious proportions."

The union demands a wage increase of 17½ cents an hour plus concessions of union security, seniority, scheduling of hours and grievance procedure. It has rejected a company offer of a 10-cents-an-hour boost.

Eamon Park, publicity director of the union, said the company had refused to modify its position on any of the major issues in dispute. The union's present agreement with Stelco expires April 1.

Contract discussions also have been held at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Sydney, N.S.

Oil Co. Quits South America

TORONTO, Mar. 19—(CP)—In a move interpreted as a withdrawal from South American operations to concentrate on development in Canada, Imperial Oil, Ltd., is planning to dispose of its holdings in International Petroleum Co., Ltd.

The deal, if it goes through, will place some $80,301,188 in the hands of Imperial, on the basis of 8,728,390 shares at $9.20 a share.

Imperial proposes to sell its stock in International, which it at present controls, on a pro-rata basis to Imperial shareholders; Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) is the majority holder of Imperial stock and so it will get the majority of International shades. International will thereby become a direct subsidiary of Standard.

In the meantime, before it parts with control of International and that company's South American operations, Imperial has made preliminary arrangements with Standard for a crude oil contract to assure Imperial of a continuing source of crude oil for its eastern Canadian requirements over a period of years.

Mr. Hewetson said progress in the company's exploration and producing program in Western Canada "has now reached the stage where the company is confident that this enterprise will be of major importance to Canada and to the shareholders of Imperial Oil.

Ask More Clover To Improve Soil Conditions

"We will have to get back to growing more acres of legumes (clovers) and more tonnage to the acre to maintain the organic matter in our soil," said Mr. Ernest K. Hampson of Hamilton, on the Thursday night program of Farmers' Week at Exhibition Park.

"We are growing fewer acres of covers than we did 20 years ago. Alfalfa is the only legume that has been showing any increase. We have only one-third of the sweet clover of 15 years ago, and alsike is dwindling. Some people will say that what we have lost in legumes we have made up in a better class of hay. That is true to a certain extent."

Mr. Hampson was talking on the subject of soil management and fertility. He reminded farmers that when this country was virgin land nature had its own way of storing organic matter in the soil.

Hardwoods flourished in the richer soils. Pines, fir and spruce grew on the lighter land, and nature always maintained the definite characteristics of the soil. In the muck soils, high in organic matter, were found ash, cedar and other trees. Before the forests were molested by man, they kept a constant addition of leaves, branches and decaying logs that built up a rich store of organic matter that stored moisture like blotting paper.

No Planning

"It was inevitable that the forests had to give way to farming, but the clearing of the land was without plan. An old uncle of mine left a story of pioneer clearing of a great stand of walnut trees. They were simply cut down, piled as logs and burned. From the experience and knowledge later generations gained we know we would have done differently.

Charge Logger Cruel To Work Horses

A logger, 15 miles north of Apsley, has been found by the Humane Society of Peterborough to be using what is described as "horrible cruelty" towards his horses in his logging operations. Humane Society Inspector Gerald Dunford and OPP Bert Howden tracked down reports which had come in, and "got their man" on Wednesday, after a four-mile hike through bush.

The two horses being used by the man were stated to weigh only 1,100 pounds each, which is about 200-300 pounds lighter than the usual weight for bush-work horses.

The animals, the report states, were working in a home-made harness consisting of rope and wire. The parts were in a position and so constructed that metal rivets rubbed against the unprotected hides and the horses are said to be covered with sores.

The case is now pending further action after legal opinion had been obtained.

Driver Cleared Of Crash Blame

LINDSAY, March 19.—(ENS).—L. A. Boucher, engineer with the Department of Highways at Huntsville, was found not guilty on charges of dangerous and careless driving by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court here today.

The case was heard March 4 in Minden and Magistrate Gee reserved judgment until Friday "because of the importance of the case from many angles."

The charges resulted from an accident Nov. 24, when a car driven by Boucher and one driven by A. R. Fulton of Toronto collided head-on near the crest of a hill on Highway 35, six miles north of Minden. Boucher was going north while the Fullton car was southbound. Both cars were completely wrecked and their six occupants were hospitalized.

Mr. Boucher suffered a broken collarbone and severed knee cap. His wife received a broken wrist several broken ribs. C. A. Boucher of Vancouver, brother of the driver, was most critically injured and is still in hospital suffering from partial paralysis. He received severe head and spinal injuries. Mrs. C. A. Boucher sustained cuts about the head and legs.

In the other car, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton were badly injured, evidence stated. Mr. Fulton had severe head and chest injuries and his wife received cuts on the forehead of a serious nature.

Ontario Power Shortage Blamed On Drastic Cut By 3 Companies

TORONTO, March 19—(CP).—The Ontario Legislature, which adjourns Thursday for a five-day Easter recess, will vote next Tuesday on adoption of the Speech from the Throne.

Following speeches by Premier Drew and Farquhar Oliver, leader of the Liberal Opposition, divisions will be called on two amendments sponsored by CCF and Liberal members and then the vote will be taken to adopt the Speech read March 3.

The House heard Hon. George Challies assert yesterday in resumed Throne Speech debate that the primary cause of the power shortage in Ontario was the action of three Quebec companies which cut power exports to Ontario by 16,000,000 kilowatt hours a week.

Mr. Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said withdrawal of the power was forced by poor water conditions.

He blamed the former Liberal administration for building up ill-will between Ontario and Quebec which he said hindered later attempts to reach an agreement for mutual development of hydro. He said repudiation of a power contract with Quebec in 1935 and in 1938 caused deterioration of relations.

Hoped for Hydro

In the debate, Victor Martin (L-Nipissing) expressed the hope that it would not be long before rural areas of Nipissing are supplied with Hydro. People there are deprived of many conveniences which others take for granted, he said.

Lucite deposits found in the district were discussed. He said many claims have been purchased by Aluminum Company of Canada and added that a mine would be in operation shortly. Lucite is used for making magnesium and explosives.

Mr. Martin read a letter he had received from the North Bay Board of Trade which said the people of the city were concerned about possibility of flood conditions of last year being repeated.

The letter asked for Provincial Government action to forestall floods of Lake Nipissing waters and recalled that assurances were received from both the Province and Dominion last year that something would be done.

Doesn't Approve Test

Speaking in the night session, Mr. Anderson said while the qualifications for the $30 old-age pension constitute a means test, the qualifications for getting the extra $10 are a "meaner means test."

The Mayor of Fort William, taking part in the Throne Speech debate, said there should be a more liberal attitude on the part of the Government in giving the extra $10 a month pension.

He qualified his statement, however, by saying that he hoped eventually the whole matter of old-age pensions would be taken over by the Federal Government. He expressed the opinion that the matter was one of Dominion responsibility.

Mr. McEwing said cripples should be provided for by the Government in the form of pensions similar to these for the aged.

Canada Ready To Try Her Hand At Rain-Making Experiments

OTTAWA, March 19—(CP).—The Transport Department took a couple of tongue-in-cheek digs yesterday at all this chatter about mere man making it rain. But it stressed that seeding clouds with dry ice does have definite possibilities—and announced that rain-making experiments will be made by the National Research Council.

Andrew Thomson, meteorological division controller, said:

"No one is at yet quite sure why it rains, for that matter. They understand the atmospheric processes which precede rain, but when it comes right down to the physics of the formation of a raindrop—facts give way to theory and speculation."

Mr. Thomson reported a recent meeting at which high government officials tackled the "fictional and scientific volumes" of reports on rain-making.

"The job of studying the 'evidence' is in itself a tremendous one," he wrote.

"In the few months that rain-making has come into prominence as a definite possibility, practically every periodical worthy of its name has carried a story to appease a clamoring public."

Mr. Thomson put it bluntly: "All too often" dry ice has been dumped into clouds that were getting ready to rain anyway.

Not only that, but there's a "legal aspect," too: What about the business of drenching people with rain or snow "when they have every right to expect that Divine Providence might have dictated otherwise?"

One thing has been demonstrated conclusively: Super-cooled water droplets can be made to form ice crystals instantaneously by "seeding" iodine, pulverized clay or volcanic ash.

There is no proof that these experiments can be duplicated in the free atmosphere on a large scale.

Seymour WI Donates Cups

CAMPBELLFORD, March 19—(ENS). — The Seymour West Women's Institute met Thursday at the home of the president, Mrs. Robert McCulloch. It was inaugurated 35 years ago last July and one of the founders, Mrs. George Longmuir, who was present at the last meeting, was sent a card bearing the names of all those present at Thursday's meeting.

A silver cup to be competed for each year in oratorical contests in the rural schools was donated by the Institute. Miniature cups to be retained by the winners of the past two years were given to Billy Petherick of Petherick's Corners Public School and Joan McCulloch of Seymour West Public School.

Mrs. Ray McCulloch gave a report of the Sunshine Committee which visits and sends cards to shut-ins. Two social evenings netted $53. A donation of $20 was given to the Red Cross campaign.

Sending food parcels to England is to be continued by the Institute and to facilitate in their distribution a similar Instiute in England is being contacted.

Miss Gertrude McCulloch gave an interesting talk about a trip she had taken around the North American continent. A piano solo was played by Joan McCulloch. Lunch was served by the hostess.

The fathers served a delicious lunch and took care of the dishwashing duties.

"Economic Union" With The U.S.

The American magazine Life has come out with an editorial proposal for "complete and permanent" economic union of Canada and the United States. It asks: "Who's against it, and why?" Because of its wide circulation, popular influence and the friendliness of the proposal, we feel that an answer should be given.

* * *

Life is probably not uninfluenced by the five-power treaty drawn up in Brussels by which France, Britain, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg will unite for political, economic and military purposes. Conditions in Europe have made that union imperative, but conditions on this continent are different in kind and scope. Canada is not a small country within marching distance of Moscow, our economy is sound despite a temporary shortage of American dollars and we are a new nation whose resources have barely been touched.

* * *

What is implied by such an economic union? Does it mean that customs barriers would be abolished, that we would have American currency, that our foreign trade would be regulated from Washington? Whatever the scope of the union, it would imply more than a kind of reciprocity treaty. It would lead eventually—and Life recognizes the possibility—to political union and the surrender of our national identity.

* * *

It is not a new story that we are commercially and industrially affiliated with, even dependent upon, the United States, and that we eat the same foods, see the same movies, and speak the same language (with the important exception of the Quebecois) as the Americans. It may be true that Canada is a political anomaly because so much of our communication and trade is naturally on north-south and not east-west axes. It is true, we are happy to be able to say, that the greatest goodwill obtains between Canadians and Americans. In matters of defence we must now depend more heavily on the United States and less on Britain. Are these compelling reasons for economic union with the United States?

* * *

Life is making too much of our present shortage of American dollars. It states that "Canada herself has shown that she cannot fiscally operate in today's world" — Britain of course being deemed down and out and our trade with the "soft currency" countries a liability. We may not be able to trade in today's world profitably — not this year or next—but Canada is not to be measured by a profit yard-stick. Our financial difficulties have arisen because this country has generously given of her wealth and produce for Britain's and Europe's resuscitation.

* * *

Close and friendly relations with the United States are necessary and beneficial. An economic union which must lead to annexation is not. Much as we admire that great country and respect its people we here are proud to call ourselves Canadian. We have earned the right to maintain our national integrity through eighty years of self-government, active participation in two long wars, and the quality of our people and their enterprises. Canada has shown, we modestly believe, that she is quite capable of governing herself and of taking a responsible and valuable place in the comity of nations.

* * *

Despite our similarities with the United States, there does exist a Canadian way of life and thought which we value and which we think is of value to the world. Is it to be expected that we will forego the fruits of a four-century struggle to make a wilderness productive? Should we surrender our prized judicial system and our special democratic form of government evolved from British tradition and moulded in Canada? Should we give over a cherished membership in the only successful federation of nations thus far—the British Commonwealth? We are finally achieving cohesion as a nation of two traditions and two languages (Mr. St. Laurent's recent quiet rejection of a French-Canadian organization's request that the Government declare itself against conscription shows how far we have come along that road). What will come of that concord if we merged, even economically, with the United States?

* * *

We have passed beyond the days when an American cry of 'Manifest Destiny' could be an election slogan to make Canadians cry 'No truck with the Yanks'. But we do not need, nor want, nor think desirable an economic union "quick enough and thorough enough to rescue Canada". From what would Life rescue us? To what oblivion would it condemn us?

"I'd Let The Russians Have It Now!"

There is too much loose talk about making war on Russia or Russia making war on us. There are too many people saying: "Well, if the Russians want war, let's give it to them hard and fast", or "We are going to have war sometime; we should have it now before Russia gets the bomb". Do you really mean it, you praters about war, when you say you would let the Russians have it now? Have you thought out the implications of what you say?

Are you yourself prepared to put on uniform or to work in an armament factory for a soldier's pay; are you prepared for total conscription for industry and the services? Are you ready to pay the taxes to supply the money to make vast quantities of atom bombs and jet-propelled planes? Have you thought that enemy planes might be over your head and atom bombs dropped on your home? Is Canada better able to afford and wage a war than Russia? Have you tried to visualize the consequences of such a war? You whose desperate and alarming, hollowly brave words fly up to the angry heavens, you casual pessimists, you so-called realists: try calmly to think back to the summer of 1945. Were you eager to wield the big stick then? Though you were a bit weary of war, were you not dismayed that atomic bombs had been used against the Japs, that war could come to such a dreadful end? Then you wanted neither war nor atomic bombs; now you seem to want both. Perhaps you do not, really. Perhaps you have not been thinking before you speak.

We are not suggesting a policy of appeasement. War with Russia is, unhappily, a possibility. We will admit that there may be a few serious, well-informed thinkers who believe that we should strike soon. But we object to the foolish ranters who rattle the sabre in its sheath. Thought and rational hope will better serve humanity than belligerent words and superficial pessimism.

Roosevelt Statue In Grosvenor Square

Statues are a little out of fashion and it was the late Lord Derby who was old-fashioned enough to propose that a suitable British memorial to President Roosevelt would be a statue of the late President. A man with a modern common touch would have proposed a swimming pool for Cheapside or Nissen huts for the Strand, to be called 'Roosevelt Waiting Rooms For Bus Queuers'. Nevertheless, Lord Derby's suggestion was taken up, thousands of people contributed thousands of pounds in five-shilling donations, and a completely useless fountain and bronze standing image of the late President are being erected in Grosvenor Square. They will serve no purpose other than to beautify the Square (for we think that the sculpting of Sir William Reid Dick cannot be ugly), and to honour the memory of a great man and perpetuate his image in bronze.

Canadians like to think of themselves as progressive but many do not realize that not all progress is in a good direction. There is a place for utility but there are also street corners and cities in need of unpractical carved fountains and sculpted stone. We need both Marthas and Marys, and ornament and beauty must not be considered incidental to practicality. This city and district worthily commemorated the service of our men in the Great War in the Allward memorial in Confederation Park. It will never in a thousand years be useful, but for a thousand years it may grace the city and dignify, perhaps inspire, our citizens.

When Miss Scott returned the Ottawa Police Force had a sign saying "Welcome Home, Barbara Ann" stretched across the front of their station-house. Obviously the cops think that she is going to get that car, and that they are going to get her.

Small Beer And No Bribes

By NORMAL SHRAPNEL
(In The Manchester Guardian)

ENLIGHTENMENT breeds its own oddities. Children go to the psychiatrist's rather as they used to go to the barber's; and while chatty juvenile books about the atom are quite the thing, to take a golliwog into a nursery is to risk having an indignant policewoman on your doorstep. For all that, few people would deny that children (whatever may await their maturity) are more sanely treated and certainly have a better time of it than ever before.

✧ ✧ ✧

HERE, anyway, is one major achievement of the age. Even if the rational world ends at the schoolroom wall, fourteen years of the good life weighs something in the human scale. Many of us would prefer to have spent our adulthood, but few our childhood, in either of the two centuries preceding our own. Where did this fresh wind spring, that passed so high over the sad little men and women of the eighteenth century and the prime little prigs and paragons of the nineteenth? Somewhere, perhaps, in the seventeenth, whose mental climate in so many ways resembled ours. It would be interesting to know to what extent the advanced theorists who have found the key to educational sanity acknowledge their Locke.

✧ ✧ ✧

"SOME Thoughts Concerning Education" appeared in 1693—a neglected masterpiece of sense, if not of style (how much important writing, one is tempted to ask, has the worship of literary style condemned to obscurity?). It would not be out of place on the shelves, or should one say the floor, of the most progressive modern school. "The First thing to be taken care of is, That Children be not too warmly Clad or Covered Winter or Summer." They should be much in the open air, and very little by the fire. They should play in the wind and sun without a hat. They should wear loose cloths and (surely a shock to the conventions of the day) eat plenty of fruit. Even the adjuration that they should "Drink only Small Beer" is progressive in its way, for the contemporary orange-juice equivalent was wine and even stronger tipples: "there is nothing so ordinarily given Children in England, and nothing so destructive to them."

✧ ✧ ✧

EXCEPT, one may think, their frequent beatings. Here Locke is plainly angry. "The usual lazy and short way by Chastisement and the Rod, which is the only Instrument of Government that Tutors generally know or ever think of, is the most unfit of any to be used in Education." It is not the view, so much as the reason for it, that ranks him in the van of modern thought: not through squeamishness about pain, nor because (atrocious self-deception!) the chastier suffers more than the chastised, but because a beaten child tends to become either violent or else cowed. "Passionate chiding" he condemns equally.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOR does he believe in bribes—or incentives, to use the more respectable word of the moment. To induce your son to behave with "apples or Sugar-plumbs" is indefensible. He is a realist: "remove Hope and Fear, and there is an end of Discipline." But the hope should be of disgrace. Here, perhaps, our progressive schoolmaster may begin to frown a little.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT as he reads on, and learns, for instance, that children should not be nagged about "Punctilio's, or Niceties of Breeding," or burdened with "Rules and Precepts which they do not understand," approval will return. And when he finds that they should only be made to do things when they really want to, he will be batting happily again on the home wicket. "Well, chaps, arithmetic this morning? No? Very well, just let me know when you feel like it": here he has Locke's sensible support. But the reason is put a good deal more neatly than in most modern exordiums—it is that they will "learn three times as much when in tune." Curiosity should be encouraged, not quelled. Awkward questions? Better to tell them plainly they are too young to understand than "pop them off with a Falsehood, or a frivolous Answer." Unscientific perhaps, but honest and sensible; and better than a great deal of beating about the gooseberry-bush.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON Lying, Excuses, Religion, on decent manners as opposed to priggishness, the "Thoughts" are equally correct and always for the right reasons. On Cruelty, too: if children are allowed to ill-treat animals it will "by degrees harden their minds even towards Men." Locke needed no modern psychologist to teach him the dangers of gory stories, which stamp upon young minds "Ideas that follow them with Terror and Affrightment." He knew, two hundred and fifty years ago, that work can become play and that play, if it gets to be a nuisance, can be turned into work. "Children may be cozen'd into a Knowledge of the Letters: be taught to read, without perceiving it to be anything but a Sport." And, on the other hand, if a boy "be ordered every day to whip his Top so long as to make him sufficiently weary, do you not think he will apply himself with eagerness to his Book?" A pretty mental picture, the advanced little seventeenth-century child sadly whipping his top and longing for his Aesop, or even his Lily's Grammar.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT if one sentence alone would qualify the "Thoughts" for the top shelf of twentieth-century enlightenment it is where Locke demands that a teacher or parent should "talk familiarly" with a child—"nay, ask his Advice, and Consult with him about those things wherein he has any knowledge or understanding." One almost hears a mass murmur of youthful applause: polite, but perhaps a little tepid? After all, father's rational approach (even with Mr. Locke behind it) has one very plain thing in common with mother's baby talk. It is nice to be asked one's advice. It would be nicer still if it were ever taken.

WHERE HITLER LEFT OFF

Letter To The Editor

AMATEURISM IS NOT DEAD

Sir: In your editorials of March 12th you had some remarks on criticism of the City Council not contributing more than $10,000 to the proposed Civic Arena at one of the rink committee meetings. It is only fair that it be made known that no criticism came from the committee members as they are aware of the fact that the council have only the power to give so much without the ratepayers voting on it as a by-law.

Your remarks on the city badly needing a public auditorium for public meetings, conventions, concerts and plays is very well taken and I believe we should have some such place. The Community Centre have this taken care of in their plans, I am sure, but this program will certainly mean that hockey is not going to have enough time allotted to it to take care of its needs. I believe it is obvious that another rink will be needed to take care of the hockey and skating demands of the citizens. Hockey would be very lucky to get two or three nights a week allotted to it from the Community Centre and this would certainly not take care of our minor, industrial and church league hockey, not to mention our junior teams. These are the leagues that will have to supply our players of the future unless we adopt the policy of importing our players—leaving our own youth to sit on the side lines.

As for these arenas becoming a burden on the taxpayers, the proposed Civic Arena should, in my opinion, pay its own way from the attractions held there and from the coffee and sandwich bar that would be installed in this rink. In one town that has a similar rink they inform us that this concession pays for all operating costs.

Your editorial made some comments on amateurism in the times gone past. You should follow some of the fellows around that have been trying to keep the game alive in this rinkless city. Nights when it is below zero they often have to stand on an out-door rink to teach the kids what hockey they can. These fellows frequently have to go in their own pockets to help defray expenses, with no hope of getting it back. No, Mr. Editor, amateur sport is not dead yet.

At the general meeting called for in the market hall the majority of the people voted for an artificial ice arena if enough money could be raised. The general committee had to set an objective high enough to cover this type of rink. It is the intention of the general committee to try and build the rink the people wanted, but if enough money cannot be reached to do so they would build a natural ice rink, leaving it so that artificial ice equipment could be added when the funds were available.

When this arena is completed the city would be the owner of a valuable piece of property, with a very small outlay on their part—a $100,000 investment for only $10,000, plus the lot it would be built on.

PERC. KILLINGBECK.

405 Wolfe Street.

ED. NOTE: Once again we must point out that the whole sum for the rink would come from the citizens, whatever the Council voted officially for that purpose.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Vanity of vanities, said the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity . . . The wind goeth toward the south, and turneth about unto the north; it whirleth about continually, and the wind returneth again according to his circuits. All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again. All things are full of labour; man cannot utter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing . . .

I communed with mine own heart, saying, Lo, I am come to great estate, and have gotten more wisdom than all they that have been before me in Jerusalem: yea, my heart had great experience of wisdom and knowledge. (Eccl. 1: 2, 6-8, 16.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I gathered me also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces: I gat me men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as musical instruments, and that of all sorts . . . And whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them, I withheld not my heart from any joy: for my heart rejoiced in all my labour: and this was my portion of all my labour.

Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labour that I had laboured to do: and, behold, all was vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun. (Eccl. 2: 8, 10, 11.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Surely every man walketh in a vain shew: surely they are disquieted in vain: he heapeth up riches, and knoweth not who shall gather them. (Ps. 39: 6.)

St. Stephen's Crown

Hungarians will not fail to read a political meaning into the report that the Crown of St. Stephen is to return to the Vatican. The Crown was taken by retreating Hungarian troops to the American zone of Germany, and the State Department is said to have refused the Hungarian Government's request for its return to Hungary. In the minds of the Hungarian people the Crown acquired a special mystic symbolism from its having been bestowed by Pope Sylvester II on King Stephen, the founder of the Hungarian State and Church. It symbolised the bonds between the Apostolic King and his people and the integrity of the domains which he established. The importance of this idea was not lost upon those who, between the wars, made frontier revision their chief instrument of policy: Admiral Horthy could not, for political reasons, assume the Crown, but he retained and fostered its mystique, the force of which undoubtedly persists on an emotional plane even now that Hungary is politically a republic. It is a force that could again be used for political ends, and as such might be something far more intractable to the present regime than any "Third Force" manifestations of the kind that have led to the disruption of the Hungarian Social Democratic party.—Manchester Guardian.

Large Profit On Storage Butter Said Unexpected For Packers

OTTAWA, March 19 (CP). — A "large profit" on storage butter was made by Canada Packers, Ltd., in the 1947-48 storage season, but the company had not anticipated such a profit, J. S. McLean, company president, told the Commons Price Committee today.

Reasons for the profitable operations were given by Mr. McLean as a prospective acute shortage last year and removal of subsidies from feed grains, which sent up farmers' costs and brought demands for higher butterfat prices.

He said his company, in its storage operations from 1939 to 1947 inclusive, made a total profit of $103,000, or one-quarter cent a pound on more than 46,000,000 pounds of butter it handled.

On all the company's butter operations for that time — including butter which it manufactured and bought — the firm showed a profit of $625,000, Mr. McLean said. That came to .23 cents a pound.

For the 1947-49 season, because of the "extraordinary profit on storage butter," the profit was 2.29 cents a pound.

Average profit for the whole period up to March 1, 1948, was two-fifths of a cent per pound, he said.

10-Cent Increase

In explaining the causes for last year's profit, Mr. McLean said that the first result of decontrol last June was a 10-cent rise in the price of butter, the highest since May, 1921.

At the time, he declared, the company had "a feeling of apprehension" at the start of the storage season, since the storage price was the highest in years. A loss was feared.

A table on butter operations given the committee by Mr. McLean showed the company made a profit of 11.21 cents per pound on its storage butter operations in the 11 months up to March 1, 1948.

For all butter operations in that period, the profit was 2.29 cents a pound.

CASE TAKES NEW TURN

OTTAWA — The case of John Charles Lemarre, 33, of Montreal, charged with stealing seven outomobiles valued at $13,000, took a new turn when police charged he was an escape prisoner from the Ontario Reformatory at Burwash.

FAMILY RECOVERING—Victims of carbon-monoxide, these members of an East York family were recovering last night from their near escape from death. The father, Gerald Hamilton, was still in hospital last night, as was daughter Joan, 8, but their condition was satisfactory.

Inflation Check Must For Britain

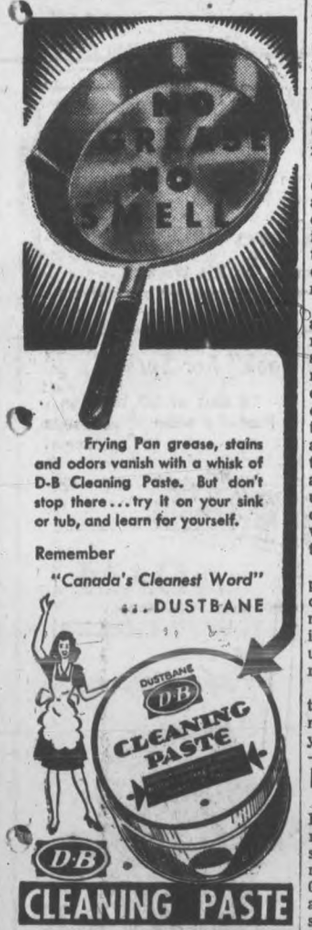
By The Canadian Press

Britain's present drive to check inflation and hold down the cost of production probably will decide the future of the pound sterling and her trade wtih Canada.

A British observer, asked recently whether he thought the pound would be devalued, replied:

"You tell us; if and when we have priced ourselves out of the Canadian market, you can look for devaluation."

Goods from Britain have reached a critical price point insofar as their stability in Canada is concerned. Demand probably still is high enough to carry the situation for a while, fortunately, because if Britain can't sell here, neither can she buy.



Devaluation of the pound would add that much to th ecost of raw materials, as well as foods, which she must import. Present government thought is that the increased cost of imports would not be compensated by any easier access to export markets which devaluation might bring—and further, that much of the export advantage would be lost through devaluation bringing a further increase in costs at home which would again make itself felt in the cost of production.

Success would probably be impossible without the European recovery program—but the government apparently feels that there is no solution even in the E.R.P. unless the basic situation is corrected.

The picture is not all bad. Britain has many plans afoot which may add up to something in a year or so.

Legion's Third-Period Drive Sews Up Round With Toronto

Down three goals on the round, Legionnaires last night roared back to tie up their OHA Senior "B" playdown series in the third frame before a big crowd in Lindsay. The game score was 4-3 for Toronto Fliers and the round is sewed up tightly at 8-all. The tussle was staged on soft ice, and the site and date of the third game have not been set yet. No overtime was played last night.

The Fliers racked up a 2-0 edge in the first chukker and had it 4-0 to end the second, as everyone figured it was just a case of playing out the string for Legion. But the "fighting 52nd" crew tore into it in the third heat and poured home three goals—a fourth was disallowed—and force a rubber match. It may be staged in Belleville on artificial ice.

Not So Hot

Legion played indifferent hockey on the poor surface for two periods and the Fliers outhustled them to earn their margin. But it was all Legion in the third. Play was generally fast and fairly clean, with Toronto drawing nine of the 14 penalties, as Bob Greenlaw was given a misconduct for protesting too strenuously on an offside call. Referees Walsh and St. Louis handled the game well.

Dootch Vitarelli and Godfrey were each in on two goals to lead Legion in sniping. Rochetta scored two but one was called back for being partly in the crease. None of the Legion crew showed too much the first two stanzas, but the whole team hit its peak in the third and all went well. Ross Nicholls was steady in the net most of the route. The Rich brothers, O'Donnell and Irons stood out most of the fray for the Fliers.

Came Close

B. Rich tested Nicholls early in the game and a rush by Bob Greenlaw and Rochetta nearly paid off. Ace Nicholls also came close. T. Rich went off for interference but Legion applied little pressure before his return. Vipond got it for tripping but again no damage was done, and Diplock scared them with a breakaway. Ernie Nicholls was chased for interference but was back when Parnell and Delatt were gated for high-sticking. Dootch came close and then Ned Vitarelli got the nod for boarding. Diplock scored the first one as they ganged up on a screened shot. Parnell made a good try and later Ernie and Ace got in for a shot. Fliers went one up on the round when Singleton took a neat pass in close and picked a corner near the finish.

Early in the second, T. Rich banged in a pass from T. Rich and they flew back shortly to make it read 4-0 on the game when Delatt's slap shot on B. Rich's forward pass dented the hemp. The Legion first line came mighty close twice and then Vipond was waved over for holding, and Ned Vitarelli followed to boarding. Both returned and play was fast and fairly even, but ragged in the mucky going with passes missed by both sides. Ernie almost fooled Irons and Ross robbed Singleton, before Murphy went away for tripping at the end.

Legion Clicked

Vipond was penalized for tripping early in the third with Murphy still off, and Rochetta capped in a Legion marker in close from Godfrey and Ned Vitarelli. Joe got another but it was called back and then Toronto were at full strength again. Legion continued to fight in there till Bob Greenlaw got a misconduct. Burns and Ernie blasted a hot one into Irons' pads and, with Murphy off for high-sticking, they really roared around the enemy cage. But he returned and a rush by Ace and Ernie missed fire. Parks went over next for interference and D. Vitarelli scored in a scramble from H. Greenlaw and Parnell. B. Rich was gated for holding and Crowley tipped in the tying goal, aided by D. Vitarelli and Godfrey. Rochetta and later Ace were close as play proved plenty hot the rest of the rout, but the round was tied at the windup.

The teams:

Legion: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and N. Vitarelli; centre, Rochetta; wings, R. Greenlaw and Crowley; alternates, E. Nicholls, A. Nicholls, Burns, Parnell, D. Vitarelli, H. Greenlaw and D. Mortimer.

Toronto: Goal, Irons; defence, O'Donnell and Kwas; centre, Singleton; wings, B. Rich and T. Rich; alternates, Bradshaw, Fournier, Diplock, Murphy, Vipond, Delatt and Parks.

Referees, M. Walsh and S. St. Louis.

Femmes' hoop finals commence tonight in the YWCA with Neill's playing Nurses at 8.15 in a senior go, and Normals mixing with Lock Co. an hour later in intermediate play. These are best-of-three and for keeps now, so the lasses will be stepping high, wide and handsome before a goodly gallery. Lock Co. plays Normals at eight p.m. Monday and this series could well end up that soon. Next numbers then are the following Friday when seniors and juniors get into action again. In Toronto this evening, the senior "A" and junior "A" PCI-ers swing into COSSA semi-finals as district winners. And tomorrow, the Marines have their return OABA intermediate "A" semi-final in St. Kitts.

Annual meeting Monday eve at seven in the "Y" of the Peterborough and District Football (soccer) Association. An open session to elect officers, accept entries and draft general plans for the season. As well as hear reports of 1947. There were six senior clubs in last semester and two juniors, and 'tis expected the circuit will be at least as large and successful once more. The classy Electrics picked up the marbles during the past season and Scotty Rickard tells us they'll be better this year—though Scotty may be prejudiced. Lindsay has notified Stroyan Leith that this club will be back again. So, league officials optimistically face the 1948 campaign.

Just a reminder of the big Central Ontario doubles badminton tourney here this week-end. Public is invited to view these championship matches at the Market Hall and Armouries. Men's doubles go at the Market Hall tonight and the ladies' events at the Armouries, commencing at seven p.m. Mixed doubles start Saturday aft at the Market Hall at two and the finals are there that eve at eight. The defending champs of last year are in action again, the draw has been made and other info on the big event is listed elsewhere.

With the end of another busy season of district hockey, peace settles once more on the village squares. The 10-team Trent Valley League had a fine winter of it with Marmora beating Norwood in finals to take the title. And Warsaw proved the pick of the equally interesting Rural Hockey League. Hard feelings generated on frosty nights in hot games within cold rinks have pretty well worn off by now and folks are speaking to each other again. Don't think the fan rivalry isn't keen in district puck play—something like that built up by Petes and Legion in their sawoffs—but nothing endures in this life. The saints be praised!

About The 11th Hour

Looked like curtains for Legionnaires for two frames in Lindsay last night but they snapped back to life in the third to pot three markers on Toronto Fliers and tie up their OHA senior "B" round at 8-8. Forcing a third game. Maybe in Belleville early in the week — it depends on what the OHA orders today. Hank Goldup's gang were all set to celebrate a series victory as they coasted to a 4-0 lead in the first two heats to hold a three-goal margin on the round. Looked better than Legion up to then, too. But the battling Legionnaires got untracked in that lively third—as penalties hurt the Toronto cause—so they're starting all over again. A fine display of uphill fighting and they figure they can take Toronto now.

* * * * * *

Another hefty crowd and another sheet of soft ice. Play was fast enough and fairly clean but ragged on both sides. Fliers really mucked in most of the way but were plenty tired at the finish. We didn't pick any local stars as none of them clicked up to par till the third, and the whole squad deserves a hearty pat for that last payoff drive. Neither team is likely to take the next number by more than a goal or two as they're well-matched, but Coach Ned claims his club can't help but win now after coming back from the brink of oblivion last soft gloaming. Some of the front-runner fans were cheering the Fliers most of the route and then switched suddenly to Legion in the late stages as they uncorked their rally. Ah, well....

Churches figuring on entering softball teams in the Church Loop this season should notify Secretary Harris Glen (phone 4264), giving names and ages of players. This will give loop officials a lineup on the coming season and an early meeting will be called. The Church League—combining hockey and softball—last month asked the Recreation Commission for a grant up to $25 to help buy sports' equipment, first time such aid was asked by this circuit. However, they had no luck as the Commission replied that their funds were too low at the present time.

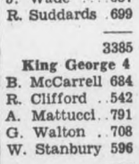
Shockey's Tops With 3634 In City League

Shockey's took the majority of individual prizes in the Men's City Five-pin league last night as they rolled high pinnage of 3634 and high single game of 1424 to win four points from Legion.

Bill Harris came through with high single game of 358 for top single honors. Irv Hanes of the Generals was tops for three game total with 804, the only bowler to beat the 800 mark on the night.

Plazas won four points from the league leading Fashion Craft. Ramblers lost one game to Grant's, while Kawarthas and King George each won two games from Freeman's and Sunocos to keep the team standing for the first six teams the same as last week.



DeLaval won two games from Clapper's while McGillis were winning by the same margin from Generals. The tail-end Sparton club took two games from the weakened Empress Old Timers.

Following Harris' top single, good scores were turned in as follows: Andy Basciano 335, Bill Masters 328, Harold Freeman, 327, Bud Goodson 319, Ed Starr 315, Roy Suddards 3-3, Irv Hanes 312 and Harold Legrow 311.

The race for high average has narrowed down to the following three bowlers each having rolled 81 games with averages as follows: Bill Martin 251.8; "Tic" Caccavella 248.8, Fred Martin 247.6.

In the double header challenge match played last Saturday the Martins won both ends, taking two games and pinnage from the Mattucci boys and all three games from the Legrow family. On Saturday the Martins take on the Caccavella family at 1:30 p.m.

Two NHL Goalies On Spot With Chance For $1,000

By The Canadian Press

Two goalies will be on the spot — with a chance for $1,000 dangling within reach of their capable hands — when Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs battle it out this week-end for the National Hockey League championship and the Prince of Wales Trophy.

The $1,000 goes with the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalkeeper "who has played the most games for the team having the fewest goals scored against it" during the regular league schedule. Both Turk Broda of the Leafs and Harry Lumley of Wings have a chance at it, each with a goals-against record of 138.

Last night President Clarence Campbell of the N.H.L. said at Montreal that in event of a tie the Vezina Trophy would be of dual ownership for a year and the $1,000 would be split. The only time Broda ever won it, back in 1941, he edged out another Detroit netminder, Johnny Mowers.

And the league leaders moved to give battle in one of the most crucial week-end double-headers in big-time hockey history, it was reported from St. Catharines, that penalty-killing ace Joe Klukay of the Leafs had a 60-40 chance of playing at Toronto Saturday.

Knee Injury

Klukay, an expert at tying up the opposition when his team is short-handed, suffered a knee injury in a Wednesday practice but heat treatments in hospital seemed to be bringing it around. Leafs will decide Saturday afternoon whether he can play at Toronto or in the return game Sunday at Detroit.

In other games, Montreal Canadiens play Chicago Black Hawks at Montreal Saturday and Bruins at Boston Sunday. The Habitants lost their last mathematical chance to make the four-team loop playoffs when New York Rangers defeated the Hawks Wednesday night.

The other Sunday game sees the Hawks taking on Rangers at New York as the N.H.L. regular schedule winds up.

And as the Leafs, Rangers, Bruins and Red Wings head toward the start of the Stanley Cup playoffs March 24, it was announced that the ancient trophy has been given a face-lifting.

Rhyme To Warsaw Hockey Champions

A fair young district hockey fan, evidently an admirer of the Warsaw champions of the Rural League this season, sends in the following rhyme:

Here's to Warsaw's hockey team:
"Sincere congratulations!"
They didn't lose a single game
In their competition.

They skated well and skated fast,
And kept their bearings ever—
How those boys kept up the pace
It really was quite clever.

The players never seemed to tire,
As rival fans did boo them,
With a grin they carried on,
Like heroes skated through them.

Some fans said things — you wouldn't think
They could act quite so mean—
To see if they could slow them up,
But not that Warsaw team.

And when the final games came up
They still drew crowds to see
Just how the lads could carry on
These important games to play;

They played them all fair and and square
With Warsaw out on top—
We hand it to the champions,
Who really earned the cup.

Tigers Beset By Injuries

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP).—Philadelphia Athletics, after several days of ironing out flaws, swing back into their exhibition schedule with a game against Toronto at West Palm Beach, Fla., today, Memphis tomorrow, and the Phillies Sunday.

Almost certain to see action in one game is Joe Coleman, formerly of Toronto, only Athletic hurler to go five innings thus far.

Detroit Tigers were beset with a rash of minor injuries today.

Manager Steve O'Neill is sidelined with his annual sore ankle, outfielder Vic Wertz hurt his ankle sliding, Bob Swift has been out since Monday with a sore throat, and three others have sore arms.

Pittsburgh Pirates figure they're a sure thing to wind up in the first division this year. Why? Because of Johnny Hopp.

Johnny is starting his ninth season in the majors and has yet to finish out of the money.

STANLEY CUP GROWS AND GROWS —Oldest trophy competed for by professional athletes on the North American Continent is the history-steeped Stanley Cup. Like the game itself, it has grown tremendously in stature, now looks like this. Every fan knows, of course, that Toronto Maple Leafs won it last season, and here Leafs' captain, Syl Apps, and Coach Hap Day, admire the gfiant bauble after its recent furbishing by a Toronto firm. During the trophy's latest face-lifting, the base was rebuilt, previous winners' names were inscribed in sequence and ample space left to record future winners for many years.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

George Panter, president of the O.H.A., yesterday took exception to recommendations of William Northey, Montreal that the Allan Cup and Memorial Cups be retired to Hockey's hall of fame because they no longer represent amateur competition. "Now that I am declaring there is professionalism as it is known in amateur hockey, I think it would be too, a tacit admission that there is no amateur hockey. That isn't so."

"People are always screaming about amateur players receiving pay for their play," he said. "We know they are receiving pay. We've known it for years. So what? How about the thousands who don't receive pay?" He said that almost 25,000 players are registered with the O.H.A. and that most of them, perhaps 80 to 90 per cent don't receive a direct game.

He saaid the O.H.A. was not afraid of taxation should the word "amateur" be stricken from the organization but it would hardly be fair to tax the little communities which annually go into the hole on hockey operation. 'Frankly, we need a special rules for Junior "A" and Junior "A" hockey and at the next rules meeting that will be the main bout," he said.

J. D. (Buzz) Harvey of Toronto, fourth year chemistry student at Ontario Agricultural College, has been awarded the Wildman trophy, presented to the senior student adjudged to have the best combined qualities of sportsmanship and academic efficiency. The trophy perpetuates the memory of the late Ted Wildman, rated one of the outstanding athletes in the history of the college. J. A. Chivas of Sarnia received special mention.

Jack Kramer made it nine straight victories over Bobby Riggs last night at Atlanta, Ga., in their 50th meeting of the current tour of tennis professionals 6-4, 6-4. It was Kramer's 34th victory of the tour.

RCAF Flyers, Canada's Olympic hockey champions, weary after a strenuous exhibition tour of Europe, last night lost a 5-3 decision to Wembley All-Stars at Wembley arena before a crowd of 10,000.

The Flyers went into an early two-goal lead but the All-Stars, Canadians from the Wembley Monarchs and Lions teams, scored three quick goals midway through the final period and were never headed.

The Ontario school for the deaf, Belleville, basketballers, COAS's girls' junior champions, are ready for action as they tangle at Toronto with teams from Lake Ontario, Georgian Bay and Niagara districts. Team members are: Gertrude McCourt, Kingston; Rose Chupik, Oshawa; Jeannine Gravelle, Ottawa; Jean Laidlaw, Toronto; Lula Cayer, Cornwall; Lula Vervis, Guelph; Delors Henault, Woodstock; Emily Wilson, Calagogie, and Dorothy Parks, Turiff.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

New York Rangers shut out Boston Bruins 4-0 and Toronto Maple Leafs downed Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 to open the National Hockey League playdowns, eight years ago tonight. Leafs ousted the Hawks and later Detroit Red Wings only to lose out to the Rangers in the Stanley Cup finals.

Dashing Flynn Returns After Illness

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (AP) —Following an extended illness, Errol Flynn is back at work and as dashing as ever in his maroon tights.

Errol has four weeks of fencing and action scenes to do for "Don Juan" and then he'll take off for the West Indies again. He describes the picture as "twice as hard as any I have ever done before," but seems to be enjoying himself. I saw him kidding with some fellow actors, who have nicknamed him "P-38." It seems a recent magazine article referred to him as paunchy 38. (Actually, he looks pretty trim.)

Double Trouble

Lon Chaney will appear as two monsters in "Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein." Glenn Strange, playing Frankenstein's monster, broke his foot while trying to throw an actress out a window. So Lon, who is the wolf man, slipped on Strange's mask and completed the scene. You won't know the difference on the screen....

Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin yearns for a songless movie. She would like to do a straight dramatic role, but adds, "I'm afraid neither U-I nor the fans would permit it." She thinks her next after "Washington Girl" will be a lavish color musical ("Bloomer Girl"?) which the studio shelved when the British tax was levied..

The British tax settlement is easing many tight conditions here. Actors expect their situation to be much better, and several stars are trying for new and better contracts from their studios. Yep, it looks as though the panic is over....

Rookies Stud Major League

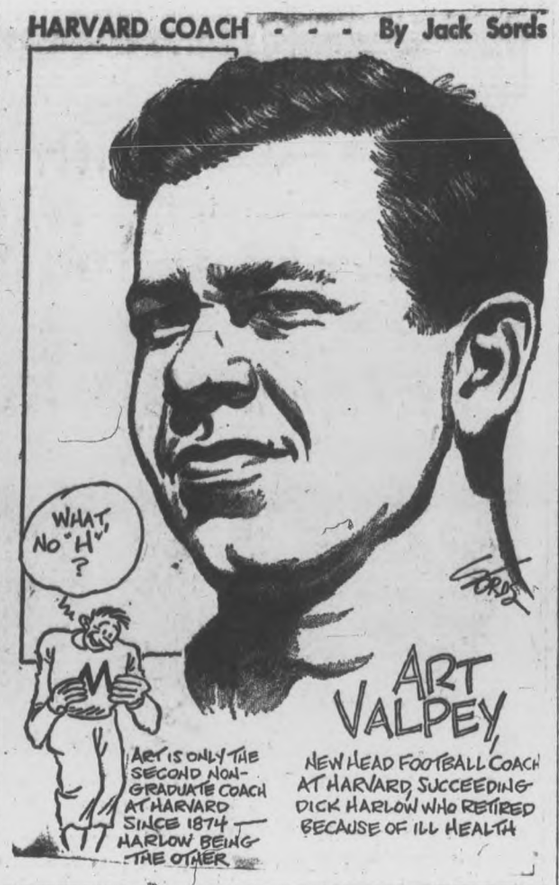
TAMPA, Fla., March 19.—(AP). —Time was when a first-year player found it almost impossible to break into a regular major league baseball line-up. Today, each of the 10 clubs training in Florida has at least one good-looking rookie slated to open the 1948 season as a full-timer. Some even have two.

The best of the freshmen crew appear to be Curt Simmons of Philadelphia Phillies; Alvin Dark, Boston Braves; Virgil Stallcup, Cincinnati Reds; Lou Brissie, Philadelphia Athletics; Clarence Beers, St. Louis Cardinals; and Gil Coan, Washington Senators.

Other freshmen who probably will make the grade include first baseman Paul Campbell and George Vico of Detroit; catcher Gus Niarhos, New York Yankees; second baseman Al Kozar, Senators; outfielders Duke Snider and Dick Whitman, Brooklyn; outfielder Hank Sauer and pitchers Gerald Staley and Al Papai, Cardinals

Simmons, the 18-year-old "boy wonder," has been hailed by all who have seen him pitch as a sure-ffre big league star of tomorrow. Handed a bonus of $60,000 last June, the left-handed Simmons won 13 and lost five in Wilmington last season and defeated New York Giants 3-1 in his only big league start.

High Park Wins Kingston Trophy



KINGSTON, March 19 (CP). — R. E. Green's Toronto High Park rink last night won the Whig-Standard trophy in the premier event of the 22nd annual Kingston curling club bonspiel. The Green rink defeated Peter Heenan's Toronto Granite Club rink 8-6 to capture the trophy for the second time in three years.

The W. W. Hawley trophy went to W. F. Nicholson of nearby Rockwood whose rink defeated the quartet skipped by H. Burns of Perth 11-7.

In finals for Gouried trophy, Leo Milne's Kingston rink downed the foursome skipped by J. McKimmie of Lachute, Que., 8-5.

In the Association cup finals, the rink skipped by R. M. Allan of Kingston beat J. W. G. Sands' Kingston rink 10-8.

NORWOOD, March 19—(ENS) Warsaw defeated Westwood in the third straight game in the finals of the rural loop on Tuesday night in Norwood, winding up the series without losing a single game.

Defer Labor Code

OTTAWA, March 19 — (CP). — Introduction of the government's new labor code will be deferred until after parliament's eastern recess, it was learned last night.

Athletic Contests Tax Free If For Charity

TORONTO, March 19.—(CP).— Professional athletic contests which direct all proceeds to charity will be exempt from provincial taxation under a bill given first reading in the Ontario Legislatuetr yesterday.

At present a certain amount of proceeds from professional athletic contests are marked for promotion of amateur sports in Ontario. If the minister is satisfied that all proceeds are going to charity he will have power to return this share.

Under an amendment to the Police Act, the Attorney General would be given the right to waive collection from municipalities of the cost of special provincial police services.

At present municipalities are required to pay cost of special police services undertaken by the provincial police. They must also pay for investigations into police matters.

The amendment, introduced by Attorney General Blackwell, relieves them of such costs. If they are not relieved the amount will be recoverable from municipal subsidies due them.

The police bill is similar to one amending the Fire Department's Act, also introduced by the Attorney-General.

They give the Ontario government the right to withhold any of its grants to a municipality which refuses to carry out the provisions of an agreement or award made in respect to the police and fire departments.

An example of this might be a situation where police or fire fighters ask for a wage increase and it is approved by an arbitration board. If the municipality were to refuse to pay the increase then the province could force the issue by withholding money from the municipality until it agreed to the ruling.

Schwartz Advances

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP).— Top-seeded Billy Talbert and the veteran Frank Shields, both of New York, meet today for a finalist berth in the national indoor tennis tournament. The winner will take on Sidney Schwartz, a university of Miami student, for the championship. Schwartz advanced yesterday by ousting third-seeded Ed McGrath, eastern indoor champion 8-6, 5-7, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Tennis Pace Too Tough For Bobby Riggs

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP).— When William Howard Taft was president of Yale, the authorities constructed double seats at Woolsley Hall and the baseball field to accommodate the president's ample frame . . . They haven't been used since then, to the great sorrow of Connecticut Yankees, who hate to see anything go to waste . . . The Eli's new football coach, Herman Hickman, probably will find them just the thing . . . reports from the southwest say the reason big Jake Kramer is pulling so far ahead of little Bobby Riggs in their pro tennis, is that Bobby is plumb tired out. Riggs just isn't big and strong enough to take those nightly matches with long drives in between . . . Byron Boji, regarded as the best football centre ever developed in Chicago, is headed for Notre dame. Where else?

Many a Slip

Bobby Hogue, the Braves' rotund rookie pitcher, claims to be the only pitcher who ever played a bunt into a three base hit . . . Bobby was playing on a rain-wet clay field in Asheville, N.C., a few years ago when an opponent bunted . . . Hogue raced over and grabbed the ball, then skidded on the clay and slid clear under the bench . . . before he could crawl out and throw, the runner was on third, but since Hogue had held onto the ball, it couldn't be scored as an error.

One-Minute Sport Page

Although the Cardinals' Eddie Dyer admits he's a bit concerned about the advancing age of his stars, he points out that what hurt the Cards last year was injuries to comparatively young guys like Stan Musial and Howie Pollet . . . but Eddie gaves their ages as 25 and 24, which is knocking a couple of years off what's listed in the Cards' roster . . . Kentucky's Ralph Beard will be presented a trophy tonight by True magazine as the outstanding basketball player of the year—unless a lot of ceaches changed their votes after watching Ed Macauley perform for St. Louis in the invitation tourney final.

Wasps In 2nd With 5-1 Win

By The Canadian Press

Pittsburg Hornets moved into undisputed possession of second place in the American Hockey League's western division last night, thanks to a four-goal rally in the final period that gave the Wasps a 5-1 victory over Buffalo.

The Hornets, loop leaders most of the season, showed some of their early season form in the last period after putting on a weak exhibition in the first two periods. The victory left them 10 points behind the leading Cleveland Barons.

Pete Langelle, Tod Sloan, Les Costello, Mel Hill and Bud Kemp shared the Pittsburgh scoring, picking up one goal apiece. Murdo McKay snared Bisons' loan counter.

At Providence, the Reds, eastern loop leaders, overpowered the fast-fading Hershey Bears 7-1. Veteran Johnny Chad paced the Providence attack with a brace of tallies while Whitey Prokop, Chuck Scherza, Harvey Fraser, Harry Taylor and Jack Stoddard netted one each. Gordie Bruce provided the only Hershey goal.

In the only other game played last night, Indianapolis Capitols whipped the luckless St. Louis Flyers 7-4. Cliff Simpson picked up three goals for Caps while Barry Sullivan dented the twine twice, Tony Licari and Paul Couture scored one each. Bill McComb led the Flyers' atatck with two goals while Hec Pozzo and Eddie Olson picked up one apiece.

Buffalo is at Washington in tonight's only game.

Petition NHL Board Reconsider Gallinger

PORT COLBORNE, March 19 —(CP). — A resolution petitioning the Board of Governors of the National Hockey League to reconsider the case of Don Gallinger, Boston Bruins player, was passed by the Port Colborne Lions Club, sponsors of minor hockey in this district. Gallinger, a native of Port Colborne, is a graduate of the Lions Hockey League.

The club asked the National League to reconsider Gallinger's suspension in connection with the gambling charges for three reasons:

"That Gallinger was one of the finest boys to ever leave Port Colborne and his family, friends and the entire community believe in his innocence; the kids, the hockey players of to-morrow, of this district for whom he has done so much and advised so well, take his suspension as of an older brother; and the Lions Club cannot help but feel that any trouble in which he may be involved is due to his youth and inexperience, and we express our confidence in him as we know his true character which is locally unblemished."

STAR AUSSIE MERMAID IN ACTION—The critics are predicting great things for this young Australian mermaid, Marjory McQuade, who is shown practising in the Olympic pool at Melbourne, Australia. A member of the Olympic Swimming club, Miss McQuade is only 13 years old, but was credited with a record of 1.124 for a junior 110-yard event recently.

Betting Swing Makes Favorite Of Prince Regent

AINTREE, Lancs., England, March 19 — (AP). — A phenomenal swing in betting today boosted the aged and previously ignored Prince Regent towards the role of possible favorite for tomorrow's renewal of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree.

As the vanguard of upwards of half a million racing fans poured in for the 102nd running of the world's foremost steeplechase, speculafion centred on whether this was at long last Prince Regent's year.

Veteran racing writers said they could recall no sharper overnight shortening of odds for a major race than occurred after the Wednesday midnight announcement that J. V. Rank's 13-year-old Irish jumper definitely would run.

The call-over at London's Victoria Club last night saw odds against Prince Regent close to 14 to 1. Earlier this week at least two bets of £1,000 ($4,600) to bet against Prince Regent were placed at the Victoria Club.

Racing experts here predicted that by tonght's final call-over (12:30 p.m. EST) at the club, there would be a Britain-wide rush to get on Prince Regent.

They conceded some of this admittedly was sentimental, but it might oust Silver Fame, at 10 to 1, from the favorie's role. Silver Fame is owned by Lord Bicester, the international banker.

Prince Regent, favored both in 1946 and 1947, finished fourth last year and third in 1946, tiring under top weight while negotiating the 30 tough fences of the famed 4½-mile Aintree course.

Surprisingly, yesterday brought no scratches from the field of 46, although a couple may pull out yet.

Girls Play Hockey At Norwood Arena

NORWOOD, March 19 (ENS). —A skating party of the Norwood High School was enjoyed here on Wednesday night. Of special interest was the hockey game of three 10-minute periods —Senior Girls vs. Juniors. The Juniors were victorious by a one-goal margin. Frances Hogg got the lone counter after four minutes of play in the second period. The teams:

Senior Girls — Goal, Shirley Clysdale; defence, Peggy Humphrey and Sylvia Ferguson; centre, Bernice Scott; wings, Laura Horne and Jean Baskin.

Junior Girls — Goal, Madge Jones; defence, Ruth Baskin and Lois Stackhouse; centre, Peggy Whitred; wings, Grace Horne and Frances Hogg.

In the forms relay race, with First, Second, Third and Fourth, the latter two combining, Second Form took the banner. Second Form relay team were the Misses Grace Horne, Jean Baskin, and Tom Starke and Boyd Kelly.

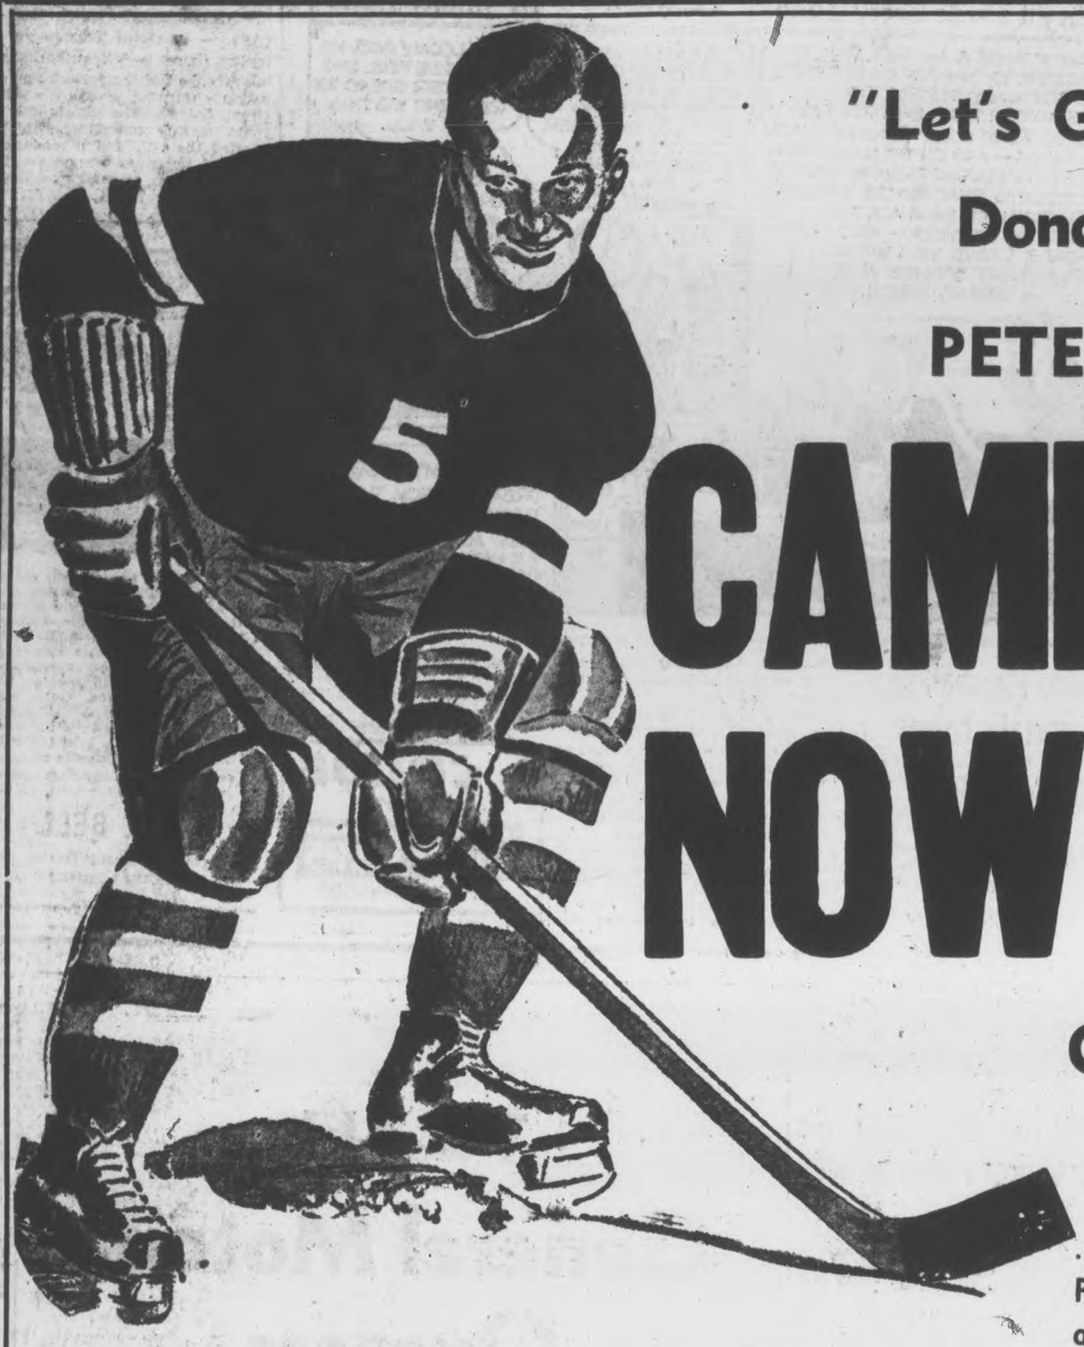
No Job demands ALL OUR PHYSICAL ABILITIES

He may be physically handicapped, but he isn't vocationally handicapped if placed in a job where remaining abilities are used. It's not what he has lost—but what he has left that counts.

A recent survey among Canadian employers confirms that physically-handicapped workers are: efficient from the employers' standpoint; are less vulnerable to accidents; have excellent records of output and attendance; and can successfully compete with the able-bodied when properly placed.



From January, 1946, to November, 1947, more than 26,500 jobs were filled by handicapped personnel in Canada through the Special Placements Division of National Employment Service.

PETERBOROUGH CIVIC ARENA

CAMPAIGN DRIVE NOW UNDERWAY

CONTRIBUTE TODAY

Why We Should All Get Behind This Drive

. . . If you are a member of any one of Peterborough's hockey teams, the answer lies in the seasonal experience of travelling out of the City to obtain ice surface for league games.

. . . If you are a fan, a sports minded citizen, then the answer is: "Let's bring the sport to Peterborough and afford the opportunity for the maximum number of citizens to see THEIR own boys play hockey.

. . . PETERBOROUGH NEEDS A HOCKEY ARENA!

What This Rink Will Do For Peterborough . . .

It will put Peterborough back on the Eastern Ontario Hockey map and reinstate it in a commanding spot formerly held by the players of yesteryear. It will bring an increased revenue into the City by reason of rentals, indoor activities for which the Arena is suited, and it will give the Youth of Peterborough a central point on which to converge with all their sports activities

What Will Happen When This Arena Is Built . . .

. . . The Arena will be operated under the supervision of a Manager.

. . . The governing body will be a Commission properly appointed by the City Council.

. . . Peterborough's Citizens will have a Hockey Arena, a structure they have long hoped for, and the name of hockey will take on a new meaning in the Lift Lock City.

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN . . .

IT'S UNUSUAL!

The Campaign is directed with a view to massing the greatest pool of money and still keep away from the citizen's pocket book.

Industrial interests are being asked for donations to the Campaign and for the sanction of pay-roll deduction plans. An alternative plan will feature something new in industrial contributions: a plan to get two hours pay per week for four weeks. This measure worked with great success in Orillia. It can be done here! The Citizens of Peterborough can match Orillia's dollars. The Arena will be the finest of its type in Ontario!

Through the City's Women Organization another phase of the campaign will reach into the ordinary course of group activity. Bazaars, teas, euchres and a host of other projects will be directed to the Campaign coffers.

Business men, the main street merchants and the corner store dealer will be lending financial aid to the Campaign.

In the final phase the public will be "blitzed" with an entertainment attack. Through their ordinary attendance at bingoes, dances, and other forms of entertainment they will be casting dollars into the ever-mounting Campaign total.

The Citizens of Peterborough may for the Arena purpose don a wartime role — for this is Operation Now or Never with the final goal — a Hockey Arena for Peterborough.

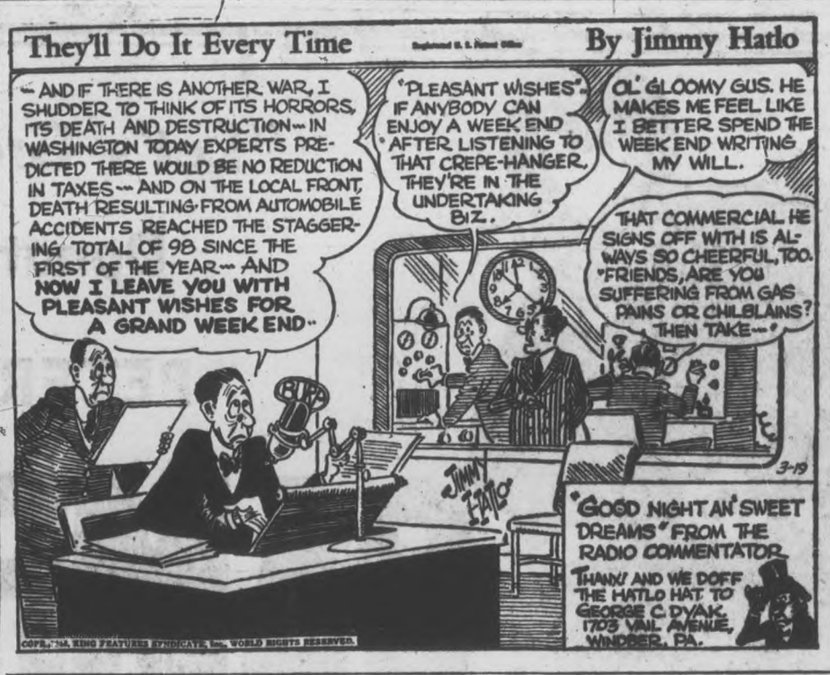
Cattle Prices Stronger During Week

TORONTO, March 19 (CP).—Cattle prices were strong to 25 cents higher on the Livestock Market this week while calves dropped $1 a hundredweight and hogs and sheep remained unchanged. Lambs were steady to 50 cents cwt. higher.

The cattle run of 5,900 head was 680 more than for the same week a year ago. Packers and small buyers from outside points were active on Monday, but the trade slowed somewhat thereafter with a fairly good clearance by the close.

Good to choice weighty steers sold at $16-$16.75 with small lots at $17-$17.25. Butcher steers were $13-$16, with choice up to $16.50. Butcher heifers sold at $13-$15.75. Fed yearlings were $15-$18. Butcher cows closed at 9.50-13 with canners downward to $6. Bulls were slow sellers at $9.50-$12.50 cwt. according to quality. Plain to medium quality milkers and springers sold at $85-$145 each.



Some 1,200 calves were cleared at lower prices. Good to choice vealers sold at $20-$23 cwt. and plain lights sold downward to $13. Grassers for slaughter were mostly $11-$12 cwt.

Hogs were 2,100 head. Prices held steady at $29.25 for Grade A and $28.85 for Grade B1. Sows were $20 dressed.

A small run of 500 sheep and lambs were cleared at firm prices. Good lambs from Western Canada sold at $19 cwt., with a few lots from Ontario feed lots at $17-$18 cwt. Sheep were from $5-$9 cwt, according to quality.

Improve Navigation

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP). — President Truman yesterday signed a bill authorizing improvement of the present navigation warning system on the Great Lakes. The House merchant marine committee, which drafted the bill, said it modernizes and improves the system of bell and light warnings on lake vessels.

With tillage of the land, the plow turned up the organic matter, the air oxydized it, and it soon disappeared. In three generations land not 30 miles from Peterborough went through three stages, a heavy pine forest, then so-called farming and finally abandoned farms."

Mr. Hampson said he was putting greatest stress on the importance of organic matter in soil. It abundance was essential to the economic handling of livestock. Mr. Hampson said water was prerequisite in growing crops, and the retention of water was one of the contributions of organic matter. "It should be remembered that all the nutrients a plant takes out of the ground must be in solution. On the other hand dry soil is simply dead soil in which nothing grows.

Need Much More

Speaking of the fertility of the soil, Mr. Hampson said Ontario farmers last year brought 250,000 tons of fertilizer. That quantity cost a great deal of money to contribute fertilizer out of the bags to the fertility of nature.

"We are going to use a lot more; so farmers should try to learn all they can about fertilizers. One fact we have noticed is that in spite of these chemical fertilizers our yields per acre are not changing. The first thing a farmer should do in utilizing fertilizer is to have his soil tested. The government services will do that for you, and some of the commercial companies have their own chemical laboratories which provide the same testing service."

The common practice of distributing fertilizer through drills in strips and bands was being questioned, Mr. Hampson stated. "I think the day is coming when we shall have to adopt a more courageous method than at present."

The average farmer used from 100 to 200 pounds of fertilizer to the acre, but he was also withdrawing the mineral constituents of the soil in the crops he harvested.

Fertility Drops

The net result was that although he put fertilzier in his soil, its fertility was still going down. "I think we should forget about fertilizing for one single crop. We should be thinking about fertility for crop rotation, and in that rotation we have to include clovers. To fertilize for legumes we have to put it on the land before the clover seed is sown. Clovers are heavy feeders, they must have deep root formations, and they must be fed to get good crops.

What we have to think of is the fertility of that top six or seven inches and plan our fertilizing accordingly."

Mr. Hampson also expressed doubt about the practice of plowing down green crops. Covered too deeply, he said, it was subject to oxydization which simply mean that it was reduced to ash. The soil did not get the effect of plant fibre that contributed organic matter.

"I don't believe that plowing down this and that will solve our soil problem. Much better will be the keeping of organic matter near the top of the soil."

Afternoon speakers were W. B. George of Kemptville Agricultural School's soil department and John D. MacLeod, director of crops, seeds and weeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Mr. MacLeod renewed his appeal to threshermen to be on guard against distributing weed seeds, and told of a new type of seed burner that was becoming available as a certain method of disposing of weed seeds separated in the threshing of grain.

World Marshalling Democratic Forces

MONTREAL, March 19.—(CP).—Defence Minister Claxton described President Truman's statement to Congress Wednesday as "the beginning of a marshalling of force on the side of right which is essential if we are to preserve the way of life in which we believe."

"There is only one way to preserve peace," he said in an address at the life members' dinner of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, "and that is to apply the same rules between nations as between individuals—the rule of law, backed up by force which is used for no other purpose than to back up the rule of law."

Only 185 Boys Listed For Officer Training

OTTAWA, March 19 — (CP). — Canada's two service colleges will take in about 185 high school lads for officer training this year, with a total enrolment of about 500 envisaged about four years from now.

Heading in to their first full year of operation, Royal Roads, B.C., and Royal Military College, Kingston, will be limited to about 85 and 100 new students in the coming year, but the number will grow as the course progresses.

Earlier, a naval spokesman indicated the total number at both schools would amount to 500 this year. However, it was pointed out yesterday that this will be the number now planned for several years hence.

R.M.C. which opens next fall, will start with about 100 students, on a four-year course. Additions each year will amount to nearly 400 in four years, a defence department source said yesterday.

4 Scholarships To Be Awarded At Final Concert

"A consistently high standard of talent with no brilliant performances" was the comment of Alec Redshaw, adjudicator of the Kiwanis Music Festival, on Thursday's program. A concert consisting of the outstanding contestants over the previous four days will be given Friday night at George Street United Church.

Mr. Redshaw will give his summing up on Friday night, and the four scholarships will be awarded. They are the Gliddon Memorial Scholarship for violin, the Harry Huffman Memorial Scholarship for piano, Comstock's Memorial Scholarship for voice, and the W. A. Richardson Scholarship for verse speaking.

Best performance of the day was by R. B. Davidson, Lindsay, in the Tenor Solo class. He received a mark of 86, followed by William Perry (Lindsay) with 84.

Pick of the other entries for the day included Marjorie Chase (Lindsay) with a mark of 84 for Piano Sonatinas, 18 years and under; Joy and Joan Westaway, 84, in the girls' vocal duet, 20 years and under; and Victoria Eileen Williamett, 85, for piano solo, 7 years and under.

"The talent is there, which is very promising for the future," said Mr. Redshaw.

Large audiences have attended the second annual Festival of Music sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. They have been attracted by the talent of local musicians, and by the instructive adjudication of Mr. Redshaw.

'TIS SPRING (DRIP, DRIP)

Along with the pelting rain, softer signs of spring are stealing gently into the city, indicating the passing of the unlamented winter. Fred Green reports the latest signs. Three robins (looking as unhappy as humans) were spotted behind the Green foundry on McDonnel St. While golfers shine their clubs, Isaac Walton's drool over the new (old) bait displays and the city streets department tear their collective hair over the plugged sewers, spring appears to be just around the proverbial corner. Of course, then, there is always the equally time-honored and proverbial last storm to consider.—RB.

Opera Singer Heard In Concert Series

By T. J. ALLEN

It is a tribute to Miss Camilla Williams, who gave the third concert of the Community Concert series of this winter season in the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday evening, that her audience was both large and enthusiastic. The enthusiasm was more deeply-felt than vociferous, and properly so, for the singer did not pander to so-called popular taste by larding her program with sweet sentimental tid-bits.

The term "so-called" popular taste is used purposely. As Miss William's reception proved, popular taste, even in a smaller Canadian city, is not for banal music. Good music, great music, well performed is popular, because it has more to give the ear and the spirit.

Her program began with the well-known Alleluja from the motet "Exultate, Jubilate" by Mozart and ended with Negro spirituals, which, I suppose, was inevitably demanded from a person of Miss Williams' racial origins. The first section was given over to Mozart—the lyricism of "Dove Sono" from the Marriage of Figaro was beautifully transmitted. Camillo Williams, very generous with her encores throughout the evening, gave us "Non so pui" from the same opera at the end of this part of her programme.

The second part of the program was composed of German songs, the third of Italian from Puccini's Madam Butterfly and La Boheme—she is singing the title role in the former in New York on Good Friday. The fourth section was made up of French songs, and the final one of modern American.

The two commonly known songs of the German group (Schubert's Ave Maria and and Brahams' Cradle Song) were sung in English. Miss Williams' German sounded more explicit than her French, and her Brahms pleased me more than her Schubert. It may be an entirely personal prejudice, but I prefer to hear "Wohin" and "Die Forelle" sung by a male voice. The encore "Addio" (from La Boheme) was lovely. That and the following group exhibited the qualities of Miss Williams' voice—a pure soprano without any trace of metalic sharpness and without a queasy vibrato or soulsome, sugary sentimentalism. Nevertheless, dramatic quality was not lacking, nor should it be, considering the program and experience of Camilla Williams. Drama was, however, subordinated to the music.

Of the French group "Ouvre ton coeur" by Bizet was most popularly received. The American songs and spirituals at the end of the program provided a pleasant tailing-off for the concert. The encores not already mentioned were "The Answer" by Terry, "City Called Heaven" by Johnson, "Willow O' The Wisp" by Spross and "Velvet Shoes" by Randal Thompson.

The accompanist was Borislav Bazala, who played Chopin's Ballad in G Minor and occasioned two encores thereby. His accompaniments, especially before the intermission, were rather slip-shod and unsympathetic. Perhaps the piano was to blame.

Revise Plans Cutting Frills; Drive Underway

Lowering the Peterborough Civic Arena campaign objective was the major business of a meeting of the committee Thursday night in the Council Chamber. Disagreement with the proposal was expressed but the move was authorized by a unanimous vote.

Following a report from Alderman Hurrell Dodds, building committee chairman, discussion of the proposed campaign reduction led to the vote. Stan McBride, publicity chairman, moved "that owing to pressure of public opinion the objective be set at $50,000 with the building to constructed from the total amount subscribed." It was seconded by Percy Killingbeck, Industrial division chairman.

In his report Mr. Dodds said it was not a fair proposition to bind his committee (recently reformed) with a motion approved during the tenure of an earlier building committee. "Manufacturers in this city are not interested in a building to the extent of $140,000, but they are interested in a project in the $40,000 class," said Alderman Dodds.

Referring to the motion on the minutes to use a timber-rib type of construction, Mr. Dodds said "his committee should not be saddled with that motion. I'm not going to work under a handicap like that."

Percy Killingbeck said, "I don't think it ever should have been passed until we knew what money we had."

Chairman Dick Ouimet attempting to explain the timber-rib vote said, "a gentleman appeared before the committee and assured us that within four months the arena would be built. We voted for that type of building."

"It was passed because we had confidence in the man. He wasn't necessarily going to get the job," said Mrs. Lundy.

Rescind Motion

This phase of discussion terminated when Mrs. Wm. Addyman moved for a notice of motion to be heard at the next meeting "that all motions on the type, cost and structure of the rink be rescinded."

"I know a lot of people who are in favor of this construction because Doug. Miller has done a lot of good work," said Mrs. Lundy.

"Let's get him back then. I will step down, but I won't accept any handicaps," said Mr. Dodds. "I have been talking out of turn in the Council for two years about a rink. I am not pessimistic about a rink but I am pessimistic about $140,000," he said.

Percy Killingbeck said his interest in the rink was a medium of promoting the Minor Hockey groups in the city, "I wasn't thinking of the senior teams. Senior hockey has never done a darn thing in Peterborough to help minor hockey."

Asked what type of building could be built for the proposed $50,000, Alderman Dodds said it would be similar to the Hespeler rink with many of the "expensive features" removed. "We have to get things going. With $10,000 in the fund we can start work," he said.

New Objectives

Chairman Dick Ouimet fixed the new campaign total quotas: industry, $10,000; payroll deduction plan, businessmen, $10,000; city council, $10,000; entertainment, $5,000; special names, $5,000.

Other features of the meeting included: opening the campaign headquarters office at 442 George St., south of Brock, and appointment of Dick Ouimet and Stan McBride as a committee to meet the City Council to present the type of buiding which it is proposed to erect on the rink site.

It was reported that 1,164 replies were received from the questionnaire carried in The Examiner recently.

HEADS PLANNING BOARD—James Dutton, Sr., was elected chairman of the Peterborough and District Planning Board at its inaugural meeting Thursday afternoon.

Planning Board Warns Builders In Rural Areas

James Dutton was elected on Thursday afternoon first chairman of the Peterborough and District Planning Board at its inaugural meeting. The board was recently named by the City Council and approved by Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Planning, and is composed of five men representing the city and four for the adjoining townships. Reeve Melville Johnston of North Monaghan was named vice-chairman and city clerk E. A. Outram secretary. Members of the board are James Dutton, James Hamilton, G. Wilson Craw and Herbert McCannan, representing the city and Reeves Johnston of North Monaghan and W. W. Dawson of Otonabee, and C. B. Young of Douro. The late Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyle had represented Smith township.

The board has to do with planning and zoning in the area outside the city included in the master plan. A second board has already been set up to deal with planning within the city.

Mr. Dutton in accepting the chair said that planning in Peterborough and surrounding area was entering a new phase. Up until now the Town Planning Committee which had formerly existed had to do with the developing of a master plan, the planning and drawing up of a zoning by-law. With these duties completed the Planning Board come into the picture and it is its duty to carry on the work under the Act of the Ontario Legislature.

The chairman intimated that the special zoning committee had had a difficult task to perform but it had carried out its work in a most successful manner.

Considerable discussion took place about the opening of subdivisions, parts of subdivisions and also building in the rural areas which are included in the registered master plan. Several of the members intimated that divisions were being opened and lots sold without the plans being registered and a warning was given to all those thinking of buying lots in these divisions that they should first find out if the subdivision plan has been registered. To register such a plan it first must conform to the regulations of the Planning Board especially as to size of lots.

It was felt that there was a genuine lack of proper planning in much of the proposed building outside the city and especially along provincial highways and steps are being taken by the board to see that the regulations are complied with.

Higher Rates May Produce $40,000 Revenue

Estimated increase in revenue to the Civic Hospital due to raised room rental there, which went into effect the first of March, is $40,000 for 1948. This figure was given by Thomas Rodger, Board treasurer at Thursday night's meeting.

In reply to a question in regard to the size of the present total of accounts receivable (more than $50,000), Mr. Rodgers stated that the figure was not excessive in view of the large amount of business done at the Civic. He pointed out that many of the hospital's sources of revenue are "delayed" payments, such as under various hospital care plans. Also, he said, hospital accounts were different from normal business accounts because of their nature. It was not feasible, he said, to force collection of such accounts, and in many cases, they are paid over comparatively long periods of time.

The statement of revenue and expenditures during the first two months of 1948 showed an excess of expenditures over revenue of $5,705.13. For February, the figure is $3,830.48. Net patients' revenue from the main hospital and Queen Mary, after allowance for doubtful accounts, was $22,384.19. Other revenues: miscellaneous, $62.60; City of Peterborough grant, $5,583.33; Peterborough county grant, $273, making a total of $28,303.12.

Expenditures for the month were: salaries, main hospital, $18,517.07; Queen Mary, $999.75; other expenses, main hospital, $11,859.33; Queen Mary, $757.45; total, $32,133.06.

Assaults Mother To Be Sentenced

Edward Hummell, 62 Robinson St., pleaded guilty today to a charge of assaulting his mother, Rosina Hummell. He was remanded until March 22 for sentence.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, although not presenting formal evidence today, stated that this was not the first charge of this kind against the accused. Hummell, he said, stayed at his mother's home without paying rent or board. When he was drinking, he gave trouble to his 75-year-old mother and his sister, making their life a "hell on earth."

Mr. McElderry stated that the accused might be warned that the next offence of this kind would mean that the crown would institute proceedings to have him evicted from his mother's home, so that there could be no repetition.

Completing of Third Wing Studied By Hospital Board

A proposal that the third wing be completed on the new Civic Hospital, instead of operating the present building after the new one has been built, will be discussed with the City Council within a short time by the Board of Governors of the Civic Hospital.

This was decided at a board meeting Thursday night. It was moved that the board hold a special meeting shortly to receive and discuss the report of the architect on the cost of completing the wing. At this meeting, the policy of the board in regard to the two plans of action will be decided. It was stressed that the actual decision as to which plan would be followed would be upon the council.

Under present plans, the new hospital will consist of about 265 beds. The old hospital, it was planned, will be used for chronic and maternity cases, to contain about 85 beds.

Under the suggested change, the East Wing will be completed as originally planned, consisting of about 85 beds to handle the two sections which had been planned for the old building.

It was pointed out by Thomas T. Rodger that the present Civic Hospital had an estimated depreciated value of about $104,000. If the cost of the wing addition were within reason, he stated that the new plan would be preferable.

"It is certain that if we continue to operate the present building," he said, "that it will be a losing proposition."

Estimates as to the cost of the wing and operating the old hospital will not be available for several days, it was stated, and before that time no definite board statement of policy could be formulated.

Urges Farmers Apply For Help

Mr. W. A. Davidson, Toronto, of the employment service of Canada is attending Farmers' Week for the purpose of assisting farmers to obtain help for the season.

"Ontario has a big program of production this year, and labor is going to be needed," Mr. Davidson said last night. We have a program for bringing competent farm help to this country. Our experience so far has been that many of the farm workers we brought to Canada turned out well, but some were not of much use, and unfortunately they were the ones who got publicity.

Some farm help is coming from Great Britain and others will be married Dutch. Applications may be left at the local employment office or at the office of the agricultural representative. Farmers are asked not to leave this matter of labor until the very last minute. I think the best we can do in most cases is to have help for applicants in six weeks."

Thieves Get $90 At Welding Shop

Thieves last night made off with between $80 and $90 cash when they broke-in the office of the Kawartha Welding Works, 535 Donegal St., sometime during the night. Entrance to the office had been made easily, as office workers this morning stated that the key had been left in the lock by mistake. The desk drawer in which the petty cash box was kept was broken open with a cold chisel, which has been found by police.

The loss was discovered about eight o'clock this morning by Robert Durham, a workman in the welding shop. The office had not been used by anyone since six o'clock Thursday night.

132 Door Prizes Given At Seed Fair

G. A. Gillespie Does Good Job Scrounging For Door Awards

G. A. Gillespie has made a thorough job of the door prize draws for Farmers' Week. In details of distribution he was helped by Cliff Curtis, but in the scrounging for prizes he lone-wolfed. And he came up with 132 averaging $2, gifts from merchants and business men, insurance heads and generally a lot of down-towners who are willing to help a community effort in promoting bigger and better grain.

Some of the gifts were for five dollars. Those bills were spent here and there in the effort of stiking an average of two dollar values. There were still 39 prizes left this morning. Mr. Gillespie planned to pass out 25 or 30 this afternoon and the 10 others tonight at the Seed Fair dinner at George St. United Church.

Russia Frees Nazi POW's But All In Bad Health

HAMBURG, March 19—(AP)—The physical condition of German prisoners-of-war returning from Russia is causing British medical authorities here grave concern.

Reports from British Army doctors show that 20 per cent of prisoners returned from the Russian zone have had to be taken to hospital. Similar complaints have been made by American military government authorities.

Of the 29,400 prisoners repatriated to the British zone from the east since last September, 10 per cent have been suffering from malnutrition, British Army doctors reported.

Sample checks taken among those who did not go to hospital revealed many men were "undernourished to the point of emaciation." Others showed "loss of weight, with dry wrinkled skin and pallid or greyish complexions."

The repatriation trains arrive at irregular intervals at Friedland on the British side of the Russian border. There the stretcher cases and weakest men are removed to local German hospitals. The remaining "fit" men are then taken to an old German army training camp at Muenster Lager. Within 24 hours they are processed and released.

Two contingents, each of 1,000 prisoners, arriving at Friedland, had a hospital rate of 42 per cent and "a considerable number were unfit for further travel," the British Control Commission said.

Prisoners interviewed on their return said they received rations with the rough value of 2,000 calories a day. That was more than the normal Russian consumer received, but they claimed the ration was inadequate for the work performed. Prisoners said they had been employed on manual labor.

Truman Speech Wins Approval

LONDON, March 19—(CP)—Signing of the five-power defence pact at Brussels and President Truman's request to the United States Congress for re-introduction of conscription in the United States today jockeyed for top play in all but one of London's morning newspapers, which approved both. The exception was the Communist Daily Worker.

"No time must be lost," streamered the Daily Mail with the subtitle "Truman calls: bring in conscription." The Daily Express bannered "Conscription in the U. S." and the Daily Graphic headlined "Truman demands call-up."

The Times gave two-column prominence to each on page four. The Daily Worker headlined "Truman calls for conscription in America" and said in a front-page story that "his speech came as a climax to a carefully-fostered war hysteria throughout the United States."

A foreign office spokesman, in the first official government reaction to the speech, said Britain welcomed the emphasis on the "essentially defensive character" of American policy. Britain also was pleased to hear the re-affirmation of United States belief in the United Nations."

Truman's speech met with general approval from Western Europe, but the Communist East maintained almost complete silence.

Hastings Couple Wed 50 Years; Lived In Dummer

HASTINGS, March 19—(ENS)—On March 16, 1898, at Blairton parsonage, Rev. Sutherland united in marriage Amanda Ellis, and William Chrysler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ellis and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Chrysler. On Tuesday evening the family of Mr. and Mrs. William Chrysler gathered at their home in the village to honor them on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. There is one daughter, Mrs. (Wealthy) Wm. Chamberlain, Peterborough, and three sons, Warden, Marmora, Wellington and Wilfred of Hastings; twelve grand-children; and three great-grandchildren.

The surprise of the celebration was further added to when Warden Chrysler read a splendid tribute to the parents and Mrs. Chrysler was presented with a gold ring, and Mr. Chrysler with a gold watch chain. The grandchildren presented an end table and a handsome anniversary cake to their grandparents. This was the first time on which the family had all been together.

The attendants at the marriage ceremony of fifty years ago are not alive to celebrate the anniversary. They were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Steenburgh, sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Chrysler. In recalling the date, while speaking to the reporter, it was remarked that the roads were dry and the dust flying on March 16, 1898.

Mr. Chrysler was born in Percy township, going to Chandos at the age of twelve, then to Cardiff for six years. Following their marriage, Mr. Chrysler worked at the Deer River sawmill for a time, then had some experience on the river and in the Cordova Mines.

Before coming to Hastings a few years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Chrysler farmed in Dummer township fo. 17 years. During that time they were burned out when all the family pictures and keepsakes were lost.

Both the bride and groom of 50 years ago are in fair health with an abundance of good cheer —in fact a remarkably well-preserved couple.

24 Members Attend Mission Circle

MILLBROOK, March 19 — (ENS).—Mrs. H. W. Gray was hostess for the March meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle at her home, Tupper Street, on Tuesday evening, with 24 present, and the president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, in the chair. Mrs. G. C. R. McQuade took the study book period, assisted by Mrs. Ken Pennington and Mrs. D. L. Lunn. "Building Good-Will" was the theme, followed by the worship service led by Miss Margaret Smith.

A new missionary for special prayer, Miss Meta Sadler, of Winnipeg, was adopted, and the president read a letter from the other prayer partner, Miss Jean Stewart, of Chungking, China. Miss Betty Lunn, secretary, reported an offering of $4 at the February meeting, and the treasurer, Miss Gladys Williamson, reported $23 on hand. Mrs. E. J. Powell brought the stewardship message, and it was announced that the Easter thankoffering will be received at the April gathering, at Mrs. Powell's home. The Presbyterian Circle president, Miss Jessie Martin, will be invited as the special guest, and the study will be on China.

Christmas cards will be brought to the April meeting to be sent to Miss Stewart in China for her work. Miss Smith will have the worship, and the hostesses will be Mrs. B. E. Ingham, Mrs. M. Wideman, and Miss J. L. Burnham. During the social hour when the hostesses were Mrs. Hobbs and Miss E. L. Hetherington, Mrs. McQuade led the discussion and quiz on the study book, bringing out that "many different peoples have come to Canada, as settlers, and many have made fortunes by industry, hard work and thrift, while the wives have proved excellent homemakers. We owe them our willing friendship, a warm welcome, and kindly assistance in any way possible."

Blackwater Man Fined For Theft

LINDSAY, March 19 — Frank Caldwell, 58-year-old farmer of Blackwater, was fined $50 and $38 costs when he pleaded guilty to thefts from two Lindsay department stores and admitted stealing from three other stores. All the articles were recovered in good condition.

Only the two department stores preferred charges against the accused, the other three permitting the matter to drop. He was fined $25 and $19 costs on each count by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

The fines were levied when the accused argued that he was "too feeble" to go to jail.

"He was not too feeble to go shopping in a wholesale way," remarked Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan.

Make No Alterations In Absenteeism Clause

GLACE BAY, March 19 (CP)—Adam Scott, secretary-treasurer of District 26 United Mine Workers (CCL) said in a statement last night that "an incorrect statement appeared in the press a few days ago that some change had very recently been made in the contract between this union and the coal company concerning absenteeism; this is not in accordance with the facts."

He added: "The facts are that no new agreement has been arrived at, the company still having the right to hire and fire as provided in the contract, subject always to the union's right to contest any dismissal through the grievance machinery."

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously March 12 that the absentee clause would be deleted from the new contract between the U.M.W. and Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.)

At 85 Hartley Enjoys Tea Tasting Activities

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, March 19—(CP).—At 85, Arthur Hartley still goes daily to his old-established business to taste, value and sell tea. Bent and white-haired, Hartley is known to the trade as a "first-class tea taster." His office stands at the top of a dusty staircase—at the end of a narrow lane in the financial quarter of London.

"I've been tasting tea and assessing its value for 70 years," Hartley said. "These days there is a lot less tasting to do than we'd like. But pre-war I used to taste 400 different teas and price them—all before breakfast."

To the suggestion that tea-tasters have to be careful not to spoil their palates with other drinks, Hartley lay back in his chair and laughed.

"Oh yes—yes indeed," he said. "We mustn't drink alcohol— at least so we tell our wives. And we don't smoke either," he added lighting a cigar.

Hartley's tea-tasting den is a low-roofed attic with a long, sloping window and a score of tiny white teapots ranged along a bench.

Need Good Light

"For tea tasting you must have a good north light," he explained. "You have to watch tea. Good tea creams over—goes cloudy, y'-know, when it cools."

He made a specimen pot. Weighing enough tea to balance a sixpence in a pair of scales, he popped it into the infuser.

"A most important point—you must catch the water the moment it boils. If it has been boiling even 10 seconds it spoils the flavor. That is where so many people go wrong.

"Canada? Oh, they can't make tea there—and it's worse in the United States."

Hartley predicted there would soon be "more tea in Britain than we can use."

1 Dead, And 100 Injured As Dance Floor Collapses

CHICAGO, March 19—(AP)—One woman was killed and more than 100 persons were injured last night when a large section of a third-floor dance hall collapseed under the weight of about 500 persons attending a downtown St. Patrick's Day celebration.

Twelve of the 92 persons who were treated at six hospitals were reported in from serious to critical condition. Several others were given first aid treatment at the scene.

The dead woman, who was removed from under the wreckage three hours after the floor caved in, was identified as Mrs. Ann Hunt, 35, mother of four children. Two of her children who were with her at the party and dance were not injured. Her body was identified by her husband, John, 38, an electrician.

Hundreds of the merrymakers were walking off the floor at the end of a dance number when a large section of the floor collapsed. Scores were hurtled headlong to the second floor. As the floor settled, parts of the false roof caved in.

Civilian Mobilization

ATHENS, March 19 (AP). — The Greek Government took its first step yesterday toward civilian mobilization with a measure giving cabinet ministers the full power to take emergency action. Premier Themistokles Sophoulis signed a proclamation of civil mobilization last night, empowering cabinet ministers to act. The decision was based on a compulsory law passed in 1939 and amended last year.

Worth Knowing

High-topped rubber footgear, so necessary in this weather, can do dire damage to neat clean hosiery. Try rubbing the lining with dry oatmeal, oatmeal or bran, then use a vacuum cleaner to remove the residue.

Foster Home Need Explained To Local Council

Miss R. Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, addressed the meeting fo Local Council of Women, Thursday, inregard to necessity of more foster homes. "Children need foster homes bcause of human failings such as desertion, marital conflict, separation, father leaving home, mental and physical illness, inability to care for children and unmarried mothers," she said. The Society desires to have foster homes for such children so that they can live as individuals in a home environment, instead of growing up in "mass production" as they do in institutions.

"Foster homes are private homes that substitute for the child's own home," she explained. "There are four kinds—free homes, wage homes, adoption probation homes and boarding homes." The Society is now caring for 160 children, 57 of which are in boarding homes, and more of these fine homes are urgently neded. CAS staff members visit each child in their care every two months.

"Foster home investigation is simple but very important," said Miss Young, and urged that people who are asked for references give them as truthfuly as possible. It has been found that people will allow a helpless child to be placed in an improper home, rather than explain, in confidence to the Society, that the father is a drunkard.

That the CAS is not a Protestant organization as some may believe was stressed by the superintendent who said "We would like names of people of all religions and nationalities who have good homes in city or county to offer homeless children."

VON Report

Work of the Victorian Order of Nurses has been very heavy during the past two months, according to a report given by Miss Mary Ross, V.O.N. supervisor, at the first monthly meeting of the new board on Wednesday. Mr. J. E. Girven presided. Nurses made 1,050 visits to 228 sick people. Twenty night calls were answered, of which four were maternity cases. The V.O.N. attended five births in the home during January and February, as compared with one during the same two months of last year. A total of 450 visits were made to patients in the maternity group, while medical and surgical patients received 560 visits.

Miss Ross pointed out that approximately one-third of the population—those 65 and over—is totally dependent upon families or public support, another third is partially dependent and only the remaining third is independent. She said that of 25 patients in this group under V.O.N. care since the beginning of the year, some are on Old Age Pension or small incomes, which do not allow for the mounting cost of living or the inroads of the costs of medical and nursing care.

Mr. J. E. Girven was chosen to represent the Board, and Miss Ross the Nursing Staff, at the 50th annual general meeting of the Board of Governors of the V.O.N. The meeting will be held in Ottawa at the end of next April.

"Opposed to Communism" Women Feel Danger Real

Setting an example for all women's organizations, Local Council of Women opened the regular meeting Thursday afternoon by singing "O Canada." The president, Mrs. W. Addyman, was applauded when she declared herself "opposed to Communism in any form," after Mrs. F. W. Lundy had expressed the opinion that newspaper writers and broadcasters are actually warmongers and suggested that women should not heed their warnings, but make an effort to have public interest directed to peace.

The matter of unsatisfactory housing conditions in Peterborough and elsewhere was discussed, and a committee headed by Mrs. W. H. Morton, housing convener, was formed to investigate the situation here and make a full report. Mrs. G. Langhorne was appointed representative to the Health League of Canada, and also to the Dental Health Association with Mrs. H. Eastwood.

Mrs. Addyman reported $1,600 had been received for the Princess Elizabeth Gift Fund, and it will be used to purchase canned meats, fats and several other commodities for shipment to England through the Red Cross Society. On motion of Mrs. F. W. Lundy and Mrs. F. Merrett, it was decided to support veterans in their plea for $100 per month. A public meeting is to be held shortly for the purpose of organizing a Consumer Branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers in Peterborough.

Correspondence included a letter from Provincial Council headquarters accepting an invitation to hold the annual meeting in Peterborough on May 28 and 29. The parlors of St. John's Parish Hall have been offered to Local Council for entertaining at that time. A letter from the Tuberculosis Society acknowledged the decision of members to discontinue responsibility for the Christmas seal campaign, and stated a county organization for this purpose would probably be formed.

Reports of affiliated societies will be presented at the next meeting which will open with noon luncheon on Thursday, April 15.

A special treat for members, this month, was a most interesting debate on whether Canada should join the Pan-American Union, conducted by Mr. John Londerville, assisted by five of his students from Grade 10 Academic at PCVS, Misses Patsy Johnson, Lillian Luther, Donna Munroe, Mary Craw and Grace Hudson, who gave their own opinions spontaneously.

In a short introductory address Mr. Londerville explained the Union was founded in 1890 to promote more friendly relations between United States and South American republics. It was shown that by the Munroe Doctrine, United States is now pledged to defend members of the Union from agressive attacks, but some students felt that through close proximity and friendly relations with Canada, she would also rise in their behalf, as has been promised, without the compromise of joining the Union, and possibly risking loss of Britain's friendship and assistance.

In the matter of trade, it was found there would not be a great deal to gain through Union as 4 per cent of Canada's exports now go to Latin American ports, 40 per cent to Britain and 25 per cent to United States.

Mr. Londerville expressed the belief that the Government has not been greatly urged to join the Union because the people of Canada, as a whole, know very little about its existence, and so have never investigated the beneficial possibilities.

Foster Home Week

A column conducted by the Peterborough Children's Aid Society in the interests of "Foster Home Week" which is being observed this week.

The words "red tape" have sometimes been applied to the procedure necessary to become foster parents of the Children's Aid Society.

If taking the greatest care possible to assure that a home is suitable for this work is "red tape," then that criticism is true.

The children needing foster homes are dependent on the society providing a home most suitable for them.

In reality, however, becoming foster parents is not too complicated a job. Prospective foster parents, by a letter, by telephone or by a personal interview at the society's office, the corner of Brock and Sheridan streets, may find out the details, and, if interested, the society proceeds with the necessary investigation. A visit is always made to the prospective foster parents' home, not only to see the physical aspects of the home but to interpret what the society expects and to find out whether a child would be accepted by the home and in the community as a member of the family. Electric lights and inside conveniences—yes, nice to have, but not essential. It is not these things that make for patience, for understanding and for love, which are much more necessary for the healthy development of a child. Of course, the society does require certain accommodation and a good standard of housekeeping.

To assume there is no health problem detrimental to a child the family's doctor is consulted; and to find out the family's relation to its church, the minister or priest is contacted. Other references are also interviewed as the society realizes that one visit to the home is not sufficient to get a complete picture.

One of the difficulties faced is tha references are not always frank. There is no hesitation in telling the good things about a family, but considerable reticence in telling anything adverse. In one situation a splendid reference was received with the particular emphasis on the fineness of the mother in the home. Another reference, no doubt realizing that the welfare of a child was involved, revealed that the man drank heavily, with the result that the home was often much upset. A further check-up revealed that this situation was well-known in the community.

That is not too much "red tape" is it, for children dependent on the best efforts of the society to find foster homes for them.

The society, working with children of all races and religions, with tots and teen-agers, with boys and girls, needs foster homes of many varieties and in many parts of the city and county.
